Sense and Cents

Common sense or dollars and cents—which counts for most in making a trade ?

Common sense says plainly "buy standard goods" ; dollars and cents (your pocketbook) tempts you to buy cheap, nameless articles of trade that will grow dim, dusty, dirty on your shelves. Common sense counts for most in making a trade.

Just like fishing

Building up trade is just like fishing.

If you use the right kind of bait and cast your line where the kind of fish you want are most plentiful, you'll quite likely get a number of bites.

Then if you go about it right you are pretty sure to land most of them.

Apply the illustration to business.

If you want to catch the grocery trade, cast your line where all the good grocers in Canada congregate every week—looking for bait to build up their businesses with—in THE CANADIAN GROCER. But

Suppose results don't come at fust
What be yew goin' tur dew?

Harmful Ingredients in Canned Goods and Proprietary Medicines

By G. G. Nasmith, M.A., Ph.D.

AN examination of the various brands of canned vegetables, fruits and jams manufactured in the Province of Ontario was made in the winter of 1903 in the Laboratory of the Provincial Board of Health, to find out whether, as is often stated, poisonous metals are present; whether adulterants or preservatives are used, and whether there exists any reason at all for the somewhat prevalent opinion that the continued use of canned goods is injurious to health.

Canned foods may be harmful on account of the presence of metallic salts, preservatives, ptomaines or adulterants Exact data as to the effect of metallic salts in minute traces are wanting. It is well known, however, that small quantities of lead, copper, zinc, tin and arsenic act as poisons, and these are the only ones likely to be met with in canned foods.

Copper, for instance, might be derived from the vessels in which the food is boiled previous to canning; if the copper is kept perfectly bright there is little danger, but if it is allowed to tarnish, soluble copper carbonate, hydrate verdigris or acetole might form and enter into the material boiled. Food should never be left in contact with copper vessels, since oxidation takes place at the surface of contact, and these compounds form.

Lead might come from the lead pipe conducting the water used or from the solder of the cans. There is abundant evidence of the cumulative action of lead on the human system when taken in small doses; such, for instance, as the chronic lead poisoning of painters, workmen in lead factories, from hair dyes and cosmetics and more especially through drinking water, where the latter is soft and, therefore, a good solvent of lead.

Zinc poisoning is rare; in fact zinc sulphate in small doses is used as a nerve tonic. Arsenic, which might come from sugar prepared with impure sulphuric acid, which often contains this material, is also generally prescribed as a nerve tonic. It is not likely to be met with. Cases of tin poisoning are rare.

are seldom used, apparently, in canned vegetables which can be rather roughly handled and sterilized at high temperature. Where the shape and texture of the substance must be kept, however, as in preserved or canned fruit, and where it does not do to boil them much, preservatives are very apt to be used in order to prevent bacterial growth.

The wide-spread use of these compounds was suggested by a case in the United States in which a preserving fluid had been added to milk, first by the farmer, then by the collector to whom he sold it, thirdly by the wholesale dealer, and lastly by the retailer. The facts were developed by an investigation occasioned by the illness of children who drank the doctored milk. The U. S. Agricultural Department report on one hundred and fifty preservative preparations is unfavorable. No tasteless food preservative has as yet been suggested which is entirely non-poisonous and which does not have a marked influence on digestion, even when taken in relatively small doses. Nothing should be added to food which is toxic in itself or interferes in the slightest with the process of digestion. Of course the preservative people always say their preparations are harmless, but science gives their statements unqualified denial.

The absence of preservatives is often an indication of wholesome food, cleanly methods of preparation, etc., while their presence often indicates a slovenly, unclean, and careless method of preparation.

Ptomaines are substances allied to the vegetable alkalous, such as caffeine, strychnine and the like, and are produced in dead plant and animal matter by bacteria. They are often very like those poisons produced in living animals by bacteria, such as diptheria toxin or typho toxin for instance. They are more commonly found in canned oysters, bad sausage, shell fish, the most harmful canned meats, fish, milk, cheese and more rarely in vegetables like peas.

Adulterants Not Dangerous.

Adulterants are seldom dangerous; they merely indicate that when you buy, say, cheap raspberry jam at ten cents a pound, you get about two cents' worth of raspberries and a lot of apple pulp, whereas, if you pay twenty or twenty-five cents for a pound, you get all raspberries. Thus it is plainly cheaper to buy good raspberries and add your own apple sauce.

Of nine brands of canned peas examined in our laboratories, only one showed traces of copper and four showed traces of zinc. Two were thickened with starch.

Of four brands of tomatoes examined, three showed traces of zinc and all four traces of copper.

Traces of zinc were found in only one of three brands of corn.

Three brands of canned raspberries, all artificially colored, gave traces of zinc, and two gave reactions for tin. Three brands of strawberries gave traces of zinc, while two yielded traces of tin. Two brands of plums gave slight reactions for tin.

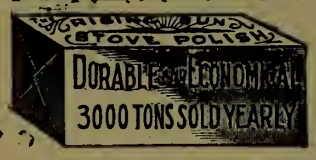
Although not enough specimens (twenty-five in all) have been examined from which to draw general conclusions, still it may be said that so far as these results go, metals are not present in at all dangerous amounts.

Nine specimens of cheap jams were examined and were without exception "made up." In every case a "filler" of apple pulp had been added. The jars variously labelled "true fruit" and "absolutely pure," had in some cases but a small fraction of genuine fruit present, the balance consisting of filler, coloring, artificial flavoring and sugar. One manufacturer used the same coloring for his raspberries, strawberries and black currants, merely varying the quantity in each.

Tin Cans vs. Glass Jars.

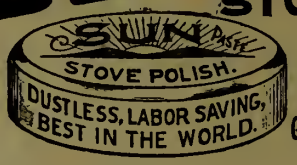
The tin can is undeniably a cheap, unbreakable and convenient package for foods, and one readily sealed air tight. There is no doubt at all, however, that fruit packed in cans is inferior in flavor to the same fruit packed in jars. A case recently came under my observation where part of a pack of strawberries was sealed in tins and part in glass jars. The cans nearly all became tainted and smelled bad, though bacteria were not present. The other half sealed in jars were perfectly sound, tasted well and had no foreign odor. The only way we could account for the change was the possible catalytic action of the metallic tin on certain unstable protein.

Glass is preferable in every way; it is practically chemically inert, eliminates all danger from metals (from the can at least), and allows the purchaser to see what he is buying. It is better to use glass, to sterilize by heat (eliminating preservatives), and seal the surface of the jam with paraffin, thus preventing organisms which may be sucked through the seal from growing on the surface.



Proprietary Medicines.

A human being appears to differ from the lower animals in being, among other things, an experimenter, and from babyhood on through life his greatest lessons are the sad lessons of experiment, and thus of experience. Nowhere, perhaps, is this tendency so well exhibited as in the attempts of people to experiment upon themselves with drugs. There seem to be several perceptible reasons for the wide-spread use of proprietary medicines.



In the first place, many people from carelessness in diet, overwork or worry, allow themselves to become run down, and while not quite ill enough to consult a physician, are attracted by the advertisement of some popular cure-all. The symptoms detailed appear wonderfully like those of the interested reader and he forthwith resolves to try a bottle or two; it might fix him up, he argues, but if not, no harm would result. If he is a persevering subject he sticks to it, and in the words of the advertisement, gives it a good fair trial, until either disgusted or cured. If his perseverance is rewarded, and he luckily strikes something which he thinks has cured him, or, as is more likely, he has become better in spite of it, then he considers himself a clever fellow, and in his delight publishes his cure far and wide.

Then there are large numbers of people who are fond of drugging themselves as a sort of amusement; in other words, cranks on the latest patent medicines. These people have always something new wrong with them, and not only do they take the nostrum themselves, but seem to have a mania for recommending it to others.

There is a third class which take these medicines because they like them, for their stimulating, sedative or other effects. Thus, in temperance States, in the Northwest, and among Indians, certain remedies are quite popular. For instance, Peruna is said to be a favorite society beverage. Many of the bitters, tonics, peptone preparations and malt extracts are undoubtedly taken for their alcohol content. I have been informed by druggists that old people who take Pain's Celery Compound do not seem to be able to stop using it. At New Liskeard in Northern Ontario one individual takes ten dozen Radway's Pain Killer every month.

At Niagara Falls the negro population use a great deal of Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Cure for the effect of the cocaine present. Some of the peptone preparations tested in our laboratories were pronounced by amateur experts almost as good as sherry.

It is a well-known fact that if a statement be repeated often enough one may come to believe it against his better judgment. Of this psychological fact the patent medicine vendor takes advantage; he advertises, and the most systematically and widely-advertised remedy is the best seller,—if it is not too hard to take. I am quite convinced that if a colored water were put on the market and advertised it would sell, and testimonials by the thousand could be obtained. Doubtless some of the testimonials are from genuine cures, many are bought, and many are sent in by people who have worked the faith cure on themselves.

Tonics and bitters are, perhaps, the most popular of the liquid preparations, and usually contain large quantities of alcohol, to which a good deal of their popularity is doubtless due. The analysis of compounds attended with considerable difficulty and consumption of time, are not claimed to be complete, but the following constituents have been identified in the preparations.

Alcoholic Constituents.

There is nothing wonderful in the composition of any of these preparations; in fact they are only remarkable for the universal presence of alcohol and cheapness of ingredients present. One tonic I know of is prepared by the caretaker of a building in his spare time; no expensive drugs or skilled scientific assistance is necessary. All the apparatus essential for many of the preparations is a barrel of whisky, water for diluting the same, glucose for sweetening, some vegetable bitter (the cheaper the better) and some common tonic or aperient like magnesium sulphite, potassium iodide, iron phosphate, etc. Of course you must advertise systematically, offer rewards for cases of failure to cure, or at least refund a patient's money. A favorite practice with a new nostrum is to represent it as one used for fifty years back in England or some other distant country. The confidence of the purchaser is also invited, of which practice the Ladies' Home Journal's recent exposure requires no comment.

The annual report of the Massachusetts board of health recently issued contains all the work done by that board on proprietary preparations to date, many of the analysis being made prior to 1897.

Twelve hair restorer compounds contained lead to the extent of 3-2.32 per cent. Nine preparations for the face contained corrosive sublimate or other poisonous salt of mercury in the proportion of 1-15 grains per ounce.

Of 61 tonics and bitters analyzed seven contained between six and ten per cent. alcohol, the others all containing over 11 per cent.

For instance:

	Alcohol by Vol. Per cent.
Boker's Stomach Bitters	42.60
Hostetter's " "	44 30
Richardson's Conc. Cherry Wine Bitters	47.50
Whiskol, "a non-intoxicating stimulant, whiskey without its sting"	28.20
Colden's Liquid Beef Tonic, "recommended for treatment of alcohol habit"	26.50
Hoogland's German Bitters, "entirely vegetable and free from alcoholic stimulant"	25.60
Parker's Tonic, "purely vegetable," recommended for inebriates	41.60

On glancing over these results and then over the report of the Inland Revenue Department of Ottawa one is at once struck with the close resemblance to the whiskeys which contain from 25-45 per cent. of alcohol. The majority of the tonics seem to run about 20 per cent. just like a whiskey diluted with an equal volume of water. In fact one cannot help guessing that the manufacturers take whiskey, add the bitters and other constituents, and after diluting the same bottle in approximately pint bottles which sell for $1 each. A 22 per cent. alcohol tonic at $1 a bottle would cost the vendor from 15 to 19c retail for the alcohol present.

A large number of these preparations come under the head of proprietary medicines, since they are used to a large extent by the sick, and since curative powers as well as enormous food values are claimed for them by the makers. As goods they are practically worthless: even when, as in some, meat fibre or albumose has been added their nutritive value is slight.

As stimulants and restoratives, however, the meat bases, extractives and salts have a high value in stimulating the flow of gastric juice in cases of feeble digestion and of convalescence.

Very high and worthless food values have been placed on these preparations, while as a matter of fact it can be conclusively shown that a preparation containing only 10 per cent. of solids contains less nitrogenized organic matter than is present in ordinary beer. (Allen).

Most of the peptone preparations yield about 20 per cent. solids. In its conversion into peptones proteid becomes slightly heavier, so that supposing you have 1-5 of your $1 bottle or about 3 1-5 oz. of peptone present, you have merely the equivalent of about 3 1-5 oz. of the dried lean of beef and worth not a bit more as nutriment.

Wampole's Grano Pepton is stated to contain in each fluid ounce approximately the digestive equivalent of 1 oz. lean beef, 2 oz. whole wheat bread, 1-2 oz. egg white, and 1-2 fluid of milk together with pepsin and deastase. Now there are approximately in the 1 oz beef .313 oz. digestible nutrients, 2 oz. graham flour (whole wheat) 1.738 oz. digestible nutrients, 1-2 oz. milk, .065 oz. digestible nutrients, 1-2 oz. egg white, .131 oz. digestible nutrients, or a total of 2.247 ounces of the products of digestion. The label represents that in each fluid ounce there are 2.247 oz. digestible nutrients present; but I find as a matter of fact in each fluid ounce only about 1-4 oz. solids, which is about 1-10 of that claimed, and even this is by no means all nutriment. (This is one of the preparations often prescribed by physicians as a food.) As alcoholic temperance drinks they are quite popular, being very palatable to those used to alcoholic liquor. Of the five preparations of this nature examined alcohol was present in all and much of their effect is doubtless due to that constituent.

1. Liquid peptonaids, "Beef, milk and gluten perfectly digested," a pleasant and convenient nutriment. Alcohol by vol. 20.3 per cent.

2. Nutrient wine of beef peptone, "A liquid food presenting the entire substance of fresh, raw lean beef." Armour & Co., Alcohol, 20.0 per cent.

3. Bovinine, "The vital principles of beef." Is a genuine coagulated beef juice. Contains alcohol.

4. Mulford's predigested beef. "The most valuable concentrated remediably assimulable food known." Alcohol, 16.70 per cent.

5. Wampole's Grano pepton. "Representing the final products of the digestion of beef, eggs, and the whole wheat grain." Alcohol 17.50 per cent.

Malt Extracts.

All of these obtainable in Toronto have been examined with a view to determining their diastatic and food value. Malt extract is produced by the evaporation of an infusion of malt preferably in vacuo and at a low temperature. It consists of sugars, nitrogenous compounds, and when properly prepared diastasi is a ferment capable of converting starch into sugar. It should be thick, light brown or yellow in color and have a pleasant odor like that of new bread.

A high temperature destroys diastase, and as this ferment is the feature of value, extracts which have been sterilized by heat are little better than honey or other saccharine solutions.

Nine specimens manufactured in Ontario and eight of these by brewers, were found to be absolutely without diastatic value, though without exception all were claimed to be active. They had all been sterilized and the diastase killed in the process. All contained alcohol, the quantity varying from 3.5 to 8 per cent.

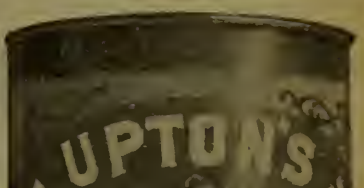
The only three of the thick malt extracts obtainable, possess all the properties of first-class extract and are all actively diastatic. The first two are about 5 times as active as the third. They contain from 50 to 70 per cent. sugar.

Consumption Cures.

Are being investigated now. They may be roughly divided into three classes. 1. Those commonly called builders, consisting of mixtures of malt extract or cod liver oil with certain tonics such as phosphates or hypophosphites of iron, manganese, etc. 2. Cough mixtures or throat soothers. 3. Tonic preparations pure and simple. No line of demarcation can be drawn as many consist of two or all of these classes.

Cod liver oil has undoubtedly great properties as a builder, in fact standing quite alone in this respect. It is difficult to prevent it from becoming rancid. When rancid it often causes eruption of the skin difficult to heal. Since it is difficult to take in the pure state it is commonly emulsified and mixed with other constituents to cover its somewhat disagreeable flavor due to its rancidity. The emulsions commonly contain about 1-4 their weight of cod liver oil and tend to become rancid more quickly than the pure oil.

It is commonly supposed that emulsifying the oil increases its ease of digestion. This is very doubtful, however, since the emulsified particles of fats are to those absorbed by the intestinal walls as millet seeds to footballs.



The emulsions at least are worth something; you know that you are getting a certain quantity of a standard food constituent for your money. In some of the glucose, tar water oil anise preparations you get practically no value for your investment.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS' AT-HOME.

On the evening of December 27, the Northwest Commercial Travelers' Association held their annual "At Home" in the Manitoba Hall in Winnipeg. The function was a most successful one, the large number of guests present pronouncing it one of the most enjoyable dances of the season. Visitors from outside Branches of the Association carried away pleasant memories of a most enjoyable evening.

The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and while the attendance was large, it was not overly so, the crowd being such as to make dancing a pleasure. The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the success which attended the function. It consisted of the following gentlemen:—

FRESH AND CURED FISH

Record Price for Nova Scotia Salt Codfish.

A. H. BRITTAIN, of Black Bros. & Co., Halifax and La Have, N.S., who has just returned from a trip to Halifax, stated in an interview with The Canadian Grocer that the demand for salt cod far exceeded the supply, and owing to the shortage of the catch this year prices have been on the upward trend, resulting in new records at all points. Seven dollars per quintal of 112 lbs. has lately been paid for hard-cure shore cod. Prices paid to fishermen at vessels during the past year average for 1904, $5.40 per quintal, as compared with $4.50 per quintal in 1903, and $3.60 per quintal in 1902.

It will be interesting to learn that Halifax is the largest fish-distributing centre on the North Atlantic continent, although large quantities of fish exported through Halifax dealers are sent direct from the fishing grounds.

Magnitude of Nova Scotia Fleet.

The magnitude of the Nova Scotia Bank Fishery may not be generally appredicted. The Lunenburg fleet comprises three hundred vessels, engaged more or less in fishing, amounting in value to about two million dollars.

The shortage of the catch and high prices are caused principally by the lack of men to man the fleet, and the shortage of herring bait. Although the fishermen of Lunenburg and La Have (the Gloucester of Canada) are individually better off, and their resources increasing an average price of $3.50 per quintal would remunerate them amply.

The Nova Scotia Bank catch amount to 145,000 quintals, which is 60,000 below the average. The total catch of dry fish in North Atlantic waters is estimated at from 350,000 to 450,000 quintals short of an average year. This shortage coming on top of the small Norwegian catch has caused a steady advance in prices.

From the steady increase in the consumption of this article of food, which is considered in certain quarters to be quite equal to meat, the wonder is that higher prices before this have not been the rule.

To Secure Salmon Industry.

Total prohibition of all salmon-fishing on Puget Sound, on the Fraser River and in all waters frequented by the fish making for the Fraser River spawning grounds during the years 1906 and 1908 and the establishment of a weekly close season of thirty-six hours in all the Sound waters during the year 1905 is the programme of Puget Sound and British Columbia salmon canners as decided upon at a recent meeting in Seattle. In 1907 fish may be caught without restraint save as to close season regulations.

It is the intention of the Puget Sound canners to introduce and secure the passage of a bill through the State Legislature at Olympia next session, which shall make it unlawful for salmon of any kind to be taken during 1906 and 1908. Incorporated in the bill, which is now in course of preparation, there is a clause relating to the enforcement of a weekly thirty-six-hour close season throughout the Puget Sound district.

Having undertaken to attend to the matter of the necessary state legislation, the Sound canners look to the British Columbia canners to do their part in securing both close season and total prohibition of all fishing on the Canadian side of the line. It is believed that British Columbia canners have agreed to secure the Dominion Government enactment necessary to a successful operation of the international attempts at the protection of the industry.

Where B. C. Sends its Salmon.

Of all the salmon packed on the Pacific coast about 45 per cent. is sold and consumed in the United States, 40 per cent. in Europe, and 15 per cent. in the rest of the world. The English people are the largest consumers in proportion to population, and will absorb about 1,300,000 cases every year. All of the British Columbia catch is sold in London except about 150,000 cases, which are consumed in Canada. Between 400,000 and 500,000 cases are shipped to London by sea from San Francisco. The English market demands the best quality. The cheaper qualities are sent to China, Japan and India, about 100,000 cases to each country under ordinary circumstances: about 50,000 go to Australia, 50,000 to Africa, and 50,000 to South and Central America.

1905 Salmon Pack.

Now that the 1904 salmon pack is practically completed, preparations are under way on the Pacific coast for the coming season of 1905. The canners are anticipating a heavy run next year, being the "four cycle" season, when the largest runs are always said to take place. Contracts are being made already with Chinese agencies for the help required in the canneries during the coming year, and, without exception, the cannerymen are contracting on a basis that will almost reach the capacity of their plants.

Salmon Spawn for New Zealand.

The Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, has been advised that L. S. Ayson, superintendent of fisheries for New Zealand, has arrived on the Pacific coast to make another effort to transplant salmon eggs to New Zealand. Ayson over a year ago took out 70,000 salmon ova, but they were too far advanced, and when they got into warm latitudes the eggs hatched out and the fish could not be kept alive. Mr. Ayson will endeavor to profit by his previous experience and land the eggs in New Zealand in good condition.

Fish Gossip.

The British Consul at Rio de Janeiro advises Newfoundland cod curers, if they wish to improve their poor position in the Brazilian market, to supply a hard-cured fish. It appears that the characteristic of Newfoundland codfish is a kind of dampness or want of dryness which attracts a special preference at other places, Pernambuco, for example, but renders it, on the other hand, unacceptable at Rio, except at a reduced price.

A new salmon cannery is about to be built near Victoria, B.C.

DAIRY PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

and Cold Storage News.

Dairy Produce Movements.

THE cheese market has been quite active on cable orders during the past week, activity starting in on December 27 and being continued right through up to present date. All holders are now firm at 11c and the bulk of the business has been put through on this basis. As stocks are now getting less, if the demand from the United Kingdom continues it is more than probable that an advance will soon be asked by Canadian holders.

There is good lively demand for butter for home trade purposes and 21 1-2 to 22c is being freely made. Export demand is about finished, but the fact that Australian and Argentine butter is now being criticized more strictly than in former years speaks well for the record the quality of Canadian butter has made for itself during the past season. It appears from English market reports that merchants find the color too deep as compared with Canadian butter and it is now certain that Canadian will stand highest among the colonial kinds and nearest to the Danish article that has such a firm hold of the English consumer's fancy.

Bacon Production in Denmark *

PERHAPS the best way to take up this subject is to start with the Smithfield market in London where bacon from a number of different countries may be seen any day during the year.

One of the most remarkable features of Danish bacon is its great uniformity of excellence, very few really bad sides of bacon being put upon the market. The Danish sides are characterized by a light shoulder, a light neck, good length, and a large proportion of lean meat. In addition to this, the sides are well trimmed and placed upon the market in a very attractive form. On the other hand, when we come to examine Canadian bacon, we find some excellent sides, some only fair, and some very bad indeed. The best Canadian sides possess excellent length and show great uniformity in the thickness of the layer of fat along the back; but, as a rule, they do not possess quite so much lean meat as the Danish sides. In length, however, the best Canadian sides are quite equal, if not superior, to the Danish product. The great fault of our bacon, however, is its lack of uniformity. There are far too many short sides, thick shoulders, and heavy necks, which cause the Canadian product, as a whole, to show at a great disadvantage when compared with Danish. Just here a word to Canadian packers may not be out of place. Some of our packers need to take lessons in the art of making goods attractive, and I was extremely sorry to see many good sides of bacon so badly trimmed that their value was greatly lessened. From this it would seem as if there was need of education among the packers as well as among the feeders and breeders of bacon hogs. As to the London commission merchants, they appear to have a very friendly sentiment towards Canada, and appear anxious to handle our bacon: but, of course, it must be of good quality before they can handle it to advantage. I was pleased to hear them speak in very high terms of our best bacon.

The study of the competition in the Smithfield market gives rise to several important questions in the mind of the person interested in this matter. Among these are the following:

1. How do the Danes maintain this uniformity in their product?
2. How do they produce such lean bacon?
3. To what extent can they increase their output?
4. Can we hope to compete successfully with them?

It was with these questions before me that I sailed in a Danish steamer from Harwich, on the east coast of England, and landed in Esbjerg, on the west coast of Denmark, one fine morning in July. For a person not familiar with the Danish language, it is no easy matter to collect information, though one who knows what he wants can take in a good deal through his eyes in spite of the fact that his ears are of comparatively little use. However, through the aid of interpreters, I was able to pick up a few points, here and there which are not without value.

The question regarding uniformity is very easily answered. One has only to look over the hogs of the country and the methods of marketing to understand very thoroughly how it comes that Danish sides of bacon resemble one another very closely. There are three classes of hogs in Denmark. First, there is what is called the "Danish hog." In color, bone, and general conformation of body it strongly resembles the Yorkshire, though perhaps the shoulder is nearer to that of the Tamworth. The neck is light, the jowl is also light, and the snout long and somewhat coarse, while the ears are large, thick and drooping. It is claimed for this hog that it is more vigorous and an easier feeder than the Yorkshire. Next, we find the large Yorkshire, which is imported from England, bred pure at certain centres, and used for crossing on the native pigs. The breeders of Yorkshires agree with the Government to keep nothing but pure bred Yorkshires on their farms, and in return for this they receive some financial aid from the Government to help defray the expenses of importing. The third class is the market hog, or the cross between the Yorkshire and the Danish type. It is claimed that the cross-bred pigs make a better quality of bacon than either the pure Danish or Yorkshire, and the animals which I saw were certainly of a very desirable type. Of course, a certain number of pure Yorkshire and pure Danish hogs find their way to market, but the greater bulk of Danish bacon comes from the cross-breds as already described.

Another important point in connection with securing uniformity, is the method of marketing. The most important factories of the country are co-operative concerns. They are located comparatively close to one another and practically every farmer markets his own hogs. Each man's hogs are slaughtered separately, and after they are slaughtered they are graded, and he is paid for his hogs according to the quality of the bacon they produce. Of course, this means a great deal of work at the factory, but it seems that th results more than compensate for the extra labor. When we remember, therefore, that the Danes do not have the great variety of types of hogs that we have, and that strict account is kept of the quality of each farmer's hogs when he markets them, it is very easy to understand how they maintain such a high degree of excellence in their bacon.

The second question is not so easy to answer, though the foods used are, for the most part, conducive to producing a large proportion of lean meat. It will be remembered that Denmark is a butter-making country, and that practically every farmer who raises hogs also keeps cows and feeds the skim-milk to his hogs. There is, as a rule, a fixed relation between the number of hogs fed and the number of cows kept. Because grain is dear, and because skim-milk is a by-product and consequently cheaper than almost any other food at the farmer's disposal, there is little encouragement for the farmer to feed more hogs than his supply of skim milk would warrant. In addition to skim milk, barley is [illegible] though other grains are sometimes used and in some Provisions—The market is rallying once more from the temporary quietness, caused by the Christmas trade. A better trade is expected to be transacted in a week or ten days. Light hogs are scarce and prices have advanced from $6.25 straight to a range of prices ruling from $6.25 to $6.40. We quote the following:

Cheese—An increase in the demand in the United States market has enlightened local commission merchants regarding the amount of stocks held. Quite recently dealers, who were believed by all to have large quantities on hand, were forced to go on the market and buy to fill foreign orders. That the supply is quite small is apparent. Prices have advanced on "twins" and have become firmer on "large." Despite "bad times" in England, large quantities are being exported. Our quotations are:

Cheese, large	....	0 11

Butter—Supplies of creamery butter continue to fall off and the general impression is that prices will advance beyond the recorded increase of 1c per pound on prints and 1c to 1 1-2c per pound on solids. A better and brisker trade is prevalent in dairy butter, rolls and prints causing the best possible inquiry. Prices of dairy are from 2c to 4c per pound in advance of a year ago. With the exception of creamery butter, prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are:

Dairy prints	0 18	0 20

Poultry—Trade is quiet. It is generally believed by the local dealers that all the available supplies in the country were pushed on the market before the first holiday, leaving practically nothing for the new year holiday demand. However, nothing was needed. The market during the last week showed a lack of inquirers and the belief is general that the trade will be quiet for some time. The price of chickens and hens is easier, while turkeys have advanced 1c per pound. Our quotations are:

Provisions—Steady prices have ruled for provisions during the holidays and a good trade has been done in smoked meats. Pure lard declined a quarter of a cent and boars' head lard has dropped 3-8 of a cent. The demand has been good for fresh killed abattoir as well as country dressed, and a steady business has been carried on.

Dairy Instruction.

It is gratifying to the Dairymen's Associations and the Department of Agriculture in Ontario to know that the work of instruction carried on for the benefit of dairy farmers, owners of creameries and factories, and makers, has been productive of such marked results. The quality of cheese throughout the season has been above the average, especially during the latter part of the season, and the percentage of rejections from factories receiving instruction has been far smaller than from those not receiving instruction, the balance in favor of the former being about 7 to 1. The proportion of inferior samples of milk among those tested by instructors during the past Summer was about 40 per cent. less than last year, and the number of samples tested was much larger than ever before. Another indication of the good work being done is that the proprietors of factories and creameries throughout the province have during the past Summer expended at least $125,000 in improvements, fully $40,000 more than the preceding year. The expenditure of such a large amount of money in a season of low prices shows that proprietors have faith in the future of the industry, and are willing to do what they can to insure the production of a first class article.

It is the intention of the department to pursue the system of instruction more vigorously during the coming season, and with the co-operation of the farmers, factorymen and instructors, the high standard of cheese is certain not only to be maintained, but another advance step will also be made.

News Items.

R. Johnston, manager of the Western Dairy and Provision Co., St. Thomas, has resigned to accept a position with A. F. McLaren's Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, as manager of their Canadian and United States cheese department.

J. Rustin will be succeeded by Mr. Johnston, and C. M. Firby will have charge of the butter department of the Western Dairy and Provision Co.

G. B. Sparks, manager of the Galt branch of the Wm. Davies Co., has been promoted to the managership of that firm's Brockville store.

ARTIFICIAL FOOD COLORING.

ARTIFICIAL coloring in canned goods has been carried to a dangerous extent in the United States, so much so that the Department of Agriculture at Washington has issued an order that all such goods must be branded as to their true character. When canned peas or string beans are colored with copper or when aniline dye is used to make cherries or strawberries or tomatoes a lovely red, the fact must be marked in plain type on the can, for instance, in letters not smaller than long primer capitals—colored with sulphate of copper, or colored with aniline dye. One of the chemists in discussing this order, said:

"There is not enough of the poison in one can of peas or such vegetables to do appreciable harm, but the damage will come if the peas are eaten day after day. Our investigations have proven this contention conclusively."

Two things are spoken of in explanation of the fact that American canned goods have been known to find sale in Canada when those of domestic preparation were rejected, namely, neatness of packing and brilliancy of coloring. It will be useful for Canadian retailers to know that the distinction which they mark is really in favor of the home goods.

GROCERY QUALITY

It is no trick to buy and sell goods—anyone with money enough to buy a stock and hire salesmen can sell goods.

But it's a different and difficult matter to build up a reputation for quality.

And that's just what we've been busy doing ever since we went into business.

Now, we've got the goods that have the quality that makes reputation.

Our reputation for quality has been growing for years, and our lines of to-day will add one more milestone to our successful past.

Better make your 1905 changes now and consolidate your account with us.

A WESTERN PARADOX.

MANY keen observers have been at a loss to understand why, with good crops and high prices collections have been so unsatisfactory in the Northwest. There can be no doubt as to the general prosperity of the west. It is true that in a few small sections the crops were a comparative failure, but. taken as a whole, crop reports show an excellent yield and prices have been so high that the wheat has been marketed freely. But coupled with this state of affairs has been the undeniable fact that merchants have found collections poor. In a country showing every evidence of prosperity, they have found it difficult to collect what is owed them.

In conversation with a representative of this paper, a prominent wholesale man in Winnipeg said that he attributed the slowness of collections directly to the general prosperity of the country. He was confident that if the west as a whole were a little less prosperons he would have less difficulty in collecting his money. Western settlers have seen the price of land in Manitoba rise by leaps and bounds during the last few years; they expect land values in that province to continue to advance and they believe that the Territories will repeat the history of Manitoba. Consequently every western settler is possessed of a consuming land hunger and he is eager to invest all that he can save or borrow in buying more land. No doubt, the investment is a safe one, but it soon ties up all the farmer's available cash, and the merchant often has to wait for his money. The explanation is a novel one and, if correct, it reveals a paradox of prosperity.

The situation is peculiar for, granting that any delay in collections is due to the present prosperity, a return to hard times would make matters much worse. The only remedy is for the retail merchant to insist on getting his money and thus force his customers to recognize the priority of his claim.

A MATRIMONIAL SCHEME.

A COMMON source of friction, especially in large establishments, is the occasional subscriptions which are taken up in order to give presents to persons entering matrimony or leaving for other fields of labor.

The head of a large manufacturing firm in Toronto was recently induced to inspect a list which had been gotten up among his employes and he found that some of them had given more then he thought they could afford to give. He then determined to change the system and had a box made in which when any subscriptions were taken up among the employes they could drop in their contribution without anyone knowing the amount they had given. He says that the aggregate of the contributions decreased, but he is confident that his employes now give, when occasion demands it, just what they can afford to give.

The scheme is a simple one and could no doubt be adopted to advantage by many other firms, and the old system, which is practically a system of blackmail in many cases, could be obviated.

CARELESS IGNORANCE.

PERFECTION in system is usually looked upon as being one of the attributes of railway corporations. It is only ordinary business concerns whose systems are not always good. That railway companies have not good systems strictly perfect is evident from an instance which came under our observation a few days ago.

A large manufacturing concern in Canada had secured an order through one of its travelers from a merchant in New Glasgow, Quebec. It was the first order received, and the firm was particularly desirous of pleasing him. The goods were shipped promptly, but 42 days after shipment was made the shipper was notified by the railway officials that two cases of goods addressed to the New Glasgow merchant were lying at their office at Point Levis. The bill of lading instructed that the goods be shipped by the railway in question, via the G.T.R., via the G.N.R.

The address on the packages corresponded with that on the bill of lading, but in notifying the shipper that packages were lying at Point Levis the representative of the railway company wanted to know if the goods were not intended for New Glasgow, N. S. In fact they said they had no such station on their line as New Glasgow, Quebec. It appears that the goods had been shipped to New Glasgow, N.S., and finding that no merchant of the name on the cases did business in that town, they were brought back to Point Levis and then the shipper communicated with.

It would have been a simple matter indeed for the officials of the railway company to have discovered where New Glasgow, Quebec, was situated. Had they the inclination, they could have discovered in five minutes, and when this was drawn to their attention the only answer they could give was to the effect that they thought the shipper had made a mistake.

It is evident that in the employ of the G.T.R. are men, who, like employes in some other business enterprises, have not enough initiative about them to turn to any directory and find the address of a town or of an individual. It is evident that the G.T.R. Company needs to stir up some of its careless employes, as business men stand to lose a great deal of money through the lack of prompt attention to duty on the part of the servants of transportation companies.

TO COLLECT BAD DEBTS.

THE by-laws of the Spokane Jobbers' Association contains among others the following suggestions that might very profitably be followed up by the Canadian trade in connection with the handling of questionable accounts:

Upon receipt of a report the secretary of the association calls upon the party reported and makes a thorough investigation of his affairs, gathering such other information as he can regarding the debtor's financial condition. If it is found that he is being pressed, or bankrupt or insolvent a meeting of the members of the association is called and the facts laid before them. If he is insolvent the secretary of the association usually obtains the debtor's assignment to him as trustee for the benefit of all creditors and takes charge of the business until the estate is wound up. As a rule a sufficient profit is realized from the goods sold to pay the entire expenses of handling the assignment.

The plan has worked admirably so far, thirty-seven and a half per cent. more having been realized than could have been either through the agency of the State or Bankruptcy Courts. The policy seems to be to perfect the system of handling bad accounts with the least possible expense and for the benefit of creditors and as such is well worth the consideration of a certain class of readers of The Canadian Grocer.

EDUCATE THE FARMERS.

SOME farmers are skinflints. But, fortunately, their number is exceedingly small. It may be said of the farmer on the whole that he is about as freehanded a citizen of this country as it is possible to find. When crops are good and money is plentiful, the farmer comes to town and spends it.

The farmer needs things and he buys them. He likes luxuries in dress and furniture and food, just as much as anybody else and he is going in for these luxuries more than ever to-day. Moreover, it will be found that the farmer, unlike the average inhabitant of our towns and villages, believes in patronizing the home market. He does not run to the city and the department store every time he wants to buy a suit of clothes or a barrel of sugar. No, he goes to the nearest town for his supplies.

Seeing then that the farmer is a good customer and stands by the local merchants, let the latter take him into their best consideration. Let them reason it out. The more the farmer can get for his produce, the more money he will have to spend. How can he get more for his produce? Certainly by the adoption of improved methods of tilling the soil, of raising cattle and of keeping poultry. No less a sum than $117,000 was paid to patrons of the Huntington dairy board during the past season for cheese and butter. This means on an average about $4,000 from this source alone to each retailer in Huntington and this was all accomplished by education.

Is it not, therefore, of importance to merchants in our country towns to work together to help and educate the farmers in their vicinity to get more out of their farms?

Mr. G. H. Johnston, general merchant, Sutton West, a reader of THE CANADIAN GROCER for over fifteen years, says he would not exchange it for any publication that comes to his notice, both on account of its value as a newspaper and because it has been invaluable to him in business. He refers particularly to its market reports and prices current, which "are always to be relied upon," and to its special advertisements which "every careful buyer should consult regularly."

REPUTATION.

QUEER thing, this reputation. It takes toiling and moiling to get it—takes singleness of purpose and capacity to resist temptation to cheapen, but once you've got it its value is transcendent and can't be computed in dollars and cents. How infinitely better it is to build on a foundation of quality and worth than to chase the will-o'-the-wisp of cheapness, which leads you into bogs and swamps.

"But my trade won't pay the price," wails some timorous soul. Your trade, dear man, is what you make of it. If you insistently talk quarter tea, and ten-cent brooms and five cent brushes and ninety cent apples and fifteen cent oranges, how in the name of sense can you expect your trade to ask for anything else? Try the other. Talk quality, emphasize worth, lay stress on inherent goodness, and watch the result.

A STAFF CONFERENCE.

ONE of the striking features of modern business management is the periodical conference between principals and staff for the discussion of matters pertaining to business growth. In the United States, this practice brings together many notable gatherings of officers, salesmen and agents, many of whom cross a continent to attend the annual assembly, lasting in some cases an entire week. In Canada, too, the custom is obtaining.

It was such an occasion that brought together in Toronto on Saturday, Dec. 31, 1904, the Montreal and Toronto staffs of the MacLean Publishing Co., whose trade newspapers, The Dry Goods Review, The Canadian Grocer, Hardware and Metal, Bookseller and Stationer, and Printer and Publisher, are known and quoted wherever the English language is spoken.

From Montreal came A. B. Caswell, resident manager; F. S. Keith, W. H. Seyler, G. E. Fraser, C. D. Cliffe. Of the Toronto staff there were present Lieut.-Col. J. B. Maclean, president; W. L. Edmonds, vice-president and general manager; Capt. A. N. Burns, secretary; Miss Forbes, treasurer.

Editorial—W. A. Craick, F. G. Killmaster, Miss Dixon, J. C. Armer, N. Mick.

Advertising—John Cameron, D. O. McKinnon, H. T. Hunter, D. B. Gillies, J. L. Sheather, E. J. Dodd, L. A. Eedy, J. C. Kirkwood, W. C. Russell, H. V. Tyrell.

Circulation—F. M. Alexander.

Mechanical—James Anderson.

From New York—W. T. Robson, resident manager.

The morning and afternoon were given up to a series of general and special conferences, when many matters relating to the affairs, policy and plans of the company were discussed. Intense interest and animated participation characterized the entire proceedings, and much important business was transacted. One is safe in saying that the coming year will see Maclean's Trade Newspapers take on a fresh strength and make their influence even more dominant.

The story of progress in connection with The Maclean Company during the past few years, and particularly during the past two years, has few parallels in Canadian enterprise. The growth of the company during the last two years can be understood by the mention of a few facts, the significance of which will be readily perceived.

The editorial staff has been increased from two to eight.

The advertising staff from three to fifteen. The circulation department has increased from one to six.

The Montreal office maintains a resident manager and an editorial, advertising and office staff of nine.

The editorial and advertising staff in England has been increased to five, with J. Meredith McKim as manager.

Salaried representatives with offices are located in Winnipeg, New York and London, England.

Special permanent correspondents have their headquarters at St. John, Halifax and Vancouver, in Canada; at Birmingham and Manchester, in England; at Paris, France, and at Adelaide, Australia.

Subscription solicitors canvass thoroughly all Canada.

Two advertising solicitors are kept constantly employed in Ontario, covering the territory from Ottawa to Windsor.

Quebec is systematically worked from Montreal; and the Maritime Provinces are visited regularly several times during the year.

During the last half of 1904, four distinct canvasses of Illinois, Ohio, New York and Massachusetts were made by representatives from Toronto and Montreal.

Early this month a member of the staff will visit the West Indies in the interests of the advertising and circulation departments.

In addition to the foregoing evidences of expansion, there is to record the launching of a new monthly publication, designated "Machinery and Manufacturing News," the first number of which will appear this month.

The magnitude of the company's output in the matter of trade newspapers will be perceived when it is stated that there are set up and printed every day of the year an average of 45 pages, size 9 x 12, thus exceeding the output of the largest daily newspaper in Canada.

Other interesting items of progress and prestige are:

There are eight university graduates in the service of the company.

Maclean's Trade Newspapers have the largest foreign circulation of any Canadian newspaper of any sort.

The Maclean Publishing Co. use more engravings in their newspapers than does any other Canadian publishing concern.

The Maclean Publishing Co. employs advertising specialists to assist advertisers in the preparation of "copy," whose services to advertisers are entirely free. Of no other newspaper firm in Canada is this true.

The Maclean Publishing Co. are easily the largest consumers of high grade newspaper stock in the Dominion.

In the matter of original cover designs for their several publications, The Maclean Publishing Co stand alone.

All this record is surely one to be proud of. The present status of the firm has not been achieved without ups and downs. There have been several critical periods in the history of the company, but the unswerving devotion to a single ideal is having its reward and recognition.

Staff Dinner.

The day's business and the dying year were brought to an agreeable close by a dinner to the staff, served at the Queen's Hotel. There were present all told over sixty. Lieut.-Col. J. B. Maclean, the president, was chairman, and was assisted by W. L. Edmonds, vice-president and general manager; A. B. Caswell, and D. O. McKinnon. The usual toasts were given and provided occasion for the saying of many things calculated to stir the enthusiasm and stimulate the loyalty of every one present. It was the first of what will be an annual event, and the president announced that a year hence, he hoped to meet at Montreal the staffs from England, Winnipeg and Vancouver, in addition to those from Montreal, Toronto and New York, an utterance that met with hearty applause. The approach of the hour of midnight, when the Sabbath day would be ushered in, brought to a conclusion a profitable conference and a delightful evening.

ANOTHER WHOLESALE GROCERY.

John Sloan & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, are opening a branch business in Belleville, where they will carry a well assorted stock. In this way they will be able to cope more successfully with their rapidly increasing trade in Eastern Ontario.

OTTAWA WHOLESALE GROCER HONORED.

Major H. Bate, of the wholesale grocery firm of H. N. Bate & Son, Ottawa, has been created a Chevalier of the Distinguished Order of Leopold by the King of Belgium. Major Bate has been Belgian Vice-Consul-General in Ottawa for ten or twelve years and his services in relation to trade and other matters of interest to the two countries have been duly acknowledged and honored by King Leopold.

PRESENTATION.

Mr. F. J. Blackbourn, of H. P. Eckardt & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, has severed his connection with that firm to go into business with Mr. W. G. Patrick, importer and commission merchant, Toronto. On the occasion of his removal the staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co. presented Mr. Blackbourn with a handsome gold watch as a slight token of the high esteem in which he was held by his fellow employes.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, Jan. 5, 1905.

Groceries.

DULLNESS rules in all branches of the trade. The usual lull after the holidays has set in, and there is no cure for it but time. Another advance in sugar has taken place and the market is interesting and strong. The sensitive condition of the beet market in the latter weeks of the old year lead buyers to expect a decline instead of an advance but the speculators are said to be doing the trick. The estimates of the Cuban crops were exaggerated and now the fact of a falling off being indicated helped the advance. Prices are stiff for raw both in United States and Canada. In molasses there is no change although some quantities have changed hands during the holidays. Coffee is steadily advancing in sympathy with the New York market. The Brazil stocks are said to be held by the large New York operators and they are supposed to have the manipulation of the market pretty well in their own hands. In teas very little seems to be doing and jobbers are just as quiet as they can be. Black and white peppers are somewhat firmer and there is an improved demand. Ginger (Cochin variety) is cheaper; Zanzibar cloves are slightly easier. For future delivery, prices for the latter are firmer and appearances point to the market having reached the lowest notch. Penang cloves are said to be remarkably short and an advance is reported. A good business is doing in nutmegs and mace at steady prices. Some improvement is reported in the demand for canned goods and canned salmon is ruling strong with an excellent probability for an increase in rates. Fruits are in good demand and prices are strong. Dried fruits have held firm and the raisin market is steady. The Spring policy of this trade is now occupying the interest of the trade both locally and especially in the countries of production. The decline of Valencias which took place in the early part of the Fall will be made up for, it is expected, by the satisfactory turn in the early Spring. Green fruits are very quiet, in fact, the dealers say that there is nothing doing. Spanish onions have advanced and there is a strong demand for them everywhere. Red onions are also advancing, owing to the general scarcity. In fish there is little business being done, as there are absolutely no fast days and fish is being consumed only as a matter of fashion at the holiday dinners. Country produce has been little thought of except perhaps in the event of poultry having its fluctuations; the market was thus made interesting. Flour and feed, eggs and all the kindred products of the farm have been firm in good demand evidencing the prosperity that exists all over the country.

SUGAR.

The advance of ten cents in the price of sugar was in most circles unexpected, although the speculative values have been noticeable for some time. The price of ten cents advance on yellows also interested the trade and caused some activity in the market. These values are not expected to be maintained. At any rate no immense volume of business has been transacted at these prices although it may be remembered that the fluctuations have been as high as this before. We quote:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The firmness in molasses which was reported last week has been maintained and considerable quantities have changed hands. The unfavorable reports from Barbadoes have been substantiated and a shortage is in existence. Corn syrups are in good demand, and owing to the firmness of molasses these should sell well for some time.

COFFEE.

A steady advance is in sight for coffee of all descriptions. Reports from New York state that most of the large operators have control of the Brazil stock and are manipulating the market to suit themselves. It is well known locally that these people have been the prime movers in all the advances that have taken place during the last half year. Columbian, Costa Rica, and Central American coffee have held the advance, and high prices are promised for some time. We quote:

SPICES.

Spices are firm. White and black peppers have sold at good prices, and with a tendency to advance. Sago is selling slowly. Washed rough Cochin ginger has declined and holders have been inclined to meet the proposition of the buyers, without inducing a good demand. Zanzibar cloves are much easier on the spot; forward deliveries, however, show signs of firmness. A decided shortness has been noticed in Penang cloves, and higher prices are expected. New crop will be available in February. Nutmegs and mace are about the same, but plenty of business is being done. Now would be a good time to buy stocks, as for some sizes the prices are the lowest ever recorded. Prices for canary seed are on the down grade. This is occasioned by the near approach of the South American seed at a low rate. Some interesting movements may be expected in the near future in regard to canary seed. We quote:

TEA.

The tea market is dead. Locally jobbers are simply walking around waiting for something to turn up. Now that Port Arthur has fallen into the hands of the Japs, some stimulus may be anticipated in the tea market in Japan. Indian teas show little change in prices; whatever weakness has been reported was mainly confined to the lower and inferior medium descriptions. Ceylon teas are generally easier and the market is well supplied. Business is expected to improve very shortly in all kinds of tea.

CANNED GOODS.

Improvement has been noticed in the demand for canned salmon. In regard to salmon, it has been emphasized in the trade generally that prices have been extreme for some time, owing partly to the small pack of Fraser salmon last season, coupled with the shortness of supplies on spot. However, the improvement in prices has set in and it is not improbable that it may continue. Sardines are in good demand, with a tendency towards scarcity for fine Summer packed goods. Some California sardines have been reported on the market as novelties and have attracted some attention. Lobsters are somewhat easier and the three-quarter pound tall tins are meeting with much favor, owing to the absence of the one pound tins.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Preparations are now being made for the policy of the Spring trade, rather than paying attention to immediate requirements. This applies both locally, as well as to the countries of production. Large quantities of last year stock have been cleared for the holiday trade. This is a custom which has been found to pay the large handlers of foreign fruit. However, this year there have been small crops and declining markets, so that such a policy may not prove so successful as formerly. Currants are still in firm demand and it would appear that buyers would do well to keep their stocks well up. Valencias have every hope of selling well. The position of sultanas seems secure. In muscatels stocks seem to be short, as grocers have not handled these goods in immense quantities, seemingly gauging their supplies to the last pound for the holiday trade. The fig trade has been a large one and promises to continue to some dimensions. This is explained by the cheapness, as well as the excellent quality of figs. We quote:

POULTRY.

The excitement of the poultry market has abated considerably, although it is by no means over. The soft weather just before New Year's occasioned a general sacrifice at low prices. A fair trade is being done at the following quotations: Chickens, 10 to 12c; ducks, 11 to 12 1-2c; geese, 9 to 10 1-2c; fowl, generally, 7 to 9c. Turkeys sold as high as from 15 to 18c.

The advance which took place in No. 1 timothy last week, has been maintained, and large quantities have been shipped to Nova Scotia. This is occasioned by the rebate of freight rates ending on January 1st on the I.C.R. Prices have been considerably easier for spot sales on this account. We quote:

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, Jan. 5, 1905.

Groceries.

THE usual quietness of New Year's week has ruled throughout the wholesale grocery trade. The various markets are practically featureless with the possible exception of sugar, in which there has been a further advance of 5c all round, effective on Jan. 3. The travelers resumes their rounds on Tuesday, Jan. 3, and a general livening up of the retail trade may be expected during the present month. Stock-taking is the order of the day: at the close of the market nothing but an approximate idea of the past year's trade is available, as the work of stock-taking will not be completed in most cases for a fortnight or three weeks. Wholesalers express themselves on the whole as satisfied with the volume of trade for the year, it being slightly ahead of 1903. A healthier feeling in grocery circles is characteristic of the past year than for some time; business failures were comparatively few and only of minor importance. Collections have averaged well.

Canned goods and sugar are perhaps the most interesting items at the present time. A comparatively free movement of tomatoes and corn continues, notwithstanding the lateness of the season. The retail trade is exercising itself to no small extent as to the probability of the present high price of sugar advancing still further within the next few months. The future of sugar is hard to prognosticate; at the same time the feeling is widespread that although much further advances are not expected, the market will continue high for some months. It is interesting to follow the different arguments that have been advanced for the present firm statistical position of sugar. Certain authorities say the abolition of the bounties has contributed largely to bring about this result, others attribute it to the scarcity of beet, and still others to the manipulations of speculators. Whichever it be the fact remains that, while the decrease in supplies of beet is estimated roughly at 20 per cent., the price of refined at the present is over 60 per cent. more than it was a year ago.

SUGAR.

The position of sugar is stronger than last week, an advance of 5c all round in Canadian refined having taken place on Tuesday, Jan. 3.

January beet is now quoted at 14s 9d f.o.b. Hamburg, while raw cane is firm at last quotations. The advance in January beet has been 3½d per cwt from 14s 5½d.

Since last report there has been an advance of 10c in New York refined, while on Tuesday, Jan. 3, there was a further advance of 10c, making the net basis of New York granulated $5.70 in creasing the margin between raw and refined 87c per cwt. During the week there were sales of a small parcel Cuban centrifugals, consisting of 2,000 bags at 1-32 decline from prices ruling a week ago, the basis now being 4.83 as against 4.87½. This sale, however, must not be regarded as showing increased strength in the market.

Receipts at U.S. 4 ports for the week ending Dec. 28 were light, namely, 17,420 tons, with meltings 27,000 tons, thus reducing stocks by 10,000 tons. Combined stocks in U.S. and Cuba were 109,185 tons as against 168,835 tons at the same time last year. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,613,185 tons against 3,301,360 tons last year at the same uneven dates, a decrease of 688,175 tons. We quote the following prices:

CANNED GOODS.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The firmness of the molasses market continues. New crop New Orleans arrived some weeks ago, and the requirements of the trade are now pretty well filled for the next few months. The impression is gaining ground that West Indian molasses will ultimately take the place of New Orleans on this market. We quote the following prices:

TEAS.

Colombo tea sales prior to the holidays were on quite a large scale, about one and a half million pounds being marketed on each sale, which occurred weekly. Teas sold usually at easier prices, showing a decline of about ½d per lb. from prices ruling in November.

It is the opinion of well-informed shippers that the present presents an excellent opportunity to secure good tea at moderate prices because January and February are the two months of least production in Ceylon and sales cannot continue on nearly as large a basis, whereas the Indian market is practically closed except for some red-leafed tea.

Ceylon on the spot continues to move in only a moderate way, and the same may be said of Japans. In both lines excellent values are showing. The markets abroad may be said to be closed, the season being over in Japan, while Ceylon makers have ceased turning out green tea.

Locally tea is quiet, although an improvement in business is expected during January. Our quotations are as follows:

Trade in Mediterranean dried fruits at best cannot be of more than passing interest during the next few months business from now on being largely of a sorting up nature. There will still be shipments of foreign dried fruits, although these will be only as required by the trade from time to time. Further arrivals of Valencia raisins are expected in four or six weeks, by which time it is thought there will be a considerable reduction in present quotations. On the other hand cable advices from Denia state that the crop of Valencia raisins is nearly exhausted.

Figs and Malaga raisins are being featured by one or two houses to clear at prices favorable to buyers. The currant market has every appearance of firmness. Our quotations are as follows:

Canary seed, per lb	0 06½
Hemp	0 05
Cottam's	0 08
Brock's	0 07½

EVAPORATED APPLES.

Evaporated apples continue dull and featureless, last week's quotations of 5 1-2c still ruling. There is little export demand for dried apples as yet and 3c is considered merely a nominal price.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

Some local merchants report receiving fair supplies of new laid eggs, while others claim these is nothing on the market except pickled or stale stock. The general impression is that a few new laid are arriving, but that private buyers are grabbing the arrivals and paying such fabulous prices that the general trade are not interested in their sky-high quotations. Prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

Eggs, held fresh	0 21 0 22
Cold storage fresh	0 20 0 21

HONEY.

Conditions of trade in this article remain the same and will in all probability continue so for some time. Our quotations are as follows:

BEANS.

Prices have advanced owing to the increase in the export demand. Latest reports state that this year's crop is smaller than was at first anticipated, and the dealers are afraid that the prices will advance further. We quote the following:

SEEDS.

Business in seeds is quiet, with foreign demand nominal. Present conditions are not expected to continue long, a general brightening up of the trade being expected about January 15, when there will probably be a better inquiry from the local jobbing trade, and the foreign demand will improve. Prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 50	6 00
Red clover	5 00	6 75
Mammoth clover, per bush	5 00	6 75
Timothy	1 00	1 35

Green Fruits.

Some houses report free arrivals of assortment orders, while others report trade very dull. The chief demand at present is for navel oranges which are arriving in good quality and free from frost. The season for Florida oranges is practically over. Those arriving show an advance of from 50c to 75c per box.

An advance in Florida grapefruit is expected. The recent slump was caused by a report circulated among the growers to the effect that extremely cold weather would shortly set in, thereby causing growers to market all their stock which leaves the market bare at the present moment.

Supplies of Almeria grapes are limited. The outlook is for an advance in the price of first-class stock. Mexican oranges are slow in arriving, no anxiety, however, is caused as the demand is weak. Bananas, owing to the strong demand in the United States, are not arriving freely, those that have arrived, however, are of excellent quality and free from frost.

The cranberry market is strong, stocks are in a few hands, and holders are inclined to keep their stock in storage, waiting an advance in prices. An increase in the supply of new Messina lemons has caused the outside price to decline 25c per box. Some dealers have large consignments of figs in stock and the prospects are for a decline in price. In addition to our list we have kiln dried sweet potatoes quoted at from $1.90 to $2 per bushel crate. Our quotations are:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

At present the supply of Manitoba wheat is scarce and the strong demand has forced prices to advance 1c per bushel on No. 1, 1 1-2c on No. 2, and 1-2c per bushel on No. 3. The outlook is vague. If farmers should overstock the market as has occurred before prices may take a slump. Should they continue to hold their grain as they have done during the last ten days, prices may advance further. Red and white wheat continues scarce and prices have advanced 2c per bushel. Oats have advanced 1-2c per bushel, while buckwheat has declined from 1c to 1 1-2c per bushel. Other prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

THE GROCERY STORE INTERIOR.

WHILE much attention is paid to artistic window dressing by the up-to-date grocer and while there are perhaps few more important features that characterize modern live business methods, it is too common a fault that the same practical interest is not shown in the matter of equally artistic interior displays.

It is true that the proper display of such goods as are easily affected by dust, dirt and insects, has always presented difficulties to the merchant alive to the importance of cleanliness in every department of his store, any attempt at such display invariably resulting in accumulations of dust and dirt with the accompanying loss of profits from waste and from the petty peculations of the ever-present taster.

Neatness and cleanness in interior display are magnets which often attract and hold the customer quite as effectually as good goods and low prices.

Economy of store space while displaying goods effectively and yet in such a way as to admit of quick handling is another problem with which the merchant has to deal and in the solution of which much time and money are often fruitlessly expended.

Recent invention, however, has gone a long way towards the removal of these difficulties, if, indeed, it has not altogether removed them.

In the United States during the past few years progressive merchants have eagerly welcomed the Walker Patent Pivoted Bin and to-day many of the largest stores in the country are equipped throughout with these fixtures.

The accompanying cut gives an idea of a few of the ways in which Walker Bins may be utilized.

The bin itself is so constructed that it is equally counterbalanced, the weight of the goods keeping it closed and air-tight and when swung open it remains in a stationary position, making the goods easy of access. The display in the front is kept in place by two metal slides which hold the goods displayed in a permanent position and give the bin the appearance of being full at all times no matter how little it may contain. They are manufactured to accommodate every class of bulk goods and of any capacity that may be required and with the facility they afford for attractive display they combine the other all important feature cleanliness.

These modern fixtures are adapted for use in every department of the grocery store and are manufactured as counters in any desired length with or without front display, containing in the rear shelves or wood paneled bins as required. A commendable feature of these bin-equipped counters is that they may be obtained on the sectional bookcase plan, thus meeting the requirements of the smaller merchant who may make such additions as may be found necessary from time to time.

In the design of these fixtures, the importance of utilizing every available inch of floor space has not been overlooked. This space-saving feature is particularly noted in a wall case—a combination of bins and shelves—which is designed to replace the old style cumbersome back counter combinations.

That such practical devices should meet with ready approval of the progressive merchant is not surprising and it would seem that, with their advent, many, if not all, of the difficulties which attend the perfecting of grocery store interiors would disappear.

Brampton, Not Brantford.

In the advertisement of the Walker Pivoted Bin and Store Fixture Co., in last week's Grocer, the factory was stated to be at Brantford. This was an error—Brampton, Ont., being the place of manufacture.

MEAT AND BUTTER PRESERVATIVES.

Mr. Shepperdson, one of the principals of Keeps, Limited, manufacturers of "Diamond Brand Preservatives and Coloring," London, England, has just visited this country, and appointed W. H. Millman & Sons, Toronto, their sole wholesale agents for Western Ontario. This firm will be in a position in the course of a few weeks to supply meat and butter preservatives to the wholesale trade.

The reputation of this firm's goods, together with the fact that at the recent Dairy Show in England prizes for butter in the three commercial classes were secured by butter in which Keeps' Preservative had been used, will be sufficient justification to warrant large packers and creameries in giving it a fair trial. Over 90 per cent. of the creameries in Ireland are using this product in large quantities.

DEATH OF MR. C. A. CORRIGAN.

Mr. Charles Albert Corrigan, son of the late Mr. Joseph Corrigan, died at his residence, 103 Durocher street, Montreal, on Sunday afternoon, January 1, after an illness of four months. He was one of the best known travelers in the grocery trade in Montreal. He was city traveler for D. R. Rennoldson's wholesale grocery house, with which he had been connected for seventeen years. He was a member of the Thistle Curling Club, and a past master of Antiquity Lodge A. F. & A. M. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss. The funeral took place Wednesday, January 4, at 2.30 from 103 Durocher street, and at 3 o'clock from the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and was largely attended. There was a special delegation from the D.C.T.A.

NOVEL SOAP FOUNTAIN.

ONE of the most novel attractions at the St. Louis Exposition, just brought to a successful close, was that of the N. K. Fairbank Co., in the from of a soap fountain.

The fountain itself, a picture of which is reproduced in this week's issue of The Canadian Grocer, was about twenty-five feet high, surmounted by a statue of a fairy. Millions of soap bubbles poured out from the top basin, over the sides and into a large and lower basin which in turn filled and overflowed, the bubbles being carried off at the bottom.

The effect was much more brilliant than a water fountain, as each of the tiny bubbles reflected all colors of the rainbow. To add to the brilliancy, electric lights were concealed in the lower parts of the two basins, and these threw beams of light of all colors up through the bubbles, producing an electric fountain, the effect of which was magnified by every one of the globes of water. A combination of mirrors was set in the skylight to reflect light upon the fountain.

Soap Fountain of the N. K. Fairbanks Co., in Palace of Liberal Arts, St. Louis Exposition.

The bubbles were produced by specially built machines which agitated the soap in clear water and under pressure forced it up to the top of the fountain and out into the highest basin. The bubbles were so mixed that they had considerable stability, and as they overflowed the basins large particles of suds broke off and fell like snow to the receptacle beneath.

The N. K. Fairbank Co. were awarded the grand prize for their Gold Dust Washing Powder, Fairy Soap, Glycerine-tar Soap, Scouring Soap, Santa Claus and Clairette Laundry Soaps, for their cottolene exhibit in the Palace of Agriculture and their Boar's Head brand of lard compound cottolene was also honored with a grand prize for the cakes, delicacies, etc., prepared with it and served in the model kitchen.

THE LATE THOMAS LAMB.

LAST week occurred in Montreal the death of the well known grocer, Thomas Lamb. Mr. Lamb, who was in his seventy-first year, was a son of the late Mr. James Lamb, who, with his wife emigrated to Canada from the north of Ireland, in the early twenties. In 1883 the late Mr. James Lamb established the present bakery and grocery firm at the corner of Panet and Notre Dame streets, which has been carried on uninterruptedly ever since, first by the father and then by the late Thomas Lamb, his son.

The late Mr. Lamb is survived by his wife and two sons, as well as two brothers, George and Benjamin Lamb, and two sisters, Mrs. Jas. F. Candlish and Mrs. McLea.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon, December 30, from St. Luke's Church. The service was conducted by Bishop Carmichael, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Rexford and the Rev. W. W. Craig, pastor of the church.

The chief mourners were Messrs. T. E. Lamb, and H. B. Lamb, sons; George Lamb and Benjamin Lamb, brothers; B. Shortley, Peterborough, nephew; O. B. Shortley, of Ottawa, and John Shortley, of St. Luke's, brothers-in-law of the deceased.

Among those present were Messrs. J. Johnson, Francis Mitchell, William Hooper, Thomas Richardson, John Neil, Stanley Stone, Joseph Eaveley, William Gallagher, I. G. Ogden, Edward Nash, C. H. Wrav. E. G. Wray, Albert Lenny, C. Millar, B. A. York, C. Culley, Albert Shortley, P. J. Beard, Robert F. Candlish, Harry Candlish, J. T. Candlish, William Candlish.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. H. A. Hodgson has been nominated for the presidency of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association by R. M. Ballantyne.

Mr. D. W. Douglas, who for years represented E. W. Gillett & Co., of Toronto in the Eastern Townships, Que., has joined the staff of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, and will continue to cover the same ground. Mr. Douglas needs no introduction to the trade. He intends calling upon his new customers during first week of January.

Mr. W. C. Shaw of the firm of Arthur May & Co., has been proposed for membership on the Montreal Board of Trade by Norman Wight; W. H. Schmidt, with E. A. Schmidt, has been proposed by H. D. Metcalfe; and F. H. Carlin, of the Montreal Stock Yards Co., by Donald Munro.

Mr. G. H. Johnston, general merchant, Sutton West, was a caller at the Toronto offices of The Canadian Grocer during the week.

Mr. W. H. Millman left yesterday for Winnipeg and will be at the Clarendon Hotel there for a week. Any commissions for him in Winnipeg will be promptly attended to.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

The well-known "Bee" brand of starch, soda, borax, etc., are being handled in Ontario by The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto.

Chaput, Fils & Cie, Montreal, have an announcement this week regarding some excellent teas which they have been able to bu- at the lowest possible price, and they are anxious to give their customers the benefit of this opportunity. This applies to all kinds of teas, and they will be pleased to send samples.

Dawson Bros. Commission Co., Toronto, are expecting two cars of navel oranges.

McWilliam & Everist, Toronto, have received two cars of navel oranges and are expecting one each of bananas and new Messina lemons.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, Dec. 29, 1904.

CHRISTMAS holiday trade being over has left matters rather quiet in retail as well as wholesale grocery lines. All in all, the season's trade averages up with past years, but does not show the increase which might reasonably have been expected. Very unfavorable weather has, perhaps, been one of the greatest drawbacks to the brisk buying which the retail grocer has a right to look for in the last fortnight previous to Christmas. As it was, the last three or four days were alternately stormy and fair, and previous to that very dull and rainy.

Many of the jobbers are utilizing the week between Christmas and the New Year to get stock taking well along, so as to start fair in the beginning of the year.

Markets show quiet conditions in nearly all lines. The produce market has been rather bare of good butter, as this is the season of smallest production of local fresh. A car of choice eastern creamery is being distributed this week at 25cts to the trade.

Fresh local eggs which have ruled so high that the consumer was lucky to get them at 5c each, are down at least 15c per doz., some having been secured at 35c this week.

In potatoes it is remarkable how few of the famous Ashcrofts are offering. In fact it is a seeking market rather than offering, and as high as $30 wholesale has been offered. The range of prices may be said to run from $20 to $30 per ton.

Fresh receipts of southern pines are in stock ex Aorangi, the Canadian-Australian steamer. They are jobbing at $4.50. The little Japanese oranges have been cleaned up on the market temporarily by the heavy Christmas demand. Hundreds of boxes are bought and sent east by express to friends who have not made the acquaintance of the little orange. The next Empress is not due for several days yet, so the market will remain bare until then. It is not often that more than one or two shipments arrive after the New Year, the season for this fruit being very short. While the Jap is in the market the California orange is in very poor demand. The fact that the Japs are packed in small boxes of convenient size and cheap enough to buy without breaking bulk gives them a very heavy sale.

In groceries the market is almost entirely devoid of features this week. The movement of canned goods is light at this season, and other staples have shown no changes. The B.C. Sugar Refinery has closed down for six weeks for the annual overhauling.

Some slight changes in cured meats are noted this week, choice brands of imported bacon being quoted down a half cent per lb.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. A. H. Brittain, of A. H. Brittain & Co., Montreal, representing Black Bros. & Co., Halifax, is spending the holiday week in Halifax.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, January 5th, 1905.

WHOLESALE trade has been very quiet during the last week and it will be some days before trade emerges from the usual stagnation of the holiday season. Retailers never had a better Christmas trade, and the effect is already being seen in the improvement in collections which are still, however, not quite so prompt as might be wished. As before, interest centres on the sugar market, which continues to advance higner every week. Competition is keener west of Portage la Prairie than it is in Winnipeg, for it is in that part of the country that the Montreal sugars and those of the B. C. Refinery meet on disputed territory. The advances in Winnipeg have not always been followed promptly by advances in this territory, but prices are now pretty much on an equality. The situation has been particularly interesting since the Canada Sugar Refinery commenced carrying a stock in Brandon.

Sugar.

Prices continue to soar, and apparently the end is not yet. We quote:—

Canned Goods.

The canned goods market shows seasonable activity, but there is nothing new in the situation. Tomatoes are still sold at $3.00, although an advance to $3.25 is predicted in some quarters. We quote:—

Syrups and Molasses.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

To our large resume of the situation, which appeared in last issue, there is nothing of importance to add. Californian dried fruits undoubtedly occupy a strong statistical position, and advances seem inevitable before the Winter is over. We quote:—

A GROWING FIRM.

Lind, Kerrigan & Co., wholesale grocers, London, are to be congratulated on the success they have achieved during the comparatively short period they have been in the wholesale grocery trade. So rapid has been the growth of their business that their present premises are quite inadequate to the demands that are being made on the firm, and they will shortly begin the erection of a fine new warehouse that will enable them to practically double their turn-over.

Songs were sung by W. C. Gaden, E. Q. Cooke, S. Hustwitt, L. Armstrong. A musical duet was sung by L. Armstrong and V. d'Olloqui, George Ramsay gave a clog dance, and selections were given by a quartette composed of W. C. Gaden, E. Q. Cooke, Louis Armstrong and V. d'Olloqui. A pleasant feature of the entertainment was the presentation of a handsome smokers' set to W. R. Miles by the travelers districts corn is used to a considerable extent. The use of corn, however, is looked upon with disfavor by the packer, and I understand that less corn is fed at the present time than was fed a few years ago. It is quite probable that the breeding of the hogs has something to do with the amount of lean meat, and the breeding combined with the feeding of skim-milk probably constitute the answer to the second question. It is a noticeable fact, however, that the market hogs are allowed very little exercise. In fact, about the only hogs that are allowed any exercise worth speaking of are the breeding sows, which are given the run of small lots. Land is too valuable to allow of pasturing, and a hurried trip through the country might give one the impression that there was not a hog in it.

The event also marked Mr. Estabrooks' birthday, and in honor of the occasion Mr. White presented to the host, on behalf of the staff, a large and beautiful birthday cake.

The staff employed by Mr. Estabrooks presented him with an excellent Christmas present, in the form of a French china dinner set.

The question regarding the possible increase in the output of Danish bacon is one of which does not admit of a definite answer. One can judge merely by what he sees, and by certain indications in connection with this industry in Denmark. One thing which is very suggestive is the fact that there are a number of factories in Denmark at the present time which have been forced to close their doors, and others are running at a loss, not being able to obtain enough hogs to make their operations profitable. At the time of my visit, the farmers were receiving about six and a half cents per pound live weight for their hogs, and they were complaining very bitterly that the price was too low to admit of profit to the feeder. When the price declines to the neighborhood of six cents, the tendency is for the farmers to curtail their operations in feeding hogs, and the best authorities I could find, estimated the cost of producing bacon in Denmark to be six cents per pound live weight. Taking this fact in connection with the insufficiency of hogs to support all the factories, we would naturally infer that it is not likely that the Danes will expand their output to any great extent. As stated before, there is a relation between the amount of skim-milk produced upon a farm and the number of hogs fattened. This fact tends to act as a check upon the expansion of the business of producing bacon hogs; and, as soon as the price declines, feeding operations are naturally curtailed, as previously stated. If it were not for the fact that Expenses vs. Investments.

Some lines are in the way of a continual expense. You probably have in your store at the present time a dozen or more lines that have never been a success; to be short, they are "stickers." You have from time to time pushed sales of these goods. The customer takes the purchase home; sometimes keeps it; often returns it, asking for some other brand of the line that is well known to them. It stays on the shelves, decreasing in value steadily and taking up valuable room, a continual expense; while were it an article that was a product of a firm whose goods are generally known and liked, a "repeater," selling readily at a good profit, it would be a gilt-edge investment giving a big interest.

We show two lines that are satisfactory investments, they move easily and show a good margin of profit.

Danish bacon sells for a higher price on the English market than our product, we would certainly be able to drive them out of the field. As it is, we have a very great advantage in being able to feed hogs very much cheaper than they can and, therefore, we can undersell them on the British market and make a very fair profit. At the same time, there is great need of our watching very carefully the quality of our bacon, because it is much easier to lose a reputation than to gain one.

From what has been said in the previous paragraph, it will be seen that we have a good fighting chance on the British market, provided we do not lose sight of the question of quality. Though it is true that the British commission merchants entertain a friendly sentiment towards Canadians, yet sentiment will not serve as a substitute for quality in the goods we send forward. When it comes to a matter of catering to the tastes of the public, sentiment is a very small factor in the enterprise. If the goods are not right, the consumer will look elsewhere, and, though he is ever so willing to purchase Canadian goods, he will not do so unless they are what he requires. We can undersell the Danes on the British market; but, at the same time, if we would only produce an article of equal merit, we would be able to obtain as high a price as they obtain at the present time, and this would mean a very large additional profit to us. Those who wilfully close their eyes to the importance of producing hogs of the right type and quality, are acting as a severe handicap upon our trade in Great Britain. They fail to see that, in the long run, they are the losers. There has been, it is true, a marked improvement in the quality of our bacon during the last few years; but much remains to be done before our product, on the whole, equals that of Denmark, and whether we hold our own in the British market depends for the greater part upon the farmers of this country. I believe that if we make up our minds to produce bacon equal to that of any other country, we can do so, and it remains to be seen whether the farmers of this country will rise equal to the occasion or not. An increase in the value of our bacon of 3 to 4 shillings per hundred weight would mean a very substantial profit to our farmers. It is quite possible for us to secure this additional price if we make up our minds to that effect, and it seems strange that so many farmers cannot look at this side of the question.

GREEN FRUITS

A Prosperous Fruit Business.

IN the course of an interview this week with H. W. Thorpe, manager of McWilliam & Everist, wholesale fruit and commission merchants, Toronto, a representative of The Canadian Grocer learns that the holiday fruit trade this year has been nothing short of phenomenal. City trade was never better, while judging from the very large volume of country business transacted one is forced to the conclusion that the farming community of Ontario is enjoying better times. The percentage of fancy trade in fruit is growing every year; on the other hand the aggregate of commoner grade fruit (particularly foreign fruit) is steadily decreasing. In no line perhaps is this more accentuated than in oranges, fancy California navels having become the most striking feature of the fruit market.

McWilliam & Everist enjoy the distinction of being in the very front rank of wholesale domestic fruit and commission firms in Canada. The business dates back to 1876, when the late G. McWilliam started in the wholesale fruit business on Francis street, Toronto, opposite the present market. In 1878 Mr. McWilliam admitted to partnership F. Everist, and in 1883, owing to the increased demands of business, the firm moved to 25 Church street, further enlarging their premises in 1888 to include 27 Church street.

The history of McWilliam & Everist business has been one of steady development until at the present time this firm is known far and wide throughout the Dominion. Its export trade in apples which has become an important item in Canadian trade, is a matter of 50,000 to 100,000 barrels yearly. In connection with the export apple trade Mr. Thorpe says the tendency at the present time is to divert trade to various centres of population in the United Kingdom from the seaport towns.

McWilliam & Everist have also a very large trade in foreign fruits, incidentally they have adopted the plan of having private brands of fruits, their "Rose Brand" California navel orange being well known as a leader throughout the fruit trade.

The domestic trade of McWilliam & Everist is confined principally to Ontario, although they regularly ship large quantities of apples, onions, etc., to distant points in Western and Eastern Canada. Their warehouses are commodious and up-to-date in every respect and compare favorably with anything of the kind in the Dominion. They have an office staff of seven, their warehousemen, etc., numbering thirty-one.

Notwithstanding the death of Mr. McWilliam, which occurred about five weeks ago, the business of McWilliam & Everist will be carried on under the old firm name.

Ontario Fruit Growers Win.

The Ontario Fruit Growers' division has been awarded the Knight medal for the exhibit of Canadian apples made at the first exhibition of the Royal Horticultural Society in London, Eng., on December 14 and 15. The display was made under the auspices of the fruit division of the Department of Agriculture, who also secured six diplomas for an exhibit of 20 boxes of fruit from Windsor, N.S.

The Coreless Apple.

THIS, the greatest discovery in modern horticulture, says L. Morgan, in the current issue of the Nineteenth Century and After, bids fair to revolutionize the apple growing industries of the world.

The new apple, which is both coreless and seedless, was introduced by an old fruit-raiser. For twelve years he experimented to obtain the fruit. As the result of seeking to secure the seedless apple, a blossomless tree has been developed. It bears a stamen and a very small quantity of pollen. The importance of such developments is apparent. The cold spells do not affect the fruit.

The tree is described as blossomless, the only thing resembling a blossom being a small cluster of tiny green leaves, which grow around the newly-formed apple, and shelter it. Being devoid of blossom, it is claimed that the fruit offers no effective hiding-place in which the codlin moth may lay its eggs, which it usually does in the open eye of the fruit. The devastations of the codlin moth are so extensive that in the aggregate they cause losses in Great Britain, the Continent and North America exceeding $25,000,000 a year.

The color of the new apple is red, dotted with yellow on the skin. As with the seedless orange, so with the seedless apple, a slightly hardened substance makes its appearance at the navel end. But this can be obliterated by culture. The originator of the coreless apple states that the further "we get away from the original five trees the larger and better the fruits become in every way." Whether the seedless apple is actually seed-proof time alone can prove. As the result of tests, it has been found absolutely impossible for the coreless apple trees to bear fruits that have seeds in them, that is, of their own accord. Still, when grown in the vicinity of the ordinary apple trees, with their branches interlocked with each other, a small percentage of the coreless trees have sometimes produced two or three seeds, though they are just as apt to be found near the skin of the fruit as in the centre of it. A seed has been found within one-eighth of an inch of the rind, right away from the core or the core lines. These fortuitous seeds owe their origin to the transference of the pollen from the blossoms of the seedy apple trees to the stigma of the coreless apple tree. Whether carried by the wind or bees, when the pollen is deposited in this way there is the possibility that a few seeds may here and there result, but it cannot be said that necessarily the seed or seeds will be about the tube or even near it.

The appearance of one single variety of seedless apple cannot seriously affect the skilled commercial apple growers of the world. If the introducers of the new fruit can develop seedless varieties of the various leading apples in commerce—and they claim that they can do so—then the coming of the coreless apple may in due course reorganize the industry.

Apple culture is more important even than orange culture. In Canada and the United States there are about 220,000,000 apple trees in bearing, from which, approximately 275,000,000 bushels of fruit are annually harvested. In ten years these trees will give a yield of 450,000,000 bushels. At the present time the apple consumption of Canada and the United States is 80 lbs. per head of the population per year. Billions of apple trees are grown in the orchards of the world, and millions of them are still being planted each year. The apple imports of Great Britain alone range between 4,500,000 cwt. and 5,000,000 cwt. There are probably as many apple trees in Great Britain as in Canada.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

FREIGHTS are much better generally speaking than they have been, and January and February bookings are better in quantity and price. Large quantities of grain are going forward and during the week considerable shipments have been noted to Cape Town including lumber in large quantities, also machinery, metal sheeting, desks, scales, peas, flour, and cattle. The rates to Cape Town remain about the same and the demand for space is improving continually. In the Port Elizabeth cargo was noticed a considerable consignment of flour both from the Lake of the Woods firm have offices, etc., in Cape Town and they buy and sell on commission. If a man wants anything in Canada or United States he simply asks Peabodys. The question has been asked why it is that Canadians do not have commission houses there. Why should the big American firms beat Canadian firms in supplying a sister colony?

Armour & Co. sell their canned meat to South Africa because they went out after the trade and got it. They sell good stuff and know how to get trade.

Immense quantities of provisions have been shipped to British ports, chiefly even though they sail from Portland they stimulate a lot of freight through Canadian railways. Things are certainly looking better all around.

To Durban it was also noticed that the E. N. Heney Co., of Montreal, shipped two cases of carriages and accessories. The same company had a cargo of a similar nature for East London.

What is very noticeable in the shipments to Cape Town, and in fact to all the South African ports is the prominence of that well-known firm of commission agents, Peabody & Co. This Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Bristol. But three steamers sailed from Portland and one from St. John. The Parisian carried over 14,000 bushels of wheat for Liverpool; 1,066 packages of canned meats, 1,028 packages meat, 500 packages of lard, and 330 cases of bacon. Altogether freight shipments from St. John during the holidays have been quite remarkable.

SS. Etolia sailed Christmas day for South Africa and her cargo was very much better than was expected early in that month.

To Grind Canadian Wheat in U. S.

IT is officially announced from Washington that the decision of Attorney-General Moody to refund the duty on Canadian wheat imported into the United States for export has been confirmed by the Cabinet, and this in spite of the most vigorous protests from northwestern farmers across the border who fear that open competition with Canada will lower the price of wheat in the United States.

The demand for millable wheat across the line has become such that wheat prices there are higher than in Canada, so much so that this year saw an epidemic of wheat smuggling across the line by Canadian farmers to secure the higher prices.

Despite the heavy duty imposed on imported wheat of 25 per cent., American millers imported large consignments of wheat from the Canadian West this year, Duluth and Minneapolis taking several hundred thousand bushels, while some went to Chicago. It was pronounced of excellent quality, and greatly pleased the millers, who, fully aware of the value of continued importation pressed the drawback question. They first agitated for the drawback under a clause of the tariff allowing a rebate on imported materials, provided that the finished article for export in proportion to the imported raw material is ascertainable. This, of course, is impossible with such a commodity as flour, and was the knotty problem which has just been solved so satisfactorily to Canada.

The Grain Situation.

A FEATURE of the week in grain circles is the firm position of Manitoba wheat, due in part to the decision of the U. S. authorities to allow a rebate on dutiable wheat imported from Canada by U. S. millers for export purposes. Controlling interests have taken advantage of the new regulation to bull the market. The opinion of the trade generally is that prices in Canada will be higher, at least for a time. It remains to be seen, however, whether the higher level will be other than temporary. Meanwhile, manipulators are using the cry of a "new market for Canadian wheat" for what it is worth. Stronger markets in Liverpool and Chicago are also responsible for the advance in Canadian wheat. The market generally is not at all active, and the movement outside is light.

Statistician Jones estimated the amount of wheat left in farmers' hands in the Canadian Northwest at 35 per cent., a sensationally small estimate. This sentiment is offset by a prospective large increase in the visible supply at Port Arthur and Fort William.

The visible supply of grain in Canada and the United States on Jan. 3, 1905, was distributed as follows: wheat, 40,619,000 bush., an increase of 901,000 bush. for the week; corn, 9,507,000 bush., an increase for the week of 2,369,000 bush.; oats, 23,032,000 bush., a falling off for the week of 840,000 bush.

The total amount of wheat in sight on the above date, consisting of the visible supply and the quantity on passage, was 72,299,000 bushels, against 72,998,000 last week, 59,725,000 last year, and 71,821,000 in 1903. The total amount of corn in sight was 24,457,000 bushels, against 22,088,000 last week, 16,023.000 this week last year, and 15,144,000 in 1903.

The world's wheat shipments for the week ending Jan. 2, 1905, were as follows: United States and Canada, 981,000 bush., as compared with 2,915,000 bush. for the corresponding date of 1904 and 3,336,000 bush. for 1903; Argentina, 408,000 bush., as compared with 64,000 bush. in 1904; Australia, 408,000 bush.; Danube, 240,000 bush.; India, 2,696,000 bush., as compared with 528,000 bush. in 1904; Russia, 2,224,000 bush., in comparison with 2,072,000 bush. in 1904. It is interesting to note the falling off in grain shipments from America during the last two years, as well as the marked increase in shipments from India. It looks as if the United States had fallen from a premier place as a wheat exporter, and that European shortages were supplied by India, Argentina and Russia.

The great changes of late years in the sources of supply are strikingly shown in the following record of the imports into the United Kingdom in the three months ended October 31 in the past three years:

U. S., Atlantic, and Canada	951,900	3,117,920	4,571,240
United States, Pacific	148,540	104,230	754,310
Russia	1,547,160	1,055,540	487,740
India	1,931,180	1,618,950	707,330
Argentina	1,172,500	973,960	92,520
Roumania	67,640	391,560	245,450
Australia	1,232,830	Nil	84,310
Sundries	423,440	324,690	182,900
Total quarters of 8 bushels	7,475,190	7,586,850	7,125,800

For the first time on record the Indian empire is the leading source of the United Kingdom's wheat supply. Russia coming next, and Australasia third in the list. America and Canada, it will be seen, are responsible for only 15 per cent. of its total supply, as compared with 41 per cent. last year and 75 per cent. in 1902.

Increased Acreage in Northwest.

The open weather of the autumn has allowed farm operations to be carried on late, and it is estimated in the West that 500,000 additional acres have been brought under cultivation, bringing the total cultivated area up to five million acres.

Cereal Notes.

P. Hamm, formerly of St. John, N.B., is about to erect a large biscuit factory in Moncton.

The Union Grain Co., Winnipeg, with capital stock of $50,000, is applying for a charter to carry on a grain, produce and general mercantile business.

The estimated wheat yield in South Australia this year is 14,575,000 bush., an increase of 1,360,000 bush., as compared with last year.

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

How to Sell Cigars.

HARDLY had The Canadian Grocer's last issue for the year 1904 reached a sharp Montreal retailer before he remarked, "So you wish to tell people how to keep cigars. Why not tell them how to sell cigars?"

Ask yourself if you are a retailer or a wholesaler, how you manage to sell so many or so few cigars in the course of a year. A certain retailer in mind sells no less than 15,000 cigars of a particular five cent brand per month, while his average for the year is something surprising. In the first place his "fiver" is of unprecedented value. It is nicely made by hand; it is a genuine Havana cigar. It has neither pin-pricks or ribbon or any trade mark to stamp it by except its peculiar quality.

After all that is where the trick comes in. Nearly every dealer thinks his cigar is just as good as his neighbor's, and maybe it is. When a man asks for Sweet Caporals the successful tobacconist does not suggest something else just like them or just as good. He opens the packet, pulls aside the tin foil, neatly raises one from the pack and hands it to the already delighted customer. But he is not done yet. No sooner has the customer placed the cigarette in his mouth than the special lighter is handed to him or held while he lights his smoke.

The same thing holds good of a cigar. When a man asks for a "Pharoah" or a packet of "Royal Egyptians" a dealer should give them directly. He ought never to be caught out of any line, once it is asked for. If only once a year a man comes in and asks for a plug of some peculiar kind of tobacco stock it, because that man may have friends who smoke cigars and other brands of tobacco.

The peculiar faculty of making a probable customer feel at home is a most important duty. A dealer or clerk ought never to consider it a trouble to show goods. It is a good scheme to ask a customer when showing him a box of cigars whether that is the right color. If he says too light or too dark, the exact color must be looked up.

Another point for the retailer to remember is to have as little as possible loud talk about his store; high-class trade will fight shy of such a place every time. A down-town stand might have a reading room attached, well-stocked with magazines and up-to-date papers including the New York dailies.

The retailer ought always to be on the lookout for new ideas. He ought never offend anyone if he can help it. If it is a rainy day and a customer asks him if he has a spare umbrella, he should say "yes," even if he has to give him the barber's next door. He'll think more of that kindness than he would of a hundred dollar present. If a child calls for some cigars and is sent by some one whom the retailer knows has not been a customer a dealer ought always to pick out the best he has, to wrap them up carefully, and be prompt in all delivery.

Tobacco Trade in the Grocery Store.

PRACTICALLY every grocer in the country sells tobacco; few, however, give the tobacco trade the care and attention it deserves. It goes without saying that most men are as particular over tobacco as women are over tea, in view of which fact it pays the grocer to give them equal care in selection and arrangement. In most small country stores a various assortment of pipes, cigars and tobacco is kept, but in many instances this branch of trade is utterly neglected.

Is your tobacco trade flourishing? If not, take a turn around and find out the reason. A nice show may be made with a very small stock of useful shaped pipes, cut tobacco in tins, plug tobacco in jars, and cigars, cigarettes, etc. Any grocer who uses his eyes will soon learn what styles of pipes are most favored in his district, and though a big stock is not necessary, a good assortment is. In tobacco, find out what lines will suit your customers' tastes, and buy sparingly.

Plug tobacco should always be kept in jars or caddies. The promiscuous heaps amongst which assistants have to search before finding the required brand are not likely to help trade. Each brand of tobacco should have its own special receptacle and be plainly marked, and, especially during Summer, it will be found advisable to remove all tobacco stocks to a cool place every night. At all events see that it is properly covered before the shop is dusted.

The cigar trade can quickly be fostered by judicious buying. Find out a good flavored cigar, and recommend it to your customers. Stock only in small quantities, but make a point of always keeping one particular flavor. By this means you should soon find a regular demand for your own particular cigar. —Indianapolis Trade Journal

COMMERCIAL TRAVELER'S ADVICE.

THE following appreciation of a recent contribution by a commercial traveler entitled "Suggestions to the Trade," has been received by The Canadian Grocer:

Editor Canadian Grocer:—

In your issue of Dec. 23, you have an article written by "Commercial Traveler," which, I think, is worthy of a good deal of consideration. I am glad some one has brought this matter up, since there has been, as he says, a lot of discreditable work done in this way during the past autumn, especially in the lines he mentions, raisins, nuts and peels. It is too bad to think that any traveler has to resort to this means of getting trade (if it is the traveler, and if it is the house it does not speak well of them to say the least). If these goods were sold as new goods at attractive prices, why were not a great many more sold? or, if the traveler was aware they were old goods, I think he was taking great chances on the consequences when "his friend," the retailer should discover "his friend" the traveler had played him sharp. It is just this kind of thing that shakes a retailer's confidence in travelers who are honest, and I trust any offenders will see that they are standing in their own way in doing these things.

(Signed) "Another Traveler."

INDIAN AND CEYLON TEA IN AMERICA.

THE North American market has become a very important one for Indian and Ceylon tea, rather over 23,000,000 lbs. having been taken in the first nine months of 1904, an advance of nearly three millions on the corresponding period of 1903. The figures are as follows (for 1904): Indian, 8,609,491 lbs.; Ceylon, 14,660,851 lbs.; total, 23,270,342 lbs.; (for 1903), Indian, 5,236,640 lbs.; Ceylon, 15,215,860 lbs.; total, 20,452,500 lbs. The totals for 1902 and 1901 were 17,710,873 lbs. and 12,382,755 lbs. respectively. The increase was almost entirely made up of Indian teas, the falling off in Ceylon being accounted for by the smaller production of green tea, owing to the lower prices ruling.

we commenced making the best Baking Powder in Canada and in spite of all the competition and substitution our trade has been growing ever since. We've never got past the notion that two and two continue to make four, and every package of

is true to its old-time reputation. We don't try to skimp on the quality in order to make a larger profit, and grocers who want to be sure of their trade can afford to recommend "Cook's Friend." Order through your jobber or send direct to Increase Their Faith!

"Price", is an argument for trade but "quality" goes far ahead of it. Quality holds trade while price attracts for the moment only. Sell standard goods and you increase the faith your customers have in the service of your store. It pays to "increase their faith"

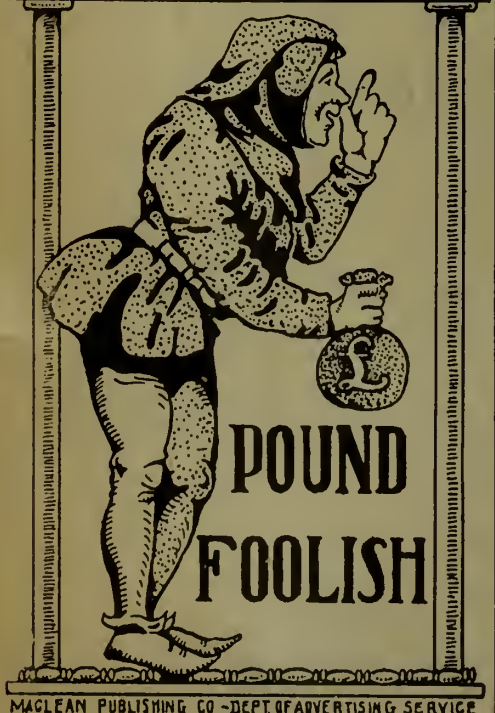
The only real value of money lies in making use of it.

The money that lies there in your safe from day to day doesn't do you any good until you commence to use it.



Then its value to you depends on how you use it.

Now, if you would only invest some of it in advertising space in THE GROCER and then use the space right you'd have a valuable assistant, working to increase your trade with grocers and to make yourself and your goods better known among them.

Some folks would sooner save (?) the money—but they are "penny wise and pound foolish."

But you're not.

Modern Merchandising

demands modern methods. The ALLISON COUPON BOOK is a strictly modern CONVENIENCE and SAFEGUARD against mistakes and consequent loss of money. It is better than any pass-book, punch or check system ever invented, and its absolute accuracy makes it the CHEAPEST SYSTEM on this big earth—excepting, of course, the cash system. See here:

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING. There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? The Importers, Montreal

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce and the Anti-Dumping Regulations

Specially written for The Canadian Grocer

LOOKING at the matter, as one of their number said, as far as possible from a Canadian point of view, the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce have approved unanimously the report of their Tariff Committee upon the new Canadian Customs regulations Recognizing that the object of the new regulations was to preserve Canadian industries from the dumping of foreign produce, and was mainly directed against the United States, which, with its high protective tariffs and enormous home consumption, could often afford to sell its surplus at prices below the cost of production, the Tariff Committee were of opinion that the new Customs regulations would present many obstacles to trade between Canada and Great Britain which would seriously affect the Canadian importer on one hand, and the British exporter on the other.

The Customs Department at Ottawa, it was observed, had already endeavored to meet some of the difficulties, and it was evident that the Canadian Government desired that the dumping clause should operate with as little inconvenience as possible. But allowing for what they had done, it would by no means prevent the grave difficulties which were to be foreseen in the administration of the law. The amount of duty would depend on the decision of an appraiser in each case, and it would, therefore, be practically impossible in many instances for a purchaser in Canada to know what the laid-down cost of the goods would be to him until that decision of the appraiser had been given. The uncertainty involved by this regulation, it was thought by the committee, would seriously hamper trade. And it would be hardly possible to avoid discrepancies in the appraisement by various officers, and at various ports, so that the dumping clause might be put into operation in one case, whilst in another goods might escape the special duty to be imposed by the Customs to equalize the difference between what was considered fair market value, and the selling price. This would operate as an unintentional discrimination in favor of one importer, or exporter, against another, and introduce a further and most regrettable complication into business relations. It might be supposed, for example, that a consignment were sold to a Canadian purchaser f.o.b Liverpool for £94, but were on appraisement valued at £100. If the duty were 30 per cent. ad valorem, £30 would have to be paid instead of £28 5s 0d, the duty on £94, making total cost to the purchaser £121, instead of £122 5s 0d. Under the dumping clause, however, the difference between the selling price and the fair market value according to the appraisement would also be added, and the purchaser would, therefore, find the landed cost of his goods increased to £130, instead of £122 5s 0d. The administration of the regulations might, therefore, have serious consequences, and particularly with regard to articles manufactured in the Birmingham district to which no ordinary market price was assignable. The Act provided that in such cases the Canadian Minister of Customs "may" determine the value for duty of such goods; but the Tariff Committee failed to see that the necessity of referring to such adjudication could act otherwise than as a grave hindrance to business transactions. The home consumption of two manufacturers of an article might easily vary by more than 5 per cent., as they were determined by several considerations, such for instance, as the brand or trade mark, design, output, extent of sales in the home market, etc. Unless the Canadian Customs officials were more completely informed of conditions in the country of production than could reasonably be expected, the manufacturer of the lower-priced article might at any moment find in Canada his market value increased for duty purposes to the level of that of the higher-priced article made by his competitor, and that increase might be sufficient to bring him within the operation of the dumping clause. Probably on appeal some remedy might be possible for mistakes of that kind, but the risk and delay would tend very seriously to impede commercial intercourse.

One of the strongest objections to the new regulations was considered to be that merchants had too often no knowledge of home consumption values, and would find it exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to certify the fair market values of the goods they shipped, without qualification That would be particularly the case with large mixed consignments of goods which might have been purchased in large or small quantities from so many as forty or fifty, or even more manufacturers. It was probable, too, that any qualification of the certificate of value might be the direct cause of an appraisement, which would increase the price by more than 5 per cent. The amount of the special duty under the dumping clause would be very serious, as it would run from 5 per cent. to at least 15 per cent. on the value of the goods, which might so increase the landed cost as to cause the importer to refuse to clear them. The dumping clause, it is further pointed out, would seriously affect Great Britain in competition with the United States in the Canadian markets. Contiguity and greater facilities of transportation gave the American shipper considerable advantage, and it was often absolutely necessary for British exporters to sacrifice some portion of their profits in order to sell their goods in the Dominion.

In order to secure amendments to meet these and other objections, it was suggested that the Colonial Secretary should be asked to communicate with the Canadian Government with a view to securing such facilities as would encourage legitimate trade between Canada and the United Kingdom. To some extent this might be done, it was thought, by increasing the permissible margin between the selling price and the fair "market value" to at least 10 per cent., and by requiring the production of certificates of value only in cases where the Customs authorities had reason to believe that goods were being dumped in the ordinary acceptance of the term

Commenting upon certain points in the Tariff Committee's report, the Birmingham Daily Post—the great commercial paper of the Midlands—says, in regard to the question of the amount of duty to be paid being dependent upon the decision of the appraiser, the Canadian buyer would never know the "land down cost" of an article. "Most people would probably say unhesitatingly, that the obvious remedy lies in painstaking and literal accuracy in making declarations, and that laxity in that direction deserves the penalty it will meet According to the Chamber of Commerce, however, that is not nearly so simple" And it will come as a surprise, says the Post, to all not actually engaged in business to learn that the export merchant often has no knowledge of the home consumption values, and would "find it exceedingly difficult, if not impossible, to certify the fair market value" of goods shipped. It seems somewhat of a strain upon credulity to be asked to believe that the British export merchant is so absorbed in other affairs as to be ignorant on such a point.

With regard to the question of transportation, the Post upholds the view of the Tariff Committee. It is a well-known fact, it continues, that in comprehensive dealings the cost of transport plays an important part, and not only in Canada, but in other markets where home exporters are in close competition with those of other nations enjoying the advantage of contiguity, it is often necessary for them to sacrifice profit to which they are legitimately entitled in order to be able to place their goods in foreign markets on equal terms. In other words, the cost of transit swallows up some part of the profit, and to make that a reason for bringing the dumping clause into operation would be to impose distinct hardship on the British merchants. "Obviously," is the conclusion, "the Canadian experiment is of absorbing interest to this country. Our manufacturers, during the last few years, have complained, as they never did before, of the disastrous effects of 'dumping,' and it may be assumed that the official policy of retaliation would include some attempt to cope with it. When and how retaliation could be most effectively used without causing injury to ourselves are the questions which have been advanced as objections by those who do not see their way to any departure from our existing fiscal system, and, that being so, it is exceptionally valuable to us to have the matter tackled and worked out experimentally. The experience of Canada ought to help us to solve some of our doubts."

TO TOUR THE WEST.

Hardware and Metal has pleasure in reproducing in this week's issue a portrait of Mr. J. S. McGuirl, of the Briggs Ledger System Co., Toronto. Mr. McGuirl, although hardly 21 years of age is successfully established in business, thanks to a liberal inheritance of Canadian enterprise, which has brought "name and fame" to so many sons of Canada in the trade and commerce of the world.

Mr. J. S. McGuirl.

He was born in Kingston, removing when quite a boy to Ottawa, where he entered the employ of the Briggs Ledger System Co., and was soon promoted to the position of traveling salesman. In June, 1903, the business offices of the firm were moved to Toronto and Mr. McGuirl became office manager.

He expects to start on an extended business trip to Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest early in the new year, calling upon the trade with a complete line of Briggs' office labor saving devices. He will make Winnipeg his headquarters, and according to his present plans, will cover his territory as far west as Calgary, Alta., in the course of eight or nine months. The Briggs Ledger System is already favorably known among business men in the west. At the same time, however, this firm is in the van with many other Canadian manufacturers in their search for some of the fruits of the growing time in that great country.

NEW BRAND WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE.

Holbrooks Limited, London, Eng., proprietors and sole manufacturers of Holbrook's Worcestershire Sauce, have decided to introduce their brand on the Canadian market. Their representative, H. Hilbert Nobbs, left England for Toronto, Jan. 5, and will open up business immediately on his arrival.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE.

An important business change has taken place in Portage la Prairie, whereby J. & E. Brown, general merchants, have re-organized as a joint stock company to be known as the Brown Co., Limited. James, Edward and Adam Brown will still have a controlling interest, but a number of present employes will be directors, among them D. Turner, W. S. Marshall, J. McKechnie, W. Purvis and Mr. Patterson. D. K. Moore will be secretary-treasurer. E. Brown will be president of the new company and J. Brown, managing director. The change has been made in order to secure the heartiest co-operation of employes whose interests will now be identical with the heads of the company.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

NEW YEAR freights are encouraging. Business booked from St John, Halifax and Portland is reported in excess of that in sight during Jan., 1904. Large quantities of through grain have passed through Montreal and Toronto, and the likelihood of an advance in rates has been announced. Charters are more numerous at St. John than they have yet been this season. An immense shipment of cheese was noted last week from St. John, the total reaching 30,000 boxes. This stock came from Montreal, and the markets and has been strengthened by the improvement in freights. On Saturday, Jan. 7, the Allan Liner "Pretorian" sailed from St. John, and on Monday, Jan. 9, left Halifax, carrying a very good general cargo for the time of the year.

The "Corinthian" is the boat loading this week at St. John, and the bookings ahead are said to be fair.

South African steamers are taking first-rate cargoes, and it is expected that the subsidies so generously given by the Government may result in the show that as a result Western Ontario cheese has advanced.

Clamoring has been heard in Ottawa regarding a retention of the old freight rates on hay to the Maritime Provinces. A delegation from Prince Edward Island has made overtures to the Ottawa authorities re the I.C.R. resuming the rates in vogue up to Dec. 31 for hay. There is every probability of the courtesy being extended.

The Dominion Line has announced the intention of putting on extra steamers from Portland early in February. This promise was made early in November, widespread development and improvement of trade between Canada and South Africa.

NEW TEA BUSINESS.

Owing to the phenomenal growth of their tea business in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Newfoundland, and the New England States, Baird & Peters, wholesale grocers, tea importers, etc., St. John, N.B., have found it necessary to institute a separate tea department. Accordingly, since Jan. 1, 1905, their tea business has been conducted under the name of The Vim Tea Co. All correspondence relating to teas exclusively should be addressed to The Vim Tea Co., St. John, N.B. Baird & Peters will continue to handle "Vim" and other teas along with their staple lines of groceries.

FOR THE LOYAL GROCER.

One of the most elaborate of this season's calendars is that issued by The Bruce Payne Co., of Granby, Que. It has a large and richly-colored panel lithograph of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Alexandra, and ought to be in the possession of every loyal British grocer. In addition to its decorative value, it serves as a very effective advertisement for "Pharaoh" and "Pebble" cigars. Members of the trade may secure this calendar provided they mention The Canadian Grocer in application.

H. D. Barry, cigar manufacturer, Quebec, has gone on a trip to Florida and Havana.

Herring Industry in Holland.

Its herring fisheries are at the present time one of the chief sources of Dutch wealth, says the London Globe. Holland possesses 600 keel bottomed and 300 flat bottomed boats occupied annually in the herring industry. The last returns give the number of barrels of herrings taken by the Dutch fishermen as 585,335, and valued them at an average price of 10 florins a barrel.

Enthusiasts declare Dutch herrings to be equally delicious, however they are cooked, preserved, or dressed. It was a Dutchman, Benkelzoon of Beirvliet, who first discovered the art of salting the fish. Tradition and history are silent as to the names of the geniuses who first hit upon the way to smoke it, or to manufacture red herrings. "Hareng braille" is made by the fishermen of Kalwyck and Woordwick, who preserve their herrings with red sand.

To Protect Pacific Fisheries.

It has been practically settled that the Canadian Government will join with the Washington authorities in an International Commission to devise measures for the protection of fisheries on the Pacific coast, in which both countries will co-operate.

As a result of State regulation the fisheries industry on the Columbia River, which twelve years ago was practically dead, has now been restored, indicating the possibilities of the extension of the Canadian industry under judicious regulations. One step towards assisting the industry has been the establishment of hatcheries, but it has now been found impossible even to get ova for these artificial propagating stations. The three hatcheries on the Fraser River have a capacity of 60,000,000 ova and less than 16,000,000 have been collected this year. For the other hatcheries only the same proportion has been secured. One of the chief causes of the decline in the industry has been the wanton destruction of the fish by Indians.

Australia a Market for Fish Oils.

The Commonwealth imported in 1903 over 500,000 gallons of fish, seal, whale and unrefined cod oils of an approximate value of £37,000. More than half of the total importations came from Japan in the form of common fish oil, which is required principally by rope manufacturers. A small quantity came from Newfoundland, and it is safe to assume that some Canadian oil was shipped at New York to Australia, and in this way not credited correctly in the customs returns. Samples of salmon oil have recently arrived in Melbourne from Vancouver, and a small trial order has gone forward which will be largely increased if the analysis proves that it contains nothing injurious to rope fibre. There is no customs duty on unrefined fish oils.

New Salmon Canneries.

Two big salmon canneries will be reected in Esquimalt, B.C., during the coming season, and three extra fish traps, making the total number of traps in operation in the Straits for 1905 seven. It is thought that the new industries will have a most stimulating effect on the commercial life of Esquimalt.

American Halibut Pirates Busy.

The piratical tendencies of a number of fishery concerns engaged in supplying northern halibut to the United States markets at Seattle have been checked for the time being through the vigilance of the Dominion Government fisheries cruiser Kestrel, and unless the raids on the Canadian halibut banks cease, a number of seizures may be looked for.

More Capital for Canners.

It is reported that the British Columbia Packers' Association has been authorized by its shareholders to increase its working capital by $500,000 to provide for the pack of 1905. The present capital of the British Columbia Packers' Association is $2,762,700.

Fish Notes.

Information has been laid against Okeda & Co., a Japanese firm of fish contractors, who are supplying the Guano factory on the Fraser River with herring taken from Nanaimo harbor. B.C. fishermen fear the depletion of the herring fisheries.

DAIRY PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

and Cold Storage News.

Cheese and Butter Situation.

ACTIVITY continues in the cheese market, and while most of the trading is confined to cable orders for average-sized quantities, some buying has been done by local exporters. While certain holders claim to have made more than 11c for white, the general basis at which finest cheese has changed hands is 11c for white and colored. Some of the merchants holding stocks are not anxious to sell, expecting a further advance in price; others are quite willing to clear out at the even figure. Trade conditions in the United Kingdom having improved, provisions have benefited, although retailers are very slow in following late advances cabled from this side.

There is a very good business being done in butter and between 21 and 22c seems to be the range at which it is put through. It is reported that fair quantities have been sold for export into the United States, which, being subject to a heavy import duty, would seem to show that butter is ruling very high with our "Usona" cousins.

Eastern Ontario Dairymen Convene.

THE retail grocer and general merchant has a vital interest in everything pertaining directly or indirectly to the development of the agricultural or allied industries in his country, for the reason that he is dependent upon the farmer for his livelihood. The amount of money the farmer has to spend will be in proportion to what he is able to make out of his bacon, cheese, butter, etc. The inference follows that the grocer should make use of every opportunity of impressing upon country customers the importance of building up and improving the dairying industry.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association in Brockville on Jan. 4, 5, and 6, is of interest to the trade in so far as its proceedings have to do with the commercial aspect of the Canadian dairying industry. Canada is largely indebted to such associations for the establishment of dairy schools, traveling dairies, dairy bulletins, instructors, etc., and for the general improvement resulting along the line of greater uniformity of product, the lack of which has in the past been, perhaps, the greatest hinderance to Canadian products (particularly bacon and butter) in foreign markets. The assistance of the Department of Agriculture of the Dominion in this connection must not be overlooked, in so far as it is responsible for refrigerator cars for the safe transportation of dairy products to the seaboard, for cool compartments in trans-Atlantic steamers, for the safe delivery of Canadian products on the markets of Great Britain and for the establishment throughout the Dominion of illustration stations for the education of dairymen in establishing better curing rooms of their own.

In the course of his opening address, President Derbyshire gave the following interesting review of the Canadian trade in dairy products for the year 1904:

"Our make in 1904 has been about 2,700,000 boxes of cheese, worth about $20,000,000, which is about 300,000 boxes short of 1903, and about $7,000,000 short in value. Considerable of this shortage could have been avoided provided our dairymen had shown the same zeal as they did in 1903 in the production of milk, when prices were high. When prices are low every possible means should be used to increase our output, so that we might have about the same money.

"Our butter business during this year shows a good deal of improvement. We exported about 550,000 packages, worth $7,500,000, an increase of nearly $2,000,000, and owing to the fine quality about double the quantity of butter was consumed at home over that exported.

"Our bacon trade was somewhat short this year, being only $14,000,000, the total exports of our cheese, butter and bacon amount to about $41,500,000, about $6,500,000 short of last year.

"With the general improvement in trade and with higher prices now assured, we should do very much better during 1905.

"With our past experience, all our energies should be directed to improving the quality and increasing the quantity of our goods, and all should understand that only by united effort first, by every dairyman producing only the cleanest and most wholesome milk, by the factories being up to date, with the most improved curing rooms, by the makers all being graduates of our dairy school, and all concerned taking a deep interest in making the finest goods, attending to every little detail, having clean wagons with proper covers for delivering the goods to the railway stations, clean refrigerator or ventilated cars to convey the product to Montreal, and steamships properly fitted with cold air chambers conveying the same to our ultimate market, all this will assure us of higher prices and a firmer grip upon the British market than we ever before had."

Interesting and practical addresses were also delivered on the "Management of Dairy Herds," "The Organization and Education of Farmers," "Cold Curing," etc., in which attention was directed to the fact that the standard of dairy cattle in Canada was not high enough, and that better results might be obtained if more attention were to be given generally to the cost and methods of production of dairy products.

Prof. J. A. Ruddick, the new Dairy Commissioner of the Dominion, showed the decimal increase in the dairy industry of Canada during the ten years commencing 1890 to 1900. In 1890 the values of dairy products were as follows:

Ontario	$ 7,569,338
Quebec	2,918,527
Prince Edward Island	567,802
Nova Scotia	47,675
New Brunswick	245,693
Manitoba	103,387
Northwest Territories	17,322
British Columbia	3,530
Total	$10,697,879

In 1900 the values were:

Ontario	$11,968,922
Quebec	12,874,377
Prince Edward Island	567,802
Nova Scotia	127,007
New Brunswick	245,595
Manitoba	416,272
Northwest Territories	156,637
British Columbia	105,690
Total	$29,462,102

Showing an increase in Canada in ten years of $18,764,423. In 1890 there were 1,565 cheese factories and 170 creameries in Canada. In 1900 there were 2,398 cheese factories, 629 creameries, and 954 combination cheese and butter factories.

The four government cool curing rooms were established in 1902, and during the three years that have elapsed 119,832 boxes from seventy different factories have been cool cured in them. Prof. Ruddick then read out the following figures concerning the work of the four stations during the year 1904.

	Number of Cheese Received.	Pounds of Shrinkage Saved.	Value of Shrinkage Saved.
Woodstock	12,526	12,915	$1,164.55
Brockville	9,740	9,997	831.17
Cowansville	12,011	15,002	1,216.75
St. Hyacinthe	11,816	12,952	1,019.90
Total	46,096	50,866	$4,325.67

Continuing, Prof. Ruddick quoted from several letters of English wholesalers, all of whom maintained that the cool-cured cheese were the best.

The following officers for 1905 were elected by acclamation: President, D Derbyshire, M.P., Brockville; First Vice-President, John R. Dargavel, Elgin; Second Vice-President, G. G. Publow, Kingston; Third Vice-President, L. L Gallagher, Wilton, Fourth Vice-President, J. H. Singleton, Newboro, Directors, division No. 1, Edward Kidd, North Gower; division No. 2, William Eager, Morrisburg; division No. 3, Levi Patton, Brockville; division No. 4, James Whitten, Wellman's Corners, division No. 5, T. B. Carlow, Warkworth, division No. 6, Henry Glendinning, Manilla; Honorary Director, James Anderson, Mountain View.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—Although the market has rallied somewhat, still traders are quiet. The delay in the arrival of fresh meats, caused by the stormy weather, has advanced prices. Our quotations are as follows:

Long clear bacon, per lb	$0 08	$0 08½
Smoked breakfast bacon, per lb	0 12½	0 13
Roll bacon, per lb		0 09½
Small hams, per lb	0 12½	0 13

Large hams, per lb	0 11	0 11½
Shoulder hams, per lb		0 09

Heavy mess pork, per bbl	15 00	15 50

Lamb, spring	9 00	11 00
Veal	8 00	9 00
Hogs, light	6 25	7 00

Cheese—Prices continue to advance. During the week large cheese advanced 1-2 to 1c. per lb. Cheese is very firm in England, bringing as high as 53 shillings. These conditions are owing to the action of the foreign buyer, who neglected buying, believing that the Canadian market was well stocked. Now, however, that a good demand has sprung up in the United States, Canadian shippers are tempted to retain supplies in the hope that prices will advance. Our quotations are:

	Per lb.
Cheese, large	0 11½
" twins	0 12

Butter—Some dealers report fair arrivals of creamery butter, while others claim that none can be bought. The impression is that there is a fair supply of creamery butter on the local market, but that in some extreme cases higher prices are being obtained than those quoted below. Dairy butter in prints, tubs, and rolls has advanced 1c. per lb. on account of the forced increase in the inquiry caused by the lack of large supplies of creamery. We quote the following:

	Per lb.
Creamery prints	0 24	0 25
" solids, fresh	0 22½	0 23
Dairy prints	0 19	0 21
" in tubs	0 16	0 18
" large rolls	0 18	0 19

Poultry—Hens and chickens are the only fowls on the market that are bringing good prices. Owing to the fact that many farmers will not feed chickens throughout the winter months, they are scarce and prices have advanced from 2 to 3c. on chickens, and 3c. per lb. on hens. No turkeys, geese or ducks are arriving, and to meet the small demand dealers have to rely on storage stock. We quote the following prices:

Chickens, spring, dry plucked	0 12	0 13
Hens	0 09	0 10
Geese	0 11	0 12
Turkeys	0 15	0 16
Ducks	0 11	0 12

Montreal.

Provisions—Live hogs have shown up higher in price during the week. A better demand from abroad for bacon has set in since our last report, demand from packers is only fair. For rough stock, $5.00; mixed, $5.10 to $5.20; select, $5.25 to $5.50. Fine is generally firm. In jobbing way local demand is fairly good for dressed hogs, fresh abattoir selling at $7.00 to $7.50; country dressed, $6.00 to $6.75 per 100 lbs. We quote:

Canadian short cut mess pork	$17 00	$17 50
American short cut clear	17 00	17 50
American fat backs	17 00	17 50
Bacon, per lb	0 07½	0 13

Butter—The strong feeling of the past week still holds, though the demand is not so active. Receipts are light. Some inquiries from outside points tend to make for firmness. Some export orders to United States points have gone through, which indicates shortage over the line. We quote:

Finest creamery	0 21½
Fair to good creamery	0 20½ 0 21
Medium	0 19½ 0 20½
Western dairy	0 17½ 0 17½

Cheese—Prices maintain their firm position. Trade, however, is small, with stocks light, this latter feature tending to hold prices up. Cable enquiries indicate the United Kingdom market as more open for trade, and the necessity of filling up is apparent. Finest Ontario is quoted at 11c., Western, 10 3-4 to 11c., and Easterns at 10 1-2 to 10 3-4.

Eggs—Market quiet with prices steady. Stocks are fairly good. Selects quoted at 25c.; No. 2, at 17 to 18c.; cold storage selects, 21 to 22c.; straights, 18 to 20c.; Montreal limed, 19 to 20c.; western limed, 18 to 19c.

St. John.

Provisions—Business is dead. It has been very light during the season. There has not been the demand; price seemed to make no difference. This refers chiefly to barrelled pork and beef, particularly the latter. Smoked meats are quite firm with just fair business. Lard is easy. Prices have been very low all through the past year. In fresh beef there is but a fair business; prices unchanged. Lamb is plentiful, and low. Mutton is dull. Very little veal is offering. Pork is unchanged. Poultry has ruled higher here than at other Maritime points. Prices high. We quote:

Mess pork, per bbl	$15 00	$17 00

Salt Sense

The ordinary Salt of ordinary trade must not be confounded with Windsor Salt, which is sifted, not ground. Think of the goodness that slips away from the Salt crystal that is mangled, bruised, ground—think of the impurities that must creep in. Windsor Salt contains nothing but pure, white, dry, whole Salt crystals—no matter that they are fine and small crystals, they are whole crystals all the time.

Windsor Salt

is prepared in the only safe, sure way, by the Vacuum process. Every particle of moisture is dried out, which prevents the "caking" of the Salt. If you will stop to consider you will quickly see why Windsor Salt is best. Any man of intelligence and sense will agree to that.

RAILROAD METHODS CONTRASTED

GOOD advertising by leading United States railroads and a lot of gratuitous advertising in Canadian papers of American railway methods has made the average Canadian believe that Canadian railways are in many respects inferior to those under United States operation. A recent experience of a reader of this paper would indicate that even the New York Central—the best advertised and consequently the most popular road in the U.S.—has much to learn from the Canadian Pacific.

The gentleman referred to was traveling from Boston to Toronto last week over the Boston & Albany section of the New York Central Railway. Near Pittsfield, Mass., a collision between two freights blocked the line for several hours. Shortly after it was cleared, three fast passenger trains which had been held up, were started west. The first had not gone three miles before it crashed into and demolished a snow plow with its engine and caboose, besides doing a lot of damage and shaking up its own passengers. The next train was following it close behind, but stopped in time. The third train came within a few yards of running into this one, so close were they running and so stormy was the night, while the fourth train also running between stations, nearly ran into the third.

It was nearly 11 o'clock in the morning before the track was cleared. There was a dining car on the first train with a considerable supply of provisions, and there were farmhouses about in all directions, yet no attempt was made to supply the poor passengers with coffee or bread or anything to relieve their hunger. They were then held up just outside of Albany for nearly an hour and when they got to Albany they were told, after making anxious inquiries, that there was a restaurant and that they could get something to eat. There was no one to show them where the restaurant was and when they came out the trains had all been shifted around and it was with difficulty they found them.

The same gentleman came up from Montreal on the Canadian Pacific on Saturday morning through the severe snowstorm. He woke up in the country near a farmhouse, and on getting out of his berth found that the train hands had gone to this farmhouse to secure everything they could. They even got the farmer's wife to bake them some rolls. The train reached Peterborough about 1 o'clock and found awaiting them there an excellent meal and no charge whatever was made.

A NECESSARY DECLARATION.

A GREAT deal of inconvenience is at present being occasioned importers by the lack of knowledge on the part of shippers in the United States of the requirements of the Customs Department regarding invoices. There is a prescribed form which should accompany every invoice and which, owing to the provisions of the dumping clause, is rendered more than ever necessary. The form contains a signed declaration reading as follows:

I, the undersigned, do hereby certify as follows: (1) That I am the..... of the exporter of the goods in the within invoice mentioned or described: (2) That the said Invoice is in all respects correct and true; (3) That the said Invoice contains a true and full statement showing the price actually paid or to be paid for the said goods, the actual quantity thereof, and all charges thereon; (4) That the said Invoice also exhibits the fair market value of the said goods at the time and place of their direct exportation to Canada and as when sold at the same time and place in like quantity and condition for home consumption, in the principal markets of the country whence exported directly to Canada, without any discount or deduction for cash, or on account of any drawback or bounty, or on account of any royalty actually payable thereon or payable thereon when sold for home consumption but not payable when exported, or on account of the exportation thereof or for any special consideration whatever; (5) That no different invoice of the goods mentioned in said invoice has been or will be furnished to any one; and (6) That no arrangement or understanding affecting the purchase price of the said goods has been or will be made or entered into between the said exporter and purchaser or by any one on behalf of either of them, either by way of discount, rebate, salary, compensation, or in any manner whatsoever other than as shown in the said invoice. (7) Whereas, German Goods are subject to a Surtax in Canada, I certify that none of the articles included in this invoice are the product or manufacture of Germany, and that the chief value of none of such articles was produced in Germany, save and except all articles opposite which the word "Germany" is written on this invoice. Dated at blank, this blank day of blank, 190 . (Signature) blank.

We have printed this form once more so that the necessity for its use may be impressed on all foreign shippers to this country. When properly filled out, it will save importers here much annoyance and delay.

SUPPORT THE BEST MEN.

IN the speeches now being delivered throughout Ontario in connection with the general election campaign, progressive business men cannot but be impressed with the weakness of the appeals made by both sides for support

The Liberals, perhaps, have the better part of the argument in their talk of building up New Ontario, and Mr. Ross certainly deserves credit for an energetic policy—but this policy was forced upon him by the natural growth of the country. Outside of this neither party has made any announcement whatever that would entitle them as a party to the support of the business men of the province, and in practice 95 per cent. of the voters are interested in the business development of the country.

Unless either party comes out with a strong policy for the further development and improvement in Old Ontario, business men should support the best men regardless of party. By best men we mean those who are known to be above everything else, honest,—who have clean records, who have been successful in whatever thing they have undertaken; who have led either as farmers, merchants, manufacturers, mechanics, or in their profession,—men as far as possible whose private affairs are in such a position that they can leave them without allowing their interests to suffer and who will not depend upon their allowance in the House for their livelihood.

GOOD IMMIGRATION AGENT.

RAILWAY officials say that an unusually large number of people have taken advantage this Winter of the cheap excursion rates from the Northwest to Eastern Canada. It is far-sighted policy on the part of the C. P. R. and other roads to offer these cheap excursion rates every Winter although it is quite true that little or no direct profit can be made from carrying passengers at such low rates. But no body of men are more directly interested in the development of the Canadian West than are the management of the Canadian Pacific, and being keen business men they are fully alive to the advantages of advertising.

In no way can the opportunities of the West be more effectively advertised than by the sending East every Christmas of several thousand successful Western farmers. These men return to their old homes carrying a story of wealth and plenty awaiting the settler in the Canadian West, and every such Western visitor is a most efficient immigration agent. He is a man of practical experience, able to tell his Eastern friends just what they want to know about the possibilities of life in the West, and no Westerner ever yet returned East to decry the country west of the lakes.

Western Canada is prosperous, and every visitor to the East this Winter has good reason for the optimism which is his most prominent characteristic. The result is bound to be a continued flow of population from East to West. The Eastern Canada farmer is the best class of settler who comes to the prairies, and the railways are serving their own interests when they encourage the advertising of the West among the farmers of the East.

CO-OPERATION IN BUSINESS.

ONE of the most interesting features in connection with the development of Trade and Commerce in Canada during the last year or two is the increasing number of firms who are admitting employes into partnership. The time was when a favorite policy in Canadian business concerns was for employer to treat employes as automatons both intellectually and as far as remuneration was concerned. The character of work done had, of course, to be taken into consideration. It was, however, mostly from the standpoint of the manufacturer and his wares rather than from that of the workman; the thumb-screw of utilitarianism was habitually employed, with the result that an employe had no scruples about changing his position for one with more pay attached.

Many Canadian business men have discovered the penny wisdom and pound foolishness of such a policy and come to see that the interest and loyalty of employes is a thing not to be despised, even from a pecuniary standpoint. Accordingly they are extending the profit-sharing scheme to include valued and trustworthy servants. To those innured to the days of the Inquisition it would come as a delightful surprise were they to hear the business head of a concern addressing subordinates as "colleagues," yet such is not an unusual thing in many Canadian firms today. The necessity of eliminating as far as possible the time server and at the same time the pernicious system, which incidentally may be said to have been frequently related to the former as effect to cause, cannot be too strongly advocated. In business concerns the world over there are three classes of employes; first the ambitious man, competent to fulfill his business duties and at the same time sufficiently well established to be assured of a future; second, the conscientious clerk who for some reason or other is inclined to look upon his position as neither satisfactory nor secure; and third, the time server. In corporations whose members are far-sighted and sagacious enough the tendency latterly has been to eliminate as far as possible the third-mentioned class, to remove the reason for the existence of the second, which otherwise is in danger of degenerating into the third, and lastly to swell the numbers of the first, the underlying motive being not only to serve the right class of employes in the best and most practical way, but to cultivate an unselfish loyalty among employes for the firms with which they are identified to the end that the best possible results may be obtained for the said firms.

No sensible clerk in a grocery store is going to be content to remain behind the counter all his days as a clerk. He will not be satisfied until he has mastered the technique of the grocery business to the minutest details, and is in a position to give his employer first-class service. The grocer, however, as well as the clerk has his duty to perform, and in this connection the action of a prominent grocery and general mercantile firm in Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, since the beginning of the year is deserving of special commendation.

MUST LABEL COMPOUNDS AS SUCH.

MEMBERS of the grocery trade throughout Canada will welcome the announcement of the Inland Revenue Department, that it has decided upon a rigorous enforcement of the regulations of the Food Adulteration Act, in particular the one which requires dealers in adulterated goods to label them as such. Hereafter, the word "compound" must be printed in conspicuous characters as an inseparable portion of the general label to be used on such goods.

It is to be hoped such action may have the effect intended, since it is a well-known fact among those conversant with the manufacture and sale of food products in this country, that there is a large quantity of stuff going regularly into consumption which is positively detrimental to public health. The Canadian Grocer has for years advocated a rigorous enforcement of the regulations of the Pure Food Law, and in this particular it is particularly gratifying to see the determined stand taken by the Minister of Inland Revenue, the Hon. Mr. Broderr.

RETAIL GROCERS' MONTHLY MEETING.

THE Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their regular monthly meeting in St. George's Hall, Toronto, on Jan. 9. Among those present were President F. W. Johnson; secretary, B. Panter, H. D. Kelly, D. Bell, T. Clark, J. T. Scholes, D. McLean, B. Snow, J. S. Bond, and James Nolan, an ex-member of the Association, now a general merchant in Granville, North Dakota, and mayor of the town.

The principal item of business was the annual election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, H. D. Kelly; vice-president, R. Van Loan; treasurer, J. S. Bond, trustees, F. W. Johnson, D. Bell and J. T. Scholes; executive committee, T. Clark, D. McLean, E. Thorn and O. Davies; inside guard, B. Snow.

At the close of the installation of new officers, Mr. Nolan gave a very interesting address on the conditions of trade in North Dakota, American business methods, and a brief history of his career since leaving Toronto.

It was decided to hold the annual At Home of the Association in the Temple Building on February 8. The executive committee was instructed to look after all detail work and from present indications the event will be a huge success.

As a result of the intimation conveyed in letters received by the Association, it was decided not to participate in the Pure Food Show to be held in Massey Hall, April 3 to 15.

H. D Kelly, the new president, has been a member of the Association for fourteen years. Fifteen years ago Mr. Kelly and his brother started in business at the corner of Mutual and Queen streets, Toronto, which is the site of his present stand. Mr. Kelly was vice-president during 1904, and has been a member of the executive of the Association for four years.

J. S. Bond, treasurer of the Association for 1905, is well known to the retail mercantile trade of Toronto, having been in business for fifteen years at the corner of Seaton and Gerrard streets. Mr. Bond has been a member of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association for thirteen years, during which time has held every available office, being president in 1897 and vice-president in 1896.

Benjamin Panter, the present secretary, is also well known in Toronto grocery circles. Mr. Panter started in business in 1895, on Davenport road, opening up a small store opposite the Jesse Ketchum school. Thence he moved to larger premises at No. 81 Davenport road, and later to the corner of Spencer avenue and King street, where he continued in business five years. At the expiration of this time he accepted a situation as manager of a large grocery store in North Toronto. He has been a member of the Association for fifteen years, having served as president during 1901.

present were R. J. Helstrop, W. Bail, M. H. Anderson, R. H. Hudson, H. Treblecock, and W. Turpin. The annual election of the officers takes place at the next meeting of the Association, Feb. 14, when a large attendence is expected. At this meeting a concert will be tendered to the members present and in addition, a review of the past year's work will be given by the president.

In the order of business the proposal to change the quarters of the Association was discussed but it was finally decided to retain the present room for the year 1905. At the conclusion of the meeting the first and second prizes awarded in the recent carpet ball contest were presented to R. H. Hudson and M. H. Anderson, respectively.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, Jan. 12th, 1905.

JOBBERS generally report themselves satisfied with trade, some of the larger jobbers estimating that it is even better than last year. Country roads are in good condition and although the farmers have not taken full advantage of same to market their grain and produce, it is clear by the way remittances are coming in and paper met, that money is circulating more freely outside. Travelers are sending in a fair amount of business. As hinted in our last report, the sugar market has taken another rise, and 10c. higher is announced. It is expected by the trade that another advance is almost sure to come, and many jobbers have been stocking up in a fair way. In teas business is not quite so good, and although prospects are brighter, trade locally is dull. In Japan some business has gone through, principally for medium grades. Finest Japans are scarce and in demand. Ceylon greens are in better shape than other lines. China greens and blacks are dull. Molasses is strong and stocks light and holders asking higher prices than jobbers care to pay. Corn syrups are going out better. Spices are dull, with a weakening in cloves. Camphor advanced to $1.10 per lb. and scarce coffees continue strong. Canned goods are steady with no particular demand for any lines except tomatoes and corn. Rice for Montreal district advanced 20c. per 100 lb. in B. and C.C. grades. Government reports show heavy shortage in Burmah crop. Cables from patrons under date of 9th inst., report currant market strong, with higher tendency. Fish business is showing up again after the lull of the late holidays. Frozen fish are in good demand, and weather continues favorable for buyers. Oysters are on the quiet side. In green fruits the feature of the week was the arrival in this market of the first shipment of Jamaica navel oranges ever sent to Canada. These are very fine, in beautiful condition, and very sweet. A first car of Jamaica bitter oranges was received this week. These will be strong competitors of Messina bitter oranges. Vegetables are in fair demand. Onions hold their high position, being very scarce. Flour remains unchanged, despite a strong advance in Western wheat. Demand for feed is good, while in rolled oats little is doing. Hay has dropped off from 50c. to $1.00 per ton, with plenty offering. Provision market is in good shape, live hogs firmer and cable orders for bacon the cause. Butter is maintaining its strong position, with receipts light. Cheese is also firm, and stocks light. Better demand for white clover honey ruling, and supplies light. Poultry somewhat easier in tone. Coal oil reduced 1-2 cent a gallon.

SUGAR

A further advance of 10c. in sugars went into effect this week, and the general opinion of the trade, as well as reports from refiners, would indicate a likelihood of still higher prices. The European position is very strong, and crop reports would indicate a very heavy shortage in the yield. The production of sugar last year was not equal to consumption, and heavy demands were made on reserve stock. A fair amount of business is being done locally and the strong position, and the recent steady advances have provoked good buying by the trade. We quote:

TEA.

There is no change to report this week in the condition of the tea market. Business has really not opened up yet for the year, and a hold-off feeling seems to prevail in the trade. Prospects, however, are reported as bright. Ceylon greens seem to be in better shape than most other grades, and a better demand exists at firmer prices. In China greens, there is nothing doing. Reports from the United States are that a stronger market for China teas prevails there. In Japan, the market is not very brisk, but a few transactions at fair prices have taken place, mostly for mediums. Finest grades are scarce and enquired for. Business from the country is reported to be fair and the future promises well. Very few fine Japans are on hand. We quote:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

No change to report in molasses. The market is quiet but very firm. There is little stock left in first hands, and holders are asking higher prices with buyers not inclined to purchase. Corn syrups are in very good demand and a considerably larger area is interesting itself in these goods. We quote:

SPICES.

Spices are firm in sympathy with foreign advices. Cloves are slightly cheaper. A fair demand obtains for pepper and ginger. The general tone of the market is strong. Business locally is on the quiet side.

COFFEE.

The strong feeling still obtains. Reports from New York indicate that the manipulating movement carried out there by speculators is being felt. In some quarters it is feared that the forcing of prices is bound to react. Roasters are buying these. Not much future business is being done. Locally the market remains firm and as far as momentary business is concerned, there is little to report. We quote:

CANNED GOODS

Business is decidely quiet. No changes are reported and no particular lines, except tomatoes and corn, of more than usual interest. Salmon continues strong, stocks being light. RICE.

Report at hand states that the Government estimate on the quantity of Burmah rice, available for export during 1905, amounts to 2,293,000 tons, or 263,000 tons less than estimated for 1904.

The crop of Siam rice will be about the same as last year; from Saigon, the advices are less favorable, whilst Japan has a large crop, but will require it all, and a large portion of the Burmah, Saigon, and Siam crops as well. Japan is at present a strong buyer of Burmah cleaned rice. The prices have run up and stock is hard to obtain in Burmah, and it is a general opinion that should the war continue we shall have a year of high prices throughout for rice. London and Liverpool are consequently firm at advanced prices, and a further advance is expected, owing to the short supplies there.

For district of Montreal, rice has been advanced 20c. per hundred lbs. and is quoted as follows:

B rice, in 10 bag lots	3 05
B rice, less than 10 bags	3 15
C rice, in 10 bag lots	2 95
C rice, in less than 10 bag lots	3 05

Foreign Dried Fruits.

News of an important character is very scarce. The trade is quite dull, among the brokers and jobbers. Cables from Patras under date of the 9th, report the currant market strong with higher tendency. Shelled walnuts hold offerings for prompt shipment here in favor of buyers. Bordeaux shippers cannot be found who will go short of the market for forward delivery at parity of to-day's figures. Green Fruits.

Business has been very quiet indeed since the turn of the year. California navels are selling freely at $3.00 to $3.25. There is a good demand for celery, and prices range from $5.00 to $5.50. Florida tomatoes are receiving some attention, though in a very small way. Boston lettuce shows an advance of 25c. per doz., and is now selling at 85c. A feature this week is the arrival of the first shipment that has ever reached Montreal of Jamaica navel oranges. These are packed 75 to a box, and sell at $2.50. The quality is beautiful and the fruit very sweet. This shipment is more in the nature of an experiment and it will take some years for them to get a good hold on this market. We also note the arrival of first Jamaica bitter oranges this year. They sell at $2.75 per box. The jobbing fruit trade here are of the opinion that in time the Jamaica bitter oranges will take the place of the Messina bitters, as they are cheaper and quality just as good, in fact for marmalade preparations they are considered superior to the Messina, on account of the lighter color resulting with their use. Vegetables.

Business in vegetables is only fair. The top of the market for potatoes is gone, and in a jobbing way quite a little trade is being done. 75c. per bag for choice stock, with several cars at 65c. per bag ex track is noted. The market for onions continues strong, with small supplies, and a good demand, prices having been advanced to $3.75 per bbl., for both red and yellow. In sacks they are being sold at 2 1-2 to 3c. per lb. We quote:

Fish.

The demand for fish is commencing to look up after the recent lull which prevailed during the holidays, and the seasonable weather has a tendency to help sales. Merchants are now getting in stocks of frozen fish for their regular winter trade, as there is no risk now in carrying them. Bulk oysters are not in quite so good demand as before the holidays and during that period, and the trade is just settling itself into regular business. In salt fish there is very little new to note, the demand now being almost entirely for frozen fish. Kippered herrings in half boxes are off the market, also dressed perch. We quote:

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, Jan. 12, 1905.

Groceries.

THERE is nothing of special interest in the grocery trade for the week under review, except a fair volume of sorting-up business, rather in excess of what is expected at this time of year. Trade will be on the quiet side from now until the middle of March when the opening of navigation and outdoor work will create a renewed demand for all grocery staples.

The wholesalers one by one are finishing their stock-taking and report the volume of business for the year as satisfactory, an improvement in some cases of 25 per cent over the previous year's business being noted. The demand for groceries shows a good healthy business feeling throughout the country. Perhaps the most striking feature of the year's trade has been the sensational leaps in sugar which has had the effect of stimulating buying to a marked extent as always happens in a rising market.

The Canadian refined sugar market has advanced 10c during the week, effective on Tuesday, Jan. 12. This makes an advance of 15c since the first of the year. The situation looks very strong both in refined and raw. Canned vegetables, especially corn and tomatoes, are firm and in short supply. Fruits are quiet as well as canned fish, although additional strength is being lent to the salmon situation by the proposal to prohibit fishing on the Pacific coast during 1906 and 1908.

A healthy market is reported for syrups and molasses. Coffees are quiet, with Rios becoming firmer. The market for Indian and Ceylon teas is lower at the present time than for years at the same season, and some great values are being picked up. Standard B rice has advanced ½c owing to the Montreal mills having put up the price 20c per 100 lbs.

Currants have advanced 3d in primary markets and the tendency is still upward. Valencia raisins are also reported to have advanced 1s in Denia. Tarragona almonds are in short supply on spot. Shelled almonds are being sold freely owing to favorable prices named from France for prompt shipment. Holders of evaporated apples have advanced the price ½c per lb.

CANNED GOODS.

The firmness of the corn and tomato market continues, with prices tending higher and stocks reported light. Tomatoes are selling at $1.25 in the absence of active demand; a brightening up in the demand would, however, have the almost immediate effect of advancing prices. Even now some houses are quoting tomatoes at $1.30. The season for canned fruits will not open in earnest until supplies of domestic fruits run lower.

Canned fish are quiet, although some additional strength is being lent to the market by the proposition now before the salmon canners on the Pacific coast to prohibit salmon fishing on the Fraser River and Puget Sound during 1906 and 1908, and to introduce a weekly closed season of 36 hours during 1907. If this plan is carried out red salmon will become a scarce article. We quote the following prices:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups and molasses are moving very freely, this being the biggest season of consumption during the year. The requirements of the wholesale trade are pretty well met for the next few months, they having stocked syrups early in the Winter on account of the high price of corn in the United States. At the same time a fair-sized shipment of West Indian molasses arrived during the week. West Indian molasses is slowly but surely supplanting New Orleans in this market. On the other hand strictly fine teas are scarce and bringing a high price.

Good common tea is showing excellent values and in consequence the demand has temporarily left Indian tea and gone over to Ceylons.

There is nothing new to report in green teas, which are selling in a moderate way at steady prices. The recent advances in Ceylon, owing to shortening of supplies there, has had little or no effect so far on the local markets. Our quotations are as follows:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

This week's cables report an advance of 3d in currants, with a strong market and a general higher tendency. Raisins remain on a low level. There is considerable disparity in the offerings of shippers; but as the general character of fruit is rather inferior, fruit well selected as to condition and color is commanding a greater advance in price than usual over inferior goods. The demand on spot is quiet, but as there is no over-supply, prices are being well maintained. Latest cables from Denia advise an advance of 1s in Valencia raisins on account of stocks there being nearly exhausted.

Domestic trade in foreign dried fruits is quiet as usual at this season. The Winter demand for prunes, apricots, peaches, etc., is just beginning, and an active trade is expected to continue from now on into the Spring. We quote the following prices:

FOREIGN NUTS.

Tarragona almonds are in short supply on spot and some orders have been placed for importation. The f.o.h. price is about 2s per bag less than Fall importations cost, but this is largely swallowed up by the heavier freight charges now prevailing.

Shelled walnuts are being sold freely owing to the favorable price named from France for prompt shipment; future shipment on the other hand is hard to buy, most shippers declining to sell futures. A further advance in Valencia shelled almonds is reported in primary markets.

Stocks of almonds and filberts are scarce, and it is difficult to obtain sufficient supplies to fill local orders. There is a fair inquiry for peanuts for ordinary consumption. Marbot walnuts have been crossed off the list as their season is over. Prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are:

EVAPORATED APPLES.

Evaporated apples cannot be said to be moving freely as yet, but, notwithstanding this fact, dealers have advanced the price ½c, making the current quotation 6c. The market for dried apples is also dull, the ruling price being in the neighborhood of 4c. During the week American buyers have been inquiring in this market for 5 or 6 carloads of evaporated apples.

Conditions of trade on the local market this week are normal, trade having rallied to a slight degree during the last few days. Prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

Green Fruits.

Judging by the class of orders received this week trade has not yet rallied to its normal condition, the bulk being assorted with no large quantity of any particular article. Stormy weather has somewhat delayed shipments.

Sales of oranges are nominal. A depreciation in value is noted in Florida oranges owing to the inferior quality of some consignments. The navel market is strong on account of the California banks refusing to advance money on rolling cars, thereby preventing to some extent a glutting of the market. Better sales are reported in grape fruit. Almeria grapes are meeting with better inquiry, extra fancy quality having the preference; this is hard to get as the percentage of rot is noticeable in many consignments. Larger and more frequent sales are current in bananas, the quality of stock arriving is of the first order, having been handled without chilling. On account of increased demand, prices have advanced 25c on both 8's and large bunches.

A better trade is reported in apples. Prices are firm and dealers expect an advance owing to firm conditions on the British market. Rather large quantities of figs have been left on some dealers' hands and prices have been cut in the anticipation of securing large orders. We quote the following:

Vegetables.

A good inquiry is noted for all imported vegetables. The increased demand for Spanish onions has caused prices to advance. Owing to the scarcity of cabbage, the price has advanced 5c on single heads and 10c per dozen. Some good sales are reported in hothouse cucumbers. Trade in domestic vegetables is quiet. Fish and Oysters.

Cold weather has stimulated trade to a great extent. Whitefish and trout are selling well. Smelts continue scarce and a strong inquiry is current; owing to scarcity an advance of 2c is noted on No. 1. GRAIN.

Owing to small supplies on spot, wheat continues to advance. During the week Manitoba Northern No. 1 advanced 2c per bushel, No. 2, 1c, and No. 3, 2½c per bushel. An advance of 2c per bushel is also noted in red and white wheat. Large quantities of lower grades are being exported to England. A scarcity in oats and rye has advanced the price from ½ to ¾c, and 1c per bushel respectively. Our quotations are:

BREAKFAST FOODS.

A decline of 10c on oatmeal and rolled oats is noted this week, caused by keen American competition. Grain conditions have caused the price of rolled wheat to become firm, and the expectations are for an advance in the near future. This decline in oatmeal and rolled oats is expected to be only temporary as the prevailing conditions of oats ought to warrant an advance in the near future. With the exception of the articles already mentioned, prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

SUGAR.

An advance of 10c in American refined sugars in New York was followed on Tuesday, Jan. 10, by a similar advance in Canadian refined throughout the entire list. The basis for standard granulated is now $5.63, Toronto; the New York net basis is now $5.80, leaving the margin between raw and refined nominally 80c per 100 lbs.

There have been sensational advances in the European market during the week culminating in the top price of 15s 10½d basis f.o.b. Hamburg for 88 test, January shipment. This record advance of 1s 1½d for the week is quite phenomenal and has had the effect of stimulating New York Buyers' interest in actual sugar.

We hear of nominal quotations for Cuban centrifugals, basis 96 test, at 5c duty paid or say 3 9-16 c. and f. Holders, however, are now asking 3¾c c. and f., and we hear of the sale of 10,600 tons for March-April shipment to a speculator on this basis. At the close Europe is reported easier in tone, business transpiring on a small reaction. At the same time there are buyers in U. S. markets at 3⅞c 96 test which is freely offered, and if Europe should decline further, holders may accept these offers although much below the parity for beet sugar, which is now equal, say, to $5.40 for 96 test centrifugals. Latest cables from Europe report no change in the crop situation.

Enormous quantities of American refined sugar have recently changed hands on 30-day contract, and at the close the market is firm on the basis above quoted.

Combined stocks of U. S. and Cuba on Jan. 5 were 112,650 tons, against 165,308 tons at the same time last year. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,619,650 tons, against 3,351,208 tons at the same uneven date a year ago, a decrease of 701,558 tons. We quote the following prices:

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Special correspondence of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 4, 1905.

TO-DAY the new distillery of the B. C. Distillery Co., Limited, at New Westminster, made its first run on grains from which liquor is to be distilled. The new plant is completed, and it is the intention to go on with steady running from this time. Of course, in conformity with Government regulations, it will be two years before any of the product is put on the market. The investment now represented in the big plant just erected is fully $300,000, and this sum will not include the very heavy investments in stock which will be manufactured right along.

The whole plant is modern and complete throughout. It has an elevator for grain with storage capacity for 50,000 bushels. The tanks for holding the liquor in process of preparation total 200,000 gallons capacity. The mill has a capacity to put through 1,200 bushels daily, and the two stills 1,000 bushels. Several buildings are included in the establishment and before the finished product begins to pile up, a warehouse, with storage capacity for 15,000 barrels, will be erected, as also cooper shops and other buildings. Mr. A. T. Morrow is manager of the new distillery, the first in the West. Local enterprise entirely controls the new concern.

This Winter there are twenty-four bonded warehouses in Dawson where there were none last year. The cause of the change is the holding in bond by Dawson merchants of large quantities of American goods for the supplying of trade in the Tanana district, which is in the United States portion of the northern territory. Customs Collector E. S. Busby at Dawson has just issued a summary compiled from his official records, showing that the Tanana trade during the past summer represented more than three-quarters of a million dollars to the Dawson wholesalers, and the tonnage was 3,276. In addition to this there were shipped in bond, 3,192 tons of goods direct to Tanana, mostly from U. S. points.

The return which the collector has just issued, shows that there were 2,764 more people left Dawson in the season just closed than came into it. Nearly 4,000 people went down the river to various points where new camps are opening. All such travelers are registered in Dawson.

FOR SALE.

A THOROUGHLY established grocery business, in a thriving manufacturing town of 7,000 population. Stock all new. Other business interests will take our time after Feb. 1st, 1905. Address—Box 208, THE CANADIAN GROCER, Toronto, Ont. (3) $15,432, dutiable, $200,855; for the year, free, $461,441, dutiable, $2,540,618.

Victoria inland revenue—Collections for December, $15,998.20; for the year, $181,783.57.

Vancouver customs returns, 1904—Duties collected, December, $104,166; for the year, $1,455,324. 1903—Duties collected, December, $93,273; for the year, $1,552,287. 1904—Exports, $4,678,911. 1903—Exports, $5,432,895.

The decrease in collections in 1904 is greater than the above figures show, because of the fact that in December $16,863 was collected other than duty. In December, 1904, but $2,369, of other revenue was collected. The falling off is due almost entirely to the increase of Chinese head tax from $100 in 1903 to $500 in 1904. In December, 1903, a great many Chinese were hurried in, to avoid the payment of the $500 which came in force in January of 1904. The decrease in exports from the port of Vancouver is to be expected owing to the disturbance of conditions by the war in the Far East. Another very material factor was the extremely low pack of salmon on the Fraser River, a large part of which was always cleared from Vancouver. The same exceptions apply to the exports from the port of Victoria.

Clearing house returns—Victoria, 1904, $33,070,009, an increase of over two millions over 1903. Vancouver, 1904, $74,029,902, an increase of approximately $10,000,000 over 1903.

Building and improvements permits issued, etc.—Victoria (not including James Bay improvements and new C. P. R. hotel), $600,000. Vancouver building permits alone, including high school and hospital, $2,000,000.

A "sugar" combine at San Francisco, in which some interest was displayed locally, has been showed up recently by the withdrawal of six wholesale houses from membership in the Pacific Traffic and Commercial Association, the name which was used to cover the joint operations of the members of the trust. The action has resulted in revealing a closely-guarded secret, that the wholesale grocers of the coast (U.S.) have for the past year and a half controlled the price of sugar absolutely. The six big firms who have withdrawn believe their action will disrupt the combine, but manager H. D. Loveland of the Pacific Traffic and Commercial Association, claims the association will continue to operate and is "determined to uphold the market."

The Empress of Japan arrived yesterday, but no shipments of Jap oranges were received. As the market was practically cleaned up by the Christmas trade, no more are likely to be received this season and they are to be considered "off." Navels from California have begun to arrive. As usual early in the season, when in competition with the Japs and with other fruit, the very finest arrive. Splendid quality has marked most of the receipts. Not a very large quantity is yet being handled. Apples are still plentiful, the coast crop being more in evidence year by year. The Okanagan fruit principally packed by the Coldstream ranch at Vernon, does not dominate the apple market till later on in the season.

"How would you like to be the (not iceman) potato speculator, this year in B. C.?" Here is a veritable matter of fact record of a transaction which came under your correspondent's notice. A speculator (a lady, too, by the way) bought up 30 tons of Ashcrofts early in the game; that is long before the market was cornered, which happened last fall. The speculator paid a pretty low figure for the potatoes and sold in less than two months at $30 per ton, clearing up on the transaction over $350.

But the price has been boosted up so high that the local dealers have turned to California for choice potatoes, and in the past two weeks quite a quantity have been brought in at prices which allow competition with Ashcrofts. The latter are really very short in the market as well as high priced. Even potatoes from the coast districts are not very plentiful this year, owing to the extremely dry summer, which affected the quantity, though it improved the general quality, making a drier tuber and better keeper.

Mr. Hugh Blain, Liberal candidate in North Toronto.

Produce prices have remained very steady since the holiday trade was over. Stocks are not large in any line, and butter especially would be high if the mild weather of the winter so far did not tend to keep up the quantity of "ranch" butter.

The Chilliwack Co-Operative Association, Limited, has been incorporated under the Co-operative Associations Act, to engage in the wholesale and retail sale of farm produce. The object of the promoters who are all ranchers of Chilliwack, is to secure the best prices and most favorable conditions of marketing the produce of the ranches of the Chilliwack district.

BLUE RIBBON TEA.

The Canadian Grocer is the recipient of a very handsome lithographed figure of a motherly-looking old lady on her way home from market. She is shown carrying in her hand a package of "Red Label" tea. This card would brighten up the appearance of any grocery store. The picture is being distributed to grocers throughout Canada who handle Blue Ribbon Ceylon teas. Any grocer who has not received one of these handsome lithographs may secure the same by writing to the Blue Ribbon Tea Co., Toronto, if he mentions The Canadian Grocer.

CANDIDATE FOR NORTH TORONTO.

THERE are few men in Canada better known in wholesale and retail grocery circles than Mr. Hugh Blain, the Liberal candidate in North Toronto for the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Blain was born in York County sixty years ago, the son of John Blain, J.P. He early entered upon a mercantile career, and, after spending some time as a member of the firm of Nerlich & Co., became interested with Mr. J. F. Eby in the founding of the wholesale grocery business carried on at the present time under the name of Eby, Blain & Co.

In addition to being a senior member of Eby, Blain & Co., Mr. Blain is president of the Ontario Sugar Co., of Berlin, Ont., one of the beet sugar industries in Canada that have been placed on a satisfactory commercial footing.

Mr. Blain has been acquainted from his youth up with public affairs. He was a member of the famous "Canada First" group that a generation ago did so much to call national feeling into being. He knew the late Hon. Geo. Brown intimately, and was honored with Mr. Brown's confidence. For many years he has been a director of The Globe.

He has held many positions of importance in the business world and in social life, among them the presidency of the Board of Trade of Toronto, of which he has been an active member for over 30 years; also the presidency of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada and of the National Club.

One of the social movements that appeals to him most strongly is that for the stamping out of consumption. Mr. Blain has been connected with the Executive of the Sanitarium Association from the beginning.

MOVING THEIR OFFICES.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, owing to the increased demands of business, are moving their offices from 51 Colborne street to more commodious quarters at the north-east corner of Front and Scott streets. The Colborne street premises will be retained by the firm for warehouse purposes. The rapid development, not only of trade in MacLaren's Imperial Cheese, but of this firm's agency business, has necessitated the change.

Quite recently the warehouse capacity of the Detroit branch was doubled.

Mr. David Marshall, president of the Canadian Canners, Limited, Hamilton, Ont., has left on a two months' trip to California. Mr. Marshall is accompanied by Mrs. Marshall.

Business Men in Parliament

C. A. Clare, M.P. for South Waterloo.

Mr. G. A. Clare has sat for Waterloo since 1900. He is a native of Preston, of German descent, and was educated in the public schools of his home town. His business training was secured in the general store of George Randall & Co., at Waterloo, where he was apprenticed as clerk, and where he served five years. Returning to Preston, he took charge of the Clare foundry, then operated by the late John Clare. In 1881, in company with his brother and Mr. H. C. Hilborn, of Berlin, Mr. Clare purchased the business, which has been conducted ever since under the style of Clare Bros. & Co. The firm are widely known as manufacturers of stoves, hot air furnaces, and hot water boilers. A great deal of the credit for the remarkable growth of the business is directly attributable to the business ability of Mr. Clare.

Mr. Clare has had a long and honorable career in municipal, county and national politics. For ten years he presided over the destinies of the village as reeve, and upon its incorporation as a town he was unanimously chosen to be its first Mayor. He also served ten years in the Waterloo County Council, and for one year was warden of the County.

In 1891, Mr. Clare received the Conservative nomination for South Waterloo, but was defeated at the polls by 312 votes. Notwithstanding he stuck to his task, was defeated again in 1896 by 89 votes, but won the day in 1900, with a substantial majority of 218 votes. Last November Mr. Clare increased the lead to 365. The town of Preston seemed to put party quite aside and gave him 524 votes out of a total 579.

Mr. Clare's business interests extend to several other manufacturing concerns in Preston, whilst for the past ten years he has sat on the directorate of the Wellington Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

WHOLESALE GROCERS AT HOCKEY.

The first game of the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Hockey League was played at the Queen City rink on Thursday evening January 5, between the Canada Grocers Ltd., and H. P. Eckardt & Co., resulting in a score of 3 to 1 in favor of H. P. Eckardt & Co., Neither team was able to score during the first half, and the roving of the puck indicated that the teams were very evenly matched.

Grocers seemed to settle down to work most readily, after half-time, and succeeded in scoring the first goal. After this, however, the other team settled down, and although the puck was in the vicinity of the Grocers goal most of the time, it found the net only twice on account of inferior shooting. The line up was as follows: Canada Grocers—goal, Moffatt; point, Barnhouse; cover-point, Tasker; forwards, Stewart, Blackburn, Hortop and Warren.

G. A. Clare, M.P.

H. P. Eckardt & Co.—goal; Robinson; point, Tickell; cover-point, Brown; forwards, McLaughlin, Hill, Williams, and Chapmal.

The second game of the series was played at the Aura Lee rink on Saturday afternoon, January 7, between the Grocery Brokers and T. Kinnear & Co., resulting in the score of 4 to 3 in favor of T. Kinnear & Co.

The teams were evenly matched and the game was anybody's up till the last moment. When the teams retired at half-time, the score was a tie, two all. The staying powers of the winners proved very helpful in the last half and practically won them the game, as the other team, although lighter in weight, excelled in shooting and foot work. The line up was as follows:

Brokers—goal, Wilson; point, A. Millman; cover-point, P. Millman; forwards, Webber, Donaldson, Banks, and May.

T. Kinnear & Co.—goal, Holden; point, Walkinshaw; cover-point, Humphrey; forwards, C. Rennie, H. Rennie, McGregor, and Kinnear.

Hugh Lambe officiated as referee at both games.

FOR THE TRADE.

Connors Bros., canners and packers of sea foods, Black's Harbor, New Brunswick, are issuing to the trade an attractive holiday souvenir in the form of a calendar. The chief feature is a black and white lithograph of Fair Miss Canada, with rich background of olive green and black.

No more effective presentation calendar has reached the trade this season than that of Gilbert Bent & Son, wholesale grocers, St. John, N. B. The imitation burnt leather decoration in brown with embossed head of the Indian Chief, Black Horse, in war paint, and feathers is characteristic, as are the crossed hatchets, arrows and pipes, which complete the picture. Every retailer should have this calendar.

The Canadian Grocer is in receipt of S. H. and A. S. Ewing's calendar for 1905, which with its red green and gold decoration and the familiar trade mark of this firm, is an effective reminder of the reliability of one of Montreal's oldest wholesale grocery houses.

Personal application and mention of The Canadian Grocer will secure any of the above to members of the grocery trade.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 10, 1905

THIS is the quietest time of the year and business will improve but slowly during this month. The wholesale trade are taking stock. Several who usually did so a month later find it more to their advantage to do so during the extremely quiet week between Christmas and New Year's. Have the Western trade taken any interest in the change in the minimum car weight which the transcontinental railways are raising from 30,000 to 40,000 lbs.? This will make it very difficult for any except the largest importers to import car lots and so get best freight rate. It further means that goods, particularly such lines as loose muscatel raisins from the weight in the car are liable to arrive in very bad order, and further, the extreme weight will increase the liability of the car getting disabled and so causing goods to be transferred in transit, which nearly always mean damaged goods. One thing both shippers and importers should insist on if the railways hold to this extreme weight of 40,000 and that is that where goods are shipped by one shipper to several buyers in one car, separate bills of lading be issued. In markets the chief matter of interest is the further advance in sugar.

Oil.

This line is not effected as are many others by the holiday trade. In burning oil, dealers are very busy. Prices are unchanged. There is a slight difference in price between different sections of the province. Lubricating oils are firm. Linseed oil is still very low,—lower than for many years. A large forward business is being done. Turpentine keeps steady. Cod oil is firm at rather higher prices. Our fishermen would get a much better price if they were more careful in regard to the quality of their oil.

Salt.

Practically no Liverpool coarse salt is being imported. A fair stock is yet held, there being but a limited demand. Prices are very firm. Winter port steamers are charging very high freights and if importers have to pay them it will mean quite an advance in price. Very little movement in fine salt is noted.

Canned Goods.

Business is quiet. All lines seem in quite ample supply. Corn is, perhaps, the shortest line. In corn and tomatoes full prices are asked. Gallon apples are low. Fruits show no change. There is quite a full stock of blueberries. Salmon is unchanged. In domestic fish, finnan haddies are a rather light stock.

Green Fruits.

Fruit is rather quiet. Valencia oranges are rather lower. Jamaicas are about out of the market. In Floridas and Californias there is but a light sale. Apples are firm for best quality. Lemons are quite low. There is little change in price. Cape Cod cranberries have a steady, but not large, demand with price not high for the season. Some nice Malaga grapes are offered.

Dried Fruit.

Sales are now quiet. Because of the late arrival of several importations of currants from Greece, some dealers find they hold rather a large supply for the season, particularly as prices are rather easier. Quality of imported goods is, however, preferred to New York cleaned. Except seeded raisins, stocks here are light. Market is firm, particularly new fancy, being higher. Prunes are cheap; the small sizes are, however, held quite firm. Apricots and peaches are too high for active business, apricots particularly. There is never, however, a large sale. Dates are rather easier. Evaporated apples keep low with but fair demand. Onions are higher. Brazil nuts are very scarce this year.

Sugar.

This has been a particularly satisfactory year. Prices have continued to advance. Dealers have been able to take better advantage of this, because of the Guild, than ever before, so that money has been made. There was a further advance this week. Market is very firm and full stocks are held.

Molasses.

Through united action on the part of the large number of the dealers, this line has been more satisfactory than the outlook earlier promised. There is still quite a full stock of Porto Rico.

Fish.

During the past season prices have been exceedingly high, particularly dry cod. They are still firmly held. Pickled herring are rather lower with demand not large. There is but a fair supply of fresh fish. Smoked herring continue low. Shipments West of finnan haddies are quite large. Full prices are asked. Shad are very high and scarce.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

There is a fair business in flour, with prices quite firm. Oats and oatmeal are unchanged, with just fair sales. Cornmeal is quite firm with a steady sale. Feed is high. Beans have but a light demand, with prices unchanged. There is quite a full stock of yellow eyes here. Barley shows a light stock. There is a limited sale. Blue peas have but a light sale compared with a few years ago. Split peas are scarce.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, January 12th, 1905.

STOCK-TAKING seems to be the order of the day among the retail trade now that the holiday rush is over, and it will be some little time before the jobbing trade resumes its normal activity. While sales were large and business brisk, it is still reported that money is tight and collections slow. Throughout the country people have assumed heavy obligations in order to buy more land, and in prosperous times they pay for it, often disregarding their store bills. This is the explanation often given for the slowness of collections during a prosperous year.

Price changes this week are not numerous. Sugar continues to advance, and New York advices still indicate a rising market. Apparently there is still no likelihood that the advance has stopped. Cornmeal is quoted lower this week for delivery in a fortnight. The new and low-priced stock is not yet on the market. As noted before, the decline is due to the immense Western corn crop. Corn syrups are likely to be affected by this crop in the Spring, but not for some months yet. Sugar syrups are naturally very firm in sympathy with the rising sugar market, and an advance would be no surprise. Coffee continues to show increased strength in primary markets, but local prices, while firm, have not been advanced. The foreign dried fruit market continues very firm with a tendency to advance.

Sugar.

The Western sugar market is very difficult to follow with accuracy, owing to the great range of prices in the district from Portage la Prairie to the B. C. boundary line. As the trade very well understand, it is in this district that the Montreal and B. C. sugar meet in direct competition, and while there are different prices for almost every station, the advances in this district have not always followed the advances in the East and in Winnipeg. Two weeks ago it was noted in these columns that while during a given period from Nov. 2 to Dec. 23, sugars had advanced 75 cents in Winnipeg and the same amount between Portage la Prairie and Moose Jaw, there had been an advance of only 50 cents in the district between Moose Jaw and Dunmore. Advances are now being made in the district between Dunmore and the B. C. boundary line. On Dec. 28 an advance was announced of 5 cents on white sugars and 10 cents on yellows for all points between Dunmore and the B. C. boundary line. This was followed two days later by an advance of 20 cents on all grades in the same territory. On Jan. 3, all grades were advanced 5 cents from Winnipeg to Moose Jaw, and 10 cents from Moose Jaw to the boundary line. The following day a sharp advance was made of 20 cents on all grades in the territory from Moose Jaw to the B. C. boundary line.

New York advices still indicate a rising sugar market, and although prices are now at a ridiculously high level, there seems to be greater confidence than before among good judges of the market that sugar will be higher yet before it is lower. We quote:

Canned Goods.

Trade in canned goods is very quiet at present, and there are few features of interest to note. Tomatoes are still quoted at $3.00, and there are still some small supplies on hand. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses.

A new brand of syrup called the "Bee Hive" is being put on the Western market by the Edwardsburgh Starch Co. It is put up in 2 and 5 pound tins, etc., and although quotations are not yet announced, it will probably sell at the same price as the "Crown Brand," quoted below. Sugar syrups are in a strong position in sympathy with the advancing sugar market. Corn syrups are not yet affected by the big Western crop, but they may be expected to decline in the Spring. We quote:

Syrup "Crown Brand," 2-lb tins, per 2 doz. case	2 40

Market is now dull and featureless. We quote as before:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Stocks of all lines of foreign dried fruits, with the single exception of prunes, are very low, and there seems little doubt that the next few weeks will see some advances. Only two sizes of prunes, viz., 50-60 and 60-70, are in anything like good supply, and Californian advices indicate that they are in the hands of two or three packers. The 90-100 prunes are practically out of the market. Local prices continue as before. We quote:

The green fruit market is not very active this week. Some declines will be noted in new quotations on oranges and lemons. We quote:

FIRE-PROOF GLASS WINDOWS.

They give absolute security—resisting intense fire heat, as well as the action of water.

Arranged to open with this "fusible link" attachment, they close and lock automatically if a fire occurs—150° melts the link—thus giving complete and perfect protection.

This "wired glass" admits the light as freely as plain glass—is rather ornamental in effect, and greatly lessens insurance rates.

PAPERING THE FLAT.

WHEN the Hamlins found that it was going to cost $40 to paper their five-room flat Mrs. Hamlin declared she would do the work herself and save half the money.

"Nice work you'd make of it," said her husband. "You'd just about get the whole place torn up and then expect me to help you out. I've signed a lease for two years and we'll go ahead and have it done and have it done right."

But Mrs. Hamlin was determined and finally her husband gave in, first making her promise not to expect him to help her. If you do undertake this thing, Sally, you've got to go through with it," he said. "Only I advise you not to try it."

She spent three days hunting for bargains in wall paper and at last she bought enough for the rooms for $14. She got bargains too, even if they were not exactly what she had planned to buy. Anyway she was $30 ahead—that is, she would be when the paper was on the walls.

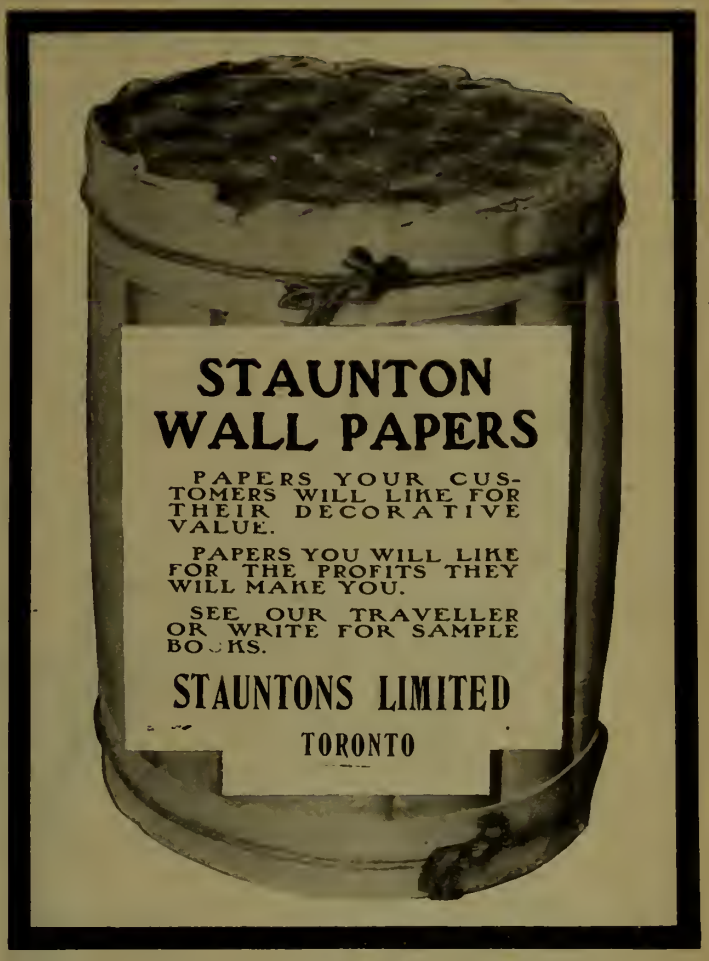
She had no trouble in getting the ceiling tinted to her satisfaction and then she began to strip off as much of the old paper as she could. The first night she looked so tired that her husband relented and finished peeling off the paper himself. She was grateful for that assistance, but when he said positively that the walls would have to be sized Mrs .Hamlin felt he was an enemy to her peace. But she had set out to do the thing right and so she procured some glue and with the paste brush which cost $2, she sized all the walls.

She made a great pail of paste, according to the directions of the good-natured paperhanger who had made the estimate on her rooms in the first place. The same man let her have an old pasteboard, shears, knife and ruler. Mrs. Hamlin did feel a little guilty in borrowing these things when all she had bought of him was her paste brush, but then he seemed so perfectly willing to let her have them and even let his man carry them home for her.

She measured and cut her strips of paper without making a single mistake, and she was astonished herself that the paper went on so smoothly. It took her one whole day to bring two sides of the parlor to perfection, but then it was perfection, and she went to bed that night tired to the point of exhaustion, but happy.

She hurried through her morning's work, because she was anxious to finish the parlor that day. She opened the door at last and was in the middle of the room before she noticed anything strange. Then she simply stared, open-mouthed. Every strip of paper was loosened from the walls, and had either fallen flat to the floor or hung loosely in hideous bubbles and wrinkled.

It never occurred to this persevering worker that there was anything to do but to strip it all off, apply fresh paste, and once more brush it back on the walls. This she accordingly did, and also made good headway with the two remaining sides during the afternoon.



It was not without some feeling of anxiety that Mrs. Hamlin opened the parlor door the next morning. There was paper on four sides now to flop, to bubble, to wrinkle —and it had all happened! Clearly something was wrong.

She went out to interview the paperhanger who had befriended her. She brought him over to the house. He looked at the hanging paper and the wall behind it.

"No wonder your paper won't stick; that sizing is like varnish. Who told you to put that on?"

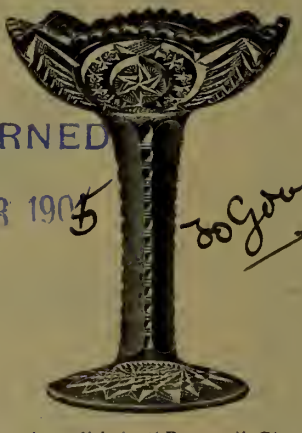
"That was Mr. Hamlin's idea," she said doubtfully.

The man made an estimate of the cost of completing the rooms as follows: Washing off size and papering five rooms $30; new paper for parlor, $8. Mrs. Hamlin told him to go ahead.

NEW IDEAS IN CROCKERY AND GLASSWARE FOR 1905-09

JANUARY is the month when traveling representatives from the leading Canadian crockery and glassware houses go the rounds of the retail grocery and general mercantile trades, booking orders in crockery and china for the season 1905-06. In order that the trade may be in the best possible position to buy intelligently, the Canadian Grocer has gone to the trouble of making a personal inspection of the different wholesale establishments, and has much pleasure in publishing the following suggestions concerning lines of china and glassware to be featured during the coming season.

In dinnerware, a line is being introduced to the trade, known as the Elite La Belle pattern in English semi-porcelain, with floral scroll decoration in three colors. Among the attractive features of this line, are its extremely low price, delicacy of finish, and light weight, reminding one of French china. A companion set bound to appeal to lovers of old fashioned china is a production of the original "Simon Pure" willow pattern in old blue and white. This line has the advantage of comparative cheapness and will on account of its distinctive character, prove a ready seller.



Following the craze for old patterns, an attractive reproduction of an old Yorkshire decoration, in red cherries, is shown in ordinary white earthenware. This line is comprised of separate pieces made up in assorted packages, and is one of the prettiest the writer has ever seen. It has such a clean, fresh and appetizing look, that it cannot fail to prove an irresistible attraction to the housewife. Perhaps its greatest merit, however, is its cheapness; "Cherry" pattern berry sets consisting of seven pieces selling to retail at 50c., separate bowls and salads, to retail at 10 and 15c., respectively, and cups and saucers, and plates, to retail at 10c. The grocer can make no mistake in featuring the cherry pattern. Big sales are reported already, attributable largely to the oddness of the pattern and the excellent value offering.

Hardly second to the Cherry pattern in attractiveness, is the "Baltimore" in rich cobalt centre, with yellow edge richly embellished with gold tracery. The same pattern is also reproduced in red and brown. The finish and general effect of the "Baltimore" pattern is excellent, suggesting hand painted decoration, and should ensure for it a ready sale. It is sold only in separate pieces and small assorted sets like the "Cherry", and averages about 20 per cent. higher in price. It may interest the trade to know that one of the Toronto wholesale crockery houses is showing no less than sixty-five lines of dinner sets in open stock to retail at from $4.25 to $9.50.

In fancy china, there are many beautiful designs in Royal Vienna and Bavarian china, one of the newest features being a Watteau decorative effect so fine as to be ordinarily mistaken for hand painted minature work. This line is shown mostly in separate plates, bon bon trays, and cups and saucers.

"Prescut" Glass.

A NEW wrinkle in glassware, which promises to become very popular on the Canadian market during the coming season, is the celebrated "Prescut Glass," which has been extensively sold in the United States during the past year. The pattern is decidedly a new one and from the accompanying illustrations it will be seen that it is one of the best cut designs that have yet been reproduced in pressed glass. A strong feature is the extraordinary brilliancy of the glass and the fact that the price is only about one-tenth that of real cut glass, while at the same time many of the qualities of the best cut goods are faithfully reproduced, namely, purity of color, good weight and artistic design. The "Prescut" pattern should commend itself to every up-to-date merchant as it makes a medium-priced line between the extremes of cheap glass and cut glass, and at the same time leaves the dealer a good margin of profit.

Bon-bon dish in "Prescut" Glass.

Vase in "Prescut" glass.

Another line which was introduced to the Canadian trade last season and is going to be a strong feature this year is bright, fire-polished glass with gold decoration, made up in small assorted lots, containing pieces to retail at 15c. This line has already been distributed all over Canada where it has proved a wonderfully good seller. The 1905 assortment contains larger pieces of better pattern at the same price and is bound to beat the record of the preceding year. Gowans, Kent & Co., Toronto, handle both of these lines.

Canadian Apples in Australia.

THE Canadian export trade will be interested in hearing of the arrival of a trial consignment of British Columbia apples in Melbourne, Australia. The varieties comprised Spitzenbergs, Wealthies, Canada Reds, and Maiden Blushes. With the exception of the latter, which were bruised and "specky," the consignment arrived in splendid condition. Under existing freight conditions, which include transhipment at Sydney, it is considered by experts that "Maidens Blushes" are not good carriers, besides which they were deficient in color—an all-essential factor in securing good prices. The Spitzenbergs and Wealthies were exceptionally well colored and brought the highest prices.

SHIPMENTS SHOULD ARRIVE IN OCTOBER.

This first shipment of Canadian apples to Melbourne arrived at what proved, this year, a very opportune time, as supplies of Tasmanian apples were not available, and local fresh fruits had scarcely arrived—the season being fully a month later than usual. Such conditions may not, however, prevail again, but consignments to arrive in Australia in October and up to the middle of November should bring payable returns. There was not a sign of insect life in the British Columbia apples, while some thousands of cases of Californian were recently destroyed on arrival in Australia owing to being infected with the codlin moth.

New Canning Factory.

The report is current that on account of a disagreement between the canners and tomato growers a new canning factory will shortly be started in Hamilton. A company is being organized with $50,000 capital.

Gold Medal for B. C. Fruit.

IT is a matter for congratulation in Canadian fruit growing circles that British Columbia fruit has been awarded the gold medal at the Colonial Fruit Show of the Royal Horticultural Society held in London, Eng., Dec. 12 to 15. Messrs. Garcia, of Covent Garden, probably the largest fruit firm in London, write complimenting the British Columbia fruit department on the excellent quality and condition of the apples shown at the Colonial Fair. They say that owing to the great distance of British Columbia from England, only two varieties of these apples are likely to give satisfactory remunerative returns to the grower or shipper, namely, Newtown Pippins and Spitz. The Garcia people are in the habit of receiving many thousands of boxes of Oregon Newtons, yearly, and express the opinion that B.C. fruit, if properly managed, can compete with Oregon fruit. They go so far as to ask to be placed in communication with some reliable people in British Columbia with whom they can correspond concerning the prospects of B. C. fruit in the English market. The scheme of packing Oregon Newtowns should be copied exactly, since these reach the English market in splendid condition.

A Souvenir to the Trade.

The Canadian Grocer is in receipt of a handsome leather-bound memorandum book and card case combined from Eben James, apple exporter, Toronto. It has been made especially to suit the convenience of the fruit dealer and should be in the possession of every member of the trade.

Grenoble Walnuts.

Walnuts are the second most important article of export from Grenoble. The harvest of 1903 was above the average and produced about 28,000 bales of 100 kilograms each (6,172,880 pounds) of unshelled nuts and 30,000 to 35,000 cases of 25 kilograms each (1,652,700 to 1,928,150 pounds) of shelled nuts or walnut kernels. This year the harvest, by reason of the long summer drought and exceptional heat, is but little above half the average, though the nuts are of excellent quality. This has caused prices to rule somewhat higher, the more so because, owing to continued rains, the California crop is also shortened.

In answer to frequent inquiries as to the extent of the walnut crop in France, the following approximate estimate is of interest to the trade:

Production of walnuts in France, 1900 and 1901.

Year.	Kilograms.	Pounds.	Value.
1900.....	72,529,700	159,900,590	$3,648,616
1901.....	87,699 300	193,343,832	3,827,178

Exports of walnuts from France, 1900 to 1902.

Year.	Kilograms.	Pounds.	Value.
1900.....	17,113,000	37,727 700	$1,369,000
1901.....	20,849,800	45,965,938	1,668,000
1902.....	11,297,200	24,906,064	903 800

Poor Apple Season.

While the apple shipments from Canadian and United States ports to Great Britain to the present time are a million barrels less than a year ago, 1,524,957 in 1904, against 2,546,141 in 1903, the season has probably been the worst since 1896, owing to the superabundance of the British and continental crops of apples and small fruit, in fact in many districts in England apples were never picked, the market not warranting the local freight, and had it not been for the well-established channels of trade it would have been impossible on many occasions for shippers of Canadian and United States apples to have realized freight and charges.

To-day there are held in Canada approximately 125,000 barrels for export. In the United States there are probably 3,000,000 in store, a large proportion of which will be consumed in the local markets, and with the exception of Maine and New England districts the exports will be light unless the British markets become more favorable.

There is not much probability of a high range of prices ruling in British apple markets from now on as there will be no shortage of fruit, and should shipments fall off (which might be caused by a preceding slump) it will be difficult to make English buyers pay a high figure when they have been used to cheap apples all season, especially in view of the fact that early vegetables will soon be arriving on the British markets together with heavy supplies of oranges.

Price of Tomatoes Fixed.

The Hamilton District Tomato Growers' Association, at a general meeting last week, discussed the contract price of tomatoes for the season 1905. The growers contended that it was impossible to make any money growing tomatoes at twenty-five cents per bushel, and requested the canners to raise the price for the coming season to thirty cents.

In view of the unsatisfactory nature of the answers received from the canners, the Association decided to raise the price for the season of 1905 to thirty cents per bushel.

A motion was made and carried that the name of the Association be changed to read "Tomato and Fruit-Growers' Association," the idea being to widen the scope of the Association so as to include fruit growing interests. The executive of the association was also empowered to establish branches in every district of Ontario in which tomatoes are grown.

Apples for Scandinavia.

E. Sontum, writing to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, on trade conditions in Scandinavia, says there is a market for Canadian apples in Norway, Sweden and Denmark, if exporters will send the best fruit. Baldwins are the most acceptable variety, and are worth $10 a barrel when the $2 duty is paid.

Fruit Notes.

The apple storage warehouse in Brighton, Ont., belonging to W. Wade, was destroyed by fire on Jan. 7, together with two thousand barrels of winter apples.

Eben James, apple exporter, Toronto, representing Woodall & Co., London, England, and managing director of the Cold Storage and Forwarding Co., Toronto, has moved his offices from the Board of Trade Building to Room 103 Union Station.

O. Brown, of Vancouver, has gone into the fruit business in partnership with the Earl of Aberdeen, formerly Governor-General of Canada, who is the owner of a large ranch in the Okanagan district. The new enterprise is to be known as the Oscar Brown Co.

The Grain Situation.

THE Canadian grain market has been exhibiting signs of increased activity during the week, prices showing an advance both in Manitoba and the East. Considerable export business is reported in low-grade Manitoba wheat and flour, some of the latter of which is is being shipped via New York. The domestic milling trade continues without special feature, and the flurries in grain are largely owing to the manipulations of speculators. It is thought by those conversant with the grain trade that the new regulations regarding the drawback on wheat entering the United States will have no ultimate effect on the price of Canadian wheat unless it be to create two bidders, namely the American as well as the Canadian miller, instead of one as heretofore. Another thing to be kept in mind is that the acreage of wheat in the United States is bound to be largely increased on account of dollar wheat ruling the market. U. S. Congress, moreover, is discussing a bill which proposes to admit Manitoba wheat into Minnesota and the Dakotas free of duty for seeding purposes. Such a measure would unquestionably have a stimulating effect on the Canadian article.

Wheat on passage to the United Kingdom at the present time totals 19,680,000 bushels, to Europe 8,640,000 bushels. Corn to the United Kingdom totals 5,600,000 bushels, and to Europe 10,180,000 bushels. The world's wheat shipments on Jan. 9, 1905, totalled 5,620,000 bushels, as compared with 6,855,165 bushels on Jan. 11, 1901, distributed as follows: America 1,412,000 bushels, Argentine 272,000 bushels, Australia 224,000 bushels, India 1,672,000 bushels, Russia 2,040,000 bushels.

The British grain markets have been dull for the week and the tendency, generally, is downwards. Supplies and crop reports are keeping buyers indifferent. The dominating factor which is influencing the market abroad is dread of the consequences which the impact of the new Argentine crop will have as soon as it begins to move in real earnest. If it were not that importers in Europe were well stocked it might be fairly safe to take this opportunity in order to buy, since it is almost invariably safe to buy when shippers first commence to offer a new crop freely; but with a stock of 15,000,000 quarters visible in commercial channels in Europe, the effective buying power is restricted.

It must not be overlooked, however, that from 3,000,000 to 1,000,000 quarters which Argentine may be expected to ship during January and March, 1905, will be wanted in addition to a part of present millers' and merchants' stocks.

Last year the market had to submit to similar treatment, while concurrently North America was engaged in marketing 1,000,000 quarters, and it is hard to conceive how importing countries could dispense with prospective Argentine supplies this season.

Limit of Wheat Production in U.S.

WILL the United States soon reach the period when her wheat yield shall not be sufficient for home consumption? asks H. V. Jones in The Northwestern Miller. This is a practical question that has been called out by developments of the last three years, during which time the export flour trade of the United States has been practically eliminated.

A little of trade reminiscence will help to set out the wheat situation clearly. Wheat was selling at Minneapolis in the Spring of 1903 at 70 cents, following a production for the United States in 1902 of about 680,000,000 bushels. The crop of 1903 was 50,000,000 bushels less than in 1902, and this decrease of yield was taken from the export surplus of the country. The reduced surplus advanced the price of wheat to one dollar with the average price for the year holding in the nineties for contract grade.

In 1904, we have a yield in the United States estimated to be 100,000,000 bushels less than in 1903, which leaves the current crop with only a small export surplus, not including wheat brought into the crop from the previous year. The prospect of so small a surplus, with the realization of a production in parts of several states below home needs, has forced the price of wheat to a point that has stopped free wheat and flour export from the United States.

It is this abnormal situation that has brought out the suggestion that the United States is about to become an importing country. This conclusion would seem to be premature, when all the governing facts are considered.

The United States has raised this year close to 525,000,000 bushels of wheat and has 82,000,000 of people to feed. The food, seed and stock requirements are 525,000,000 in round figures, a little more or less, according to the stocks the farmers hold at the end of each crop year, which in the United States is computed on July 1, as an average date between Winter and Spring marketings. In other words, while the figures above home food and seed needs may show an amount available for export, this amount is never sold out clean, hence an allowance must be made for supplies in bins in the item of home needs just as much as if that amount entered actually into home consumption. There will be a bin surplus every year.

With this item included, 525,000,000 bushels is a proper total to allow for the needs of the United States. This year the country produced about its needs on this basis. The government places the yield 25,000,000 in excess of this total in its preliminary estimate of yield. This reduces the surplus for export on this crop to the total brought into the current crop year on July 1, 1904, and which did not exceed 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 in all probability

With this statistical showing we can understand why contract wheat has been selling in the United States since the last crop at an average of $1.15. The demand for wheat from all sides of the country forced up the price and led to the hasty conclusion by many that the United States has to withdraw from the flour and wheat export trade. Such a conclusion is not a surprise when we recall that as late as 1902, the United States exported 225,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour. To have that item eliminated, suddenly brought the milling trade to a new proposition.

The increase of population in the United States is increasing home needs yearly, and in a few years that country may disappear from the list of grain exporting areas. But this will not be realized immediately. It is probably several years away.

The wheat acreage of every country fluctuates, as does the yield. In 1881, the United States had a wheat acreage 3,700,000 larger than in 1895; but it now has an acreage 10,000,000 larger than in 1895. A few years back the Ohio valley was a heavy producer of wheat. Now the states of Michigan Ohio, Indiana and Illinois scarcely produce a surplus above bread and seed. Production in the meantime has moved into Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, the northwestern Spring wheat states and into the Puget Sound country.

The present area can produce 100,000,000 bushels in excess of its yield in 1901. It has been realized and would have been this year, had not unusual rainfall in the southwestern states about July 1, and rust in Nebraska and the northwestern states in July and August caused heavy loss. The wheat had nearly matured when flood, rains and disease cut off fully 100,000,000 bushels. Had the yield in prospect been secured, the United States would have realized a surplus of 100,000,000 to 125,000,000 bushels for export and would have continued this year in the export business, with the price of wheat on a more normal basis.

On account of the steady reduction in stocks carried over July 1, into the new crop, the country needs to raise from 625,000,000 bushels up to be able to compete advantageously in Europe with the wheat from other exporting countries. Barring occasional accidents, such as interfered with the product this year, this total can be raised for several years.

inspector of flour and meal for the same territory in accordance with a request of the Winnipeg Board of Trade and the desire of the British dealers to be able to buy the flour of small western mills on inspection.

The latter feature of the Canadian export flour trade was laid before western grain and flour milling interests last Fall by the agent of a large British flour commission house who visited this country, looking into the ways and means of increasing the export flour trade between Great Britain and the West. Mr. Horn's appointment is especially suitable as Mr. Horn has had practical experience in milling in both countries. The inspection has nothing to do with the ordinary trade in flour since it is not compulsory, merely giving the smaller millers a better opportunity of placing their flour on the British markets.

Canadian Wheat in Duluth.

THE first shipment of Canadian wheat to be delivered to Duluth this crop year, consisting of about 5,000 bushels, has reached that city. The cargo has been placed in bond where it will remain until the opening of navigation for exportation to Liverpool.

The recent shipment is the first to go to Duluth for about a year and a half. Since the construction of the elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur comparatively little Canadian grain has been received at the American head of the lakes. The wheat which was shipped to Duluth this year, however, is grown in territory that is not tributary to the Canadian lines running to the Canadian head of the lakes. It was raised in Manitoba and hauled by teams across the boundary to Sherwood, N.D., where it was loaded by the Soo road. It eventually sought its only water route by the way of Duluth.

It is expected that considerable of the Canadian wheat will be sent via Duluth this year. The elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William, it is said, will hardly care for all the grain grown along the lines of the Canadian roads Wheat which has formerly been hauled a long distance to the Dominion carrier lines will probably be taken across the line and delivered to roads with direct access to Duluth.

Australian Wheat Crop.

Preliminary harvest estimates for this season have recently been published, but at the present time, calculations are misleading, and at the best can only be taken as approximate. The season is nearly a month later than usual. The three wheat exporting states: Victoria, South Australia and New South Wales are estimated to produce an exportable surplus of 21,000,000 bushels, which is less than half of last season's surplus available for over-sea shipment. If present weather conditions continue for another month, the estimates are likely to be increased.

Since the opening of the present season, at the beginning of December, 1903, the exports of Australian wheat and flour to over-sea destinations have (reducing the flour to the equivalent of wheat) reached the total of about 38,000,000 bushels of wheat, about 30,500,600 bushels being for Europe, 5,665,000 bushels for South Africa, 571,000 bushels for South America, and the balance (1,264,000 bushels) for various other destinations. This season's exports to date represent an aggregate value, at port of shipment, of about £6,500,000. Making allowances for the quantity unfit for over-sea shipment the surplus of f.a.q. old wheat available for export is now estimated at—in the vicinity of—5,000,000 to 6,000,000 bushels.

To Change Grading of Manitoba Wheat.

Members of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association are discussing the advisability of making some radical changes in the present system of grading wheat. There is general dissatisfaction among farmers in the Canadian West at the multiplication of grades and the wide range of prices between each, practical tests having proved that there is no corresponding difference in the milling value of wheat. It is felt that unless some means can be devised by which the spread between grades will be much lessened, it will be in the interests of the farming community to have the grading system abolished, and wheat bought and sold on sample according to its milling value. The weak features of the present system have become particularly noticeable during the past few months, when Manitoba wheat exported to the United States had to compete on an even basis with the American article owing to marked differences in grading. It is probable that remedial legislation will be passed at the next session of the Dominion Parliament.

King's Food.

The Robt. Greig Co., Toronto, are putting a new cereal food on the market under the name of "King's" food. It is put up in three-pound packages, each one of which contains a glass dish, and retails for a quarter. Mr. Greig reports that the new food is a great seller and that 4,000 doz. were sold even before the labels were made.

Flour Goes to the Tropics.

One of the most curious and interesting features in connection with the Canadian export flour trade during the past three years is the increasing demand for flour in 50-lb. sealed tins. Canadian millers do all their business through a middleman and have no knowledge whatever as to the ultimate destination of their products. It is surmised that the flour goes somewhere south of the tropics.

To Abandon All Coupons.

The H-O and Force companies have announced their decision to abandon the cash feature of their premium plan in selling food products, following the lead of the American Cereal Company.

New British Tobacco Duty.

LIVERPOOL being the chief port of entry, and a point of distribution for United States tobacco in Great Britain, it is natural that there should be much concern here as to the effect (favorable or otherwise) of the new additional duty of 6c per pound on 'stripped' leaf," writes the U. S. consul residing in Liverpool, Eng.

The tobacco trade of Great Britain in all its branches—importing, manufacturing, and selling, wholesale and retail—has been much unsettled during the past two or three years, and now this new duty has introduced an additional disturbing influence. Opinions vary considerably as to the effect of the new duty in both Great Britain and the United States. A few days ago the London Times conspicuously published the following:

"We have received from an American correspondent a communication in which he explains the effect which the change in the British duty on tobacco has had on the trade in the United States. An arrangement whereby stripped tobacco comes into this country at 3s 3d (79c) per pound, whereas unstripped comes in at 3s. (73c) per pound, has brought the offal to this country in the shape of the stem. The stem was formerly taken out of the tobacco in the United States and left there. It was the raw material of valuable commercial products, and before the duty was changed he himself had a contract for $15 a ton for stems to be hauled away from the factory door by the purchaser.

"Since the change in the duty the contract has become valueless, as there are no stems to be sold, and the trade in this material has passed to England. The offal is now being ground into powder in Liverpool. From this offal used to be made in the United States (1) germicide powder for sheep washing and for horticultural purposes; (2) a liquid extract of nicotine chemically extracted and shipped to Germany; (3) snuff. The point our correspondent wishes to emphasize is that the importation of the stem into England has created a new industry here, as labor is required to strip the leaf on this side."

The above has been widely reprinted in the English press, particularly in the Liverpool district, and other tobacco centres. Some papers have treated the matter from the fiscal standpoint—that is, the claim has been made that the additional duty of 3 pence (6 cents) on "stripped" leaf as against "unstripped" is really the thin edge of a system of discriminating protective duties on articles wholly or in part manufactured, as against the raw material; and the result of this new tobacco duty, as alleged by the American correspondent of the Times, in creating a new industry in this country, is held to be a vindication of the wisdom of the new duty.

With the object of getting at the actual facts of the case, the Times article was submitted to one of the best-known and largest firms in the United Kingdom importing American leaf tobacco. This firm replies in writing as follows, and it will be observed that it does not agree altogether with the American correspondent of the Times, at least so far as the present situation is concerned:

"There is no new industry. The making of germicide powders is a very old industry, and whether the manufacturers will get their tobacco offal any cheaper in consequence of increased stemming in this country remains to be seen. No increased stemming to any extent has yet taken place, nor will it until the stock of strips in Great Britain is exhausted. Manufacturers of germicide powders in America who have been getting tobacco stems, which they call 'the raw material of valuable commercial products,' may well cry out about the decrease in the supply of stems, in consequence of shippers in Virginia and the Carolinas not making strips for sale in Great Britain out of the crop now being sold, for hitherto stems have been made in such quantities that they have had no value, as indicated by the price, $15 per ton. People will not buy leaf tobacco at from 6 cents to 25 cents per pound to pull the stems to sell at one-third of a cent per pound to makers of germicide powders

"In the West, Kentucky, Clarksville, etc., the scarcity of stems can not yet have been felt, as the strips were made out of the 1903 crop before the duty was raised, and the 1904 crop has not yet been marketed. No doubt the holders of stems would not continue to give them away, when they anticipated no stems being made. Stems being of no value, the cost of tobacco and labor in stemming was added to the strips, which made strips so much dearer. If strips can be made in Great Britain with ample drawback for duty on the stems returned into bond, and these stems be of value for any purpose, then the strips made in Great Britain will be relatively cheaper than those made in America. If the scarcity of stems in America should compel manufacturers of germicide powder to pay the first cost of the stems, then American stemmers would be able to send strips to Great Britain at a price that would enable English manufacturers to buy American-made strips and pay the extra 6 cents duty."

New Tobacco Advertising.

A hundred dollar bill is such a tempting morsel that the wide-awake seeker of publicity has utilized the bait for advertising purposes. The use of money as an ad. is not new in itself, but there are always new scttings for the rarest gems. The Irving Cigar people, Hirsch Sons & Co., have adopted a "roll" ad. that is attracting attention all over the Dominion. They have an exact fac simile of a roll of bills with a green bill outside bearing the figures "100" in bold letters. So thick is the wad that one is impressed with the appearance of money and not with the fact that the hundred refers to numbers, not dollars. Within the roll is a list of the Irving premiums. Thc whole is nicely printed and in every way a credit to the firm.

FINANCE AND INSURANCE

ANOTHER entirely satisfactory report was presented to the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal in annual meeting assembled on December 5. Its principal features included an increase in deposits bearing interest of $13,265,000, an increase of call loans of $9,143,000, an increase in current loans of $6,699,000, and a decrease in the balance due by agencies of the bank and other banks outside Canada of $4,114,000. The bank's profits for the year ending October 31 were, after deducting charges of management, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts, $1,609,207.95, out of which was paid $1,400,000 in dividends at the rate of ten per cent. per annum, leaving $209,207.95, which added to balance of profit and loss account of $373,988.06, carried forward from the year ending October 31, 1903, gives a balance carried forward for this year of $583,196.01. In a nutshell, the bank earned ten per cent. on its paid-up capital of fourteen million dollars, and has been able to add two hundred thousand dollars odd to profit and loss account.

THE decision of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to increase its capital stock from $8,700,000 to $10,000,000 draws attention to the great increase in the business of that institution and also indirectly to the remarkable position of nearly all the banks of the country. At the present moment the capacity of Canadian banks is being taxed as never before. Their combined capital is barely sufficient to handle the country's business, and the action of the Bank of Commerce in increasing its capital is no doubt but the first step of several that will shortly be taken for the increase of the banks' capacity. It is freely stated that at least two other banks will make a similar move at the end of the year and perhaps others will follow. The two mentioned at present are the Dominion Bank, which is expected to issue $1,000,000 new stock, bringing its capital up to $4,000,000, and the Standard Bank, whose capital has hitherto been $1,000,000.

THE statement of profit and loss and the general statement submitted to the shareholders of the Eastern Townships Bank at the annual meeting is a highly satisfactory one, the net profits for the year amounting to $306,968, which is equal to nearly 12 1-2 per cent. In addition to this there was the sum of $22,995 premium paid on new issue of capital stock and $27,647 balance at credit of profit and loss brought forward from last tyear, making a total of $357,611. Out of this, two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 4 per cent., making 8 per cent. per annum, were allotted to shareholders; $50,000 was transferred to rest account; $40,000 was applied to the reduction of value of assets, and $40,000 in reduction of bank premises and furniture. This left a balance of $30,217 at the credit of profit and loss.

NOTES.

A branch of the Sovereign Bank was opened at Galt on December 13.

Mr. W. J. Stark is the manager of the new market branch of the Sovereign Bank in Toronto.

Another branch has been opened by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, this time in Claresholm, Alberta. This makes the 112th branch of this large Canadian institution—106 in Canada, 5 in the United States and one in London, England.

The annual statement of the Bank of Toronto for the year ending November 30, 1904, shows a fine increase in net profits, due, partly at least, to the enlarged capital. The net profits, after making due provision for possible losses, are $445,425, or nearly 15 per cent. of the capital stock. The rest account has been added to by $145,570 during the year, and is now $300,000 in excess of its paid-up capital of $3,000,000.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association have appointed the following gentlemen as the permanent committee on insurance for the association: P. H. Burton, W. B. Tindall, P. W. Ellis, W. P. The Canada Trust Co., Limited, with a capital stock of $250,000, has received letters patent of incorporation under the Manitoba John Stock Companies Act. The objects of the company are to carry on the business of a trust and loan company, to advance money on real estates and other securities and to act as financial agents for individuals and corporations, etc. The head office will be in Winnipeg. To Manufacturers' Agents

THE CANADIAN GROCER has enquiries from time to time from manufacturers and others wanting representatives in the leading business centres here and abroad.

Firms or individuals open for agencies in Canada or abroad may have their names and addresses placed on a Special list kept for the information of enquirers in our various offices throughout Canada and in Great Britain without charge.

Address, BUSINESS MANAGER,

CANADIAN GROCER,

Montreal and Toronto.

When an Apple Drops

from a tree it always falls faster the last second than it does the first—and the farther it falls the more speed it acquires and the harder it hits the ground.

And the longer your ad runs in THE CANADIAN GROCER the more force it acquires and the harder it hits.

In these days of keen competition it is usually necessary to hit hard to make an impression.

Which means that you must often keep your ad running a long time before it "hits" some readers.

Every ad that appears in these columns has the force of all previous ads behind it—and with each consecutive insertion YOUR ad hits harder.

The first time your ad appears it does not do as much good as the second time—and the second time it is not so effective as the third time.

"Appearances" count for a great deal in advertising.

SNOWDON, FORBES & CO., - MONTREAL

Trade Between Canada and the West Indies

ALTHOUGH Canada has been exporting her products, including breadstuffs, lumber and fish, to the British West Indies for many years, general trade between the two countries has become a considerable item only within the last decade. Canadian manufacturers have slowly wakened up to the fact that the West Indies present an excellent market for their products and are now cultivating this trade assiduously with the result that Canada's exports to the Islands totalled over two million dollars during the past year, the imports being slightly under this figure. For 1904 the volume of trade between the two countries shows a considerable increase over that of 1903, both in exports and imports, largely owing to the preference Canada now extends to the British West Indies. Exports to Bermuda, the Windward Islands and Jamaica during 1901 were so large as to tax steamers in the Canadian service to their utmost capacity. The increase, chiefly in mill and farm products, flour, millfeeds, oats, potatoes, etc., having gone forward in large quantities. The prospects for an exchange of Canadian and West Indian commodities on a large scale were never brighter than at the beginning of 1905.

Perhaps the most encouraging feature of the situation is the very decided preference shown by West Indian merchants for trading with Canada, providing terms and facilities offered are equal to those that may be obtained elsewhere. In this connection the following extract from a recent issue of the Jamaica Daily Telegraph is significant:

"There is not the slightest doubt that Canada is one of the coming great countries of the world. There is equally little doubt that, just in proportion to the increase of its population, it will require a vastly increased quantity of tropical products. And no intelligent man in this colony will venture to question the assertion that Canada is as capable of supplying our population with foodstuffs, clothing, footwear and building materials as the United States."

Freights

Canada, however, has so far been at a serious disadvantage in such matters as freights. The majority of West Indian buyers are in the habit of buying in less than carload lots. Canadian freight rates to the seaboard on less than carload shipments are about fifty per cent. higher than carload rates, which makes the price laid down in any port in the West Indies too high to compete with the New York prices, as ocean freight appears to be based on measurement rather than on quantity, and five cases apparently take the same rate per 100 lbs. as a carload would. The only solution seems to be for Canadian exporting houses to appoint representatives in the West Indies to handle their goods, who will be able to work up orders for carload lots in each Island. Houses unable to sell a carload of stuff to any one Island or individual person might send a carload for two or three Islands consigned to one of the Canadian West Indian Steamship Companies for export. They would then obtain the export rate and secure proper bills of lading for their goods in addition to their distribution.

J. CAMERON,

Travelling representative of the MacLean Trade Newspapers, who left on Jan. 19 for a three months' trip to the West Indies.

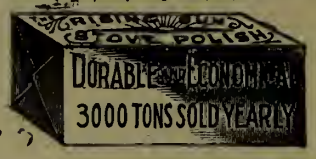
A serious difficulty confronting Canadian exporters is the fact that not sufficient attention is paid to the quality of goods by West Indian merchants. A prominent Canadian canner who visited Bermuda in the Spring of 1901 claims that he found the only way to do business there was to carry samples, cut cans and compare quality. In every case where comparison of quality was made he obtained orders for Canadian goods at full prices. There seems to be a class of goods packed in Baltimore, U.S., and surrounding districts, especially for a low-priced export trade, and comparisons have to be made between the different packs in order to understand the difference in price. Canadian canned goods can be put up as cheaply as in any other part of the world when quality is taken into consideration.

Statistics.

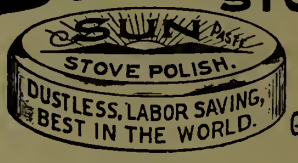
Our imports from the British West Indies for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, were $1,829,330, as compared with $1,529,170 in 1902, $1,279,952 in 1901, $878,617 in 1900 and $906,405 in 1899, an increase of over one hundred per cent. in four years. By far the biggest item is sugar and molasses, the figures being $1,094,785 and $319,318 respectively in 1903. Cocoa beans and cocoanuts were imported in 1903 to the extent of $91,210, and coffee to the extent of $10,168. Fruits, including bananas, oranges, lemons and limes, for the same year totalled $129,682; spices $16,669, salt $17,832 and hides $67,201.

Canada exported to the West Indies in 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, and 1903 merchandise to the value of $1,752,251, $1,698,957, $1,925,017, $1,950,016 and $2,181,833. In 1903 the exports were divided approximately as follows: breadstuffs, including beans and split peas, $239,229; grain products, principally Wheat flour, $167,572; fish and fish products, $911,613; coal, $81,570; drugs, dyes, chemicals, etc., $61,118; provisions $179,361; vegetables, $73,544, and wood and manufactures of wood, $159,127

Fish Trade.



Among Canada's exports to the Islands, her fish products loom up biggest. This trade is controlled almost entirely by merchants in the Maritime Provinces, and has become well established. In 1903 the exports were as follows: codfish, $770,714, mackerel, $13,571; herrings, pickled, $135,798; herrings, smoked, $11,376; salmon, $6,063. The quality of Canadian fish products is unsurpassed and the quantity sold annually is steadily increasing.



Flour Trade.

The West Indian flour market has only been exploited in a half-hearted way by Canada. When Canadian millers began to export to the West Indies they utilized low grade flour, the refuse, so to speak, paying little or no attention to package or keeping qualities, and as a result Canadian flour came to be looked upon as an inferior article. The old prejudice against Canadian flour, however, seems to be passing in all parts of the West Indies, thanks to its improved quality. One of the largest bakers and confectioners in the Islands was recently persuaded to give Canadian hard wheat flour a trial, and as a result he has dropped Minneapolis flour entirely. When the trade discover that they can get better flour in Canada at the same price they are not slow to make the change. The change in this instance was not long ago disappointed by a shipment of 1,600 barrels via New York being delayed in transit, but instead of cabling to New York for enough American flour to keep him supplied temporarily, he cabled to Halifax for Canadian flour. During the past year flour shipments have been stationary for local reasons as compared with those of 1903, which amounted to $167,572. The volume of prospective trade in Canadian flour is large and will grow in proportion as the Canadian article wins a firmer place in the West Indian market and improved facilities of transportation enable Canadian manufacturers to compete successfully in price. Canadian flour exporters are considerably hampered at the present time because of the high rate of exchange prevailing on Islands where no Canadian banks are established. New Yorkers do not feel this, since they are in most cases paid in sugar, molasses, etc., which in itself means direct profit.

RETURNED To Owner

Besides flour, the West Indies offer a splendid market for Canadian breakfast foods, oatmeal, etc. Some Canadian brands of breakfast foods in one and two pound packages are already in the market, but the bulk of rolled oats still comes from United States sources. Pearl barley and oatmeal are imported from the United Kingdom in 100-lb. kegs and a very large consumptive demand exists. All the split peas, of which large quantities are imported, came, until recently, through New York commission houses. In the case of oats, Canadian manufacturers are now getting alive to their own interests, and shipments are going direct to local consignees.

Canadian biscuits are also very popular in the British West Indies. The success of one firm, The Christie, Brown Co., in finding a permanent place on the market for their cream sodas is to be attributed largely to the enlightened, businesslike manner in which they went after the trade, and which, if followed will insure the success of any Canadian product in the West Indian market. If this firm had been satisfied with merely experimenting in catalogues, price lists, importers inquiries, expecting to receive cash orders at the outset, instead of appointing a local representative, the fate of their goods would undoubtedly have been similar to that of scores of Canadian producers and manufacturers who have vainly endeavored to introduce their products to the West Indian trade.

Provisions.

As a result of systematic effort Canadian tins and bulk butter enjoy to-day equal favor with Danish and Cork, all but ousting its American competitors. Much yet remains to be done, and directly the West Indian Government authorities take proper precautions to protect consumers from United States, Holland, and United Kingdom margarine and oleos represented as butter, the consumption of the Canadian article ought to double. It might be an advantage to Canadian exporters were they on this account to advertise Canadian dairy products as absolutely pure as well as the fact that the manufacture or sale of butter substitutes is prohibited by Canadian law. Among other requirements of the West Indian market, butter has to be put up in hermetically-sealed tins.

Canadian cheese is also excelling in public favor as against the article of American manufacture. There is room however, for considerable improvement in regard to strength and size of package used. The cheese, moreover, should be mellow while not oily. Several complaints have lately been made that the same quality does not usually follow up first sample shipment, which is damaging in the extreme to the development of Canadian trade and should not occur.

There is a regular demand in the Islands for smoked hams sizing from 7 to 12 lbs., also for shoulder and picnic hams, bacon in breakfast slips, rolls and clean Wiltshire cuts, at present supplied almost entirely by English and United States curers. Canada ought also to supply a share of the milk products consumed in the Islands, which average over $150,000 yearly.

Sugar and Molasses Trade.

The item which bulks largest in Canada's imports from the British West Indies is sugar, though there are gratifying increases to record in cocoa, rum, and fruits, particularly bananas. The situation in sugar is the most interesting feature in connection with the trade, as the high prices are making the people of the West Indies prosperous, thus increasing the spending power of a people well-disposed to buy. This year the price has been good enough on the average to put anywhere from three to four million dollars into circulation in the Islands that the people would not have had if the regular market had prevailed. The hopeful feature of the situation is that it is likely to remain as good during the coming year, in which case the purchasing power of the people will be increased by an extra profit on sugar over normal times of about $7,000,000.

In 1903 Canada imported sugar and molasses to the value of $1,444,122, as compared with $1,189,879 in 1902 and $661,889 in 1899. A significant feature in connection with the West Indian molasses is the rapidity with which it is taking the place of other molasses products until recently consumed in comparatively large quantities in Canada.

In the sugar exports of the British Islands and Demerara, the position now seems to be reversed, as it effects the United States and Canada. For instance,

WE HAVE A SPECIAL OFFER IN EVAPORATED

STANDARDS in 80-lb. boxes

THE DAVIDSON & HAY, LIMITED

in 1902, when the United States took 92,000 tons of sugar from Demerara, Canada took only 10,000 tons. In 1903 trade turned considerably, and while the United States imports of Demerara sugar declined to 68,000 tons, Canada's increased to 54,000 tons. Now Canada is in the lead, importations for 1904 totalling about 70,000 tons.

In fruits, bananas and oranges take the lead, and although the annual volume of importations is not large, namely, $129,682 in 1903, it is growing rapidly and promises well during the next few years. One of the questions confronting West Indian merchants to-day in connection with any proposed reciprocal arrangement between the British West Indies and Canada would undoubtedly be will they be able to dispose of their large surplus of fruit to as good an advantage, provided a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada were arranged, as they do in the United States at present. And might not the United States instead of finding a ready market for over five million dollars worth of British West Indian fruit yearly be inclined to discriminate against the Islands if they decided to give a preference to other markets?

Transportation.

Direct transportation facilities between Canada and the West Indies are provided by Canada-Jamaica Line and the Pickford & Black Steamship Co., of Halifax, the latter of which has a fleet of steamers (one of which, the "Dahome," is reproduced in this week's issue of The Grocer), sailing from maritime ports every fourteen days for West Indian ports. Even now the service is taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the steadily-increasing volume of date the steadily-increasing volume of international trade, and the next year or two will undoubtedly see a number of extra steamers plying between Canadian and West Indian ports.

OFFICERS FOR 1905.

The Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association has elected the following officers for 1905: President, James Main; first vice-president, W. Swye; second vice-president, J. Forth; secretary, M. R. Hill; treasurer, C. Bremner; executive committee, G. Cann, E. Layland H. P. Boyd, A. Ballentine and A. G. Bain; auditors, C. H. Peebles and J. C. Carpenter.

PARAGRAPHS TRANSPOSED.

THROUGH a typographical error the two following paragraphs, which should be read consecutively, became separated in the last issue of The Canadian Grocer. They are reproduced here that readers of The Grocer may get the proper connection.

Mr. N. H. Geary, representing S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, one of the oldest travelers on the road, and well known throughout the Eastern part of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, has been compelled through illness to retire temporarily from the road. Mr. Geary has been connected with the above firm for over twenty-five years.

In the meantime the firm of S. H. Ewing & Sons have engaged the services of Mr. D. W. Douglas, for many years Quebec representative for E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto. FRESH AND CURED FISH

Close Season for Salmon.

SALMON canners on the Pacific coast are much interested in the movement to proclaim a close season on the Fraser River and Puget Sound during the years 1906 and 1908. In order to be entirely effective this will have to be an international affair regulated by the Canadian and United States Governments. The B. C. canners are sending a delegation to Ottawa to urge the importance of the matter on the Government.

On the other side of the boundary fishermen are taking the ground that it is only a scheme of the canners, and one newspaper on the coast has come out editorially to warn the people that is is merely because a big year is expected now (1905), and the idea of a close season in 1906 is merely to sell the big pack they expect to put up this year at high prices; in other words, that the whole movement is an effort to "bull" the market. Just what will be the outcome, it is too early to say. One thing is certain, the Fraser River salmon run is far from what it used to be, and some radical improvement is apparently needed in the administration of this valuable natural resource of the country.

The canners are in the unfortunate predicament that while they believe the only salvation for the salmon industry is the closing down of all the canners during the off years and only packing in the heavy years, and have signed bonds in every instance, agreeing to close down if such a course is decided upon, they have to express themselves individually as believing such a course impossible owing to the consternation it would cause in the laboring world. The shutting down of the canneries would mean throwing out of employment eight thousand people, and keeping some four million dollars out of circulation.

In addition it is believed that if every one of the forty-three canneries on the Fraser River agreed to suspend the excessive slaughter of fish for one season other capitalists outside of the agreement would patch up a barn of a cannery, throw together some second-class machinery, and reap a big harvest on their own account. The only course open is for the Dominion Government to prohibit fishing for two or three years. This course, however, would cause too much opposition from the laboring classes. Thus the immediate need of the fishermen and the consequent running of the canneries will probably result in heavy losses to the canneries operating.

Market for Boneless Cod.

The business of Australian requirements of boneless codfish is practically entirely in the hands of a San Francisco concern, which closely caters for the Australian market, says the Canadian commercial agent at Melbourne, Australia. The fish is packed in boxes containing 30 pounds, and recent shipments have cost wholesale buyers 7 cents per pound ex steamer, Melbourne, to which the duty of 1 cent per pound has to be added. The "Alaska cod" is said to be dried by a patent process which preserves the fish for a considerable time. The shippers guarantee the quality, which is undoubtedly giving every satisfaction. Before the advent of this special brand importers were frequently put to heavy loss through the fish becoming sweated, discolored and tainted. At c.i.f. and e. cost of 7 cents per pound, Melbourne, there should be some inducement to Nova Scotian first to try and secure a footing in this market.

Canadian Herrings in Australia.

A trial shipment of some 25 cases of British Columbia fresh herrings—in 1-lb round flat cans—to Melbourne, Australia, has not been a success. B. C. packers have apparently a lot to learn before they can produce an article to equal the Scotch herrings—put up in oval cans—which command a very extensive sale throughout the Commonwealth. The Vancouver herrings appeared to be "over-cooked," as the fish was considerably broken and mushy, while the liquid contents was much inferior to the bright oily liquid in the Scotch cans. It is estimated that Australia imports yearly, about 15,000 cases—each containing 4 dozen 1-lb oval cans of fresh herrings, and, while prices are "fine," the trade should be worth the attention of Canadians interested in the fish canning industry.

Enlarging Cold Storage Plant.

The Vancouver Ice and Cold Storage Co., which last Summer completed the installation of a new fish freezer and cold storage plant with total space of 72,000 cubic feet, contemplates still further extending their space, and the number of freezers available for custom work. Another important addition they propose is a special department for storing fresh eggs, so that local merchants buying in the East when eggs are cheapest and best, may be able to bring them forward and hold them at small cost.

1904 Pack.

The total salmon pack of British Columbia during the season of 1904 was 165,894 cases, according to returns which have just been compiled. The packs of recent previous years were as follows; 1903, 173,674 cases; 1902, 625,982 cases; 1901, 1,236,156 cases; 1900, 585,413 cases. On the Fraser River the pack of sockeyes was only 72,688 cases.

In the North the run of sockeyes was greater and the pack correspondingly larger. Grouped together, northern points packed 323,226 cases of sockeyes. The greatest pack of sockeyes on the Northern British Columbia coast, number of canneries considered, was at Rivers Inlet, where the run of these fish was an exceptionally fine one. Wadhams' cannery at Rivers Inlet belonging to the British Columbia Packers' Association, packed more sockeyes than any other company in the province, putting up 28,287 cases. The Brunswick cannery at Rivers Inlet, same owners, put up 25,911 cases.

The northern coast canneries put up a total of 336,991 cases of salmon, including sockeyes, red and white springs, humpbacks and cohoes. The canneries on the Fraser River packed 128,903 cases of all classes of fish.

Disposal of Pack.

The entire pack of the season of 1904 has been marketed with the exception of 68,275 cases stock on hand.

Eastern Canada took 160,258 cases, Australia and New Zealand, 37,050 cases; United Kingdom, 181,111 cases, locally there were sold 15,919 cases. Of the pack shipped to the United Kingdom, 178,041 cases were shipped by steamship direct from Vancouver via the Suez Canal, and 3,070 cases were shipped overland to the Atlantic coast by rail.

Cheese and Butter Situation.

The cheese market does not display much activity, although holders maintain firm views as to prices. Stocks for sale, that is, those not the property of United Kingdom merchants, are now getting into very small compass. The ideas as to the total number of cheese held in Montreal vary widely, but a conservative estimate should be in the neighborhood of 150,000 boxes. Nominally the price is 11c for both colored and white, with the latter the scarcer article of the two.

Butter is also getting rather scarce, and in the neighborhood of 22c is being paid for it. In many instances it is reported that the butter is being exported into the United States for home consumption. In this connection it might be pointed out that freight from Montreal to New York is about 45c per 100 lbs., while the export freight rate to Liverpool is about 35s 9d, or say 37½c per 100 lbs., and in the words of a long-departed Tammany chieftain—"What are you going to do about it?"

A Prosperous Packing House.

A representative of The Canadian Grocer had the pleasure last week of visiting the Hull branch of George Mathews Co. A. Mathews, manager of the Eastern branch (his brothers being in charge of the Peterborough and Brantford packing houses), reports that the past year was a phenomenal one in the history of his firm, and that the future prospects are most encouraging. Mr. Mathews looks forward this year to an even greater turn-over than last, and says that with their thoroughly equipped packing houses in different parts of Ontario, The George Mathews Co. are in a position to promptly and properly execute all demands made on their plants.

An Attractive List.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, in this week's issue present a most attractive list of Canadian and foreign cheeses for the perusal of the readers of The Canadian Grocer, which should prove of great interest to buyers of this commodity. The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. are among the largest dealers in foreign cheese on the continent, having, among others, the agency for Canada and the United States for the "Grande Societe" brand of Roquefort cheese which captured the Grande Prize at the St. Louis Exposition.

New Dairy Commissioner.

The Department of Agriculture is fortunate in being able to call to the service of the dairy industry in Canada so competent a man as Prof. J. A. Ruddick, whose appointment as Dominion Dairy Commissioner is announced. Mr. Ruddick has the advantage of wide personal acquaintance among dairymen from all parts of the country, and by reason of his long and intimate connection with the industry in Canada is peculiarly fitted for the position.

He has already done much valuable educative work among dairymen and the marked improvement in cheese and butter making, in methods of packing, and improved transportation, etc., have been in a measure due to his foresight and energy. Mr. Ruddick brings to the discharge of his new duties the fruits of long years of study of the requirements of the industry, both locally and as affecting the export trade, and with a valuable experience gained as dairy commissioner of New Zealand for some years, his administration may be expected to be progressive and energetic.

The Davies Co. in Montreal.

W. Strachan, president of the Montreal Stock Yards Company, has returned to Montreal from Toronto, where he has been arranging for the sale of an extensive site for a plant to the Wm. Davies Provision and Packing Company. The deal will be closed shortly, at a final meeting between the representatives of both companies in Montreal. The proposed site now forms part of the yards of the Montreal Stock Yards Company on St. Etienne street, Point St. Charles.

J. W. Flavelle, of the William Davies Company, says it is the intention of the company to open several provision stores in Montreal, similar to those in Toronto and many other places in Ontario. The company has already leased premises on St. Lawrence Main, and will open up there at once. Other premises will be acquired from time to time. These stores will deal only in high-class provisions. The company has also leased property from the Montreal Stock Yards Company, and will erect buildings there for packing purposes. Packing will also be carried on for export.

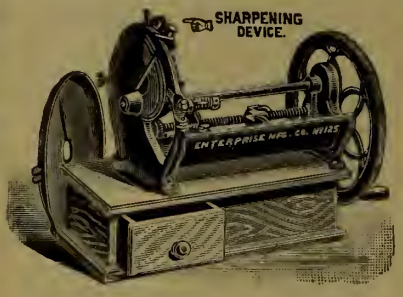
Butter Marks Act.

Complaints have been made by leading Ontario dairymen that it is becoming a common practice for shippers of butter to the Old Country to use the regular 56-pound creamery butter box into which is pounded creamery butter of all grades and colors just as it is bought from the farmers, the boxes being then labelled as finest Canadian creamery butter. It may be found necessary to enact legislation similar to the Fruit Marks Act to protect shippers from the practice of passing off dairy butter as the creamery product.

News Items.

Hon. Chas. Drury, Ontario's first Minister of Agriculture, is dead.

J. H. Allan has disposed of his creamery business in Carleton Place to W. H. Gardiner, of Vankleek Hill.



The Colborne Creamery Co., Colborne Ont., have decided to manufacture cheese during the season of 1905-06, and will install the necessary factory equipment at once. They will also build a curing house.

Cheese—Present eireumstanees leads to the belief that the stock is beiug held by a few dealers and that they are inclined to reserve stoeks until higher priees are offered. If is reported that in order to fill foreign orders, several large dealers have had to go on the market and buy. Prices are firmer although no material change has taken plaee. A strong export demand is noted from England. Our quotations are:

	Per lb.
" twins	0 12

Butter—Supplies of creamery butter arriving are not equal to the demand, sale being quiekly transaeted as soon as arrivals are reported. For brands well known to the trade, as high as 26e per lb may be obtained for ereamery prints. Large rolls of dairy are in good demand and priees are firm. The outlook is for a slight advanee in ereamery and large rolls of dairy. Our quotations are as follows:

" solids, fresh	0 22½	0 23
Dairy prints	0 19	0 21
" large rolls	0 18	0 19

Poultry—Trade is very quiet. Praetieally nothing has arrived on the market during the last week. A fair inquiry has sprung up for dry plucked chickens and if there were any eonsignments on the market they could be easily disposed of. The intimation is that stocks are light throughout the country and prices are expected to continue firm. We quote the following:

Chickens, spring, dry plucked	0 09	0 10
Hens	0 06	0 07
Geese	0 11	0 12
Turkeys	0 15	0 16

Montreal.

Provisions—The market has ruled steady and prices show no important change. Trade in some lines has been fairly good. A fair demand exists for mess pork and sales of some fair sized lots have been made at $16.50 for Canada short cut; in small pareels $17.50. Lard is in fair demand. Hams and baeon are slow as usual, at this season of the year. The tone for dressed hogs has been firmer in sympathy with the advance of live hogs, equal to fully 25e per 100 lbs. Supplies are ample and no changes in priee to note. Fresh abattoir is quoted at $7 to $7.50 and eountry dressed at $6 to $6.75. We quote:

Cheese—The market eontinues strong and prices are steadily advaneing; 11c has been realised in a number of cases on spot and this priee seems to be about the standard and it would seem difficult to get any at any less figure. The volume of business turned over has been fairly good.

Eggs—The demand is a steady one. Pickled eggs are elaimed as being in first hands in this market and about cleaned up; 18 3-4e is given as the priee at whieh last lots were sold. Western small limed stoek are offered at 16e. Cold storage stoek has been in fair demand and sales made at 16c to 18 1-2c, aeeording to quality. Selected Fall fresh at 28c to 30c. The reeeipts during the week have been eonsiderably more than previous weeks, though several hundred under same period last year.

Butter—There is a deeidedly strong undertone to the butter market. Reeeipts have been more liberal than last year at this time, but the demand has prevented an accumulation of stoek on spot. The shipments to the United States have been a feature and had a tendeney to hold up priees. We quote:

Contributors are requested to send news only, not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

S. J. Major, Ottawa, is offering special values in California exported fruits, peaches, apricots, prunes, etc.

The F. J. Castle Co., Ottawa, in their Regal brand of cleaned currants are offering a decidedly fine line of goods to the trade, handsomely put up.

Owing to the increased demand for his special brands of coffees, S. J. Major, Ottawa, has been compelled to put in a special mill. This will enable the firm to fill their orders more promptly and supply the goods in the best and freshest condition.

Provost & Allard, Ottawa, report arrival of a car of "Castle" brand California evaporated prunes, peaches, apricots, etc. These are offered at interesting prices.

Buyers' attention is called to E. D. Marceau's, Montreal, special offers to the trade this week.

Another car of California celery arrived this week for White & Co., Toronto.

W. Gray, of the Montreal Extract Mfg. Co., 1131 St. James street, Montreal, formerly with the N. K. Fairbanks Co., is introducing to the trade in the Maritime Provinces his vanilla, lemon and strawberry extracts. A small bottle contains the various extracts and a formula followed soon makes a respectable amount. Mr. Gray demonstrates his extracts.

Dawson Bros. Commission Company, Toronto, are expecting the arrival of two cars of navel oranges and one car of California celery.

McWilliam & Everest, Toronto, have received two cars of navel oranges, and one car of California celery, also a consignment of Almeria grapes. They are expecting a consignment of Havana pineapples shortly.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, have a special offering in maple syrup in 5-gal. tins. Now is the time to order before prices advance.

Crosse & Blackwell's preserves in 7-lb. tins are offered by The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto. This is an excellent line for high-class trade.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. L. S. Payzant of the wholesale grocery firm of Payzant & King, Halifax, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage on Jan. 11.

Mr. L. R. Buzzell, representing J. A. Mathewson & Co., Montreal, was a caller upon the trade in Ottawa and district during the past week. Business was reported as being good.

Mr. Frank H. Minaker, representing Leeming, Miles & Co., Canadian agents for Royal Baking Powder, was met in Ottawa this week by The Grocer.

Mr. John Everett, well known as an old veteran on the road, was making his rounds in Ottawa last week in the interest of Christie, Brown Co., Limited. Mr. Everett, who was recently elected first vice-president of the Commercial Travelers' Association, Toronto, bears his honors meekly.

Mr. C. M. Hart, of Hart & Tuckwell, wholesale fruit importers, has returned from a ten days' trip to New York. He reports business in fruits very quiet in the metropolis, the recent heavy storms and blizzards having given a set back to the business. The feature tending to some activity in New York is cargo sales of lemons during the Winter. Mr. Hart combined business with pleasure, and reported that, taking a comprehensive view of matters generally, he considered that New York was quieter than he had ever before observed it at this season of the year. Montreal fruit dealers are comparatively independent of the New York and Boston markets as most of the dealing is done by Canadian houses direct with producing countries—a most desirable feature of the business.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER AT WORLD'S FAIR, ST. LOUIS.

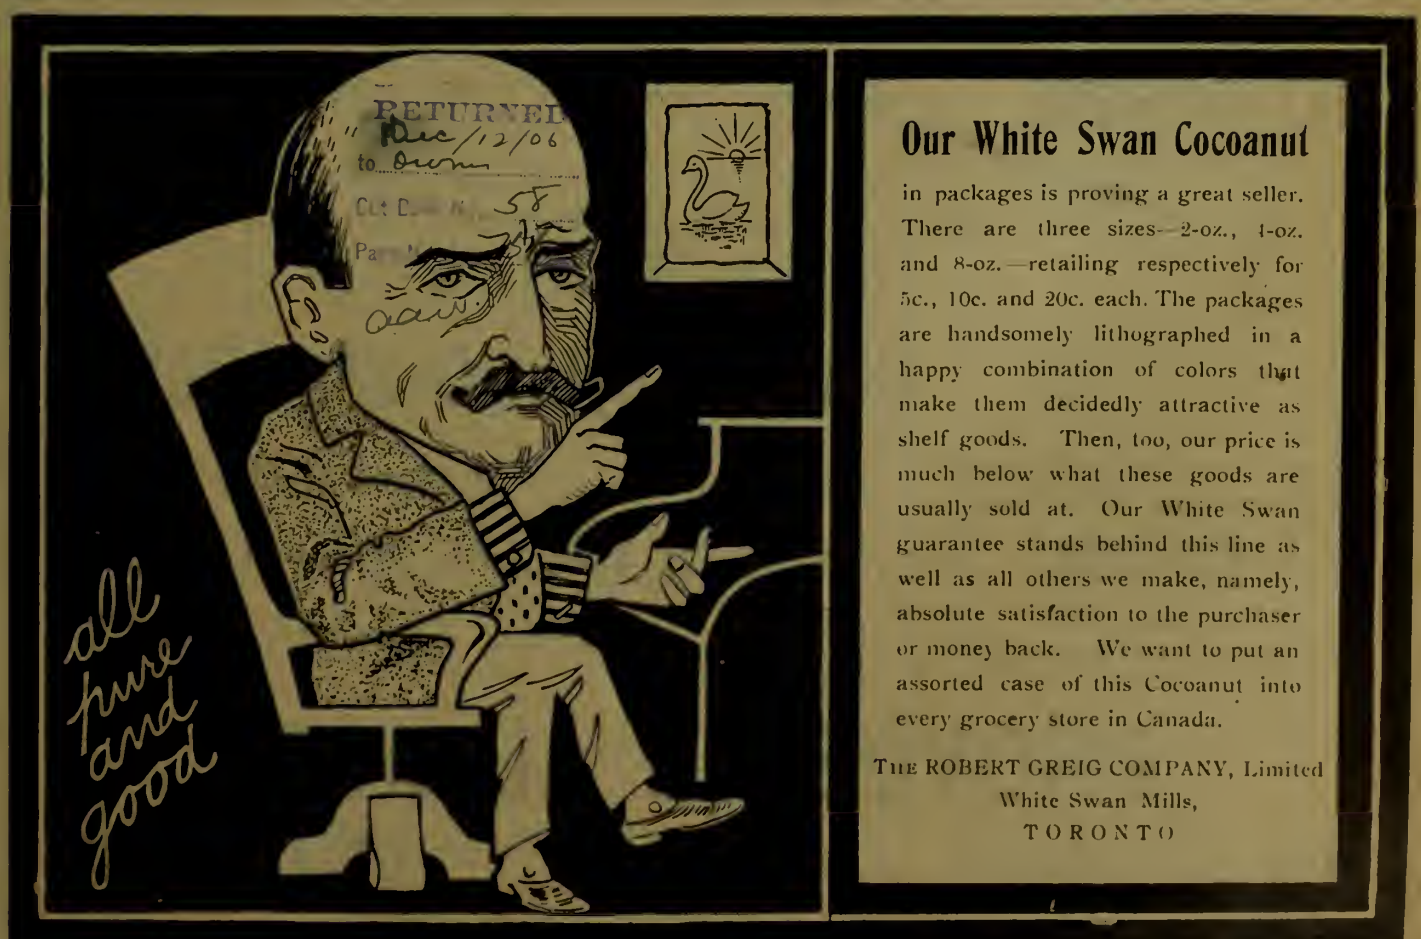
The E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto, have received notification from W. Hutchinson Canadian commissioner to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, that the medal and diploma of the Exposition has been awarded to Magic Baking Powder. Canadian housekeepers are familiar with the quality and reputation of Magic Baking Powder and that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition directors should have appraised it in the manner they did must be a compliment to E. W. Gillett Co. and an assurance to the Canadian trade.

SALADA TEA CO. ENTERTAINS.

On Jan. 5 the New York manager of the Salada Tea Co., J. A. McQuane, tendered a reception and banquet at the Astor House, New York, to twelve of the company's leading salesmen in New York and other cities. Although the affair was purely social, those present found it difficult to refrain from talking "Salada," and in the course of an informal review of the year's work exchanged many suggestions of real value. The entertainment was brought to a close by a musicale in the evening, the assisting artists being some of New York's most distinguished artists.

MR. ALEX. RAMSAY.

An excellent likeness of Mr. Alex. Ramsay, the new representative of the oil, paint, soap, chemical and allied trades on the Council of the Montreal



Mr. Alex. Ramsay.

Board of Trade, is presented herewith. Mr. Ramsay is senior member of the firm of A. Ramsay & Son Company, which has been in existence in Montreal since 1842. He is a prominent figure in Montreal business circles and his name is a familiar one to the trade throughout Canada. He succeeds Mr. J. T. Wilson on the Council of the Board of Trade.

OFF FOR JAPAN.

Mr. Shaw T. Nishimura, Canadian representative of the Japan Central Tea Association, Montreal, left last Saturday, January 14, for Japan, via Chicago and Seattle, sailing by the new steamer Minnesota on her initial trip to Yokohama. Mr. Nishimura will be absent six months, during the first and second pickings, and while in his native land will make extensive visits to the plantations and shipping ports, looking up suitable teas for the Canadian trade. It is also Mr. Nishimura's intention to visit the Island of Formosa with a view of studying the tea interests of that rapidly expanding tea district. The Canadian Grocer wishes him bon voyage and safe return. It goes without saying that the return to his native land will be more than usually interesting on account of the success that has attended the arms of his compatriots in their war with Russia.

Our White Swan Cocoanut

in packages is proving a great seller. There are three sizes—2-oz., 4-oz. and 8-oz.—retailing respectively for 5c., 10c. and 20c. each. The packages are handsomely lithographed in a happy combination of colors that make them decidedly attractive as shelf goods. Then, too, our price is much below what these goods are usually sold at. Our White Swan guarantee stands behind this line as well as all others we make, namely, absolute satisfaction to the purchaser or money back. We want to put an assorted case of this Cocoanut into every grocery store in Canada.

MERGING OF FRUIT DIVISION

GENERAL dissatisfaction is being expressed in Canadian fruit-growing circles at the proposal of the Dominion Government authorities to amalgamate the Fruit and Dairy Divisions, the reason being that the fruit-growing industry has become of sufficient importance to warrant not only its existence as a separate department, but as a department officially responsible to no one but the Minister of Agriculture, instead of its relegation to a position of secondary importance.

The tendency in Ottawa seems to be to cultivate the national dairying industry at the expense of certain other industries which may not yet have shown equally satisfactory pecuniary returns. True, fruit growing in Canada is only in its infancy as compared with the dairying industry and yet it is rapidly coming to the front as one of Canada's most valuable resources. In view of the future, therefore, it would be nothing short of a national calamity were the excellent preliminary work of the Fruit Division to be blocked and the responsibility for the development of the fruit-growing industry handed over to the various provincial agricultural colleges, as has been hinted at.

The Canadian Grocer is heartily in sympathy with the protests that are pouring in from all parts of the country against the proposed amalgamation, and thinks the "powers that be" will hardly care to ignore such unmistakable appreciation of the valuable work of Chief McNeill and his staff, and public conviction of the relative importance of the Canadian fruit-growing industry.

THE SHIPPER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

WE would like to impart a little instruction to the retail trade on the question of shipments by freight, and at the same time to make a suggestion to the jobbers. When a shipper has made a shipment by freight, ex warehouse, or f.o.b., at point of shipment, and has received the transportation company's receipt therefor, his responsibility for the safe delivery of the goods ends. This is a fact of which the consignee is apparently oblivious, or else he forgot it. The moment any hitch occurs, he immediately holds the shipper responsible, and appeals to him. As a result, shippers are inundated with requests and demands which should by rights be addressed to the transportation companies.

Of course, the wholesale houses must, in self-defence, take up these claims and fight them out with the railway companies in the interests of their customers. But very often much annoyance and loss of time would be saved were the purchaser of the goods to make application to the transportation company at the receiving point.

As an assistance to purchasers, shippers might do well to consider the following suggestion. In sending out invoices of goods shipped, include a copy of the bill of lading, showing the date of shipment, and full particulars. The consignee, receiving such a document, has in his hand full evidence that the transportation company has the goods, and he knows just how long they have been in transit. He need not, therefore, unnecessarily accuse the shipper of delaying shipment, or hold him responsible for the non-delivery of the goods.

At the bottom of all the trouble, lies the carelessness of the railway companies. They are responsible for the delays and accidents which may befall shipments, and until they improve their methods and strive to accommodate their patrons better, the trouble will continue. Still, the consignees of goods would relieve shippers very considerably if they would handle cases of delay or loss themselves.

AN IMPORTANT TRIP.

ON January 19, Mr. John Cameron, representing the Maclean Trade Papers, left Canada for the West Indies. He will make a thorough canvass of the Islands in the interests of the circulation department and at the same time will carefully investigate West Indian conditions.

Mr. Cameron has had a long and honorable connection with the Maclean Trade Papers and is well known all over Canada. His thorough acquaintance with the papers and the trades which each represents eminently fits him for the duties which lie before him.

We have brought this matter to the attention of our readers, not from any desire to magnify the importance of what we are doing to extend the interests of Canadian trade, but simply to let our merchants and manufacturers know that Mr. Cameron is willing to be of the utmost service to them.

Should any of our readers desire to have Mr. Cameron make investigations for them, or do any work of a like nature, they might write to the nearest office of this paper and Mr. Cameron will be instructed accordingly. Do not hesitate to make use of us.

NOT A HAPPY COMPARISON.

HON. MR. MACKAY, Minister of Crown Lands in the Ontario Government, who has been doing some of the best work in Northern Ontario for the Government in the present campaign, is not altogether happy in a recent speech in his comparisons of ministers of agriculture in Conservative and Liberal regimes. He pointed out that the Liberals had placed the Department of Agriculture in the hands of farmers and not in the hands of brewers and others. This was an unkind hit at Sir John Carling, the head of the London brewing firm of that name. Sir John Carling, when as plain Mr. Carling, was really the father of agricultural education in Canada. He laid the foundations for our present system, which has done so much to build up the wealth, particularly of the Province of Ontario, but also of the entire Dominion. He was one of the most useful men in the Dominion Cabinet in its later days, but even his own party did not know or appreciate his valuable services.

SOLUTION OF PURE FOOD QUESTION.

THE grocer has seldom, if ever, been heralded among his fellow citizens as a benefactor, and yet this distinction is among his possibilities. In his hands lies the solution of the vexed pure food question which is exciting general interest throughout Canadian trade at the present time, according to Hon. A. B. Morine, ex-premier of Newfoundland, a man of wide business experience.

We hear much of the necessity of enforcing the regulations of the Pure Food Law and of the difficulties attending the same, but comparatively little of the probable ultimate solution of the whole difficulty, which is nothing less than an educational campaign in the interests of pure food. The consumer as a rule buys what the grocer places before him, and the responsibility of the grocer to supply his customers with a bona fide article is all the greater on this account. The principal consideration with the grocer, however, is a pecuniary one; he wants goods for price because the trade has got into the way of asking for a cheap article and it never occurs to him that it might be worth his while to create a demand for higher-class goods. This is possible only on one condition, namely, that the grocer handles high-class goods exclusively and absolutely refuses to buy food products for price from the manufacturer. The power of the grocer is unlimited in this respect, as may be seen from the recent action of the retail grocery trade in the United States in forcing several prominent manufacturers of food products to abandon certain objectionable features of their premium exchange system.

The manufacturer has no other choice but to supply what the consumer wants; what the consumer wants is determined largely by what the retailer has to sell, and the duty of the grocer is to supply only the purest food products on which the margin of profit is the most satisfactory on the whole, and for which a demand may be quickly created, if only the grocer takes the trouble to talk pure food to his customers instead of goods for price.

The leading Canadian manufacturers have already shown a keep and sympathetic interest in pure food products and are afforded a further opportunity of co-operating with the retail grocery trade in closing out inferior products. This may be done by supporting the Inland Revenue Department in its endeavor to enforce the pure food regulations throughout the trade and by advertising the fact that they handle nothing but what is guaranteed as pure. In this way the goods in question will go into general consumption, and as the public become thoroughly familiar with the merits of reputable brands "made in Canada," an unprecedented demand for them will spring up.

A gentleman who has been traveling through Western Ontario in a letter written from Hamilton, January 15th, says: "It strikes me that one can go into a hardware store and as reasonably expect to get HARDWARE AND METAL there as ten-penny nails, and likewise be as sure of getting THE CANADIAN GROCER in a grocery store as a pound of tea."

FEED CATTLE AT HOME.

THE agitation for the admission of Canadian store cattle into Great Britain has again taken definite shape, this time in the form of a vigorous protest from Irish stock-raisers against the removal of the embargo, on the ground that it would mean a total ruination of the beef-raising industry in Ireland, where two-thirds of the cattle exports are store cattle.

This fear that the free admission of Canadian "stockers" would lessen the demand for Irish underfed cattle in Great Britain is hardly worth considering for the reason that the Irish stock-raiser should be in a position to stand Canadian competition.

An aspect of the cattle embargo question which vitally concerns Canadian stock-raisers is whether Canada derives the fullest possible benefit from the cattle-raising industry in sending store cattle to the Old Country to be fattened, which would undoubtedly be done on a very large scale if the embargo were to be lifted. Surely it is practicable for Canadian farmers to feed their export cattle at home, especially when the superior value of fat stock in the British market is considered. Roughly speaking a store animal is not worth more than 3c a pound or $30 a head, while cattle ready for the market, weighing about 1,500 pounds, should be put down at 5c, or $75. Stock can be fattened quite as well on Canadian as on foreign hay and produce; the big commercial consideration is that the Canadian farmer will have $75 to spend in Canada instead of $30 for every head of cattle sold.

The profit on dressed meat is even greater, and it is gratifying to note a growing tendency among Canadian exporters to ship cattle not as store cattle, nor even as fat stock, but as dressed beef.

HIGH PRICES FOR CANNED APPLES.

A FEW weeks ago The Canadian Grocer commented upon an address delivered by the chief of the Fruit Division, Ottawa, in which he blamed the Canadian fruit canning industries for allowing so many apples to go to waste during the season of 1904. The Canadian Canners wrote a lengthy letter in reply refuting these charges and endeavoring to establish that they had not shown lack of enterprise in declining to pack larger quantities of canned apples.

According to recent reports from the United States it would appear that there is likely to be a great scarcity of canned apples before another season comes around, and, if, as it is generally prophesied, the crops next year are very light, owing to there having been three continuous seasons of bumper crops, there is every prospect that canned apples will advance to famine prices, not only in the United States, but in Canada and Great Britain. We quote from some of the leading commercial papers in this connection:

The Canner and Dried Fruit Packers, Chicago, January 12, 1905: "Gallon apples are forging to the front and show decided firmness, a result of the reduction in output last season, and because the active consuming period for these goods is still ahead of us."

H. D. Kelly, President Toronto Retail Grocers' Association.

The New York Journal of Commerce, January 7, 1905: "The upward tendency of prices on gallon apples is still pronounced and a $2.25 price on State packing is spoken of as a possibility of the near future. Some holders now ask $2.10, but little lots at the old prices continue to crop up."

The American Grocer, New York, January 11, 1905: "It is very hard work to buy full standard New York State apples below $2, at which price lines have been sold. There is a very light offering and a firm market. Possibly some odd lots, a little off in quality, might be found at $1.90. Large operators confidently look for a $2.50 market."

The Baltimore Trade, December 20, 1904: "Gallons close the year in strong position, due to shortage in the pack for this year. Packers, discouraged by the unprofitable prices which prevailed on last season's pack, refused to put up new goods. The result is that the market is now poorly supplied, and consumptive demands are becoming urgent. Bakers' supply houses have been at work quietly buying up everything they could find at $1.85 or under delivered, and according to one report they have succeeded in obtaining control of a good many of the supplies now available. Heretofore packers have not suspected the size of the movement, and have sold readily at that price. Now all stocks are held firmly, and an advance is imminent."

Gallon apples, as will be seen above, are already bringing $2.25 per dozen f.o.b. in the United States, and large operators speak now of a $2.50 market. If such is the position in the United States it means that all the gallon apples available in Canada at the present time will be required for export at profitable prices.

In their recent letter the Canadian Canners intimated that they were offering gallon apples at less than cost price. If they are still doing this it looks as though they were, despite their own statements, wanting in enterprise. It would seem hardly possible that they need sell apples at cost, or less than cost, when the outlook for export trade is so bright, the United States being practically Canada's only competitors for canned apples in Great Britain. However, in these days of high prices it is refreshing to know that there are at least some goods which are purchasable at very low prices.

CONSUMPTION OF SUGAR IN 1904.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is indebted to Mr. Wallace Anderson, of the Acadia Sugar Refining Co., for the following classified statistics regarding Canada's consumption of sugar for the fiscal year 1904, ending June 30. It will be seen that importations of refined and of all sugar above 16 Dutch Standard totalled 23,734,365 lbs. Sugar not above 16 Dutch Standard was imported to the extent of 366,810,295 lbs., the grand total being 390,544,660 lbs., or 174,351 tons. The percentage of imports above 16 Dutch Standard was 6, while that of the sugar coming in under the preferential tariff was 72, a result which ought to be particularly gratifying to sugar exporters in the West Indies and British Guiana.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, Jan. 19, 1905

JOBBERS report business as keeping up remarkably well. Travelers' orders are coming in in goodly numbers and for fair-sized orders. Country roads are reported in first-class condition, and farmers are bringing more business to the local country centres.

The sugar market continues firm. An advance of 10c per hundred on hard sugars, and 15c on yellows took place last week after The Grocer had gone to press. New prices are given in department devoted to sugar. The tea market is still in a very unsatisfactory condition. Very little trading is done and almost every trade is featureless. No cables from Colombo or London received of an important character. Some bids have been made for fair-sized lots of Japans, medium grades, but these did not go through. Molasses is firm. Local stocks comprise not more than about 600 puncheons, and holders are not anxious to sell. Maritime Provinces are said to have a fair supply of Porto Rico molasses. Coffees maintain their strong position. Spices remain unchanged with the exception that nutmegs and cloves are easier. Business in green fruits has been unusually quiet. Frozen fish continue to improve in demand. Salt fish are still somewhat backward, but will improve shortly. It is expected that before Lent, prices will be stronger. The canned goods market is unchanged, and there are no noticeable features to report. Rice is also unchanged. California raisins and cloves are scarce, with few offerings. Reports from Denia indicate Valencia stocks as exhausted. There is nothing new to report in currants. Business in vegetables of all kinds is fair. Potatoes are firm and onions scarce, particularly reds. Maple products remain unchanged, though it is expected new life will be put into business within the next few weeks. Despite the advance in Canadian Spring wheat, millers report flour prices unchanged and buyers not willing to purchase owing to the unsettled condition of the market. Rolled oats hold same as last quotation and business is light.

SUGAR

The sugar market maintains a firm tone. Although the raw market is reported as easier, it is the general opinion of the trade and the refiners that a further advance is likely to take place An advance of 10c was noted last Friday after The Grocer had gone to press.

TEA.

The situation in teas is practically unchanged. Ceylon teas seem to keep their hold on the trade, although there has not been very much heavy buying done on account of the limited stock available. Reports from Ceylon are very meagre. From recent reports at hand Ceylon market shows a difference of over one cent per pound over corresponding time last year. The local market quotations range from 12c to 16c on greens, and from 11c to 25c. on blacks, according to grade. China teas are practically a dead letter on this market. There is some little trade being done in Japans and offers of from 200 to 300 half chests for low grades have been turned down by leading brokers. Prices are unchanged and as previously quoted, running from 11c to 17c for second and third crop teas. First and second crop are virtually off the market.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Market is firm in molasses, with very little being done locally on account of the high prices asked by holders, whose stocks are light. It is estimated that 600 puncheons Barbados will cover local stocks. Refiners have been buying up considerable lately. Reports from the Maritime Provinces are that a fair supply of Porto Rico is still available, but that this is getting into the hands of a few larger dealers. Latest advices from Barbadoes estimate shortage of current crop at about 33 per cent. Corn syrups are in growing demand and owing to the very superior article that is produced by the makers, the consuming public is more appreciative of these goods. We quote:

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market remains unchanged with the consumption only as usual at this time of year. There is no activity or particular feature noticeable, the forward purchases of the retail trade not being overtaken by country dealers. The salmon market is strong and stocks not overly plentiful. Supplies of sardines are fairly plentiful with prices unchanged, running from $6.00 to $14.00 per case for imported stock, and domestic at $3.75 to $4.00 a case.

RICE.

There is no change to note in the position of the rice market this week. Business is on the quiet side and there is no evidence of buyers being anxious to purchase, despite the fact that the report of the Burmah rice crop would indicate further advance.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

News on foreign dried fruits is scarce. In Valencia raisins reports from Denia are that stocks there are exhausted, and locally there are no surplus stocks in the hands of the trade. California raisins and prunes are scarce with few offerings, and some shippers have withdrawn entirely from the market. The curing weather in California has been against large stocks, and more fruit has been sold to distilleries than ever has been known in the history of the trade. These facts must have a tendency to strengthen prices materially before the new crop has reached the market. If there is any renewed activity on the local marvet higher prices may be looked for.

Green Fruits.

Business during the week has been unusually quiet, with the exception of a demand for California navel oranges. These are selling freely at $3.00 to $3.25. Pineapples are slow sellers. Florida tomatoes are coming in freely and in much better condition, selling at $4.50 to $5.00 per crate. Two cars of California celery is expected this week; probable price will be about $5.00 to $5.50. Peanuts, all grades, have advanced ½c per lb. Grenoble shelled walnuts are cheaper than seen before on this market. We quote:

Vegetables.

Business is fairly good in mostly all lines. Potatoes remain firm with a strong undertone to the market. Choice stocks sold in car lots at 62 1-2c and two cars were sold on track at 64c. In a jobbing way prices range from 75c to 80c per bag. Onions—The demand continues good with prices firm, particularly for red, which continue scarce, $3.75 per barrel is asked for both red and yellow.

Fish.

The demand for frozen fish continues to improve. There has not been much business in salt fish as yet; this was expected, though shortly a good trade will set in. New, large, frozen herring are now arriving freely, and both in size and quality are this year much better than for several seasons past. These herrings come direct from Newfoundland, via Halifax, and are a very important factor in the frozen fish trade. Frozen haddock has also been arriving freely, but most of the stock is now in. Prices are a little easier on some lines, but the tendency is for higher figures and firmer position, and before Lent begins, there will be some advances as stocks this year are not very heavy and the demand for fish of every kind is increasing in Canada every year. FLOUR.

Despite the fact that Canadian Spring wheat markets have shown a further advance of 1 3-4c per bushel during the week, millers have made no change in their quotations and the local market is still unsettled with prices irregular. ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

January 18, 1905.

ONTARIO wholesale grocers have had an agreeable surprise this week in so far as business was much more brisk than usual at this time of year. Apparently the consumptive demand for groceery staples in the country has increased or else the retail trade was not stocked as heavily as expected, since general buying has set in unusually early. Some wholesalers think the unprecedented firmness of sugar has had a tendency to stimulate general buying. In any event active buying in sugar is the feature of the week. The majority of the trade are still purchasing from hand to mouth, and at the present time are generally speaking supplied for only three or four weeks ahead. A very small minority, however, speculatively inclined, are buying ahead on a small scale.

During the week there has been an advance of 10c all round in granulated and 15c in yellows and there is every prospect of a further advance in New York markets. Canned goods are in seasonable demand, trade in fruits having opened up with excellent prospects. A livelier demand is noted in tea, an unusual feature being the inquiry for China greens. The coffee market is dull, speculative prices averaging about 1-4c lower than last week.

Trade in prunes and currants is fair at firm prices, a scarcity in large sized prunes being noticeable as well as a corresponding slight advance in prices. An advance of 1s in Valencia raisins and of 3d in currants is reported in primary markets, although the local market has not been affected as yet. A scarcity in California evaporated apricots has also been noted during the week.

CANNED GOODS.

A remarkably good trade is reported in canned goods generally, notwithstanding the season of the year, corn and tomatoes moving particularly freely. Canned fruits, including apples, are in more active demand with the market steadily improving, especially at outlying points. Canned fish are quiet. Our quotations are as follows:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

One of the features of this week's markets is the increased sales of West Indian molasses which article is steadily growing in favor among the Canadian grocery trade. During the week buying among the wholesale grocers has been general. New crop Demerara, Trinidad and Barbadoes molasses is arriving and new crop New Orleans is now due although the present test is practically prohibitive. An improved demand for corn syrups is noted for the week. The increased consumption of syrups and molasses is in no small measure due to the very firm situation in sugar. COFFEES.

The coffee market is easier this week, speculative prices ruling about 1-4c lower than a week ago. Brokers report a more active inquiry for coffee generally, although very little business has been transacted during the week in wholesale circles. The substantial advance in Brazilian Exchange makes it temporarily impossible to buy coffees in Brazil.

In comparing the present situation of the market with that of a year ago it is well to bear in mind that the interests that now appear to be operating for higher prices were at this time a year ago opposed to the advance in prices which started when the speculative interests in the cotton market entered the coffee market as aggressive buyers and attempted to run away with it, and that it was through the heavy selling which came from the interests that are now supporting the market that the cotton interests who attempted to bull the coffee market last January had to desist. Another factor which also came into play last Spring, and which from all indications will not be experienced this season, was an abnormally large movement of coffee other than Rio and Santos, which proved to be sufficient to be more than offset the decreased production of Brazil coffee. This season, however, the indications are that there has been a further shrinkage in the production of Brazil grades of coffee, and the yield of coffees from other countries according to the information at hand promises to be below rather than above an average outturn.

Turning to the statistical position, it will be found that the world's visible supply of coffee is practically the same as at this season last year. It is believed, however, that during the balance, and which, by the way, is the second half of the crop year, the comparative statistical position will be much stronger, it being figured that large reductions in the world's stocks will be made, it being estimated that for the two months January and February alone there will be a decrease in the world's existing stocks of about 1,250,000 bags, compared with a shrinkage of 576,000 bags during the same months last year.

Europe's statistical position is stronger than it has been for several seasons past at this period of the year, she having allowed her stocks to steadily decrease since the opening of the crop year. Leading European interests, in fact, throughout the season have taken exactly the opposite stand from the leading interests in the American coffee trade. No credence has been placed on the reports from the producing countries that there was a material reduction in the yield of the coffee crop and European interests have held off as buyers, making no attempt to compete with American interests as buyers in the producing countries, buyers expecting to be able to obtain their supplies cheaper after the demand from American buyers was satisfied. Europe now, however, appears to be awakening to the knowledge that the crop shortage reported from Brazil was indeed a fact, and that by keeping out of the market she has allowed American interests to stock up at relatively cheap prices while she has been living upon reserve stocks and missed her market. TEAS

A fairly active tea market is reported for the week under review and the opinion of the wholesale trade is that January is going to prove an unusually satisfactory month. One feature in tea is the inquiry for China greens which have not sold freely on this market for some years. Particularly good values are being offered to the retail trade in Indian and Ceylon blacks, of which they are availing themselves generally. We quote the following prices:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Business in foreign dried fruits has been transacted in fairly satisfactory volume for the week, considerable trading having been done in view of the lowness of the local market, especially in Valencia raisins. January-February shipments from primary markets will be reported within the next few days. According to latest advices raisins have become 1s and currants 3d firmer in the countries of growth.

Prunes are selling well, large sizes being particularly scarce and slightly firmer in price as a result. Currants are also moving freely. Word comes from the Pacific coast that there are only 6,000 tons merchantable raisins available at the present time as compared with 30,000 tons at the same time a year ago, and that a small percentage is suitable for seeding or fancy grading. Prices are low at present, but likely to advance. Small quantities of choice 1903 crop are offering. Our quotations are as follows:

Country Produce.

EGGS.

A continuation of present mild weather conditions will increase the quantity of fresh-laid eggs now arriving. At present the market is inclined to be unsteady, some dealers fearing a slump. We have begun to quote fresh-laid eggs at 30c. Arrivals of fresh-laid eggs are eagerly purchased, and it is feared if the supply increases, a loss will be felt on pickled and cold storage. We quote the following prices:

Eggs, strictly new laid	0 00 0 30
Cold storage fresh	0 21 0 22
pickled	0 19 0 20

HONEY.

Prices continue unchanged. Trade is normal. There is a fair demand for No. 2 in sections among the retail grocery trade. No. 1 is being used almost exclusively by biscuit manufacturers. Our quotations are as follows:

" sections, No 1, per doz	1 90 2 25

BEANS.

During the week prime Nos. 1 and 2 have advanced 10c. This is owing to scarcity. Great difficulty is being experienced in filling orders for foreign trade. We quote the following'

SEEDS.

Reports stating that the crop of mammoth clover is not as large as was first estimated has caused a flurry in the seed market and an advance of from 50c to $1 per bushel. Supplies of red clover are arriving slowly. Domestic trade has started and an active trade is looked forward to. An absence of foreign demand is still quite noticeable. Our quotations are:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 50 6 00
Red clover	5 00 6 75
Mammoth clover, per bush	6 00 7 25
Timothy	1 00 1 35

Green Fruits.

Mild weather has caused a freer movement of green fruits, orders which accumulated during the cold weather having been shipped within the last day or two. Navel oranges are in active request. No valencias nor Mexicans have been received since the holiday season. The season for Mexican oranges is practically over, but shipments of Valencias are expected as soon as the weather becomes milder.

A good trade is reported in bananas. Consignments are arriving in good condition. Jamaicas are expected to be replaced next week by stock from Port Limon, which may mean an advance in price.

Lemons are arriving in large quantities and prices are easier. A number of small orders have been received for cranberries. Good orders for Almeria grapes continue to arrive; as supplies are limited, prices have advanced. Florida tangerines, half-straps, have declined 50c. Some dealers have large supplies of figs on hand, and as the inquiry has begun to ease off, prices have become ½c easier on Eleme and Protoben. We quote the following prices'

Vegetables.

The vegetable trade is steady with an inclination to quietness. Few sales are reported in domestic onions owing to the high price. Dealers are expecting a good demand in the near future for greenhouse vegetables. A number of good sales are being made in California stock. Butter squash has advanced $1 per dozen and parsnips 10c per bushel. In addition to our list we have oyster plant selling at $1.25 per bushel, greenhouse rhubarb at $1.25 per dozen, and greenhouse onions selling at from 15c to 20c per dozen. Our quotations are:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

Supplies of wheat continue to diminish. During the week Manitoba Northern has advanced 1c per bushel on No. 2, and ½c on No. 3. Red and white wheat each have advanced 1c per bushel. Oats are becoming scarcer, and another advance of 1c is noted. Peas have declined 1c per bushel, while an advance of 1c per bushel is noted in rye. Our quotations are as follows:

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

The hide market is quiet. Trade is beginning to rally from the lull caused by the Christmas holidays. Supplies of hides are limited, and few sales are being made at full market prices, owing to inferior quality. Tallow is easier on the Chicago market. Wool is nominal. London sales opening Jan. 17 report an advance on Merinos and fine cross-breds of 5 per cent. above par. Reports from Liverpool state an advance on all varieties. We quote:

SUGAR.

The strength of the sugar situation has continued unabated during the week, very large sales of Cubans being reported totalling about 400,000 bags, the latest transactions transpiring at 3 7/8c c and f, equal to 5 7-32, duty paid, landed terms. This records an advance of 3-32c for the week, but there is nothing to indicate that the limit to the advance has yet been reached, as speculators are taking an interest in the market and seem disposed to pay full prices, expecting to make their profit on the turnover, and looking forward to a crop shortage.

There have been some fluctuations in Europe, the general tendency being towards firmness; 88 per cent. beet is being quoted nominally at 16s 2¾d for January shipment, equal, say, to $5.47 duty paid, for 96 test centrifugal on New York parity. It would be thus observed that there is still a differential in favor of cane sugar in New York of over ¼c per lb. Holders of cane sugars are strong in their pretensions, and we hear of 4c c and f being asked for centrifugals. It is believed that large sales could be effected if sufficiently large quantities of sugar could be secured.

Withdrawals against contracts in the U. S. have been good, some refiners being already oversold. During the week U. S. refiners advanced prices 10c per 100 lbs. and Canadian refiners followed with an advance of 10c in refined and the rest of the list, with the exception of No. 1 and 2 yellow, which were advanced 15c. The differential between granulated and yellows locally is only ½c. per lb., doubtless attributable to the falling off in supplies of low grade raw sugars. It is interesting to note that prices to-day locally are $1.65 per 100 lbs. higher for granulated than a year ago, and $1.80 for raws.

Receipts at 3 Atlantic ports for the week ending Jan 11 were 20,711 tons with meltings 30,000 tons, an increase for the week of 3,000 tons, leaving stock in all hands 75,861 tons, a decrease of 9,289 tons from last week. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,659,361 tons, or 688,586 tons less than at the same date a year ago.

In Cuba there are 151 central factories grinding, against 101 at the same time last year, but stocks do not seem to be coming forward freely to shipping ports, and it is a matter of concern to merchants whether they will be able to fill January contracts. Combined stocks of U. S. and Cuba on Jan. 11 were 120,361 tons, as against 181,947 tons at the same period a year ago. Our quotations are as follows:

On the advice of his physician he is trying the hot sulphur baths. A letter shown The Grocer last Saturday by his partner, Mr. Provost, announced his arrival at the springs and his residence in St. Joseph's Infirmary, Cedar Terrace. The Grocer wishes him a speedy recovery from his affliction.

A Good Repeater

A prominent grocer, when recently asked what kind of goods he liked to sell best, replied:—

"Give me a good repeater like Royal Baking Powder; an established article of undisputed merit which housekeepers repeatedly buy and are always satisfied with."

NEW baking powders and new foods, like new fads, come and go but Royal goes on forever. Grocers are always sure of a steady sale of Royal Baking Powder, which never fails to please their customers, and in the end yields to them a larger profit than cheaper and inferior brands.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 12, 1905.

OF paramount importance this week has been the interest taken in the doings of the commission appointed by the Provincial Government to take evidence concerning the workings of the Assessment Act, which was passed at the session of the Legislature a year ago. The sessions are being held in Victoria and all classes of business men are following the proceedings closely. The Vancouver Board of Trade has taken the matter of securing evidence in hand, and at a special meeting a report from a select committee of the board was received. In it the principal objections to the Act were stated to be: 1. the taxation of manufacturing plant at the same rate as merchandise stock, which it is claimed has a tendency to discourage industries; 2, the laxity of the arrangements for assessment and collection, allowing of great lack of uniformity and system, whereby no taxes are collected at all, in many cases, and in particular in respect to the income tax. The recommendations made, were, 1, that the tax on plant should be on half value; 2, that a change in the manner of securing returns from individuals be made, as it is upon these returns the assessor depends to make his levy; 3, that book debts should be exempt from taxation; 4, that an income tax be substituted for the present personal property tax; 5, that the Government commission should hold a session in Vancouver as well as Victoria.

Oddly enough, neither the board nor its special committee, appeared to pay any particular attention to one feature of the Act, which has been strongly condemned by wholesalers in the province. That is, to the encouragement afforded by the Act to outside business men, who are not in any way taxed for doing business in the province. It might be stated otherwise as follows: The wholesale merchant in British Columbia, who has his warehouse and carries a full stock of the lines he trades in, has to pay a tax on his average stock. The business man who is located outside of the province has entire immunity from this personal property tax, and he is to that extent encouraged. The tax is 1 per cent., and if a merchant has $100,000 invested in stock the tax amounts to a tidy sum, equal to a small profit annually. The expression was frequently made this year, that it would pay better for wholesalers to drop their stocks here, send out their traveling men and sell from sample, filling orders from outside the province. Such a course has in fact been seriously considered by some, and the only thing which prevented, was the promise that the commission now sitting would report, and that on their report the Government would base amendments to the Act.

From advices just received from Dawson, it is learned that the market conditions there are about as follows: Potatoes and eggs, two very important staples of the Winter stocks, in the Klondike capital, are extremely plentiful, every one having stocked up well last Fall. The price of potatoes is from 6 to 8c per lb, wholesale, and eggs are $11 per crate, though some of the dealers continue to hold them at $13.50 per crate, and oranges and lemons, which are also plentiful, at $10 per crate, all of which prices are very moderate for the season. In some stores hams have been selling as low as 27 1-2c.

"Sugar never was as dear as at the present moment," said a leading wholesale groceryman to your correspondent, when the usual inquiries were put to him this week, when in search of changes, and features. The price at the refinery is now 6 1-4c and that is more than it was ever quoted at before. No reason has been assigned for the second raise which was put into effect recently.

A thousand sacks of potatoes, old stock, from California, arrived by the last steamer from San Francisco and they sell readily, at 1 1-2c per lb, wholesale. There are several reasons for this rather unusual activity in importations of the tuber. Of course the failure of the crop last year owing to drought has had some effect, while the heavy shipments to Dawson early in the Fall, all of which were of the choicest Ashcrofts, very materially reduced the visible supply of good potatoes. Even the small stocks now in store in the Okanagan and upper country, are sure to stay where they are for a couple of months, as it would not be safe to bring them down, as they would certainly freeze.

Very great interest in fruit-growing circles has been aroused through the letters of the agent-general in London, Hon. J. H. Turner. As will be recalled, the fruit exhibited by this province carried off the prizes at the Colonial Fruit Show, under the anspices of the Royal Horticultural Society in London, a gold medal being awarded. Hon. Mr. Turner reports that as a direct result the London merchants have become actively interested in desiring stocks of apples from British Columbia. One of these, in writing to Mr. Turner asking about the chances of getting a stock, said that but two varieties, the Spitz and the Newton Pippin, would stand the long shipment. The writers say that they annually receive large consignments from Oregon, and therefore are inclined to the belief that they can get them from British Columbia equally as well. It is anticipated that a good trade in the choicer varieties, and most carefully selected stock, can be worked up with the Old Country market.

Some rancher back in the Rainy River district of Western Ontario may need money badly, but if he were to know that in the crops of his poultry were appreciable quantities of gold, he would likely have his head turned, and would sacrifice the birds. The fabled goose of golden egg fame, was but little more valuable than the Christmas bird bought by a citizen of New Westminster. In the crop of the bird, among the gravel was found gold dust equalling in value $1.50. It was free gold, and coarse. The bird was one of a shipment received from Winnipeg, whence it came from the Rainy River district.

Markets.

The grocery stocks are showing very little change. In canned goods the eastern vegetables are holding at fair prices, but not much move is noticeable. In canned tomatoes, the California goods are a strong rival to the eastern stock. The present prices quoted on eastern are $1.45 while the California are sold at $1.25, and some dealers prefer them, as they say the California goods are better filled with solid meat. The difference in price also allows retailers to sell at 2 for "two bits" a very favorite division mark in this country. The Ontario goods are put up in tins slightly larger than the imported tomatoes, but that is the only advantage.

Dried fruits are still moving slowly, and no marked change in quotations is to be noted. The second advance in sugar, putting it up to $6.25 for granulated makes the biggest raise and the highest price in the history of the local article.

In produce, local butter has continued plentiful and at very reasonable prices, though the present colder weather, if it continues may have the effect of reducing the supplies and increasing the price. Edenbank, the most widely known proprietary name, is now bringing 30c wholesale, while other makes of local creamery are quoted at 26 and 27c. It is said that at least one local creamery has several thousand pounds of surplus stock in cold storage, which is a remarkable change from the old way, when local butter was very limited in supply and out of the market in Winter. The change is being emphasized every day. During the past week a new creamery association was organized for the district of Maple Ridge, some 20 miles east of Vancouver, on the main line of the C.P.R. The new creamery will be owned by the ranchers, and it is proposed to erect at Port Hammond, a station on the line of railway, and also on the Fraser River, giving both means of transportation.

Eastern creamery, what little there is in the market, is commanding 25c. Really good dairy, if there were any offering, would readily bring 20c. Strictly fresh, selected eastern eggs are worth 26 and 27c, and selected pickled, 25c. Local fresh wholesale are at 35c now, but few offering.

Cured meats remain rather higher than outside markets would seem to warrant at the present time. Hams and bacon are figured about 15 to 16c. Trading is quiet.

Contrary to all expectations, another lot of Japanese oranges came into the market, the Kanagawa Maru, of the Japanese steamship line, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, arrived on Saturday last with 1,200 bundles, for this market. They are jobbing at 40c, and will not be restocked, as the season is later than usual. The California oranges are coming in freely and at the extremely low wholesale price of $3 for choice navels. As long as Japs are offering the California oranges move slowly. A few cases of grape fruit have been received recently.

The supply of apples from local districts is apparently very considerable yet. Though not choice stock the offerings are at very moderate prices, and consequently the higher priced Okanagan goods are held back or shipped to the Northwest Territories.

The condition of the potato market has been referred to before. The price for California goods is $30 per ton, with Asherofts selling readily at the same price if there were any to be had. Lower Mainland crop is worth about $20 per ton, wholesale.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

Office of The Canadian Grocer,
St. John, N.B., Jan., 1905.

BUSINESS continues quiet. The wholesale grocers seem well satisfied with the results of last year's business. Many say it is the best year for some time. Those in the guild feel particularly well satisfied with the results of this association idea. It has enabled them to get the benefit of the advance in prices, something never before possible. Even those outside are satisfied, for they have had all the advantages with none of the disadvantages The guild people, however, and with some degree of truth, say these merchants are little better than parasites, content to reap a benefit to the cause of which they do not contribute.

St. John, like very many other cities, is not satisfied with its assessment law. The Board of Trade in particular has made many efforts toward improvement. The common council have appointed a commission of three leading business men to take up the matter. It is hoped it is the beginning of better things.

The Board of Trade have been very active of late, having almost daily sessions, in regard to Atlantic steamship subsidies. They feel if the Government grant subsidies they should be more careful to have the regulation such as will tend to the satisfaction of shippers and particularly that more attention should be given to see that the contracts entered into are carried out. Strong memorials have been sent to the department. The continued advance in sugar is the one item of real interest in markets.

Oil.

In burning oil prices are a little lower and there is a large sale. Lubricating oils are unchanged and sales are chiefly forward business. Linseed oil while unchanged on the local market is rather lower for import. It is the lowest figure known for a long time. Turpentine remains quite steady. Cod oil is firm at rather higher figures.

Salt.

There is somewhat more interest in Liverpool coarse salt. Spot business is light and prices unchanged but firm. Fine salt is quiet.

Canned Goods.

Corn and tomatoes are firm and there are fair stocks. Fruits are unchanged. Strawberries are not in large supply. Gallon apples are dull. Salmon is unchanged and a fair stock held. Oysters continue firm at full figures. In domestic fish haddies, kippered herring and clams are very light stock. There is a fair supply of sardines.

Green Fruits.

Business is not large. Valencia oranges are being quite freely sold, but quality is as yet but fair. Some Jamaicas are still offered. Californias sell but slowly. There is a fair demand for Floridas. Apples, while not a large stock, show little change in price. For best stock, western spie are sold. A few Malaga grapes are still here. Lemons are low and quality but fair. Cranberries are rather higher, light sale.

Dried Fruit.

There is little of interest. Figs and peels have little sale after the holidays. In raisins, little wanted except seeded of which stock is quite largt. Prunes show only fair sale, with prices low. Apricots and peaches are high and few moving. Dates are low. Evaporated apples are rather dull at the low price quoted. Onions are higher and currants show a fairly steady sale at even prices.

Sugar.

There continues a regular advance. Prices are a cent above those of three months ago. There has been a cent and three-quarters advance in the year. Sales continue large. There is some complaint that the retailers have advanced prices even more than the market justifies. Large stocks are held.

Molasses.

Stock of Barbadoes is light and full prices are asked. While there is quite a full stock of Porto Rico, particularly for this season, holders seem confident. The high sugar market means new molasses will be high.

Fish.

Sugar prices effect the fish business, as there are large shipments being made to the West Indies, where the market is better than for a long time. In local market there is a fair supply of fresh fish. Dry cod are still very high. Pickled herring remain unchanged; this is a quiet season. Smoked herring are quite low. Haddies are firm and large shipments made West. Frozen smelt are rather scarce.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

Flour has again joined in the advance. Both Ontario and Manitoba flours are higher. Oats are higher, but oatmeal is unchanged. Cornmeal is hardly as firm. Beans, while showing a range in price, are higher. Yellow-eye beans are quite freely offered. Barley is firm. Peas are scarce. Sale in these lines is not as large as formerly.

St. John.

(Provision Markets.)

Provisions—Business in barrelled meats continupes small. Beef is quoted higher. Smoked meats are quite firm. Pure lard is easy in price. Prices are low and holders of stock are hoping for better things. Fresh beef is unchanged with sales but fair. There is little lamb and mutton has but a limited sale. Some little veal is now being offered. Pork is firmer.

GOOD RECORD FOR 1904.

The Toronto branch of the Salada Tea Co., which ships to Ontario and the Northwest, reports an increase in business for 1904 (their fourteenth year) of twenty-one per cent. as compared with that of 1903, the consumption of "Salada" in Toronto alone being twenty-seven per cent. greater than last year. The Montreal branch, during the same period reports an increase of 23 1-2 per cent. This branch is nine years old and is the distributing point for Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. A similarly gratifying volume of trade was done in the United States, the Chicago branch alone showing an increase of one hundred and seventy-seven per cent. for the year.

Mr. John Baker, of the firm of Baker & Gunn, general merchants, Carlyle, N. W.T., was married on Jan. 18, to Miss Haidee V. Summers, of Brandon, Man.

The third game of the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' League series was played on Saturday, January 14, at the Aura Lee Rink between the Grocery Brokers' and H. P. Eckardt & Co., the score being 3—0 in favor of the former.

The pace set was fast from start to finish and the class of hockey excellent from an onlooker's standpoint. From the blow of the whistle till the calling of half-time, the play was keenly contested and the roving of the puck indicated that the teams were evenly matched. During the first half the Grocery Brokers scored two goals. Good clean combination on the part of the brokers was quite noticeable at the outset, while the other team seemed inclined to indulge in individual work. Soon after the start of the second half Webber found the net and added another goal to those already won by the Brokers. Robertson in goal, Brown at coverpoint, and Williams on the forward line for H. P. Eckardt & Co. showed up well and although the puck was in the territory of the Brokers net a number of times their loss may be attributed to the fact that they refused several good chances to shoot. P. Millman and Banks showed up well in their respective positions and proved to be a strong defence. The line up was as follows: Grocery Brokers —Goal, Guthrie; point, P. Millman; coverpoint, Banks; forwards, A. Millman, Donaldson, May and Webber.

H. P. Eckardt & Co.—Goal, Robertson; point, Tickell; coverpoint, Brown; forwards, Williams, Hill, Chapman and McLaughlin. Hugh Lambe officiated as referee.

Kinnear vs. Canada Grocers.

The game between T. Kinnear & Co. and the Canada Grocers, scheduled for January 12th and postponed owing to the poor condition of the ice, was played off on January 16 at the Victoria College Rink, resulting in a score of 2 to 1 in favor of T. Kinnear & Co.

Individual play was the feature of this game and the impregnable defence of the winners proved once more to be of great value. During the first half the game resembled "shinny," off-side playing and tripping being quite prevalent owing to the leniency and the oversight of the referee. After ten minutes of hard play Kinnear's won their first game. Then continued a series of individual rushes, the puck traveling very quickly to each end of the ice, until within an few minutes of half time, when, by the aid of a piece of momentary combination the Canada Grocers were successful in scoring their only goal of the evening. Among those who showed up well in individual work were Kinnear and McGregor for T. Kinnear & Co., and Stewart and Hortop for the Grocers. During the second half the game was more evenly contested, and although the puck was in the Grocers' territory most of the time, Kinnear's were only able to secure one goal. During this half some excellent stops were made by Wylie, goalkeeper for the Canada Grocers. The line up was as follows:,

Canada Grocers—Goal. Wylie: point. Barnhouse; coverpoint, Tasker; forwards, Stewart, Hortop, Smith and Warren.

T. Kinnear & Co.—Goal, Holden; point, Walkinshaw; coverpoint, Hamphrey; forwards, H. Rennie, C. Rennie, Kinnear and McGregor. Frank Morrison acted as referee.

A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY.

Readers of The Canadian Grocer will notice that the stock of groceries and liquors belonging to the Hazell estate is being offered for sale this week. With the stock and fixtures goes a lease of the best corner in the city of Hamilton and one of the most attractive stands in Ontario which could not now be duplicated. In connection with the groceries and liquors there is ample accommodation for meat and fish business. Mr. Steele, of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, who is Mr. Hazell's sole executor, is well known to the grocery trade, and will be glad to give proper information to intending buyers or show them through the stock. Communications may be addressed to Mewburn & Ambrose, solicitors, Hamilton.

MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held Thursday evening, January 12, at Monument National. The meeting was well attended and considerable important business transacted. The abolition of the great commercial bugaboo the trading stamp question was under fire and the great majority of members present expressed themselves in favor of putting an end to the evil.

J. A. Beaudry handed in his resignation as treasurer and P. Bruneau was elected to fill the vacancy.

Ald. Lariviere brought up the trading stamp question. There was practical unanimity on the desire to suppress the stamps but there was considerable discussion as to the means to be adopted to rid the grocers and other merchants of this alleged nuisance. The dry goods dealers wrote calling on the grocers to take action in the matter. and submitting a copy of the agreement, signed by the dry goods merchants, binding themselves not to give trading stamps. After discussing the matter thoroughly, the grocers adopted the form of agreement. Two grocers in each ward will take the agreements in hand, and obtain signatures from the grocers. It is expected that this will prove effective in stopping the stamp trade among the grocers.

A notice of motion given at the last meeting in favor of limiting the number of liquor licenses to grocers was taken up. The proposal was vigorously opposed by Messrs. Vital, Raby, P. Bruneau and others, who maintained that such a move would result in an increase in the taxation of grocers, and would prevent young men from going into the grocery business unless they had large capital behind them.

The promoters of the measure, among whom are Ald. Lariviere and N. Marchand, took an opposite view. The result of such a measure, they argued, would be to clear out these little groceries, which are merely a blind for the illegal sale of liquor by the glass under a grocer's license. Finally a motion by Ald. Lariviere, seconded by N. Chartrand, was adopted.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday January 19th, 1905.

WHOLESALE trade is more active than was to be expected at this time of year and jobbers are well satisfied with the satisfactory opening of the new year. Sugar continues to make sensational advances and wholesale houses with good stocks are making large profits at present prices. Coffees are stiffening and an almost immediate advance in green Rios is expected. There is no money for the wholesale house in green Rios at present prices and retailers likely to require any in the near future would be well advised in stocking up without delay. A new stock of boneless chicken, turkey and duck is on the market now and quotations of same will be found below under "Canned Goods." The combination price on bluestone is $5.75. On February shipments the terms are 30 days net with dating from March 1st and after the 1st March the terms are 30 days net from date of shipment. The general condition of the wholesale grocery market is satisfactory and collections are improving.

Sugar.

The retailer who looks back for three months and calculates the amount of money he would have been in pocket had he bought sugar in large quantities at that time is apt to have a fit of the "blues," but scarcely any person at that time believed that sugar would make so many sensational advances. Another advance of 10 cents on granulated and of 15 cents on yellows occurred on the morning of January 13th, a few hours after The Grocer went to press last week. Advances are being made farther west which are bringing sugar for those points to a higher level than prevails in Winnipeg. A resume of some recent advances may be of interest. On January 8th the B. C. Refinery announced an advance of 10 cents per cwt on all grades of sugar for points between Winnipeg and Dunmore, but from Dunmore to the B. C. boundary the advance was 20 cents. This was followed on the 12th by an advance of 10 cents on granulated and 15 cents on yellow to apply to all points between Winnipeg and Dunmore, but from Dunmore to the boundary the advance was 20 cents on granulated and 25 cents on yellow. A summary of the situation on January 14th showed that the following advances have been made on the list of November 16th: From Winnipeg to Portage La Prairie (both points included) the advance on this list amounted to 55 cents on granulated and 60 cents on yellow. From Portage La Prairie to Dunmore the advance was 85 cents on granulated and 90 cents on yellow. From Dunmore to the B. C. boundary the advance was $1.15 on granulated and $1.20 on yellow. These figures show that the far western advances have been greater than those nearer Winnipeg where competition between rival refineries is keener. We quote:

The spice market is quiet this week. Peppers are firm with some tendency to advance. Whole cloves are firm at the same price as ground cloves. We quote:

The market is quiet at former prices. Texas rice may be offered on the local market shortly in competition with Japan rice as an effort is being made to place a trial lot with local wholesale houses. We quote:

Syrups and Molasses.

Barbadoes molasses is firmly held in view of unfavorable reports from Barbadoes which seem to point to a shortage. Corn syrups are easy owing to large western crop and in case of a shortage of molasses they may take the place and prevent any great rise in price. We quote:

As noted above in the general summary of the situation one of the features of the market this week is the continued strength of green Rios. There is no doubt that an advance of probably a cent must be made very soon as at present prices wholesale houses are making no money and may very soon be losing money. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

Local houses are fairly well stocked with California dried fruits and it will be some time before the scarcity in California will have much effect on prices here. Currants are easier in Greece, but the advance in freight rates since the close of navigation has been sufficient to keep prices here steady at their former level. There is the usual seasonable demand. We quote:

Every order given to one of our travellers is put on a duplicate guarantee, one of which he gives to you. This guarantee clearly states that we hold ourselves responsible for any of our pickles that may go bad in the six months following the date of shipment of the order, providing the following precautions are taken—that the barrel or pail is kept covered; that you do not use tin or any metal vessel to dip the pickles with (use a crockery bowl—it's cleaner, too); that the vinegar is taken in proportion to the pickles, so that they are always kept slightly covered with vinegar; that no sweepings, particularly nails, are allowed to get into the barrel; and that the pickles be kept from any extreme of heat or cold. We give this guarantee to your wholesale grocer. If you buy through him the guarantee stands the same.

PURE FOOD LAWS

AT the regular weekly luncheon of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association last week the principal topic discussed was "Pure Foods." Among the speakers were W. D. Wilson of the Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co., J. Turnbull of the Nasmith Co., and R. A. Donald of the Pure Gold Mfg. Co.

The argument hinged upon the best ways and means of preventing unjust competition. The difficulty lay not only in a proper enforcement of the Pure Food Law, but in insuring the sale of groceries, drugs and chemicals that have not lost in strength or value through age. It is a significant fact that while the Canadian dealer must comply with the Pure Food Law, he is not protected from the imported article, which is not subject to the requirements of the Pure Food Law. Hon. A. B. Morine, ex-premier of Newfoundland, closed the discussion with an excellent suggestion based upon many years' experience as a legislator and business man. He urged the manufacturers not to depend too much upon legislation but more upon education. He had given a good deal of attention to the subject, and had noticed that the consumer usually bought what the retailer placed before him. It was for the manufacturer to educate the retailer to handle only pure foods and the retailer would do the rest. Following are verbatim reports of some of the addresses delivered:

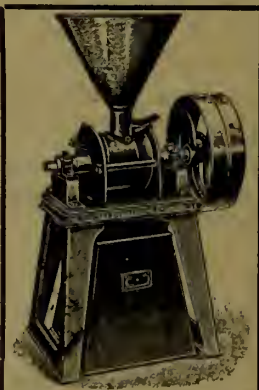
W. D. Wilson, of the Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co.

When the great minstrel man, Billy Rice, started his stump speech on the silver question, he said, "You do not know anything about the silver question and I do not know anything about the si,ver question, therefore, I will explain it."

I cannot say the same to-day, for I see about me many men who do know a great deal about the question of pure food, and labels on packages.

Now I am not going into the subject very deeply, but intend leaving room and time for discussion. I will, as the reverend gentlemen do, divide the subject into three parts, and leave the application for the meeting.

Firstly: Should food be adulterated at all? Would it not be a great and glorious state of affairs, if all goods put up for sale were absolutely pure; no sand in the sugar; no Fuller's earth in the baking powder; no acid in the vinegar; no turnips in the marmalade; no water in the whiskey, and last, but not least, no corruption in politics? if the only label required on the package was,—"Made in Canada," and the name of the article? Would not the name of Canada rise to a height never before thought of? Would not the name and fame of this great country be heralded throughout the world as the most honest, as the most pure, as the most healthy country in the world, in which to dwell?



But secondly, gentlemen, would this suit all classes of the community? One thing which we must avoid is class legislation, as it has caused so much trouble in the past, and the classes in Canada are in the minority, the masses here, as in every other country, predominating; and, of course, adulterated food being cheaper than absolutely pure food, it is thereby placed more within the reach of the majority of the people, and as this is a free country, why have not the people the right to what they want? Legislation against the wants of the people has always been a failure. For instance, legislation enforcing prohibition has never been a success, whereas a strict license system has been found to be more satisfactory and effective.

Thirdly: Our Government has, it seems to me, taken a middle course between these two extremes, and the Brodeur Act has been placed on the statutes, which, while not saying that adulteration may not take place, tries to systematize and regulate that adulteration.

The law says that food shall be deemed to be adulterated: First, if any substance has been mixed with it so as to reduce or lower, or injuriously affect its quality or strength. Second, if any inferior or cheaper substance has been substituted wholly or in part. Third, if any valuable constituent of the article has been wholly or in part abstracted. Fourth, if it is an imitation of, or sold under the name of some other article. Fifth, if it consists wholly or in part of a diseased and putrid animal or vegetable substance, or in the case of milk, if it is the produce of a diseased animal. Sixth, if it contains any added poisonous ingredient which may be injurious to health.

Then the law goes on to say that if any article not injurious to health has been mixed with the food, it must be labelled compound; it must have the manufacturer's name on it, and then it may be sold. This law appears all right, but it does not always work out. Permit a reference to the business in which I am personally interested, the vinegar business. The law states that all vinegar labelled "White Wine" must be the result of the fermentation of some alcoholic mixture, our vinegar being made almost entirely out of alcohol. One of our greatest troubles is competition with vinegar made from acetic acid, a by-product of wood alcohol and acetate of lime. As yet, it is very hard to find a chemical test that can absolutely distinguish one from the other, although it is very easy to do so by either taste or smell, and unless an officer actually sees the acid and water being mixed, it is very difficult to prove that it is an illegal and deleterious article. We urged the Government to change the law, and place the burden of proof upon the retailer, and make him prove that his vinegar was purchased from a licensed, bonded manufacturer. This they have refused to do, although I can see no hardship to the retail merchant if that were the law.

Now as to carrying out the law as laid down in the Brodeur Act, Inland Revenue officers and officers of the weight and measures department have the right at any time, when requested to by the Minister of Inland Revenue, to obtain samples of goods from any merchant, paying for the same, also any city council, or village, has a right to appoint inspectors who shall have the same powers as the Revenue officers. These inspectors may require any public analyst to analyze any samples collected by them, and the inspectors may prosecute any person manufacturing or offering for sale any article which has been certified to be adulterated.

When obtaining the sample, the inspector must, in the rresence of the merchant, send a sample to the Minister of Inland Revenue, sealed, so as to corroborate or discredit the analysis of the local analyst.

With regard to penalties for manufacturing articles of food adulterated so as to be injurious to health, the penalty for manufacturing and selling is about the same for the first offence, not exceeding $100, and not less than $10.

For manufacturing articles adulterated so as not to be injurious to health, the penalty is a little higher against the manufacturer than against the seller. Now, if the seller can prove that he did not know that the goods sold by him were adulterated, though not injurious to health, he is not subject to a fine for the first offence, but the goods in stock are confiscated.

B. Turnbull, of the Nasmith Co.

It is very desirable that there should be pure food laws, provided, however, the enforcement of them is just and equitable throughout the country and without favoritism.

As an Association, this subject should be viewed from two standpoints, namely, that of the manufacturer who buys ingredients for manufacturing purposes, and the manufacturer who sells goods for consumption. The manufacturer who purchases ingredients finds it just as difficult to buy pure goods as the retailer, but from practical experience I have found that whenever one is willing to pay the price, he can obtain pure goods for manufacturing purposes. The increased cost is offset by the fact that it takes less of the pure goods to attain the desired end that it does of an inferior line.

So far as the manufacturer is concerned in selling to the public, it appears to me that, generally speaking, the public do not appreciate the manufacturer's interest in them; they are looking for price and bulk, and so long as the public are doing this, no matter what the description on the goods is, they will buy the goods if they have the appearance and carry the price with them.

The question of using a label which will describe the character of the goods in the package, is a step in the right direction for individual packages; but in my humble estimation the word "compound," or any other descriptive word upon the package will not interfere with 90 per cent. of the buying public taking the article.

If we seek legislation for package goods, we also should see that protection is ensured to those who buy goods in bulk; that when bulk goods are displayed for sale they should be marked in a similar manner to package goods.

There is one law in the Old Country that has worked extremely well in connection with bulk goods, that is, in relation to a substitute for butter, called "Margarine." According to the laws of the land each tub of Margarine displayed upon the counter must have the word Margarine printed in large type to indicate that it is a substitute. This law is strictly enforced, and in picking up Old Country papers one frequently sees a grocer in the police court for failing to have the Margarine sign on the article. It is a fact, commonly admitted, that the putting of this sign on this article has not in any way interfered with its sale, but on the other hand, the sale of Margarine to-day is very much greater than it has been in years past.

To my mind, manufacturers have got to do two things: to make money, and to meet the demands of the public. If a man can conscientiously produce a line of goods, using ingredients that are not harmful to the public health, I do not see why we should legislate against him. The manufacturer who seeks to establish a business on the basis of quality and to obtain a trade which will increase from year to year, will require to advertise and educate the public to pure goods according to his standard and not the standard of any other manufacturer.

Judicious advertising, which makes comparison between pure and adulterated foods, will assuredly win trade for the manufacturer who insists on purity in his factory.

Goods labelled "Made in Canada" should mean "Where Purity is Paramount."

R. A. Donald, of the Pure Food Co.

The matter of a descriptive label for imported goods is receiving attention now in the United States. The law there is very specific and demands that imported goods shall bear a label giving a definite description of the contents. We have had nothing like that in Canada; as a matter of fact, it is possible to import goods from the United States and have them marked in a manner to suit the purchaser, and this is very often done in a peculiar manner to say the least; but, as so many goods are imported and sold in direct contravention of the Act, what should be done is to make the law officers of the Department inspectors of imported as well as of domestic products, and to absolutely refuse entry to goods falsely marked.

Leaving that matter and taking up another, there is not any question but that the public as a whole pay for first-class goods as a rule, nor is there any doubt but that very often they get inferior stuff. The profit on such transactions is sometimes great and totally out of proportion to the value of the goods; there is, therefore, no ground for stating, as it has been stated by Mr. Brodeur, the Minister of Inland Revenue, that the public being satisfied, it ought not to be a matter to take action on. The public does not know, therefore it cannot judge. The consumer, in going into a store to purchase any article of food sold in bulk, generally asks for so much and pays the price, and in every instance investigated, it has been found that they paid a proper price for the best goods and in a great many cases received a much cheaper article.

As to the best means of enforcing the Act, there is some difference of opinion; the Department claims to have not enough money to proceed with a rigid enforcement in all parts of the Dominion, and so has to content itself with locality work of a very limited character. There should be an absolute prohibition of the importation of fillers of all descriptions for any kind of goods; there should be a high duty upon adulterated goods of all descriptions and a proper label devised which would be placed upon all goods, such label to give the exact composition of every adulterated or compounded article. But above all, there should be some method pursued which would lead to the education of the public regarding the standard of food they ought to have, and these standards should be rigidly maintained.

GREEN FRUITS

Mark of the Dominion Fruit Division.

IN conversation with a representative of The Canadian Grocer this week, A. McNeill, Chief of the Fruit Division, Ottawa, expressed himself as optimistic concerning the future of the Canadian fruit-growing industry, which will ultimately be placed upon an even commercial basis with the dairying industry.

Mr. McNeill has just completed an extensive trip through the fruit-growing districts of the Maritime Provinces and New York State, and reports renewed interest in fruit growing all over the country. Preliminary to engaging in an aggressive campaign on a big scale the Fruit Division have been carrying on educational work at the Provincial Winter Fairs and Association meetings. As a direct result the long-standing prejudice against scientific research in fruit culture is slowly giving place to an active interest in everything tending to put the industry upon a more substantial footing. The work is, of course, only in its infancy, but is already meeting with marked appreciation. For instance, the Ontario Fruit, Flower and Honey Show held in Toronto last December as an experiment, is now guaranteed as a permanent thing. Mr. McNeill says some innovations will be introduced next year, among them, an exhibit of fruit machinery and accessories which has become a strong feature of fruit conventions in New York State.

CROP STATISTICS.

It is the aim of those in charge of the Fruit Division to generalize and enlarge upon the work previously done in gathering market and crop statistics. Individual fruit growers are in need of authoritative information on the growing crops and market conditions; such is unavailable at the present time except to a few fruit dealers who are sharp enough to keep on the inside.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the prognostications of the Fruit Division months ago on the course of the apple market have been verified almost to the letter. News about the latest varieties of fruit on the market will always be suspiciously received by the conservative grower; it is another matter if he can get a forecast of prices on which he can rely. Many an apple grower would have been money in pocket had he held back part of the apples exported earlier in the season until now.

CO-OPERATION.

Much remains to be done in unifying the fruit interests of the different provinces. Dominion organization is necessary in order to deal with questions affecting the Canadian fruit-growing industry as a whole, such as "Inter-provincial trade" and the "Fruit Marks Act"; at the same time leaving to the different provinces the control of what concerns them individually.

FINEST APPLES IN THE WORLD.

As an instance of what might be accomplished by such an organization, of which the present Fruit Division is only the beginning, reference is made to the "Famcuse" apple, generally conceded to be the finest dessert apple in the world. A Canadian fruit grower recently asked one prominent American fruit dealer what he thought of the "Famcuse," and got the answer that every box could find a ready market in the United States; the difficulty was, "Fameuse" was not to be had except in limited quantities and these of decidedly inferior qhality. There is no reason why a market should not be found for "Fameuse" apples in the cities of the United States and Europe among the fancy trade, for the simple reason that this apple stands in a class by itself. If such an end is to be realized, co-operation among the fruit growers of the St. Lawrence Valley is essential in the matter of fruit production and marketing, in addition to the development of this particular industry to its fullest possible extent. The efforts of the Fruit Division in this direction are to be highly commended.

CURRENT PRICES.

A vexatious question among fruit growers in the Maritime Provinces just now is that of package. Shippers down there have discovered that the barrel in use in Ontario for export trade not only contains more fruit, but brings a considerably better price than the smaller barrel used by Nova Scotia shippers. Co-operation would have adjusted this inequality long ago.

Among Ontario growers, particularly the tender fruit men of the Niagara peninsula, more or less dissatisfaction is being expressed on account of the unsuitability in shape and capacity of the basket package in use at the present time.

FRUIT PROSPECTS.

Although it is early to forecast the apple crop of 1905, Mr. McNeill thinks that ordinarily this year's should be a light yield, following as it does bumper crops in 1903 and 1904. Peaches and other tender fruits have passed through one critical period safely and ought to yield well, barring unfavorable weather conditions.

Canned Goods for Japan.

There are indications of an increasing demand for foreign vegetable foods in Japan as well as other lines of provisions, says A. MacLean in his latest report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa. The higher-class Japanese are gradually increasing their use of canned jams, vegetables, fruits, etc., and the middle classes are following suit. This should be an incentive to Canadian exporters of canned goods to be wide awake in order to compete successfully with the United States, Germany, France and other fruit-growing countries whose commercial standing in the Japanese market has been built up by long experience and strenuous effort.

In peas, French produce leads the market, a few Italian brands, coming next. The prices range from 15 to 17 1-2 cents (Canadian currency) per one pound can. Almost all come in one pound cans, and cheaper brands are mostly in request. The brand known as "Petits Pois, Moyen," is in favor. It is estimated that a little over 200,000 cans were imported during 1903, and though no accurate figures for this year are available as yet, it is expected that there has been some increase over last year. Some split and green peas also come from the United States and are used for soups. In 1903, the import amounted to about 1,400 bags, each containing 66 pounds. There is much chance of success for Canadian exporters if only they are determined to push their goods into the Japanese market.

B. C. Fruit Growers' Association.

The British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association has appointed the following officers for the year 1905: President, T. W. Stirling, Kelowna; first vice-president, Thos. A. Brydon, Victoria; second vice-president, J. C. Metcalfe, Port Hammond; third vice-president, James Johnstone, Nelson; secretary-treasurer, W. J. Brandrith, New Westminster; executive committee, Messrs. T. W. Stirling, J. C. Metcalfe, R. H. Palmer, Victoria; H. Kipp, Chilliwack, and W. J. Brandrith.

whose place of business is on Granville Street, Halifax. Mr. Gass has been in business for a great number of years and during that time he has handled thousands of barrels of flour and has witnessed the coming into popularity successively of many different brands. "The popularity of a brand of flour is not based on chance or what the makers say about it," said Mr. Gass in an interview; "but on the quality of the flour itself. There is a certain brand which for many years deservedly had the lead because it was without doubt the best the market afforded, but, from my own personal observation I feel that it now must take second place to ROYAL HOUSEHOLD. Formerly we would use no other flour in our own house than the one I speak of, but shortly after ROYAL HOUSEHOLD came on this market, I sent a barrel home one day to give it a good trial. Nothing would now induce us to go back to the other brand and it would never enter our heads to use one of the ordinary kinds.

"I don't know whether anybody will ever succeed in producing a better flour than ROYAL HOUSEHOLD, but I am firmly convinced there is not a better made to-day. It not only makes a fine loaf, but we find a barrel of it makes more loaves than any other kind; and while we find it best for bread, we also find it best for pastry.

"All of my customers who buy it say the same thing, and I can well understand the immense popularity which the flour has and can see that it will control the best part of the high-class trade before very long."

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

The Wheat Situation.

A VERY active wheat market has ruled during the week, and there are many in the trade who are inclined to the bull side of the market looking for $1.50 wheat between now and May. Before that price is reached, however, there can be little doubt but that millers in the United States will be importing Russian and Danubian wheat. Already the arrival of 1,100 tons of wheat from Antwerp is reported in New York; this grain was originally shipped from the Pacific coast and later held in storage at Antwerp. In any event American millers will take a good deal of Canadian wheat in bond; Minneapolis mills at present are buying very freely.

The large buying now going on is purely a matter of supply and demand. With Canadian wheat selling so much below the American market, it is only natural that U. S. buyers are getting all they can of it. The demand for milling wheat is excellent, especially in Ontario, but offerings are light. The large bakers have become impressed with the idea that Manitoba flour is going to be scarce and are buying freely. The demand for flour is also brisk abroad as well as at home at the present high level of prices and both England and Japan are in the market.

The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States on Jan. 17, 1905, was 39,985,000 bush., or 681,000 bush. less than a week ago; of corn 11,279,000 bush., an increase for the week of 360,000 bush.; of oats 20,300,000 bush., a decrease of 902,000 bush. from last week. The total amount of wheat in sight on Jan. 17, consisting of the visible supply and the quantity on passage was 68,000,000 bush., as against 68,586,000 bush. last week. The total amount of corn in sight was 27,919,000 bush., against 26,999,000 bush. for the previous week.

The world's wheat shipments for the week under review were as follows: America, 701,000 bush., as compared with 2,711,000 bush. a year ago; Argentine, 176,000 bush., as against 392,000 bush. a year ago; Australia, 520,000 bush., as compared with 658,000 bush. for the corresponding period a year ago; Danube, 2,096,000 bush., as against 544,000 bush. last year; India, 2,096 bush., compared with 1,176,000 bush. a year ago, and Russia, 2,576,000 hush., as against 1,554,000 bush. for the corresponding week of 1904. The most important feature of the situation is the continued decrease in Russian grain shipments.

The English trade is beginning to get accustomed to the absence of American wheat, and with the possibility (if the Argentina crop estimates be correct) of 300,000 quarters to 350,000 quarters per week from this source during the next three months, and 150,000 quarters from India, are inclined to regard supplies as assured during the next three months, with the help of the surplus stocks on hand compared with previous years.

There can be little doubt but that the European requirements in these three months will not be less than 1,100,000 quarters per week; the actual net imports into European countries in the four months ended Nov. 30 averaged 1,165,000 quarters per week; but with the prospect of an average of 1,025,000 quarters per week in the next three months, and possibly more if India does not soon show signs of slackening, the ordinary wheat buyer is disposed to adjourn until later in the season the "pinch" in supplies, due to the absence of American wheat, if "pinch" there is to be.

The Australian Harvest.

IT is now considered that the grain harvest will not be up to the expectations held a month ago. In Victoria there has been a serious set back in harvest prospects, while South Australia reports are favorable as to the quantity and quality of new season's wheat. Approximately the commonwealth will have about 20,000,000 bushels of new wheat available for export against 40,000,000 bushels exported in 1903-4. The effect of this serious decline is likely to be noticeable in the European markets, and should harden prices.

Since the opening of the present season, at the beginning of December, 1903, the exports of Australian wheat and flour are,—reducing the flour to the equivalent in wheat,—together equal to about 39,000,000 bushels of wheat. Of this quantity the States of Victoria and South Australia have exported about 28,500,000 bushels. The trade with England in Australian flour appears likely to continue for some time to come. Recent published reports indicate that the quality of the leading Australian brands is fully appreciated, and a determined efforts is being made by Australian millers to establish a permanent basis for future trade.

Prohibitive Freight Rates.

It is authoritatively stated that the reason for closing down the American Cereal Co.'s plant at Peterborough, Ont., was the high freight rates ruling from Canadian inland points to the seaboard. Until the season of 1904 conditions favored Peterborough, owing to two successive crop failures in the United States, which placed the American wheat market above an export basis. In 1904 conditions returned to their natural level, both markets being on an export basis at the present time

The cost of manufacturing is directly dependent upon transportation, and as the freight rates are cheaper in the United States than in Canada, the American Cereal Co. can deliver their products to the seaboard through the United States at a lower price than through Canada.

The closing down of the Quaker Oats industry in Peterborough has been a serious blow to the town, and with a view to securing a readjustment in railway grain rates in Canada, the Peterborough Board of Trade is soliciting the co-operation of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce in obtaining such concessions as will enable large manufacturers of cereals to secure rates that will encourage them to manufacture for foreign markets.

British Milling Booming.

WHILE American milling is feeling the pinch of dollar wheat and slack demand for flour, English, and especially Irish, mills, who aforetime regarded the former as dangerous, are "in clover," so to speak.

In view of American inability to export flour, new additions to the milling capacity of the United Kingdom are being erected, some of which are nearly ready to operate. These are certain to find business. Even in Ireland, so recently in the "slough of despond," "many orders have been placed for new machinery," and old mills long out of commission are starting up, while all are increasing their output. Some flour has, indeed, been recently imported from the continent, but the amount is small; even the amount imported from across the channel is not depressing to the Irish trade.

But British millers are doing more that recovering their own port trade, for American flour never got far inland; they are now aggressively on the look-out for export business in markets where American flour formerly held the field. "Holland, Norway and Sweden," says Milling, "seem to offer openings for British flour. Other markets," adds the same keen observer, "might be found in the West Indies and in Egypt, Malta," etc., where flour dealers in the past few years were supplied by American millers.

Japan Likes Canadian Flour.

The Lake of the Woods and Ogilvie Milling Companies report that good-sized orders for flour are still coming from Japan and that several shipments have recently gone to that country from their western mills. Japan goes in chiefly for low-grade flour, and the ability of the Canadian product to hold its quality in all climates makes it extremely popular in the far East.

G. Thompson has decided to retire as president of the Montreal Corn Exchange.

Twenty-five million five hundred thousand bushels of grain were inspected at Winnipeg during the period beginning Sept. 1 and closing Dec. 31, 1904. The previous year the figures were 23,500,000 bushels, an increase in favor of the present year of 2,000,000 bushels.

Tobaccos, Cigars, and Smokers' Accessories

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

Notable Cigar Department.

NINE years ago on a back street in a western Ontario city, a young man started a grocery, just a common every-day grocery with nothing to distinguish it from any other of its kind, except possibly that it was smaller than the average, and its windows always looked fresh. The young man did not have much capital, but he had lots of grit, and go in him.

To-day, he has the finest store in the city. He can supply you with anything eatable. He always has fruit and vegetables, just a little earlier, a little fresher and a little more attractive in appearance than any other store in the city. As a result, he has the pick of the trade, the cream of the profits, and is flourishing like a green bay tree.

He was the first in the city to abolish the old-fashioned counter, and to substitute silent salesmen. Each of these units is a department in itself. One for confectionery, one for butter and eggs, one for cheese and meats, for dried fruits, for coffees and spices, and for cigars and tobacco, and that brings us to the point of this article. The cigar and tobacco department occupies the place of honor just as you come in the door, the most prominent place in the finest and most successful grocery in Western Ontario.

What does it mean? Nothing more or less than that this is one of the most profitable lines than can be handled in a grocery; if properly attended to, and carefully appointed, a line fully compatible with the most select city trade, and one that has the important advantage of attracting the male element of the community.

In laying your plans for 1905, do not forget your cigar and tobacco department. The editor of our Window and Interior Display department is always available for consultation in working out attractive schemes for displaying cigars and tobacco, as for any other department of the trade.

Tobacco Interests at War.

The Executive Committee of the Interstate Tobacco Growers' Protective Association of Virginia and North Carolina is now engaged in a war with the American Tobacco Co.

Japan's Tobacco Monopoly.

JAPAN'S tobacco monopoly is dealt with in the annual report of United States Vice Consul Sharp at Kobe, recently received. The law relating to the monopoly of leaf tobacco, he says, was promulgated in March, 1896. This law provided that all leaf tobacco grown was to be bought by the Government and in turn sold to the manufacturers by the Government at a fixed rate of profit. The Government has realized a good profit from this system, but in studying the customs in respect to tobacco monopoly of other countries it was seen that the monopoly of leaf tobacco was but a step to the establishment of the monopoly of tobacco manufacture, with the result that the law of monopoly of tobacco manufacture was established in March last.

According to this law, though the Government has the exclusive right of tobacco manufacture, the cultivation of leaf tobacco is left to private growers, as heretofore. Tobacco is to be made at public factories established in various parts of the country. The manufactured article is to be sold to retailers through the hands of wholesale merchants and then to the consumer, the wholesale merchants and retailers to be appointed by the Government.

In the case of cigarettes, the new monopoly law went into effect in July, and the requirements regarding cut tobacco will go into effect in April next.

The tariff on cigars, cigarettes, snuff, and cut tobacco from the United States, is 150 per cent. under the law which went into effect April 1, 1903.

Mogul in Montreal.

DURING the festive season just past practically everybody in Montreal was specially interested in what the stores had to show. Those who had charge of the window dressing realized the situation, and whatever part of the city one happened to visit, the eye was sure to be caught by attractive displays. With so many rival claims on the public notice, it is according high praise to the grocers and tobacconists to say that their stores received more than an average share of attention from passers-by.

Many walking along St. Catherine St. remarked on the Oriental appearance of certain windows. Models of Egyptian temples, brilliantly lighted, were the feature. This effect was heightened by the use of quaint lamp shades which looked as if they might have been brought from some Eastern shrine.

These particular displays were in honor of the introduction of "Mogul," the new Egyptian cigarette, which is proving such a success. The trade price of "Mogul" is $12 per thousand. They are put up in cardboard boxes of 250 (packages of 10), and can be had with either cork or plain tips and in round or oval shapes. As these cigarettes command a ready sale at 15c per package, dealers obtain a good margin of profit.

IT is evident that the grain shipments are improving, and a glance at the manifests for the past week suggests good business. For instance, when the ss. Manxman, of the Dominion Line, sailed away from Portland to Bristol the G.T.R. shipped 66,000 bushels of wheat, 19,000 bushels of oats, 43,316 bushels of corn, 21,128 bushels of buckwheat, in addition to many smaller quantities of general cargo. A considerable quantity of cheese was taken, and also provisions, notably 2,000 packages of lard. The Allen Line ss. Ontarian also sailed from Portland and carried an excellent variety of cargo including 72,000 bushels of wheat and 9,300 bushels of oats. On this boat was also carried 2,507 barrels of apples. From St. John, N.B., the Manchester Importer sailed on January 8th with a first rate cargo for Manchester. This comprised 24,000 bushels of barley shipped by C.P.R. as well as 4,469 boxes of cheese and immense quantities of provisions.

However, whatever may be the reason it may be noticed that from the G.T.R. terminal, namely Portland, the cargoes have been nearly double in size when compared with the shipments from St. John, N.B. There is no doubt that St. John as a Winter port is certainly growing in importance, but outside of the C.P.R., which line feeds its own steamers, the amount of cargo obtained is not by any means as large as it may be some day, and as it ought to be now. Take the Allen Line. This firm simply trade with St. John because they have to send the mail boats to a Canadian port and the Government of Canada holds them to that part of their contract very rigidly. Certainly this is paying dearly for loyalty, and there must be some means of explaining why the immense shipments go to the seaboard and use Portland as a terminal. It would appear from conversation with some of the leading freight men that there is not the slightest discrimination in favor of Portland because it happens to be in the United States. It would seem that the facilities for handling cargo all point to Portland, and when grain or anything of that kind requires handling, the conveniences available at Portland are more pleasing to the shippers. They may not be better, but the shippers have got accustomed to sending their goods by the American port and so the Canadian port suffers. Business is picking up in St. John and the bookings for the next two months look very favorable.

The C.P.R. will likely make things move more lively when they get the new twenty-knot boats which Mr. Piers reports are to be constructed for them. As they are to be delivered only in the Spring of 1906 it is a long way off and the alleged secrets which are said by Mr. Piers to be applied to the building of the boats may tend to stimulate trade.

THE OFFICE END

DEVOTED TO THE OFFICE STAFFS OF BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENTS

FORMING A JOINT STOCK COMPANY.

A few items of general interest to the Bookkeeper after the formation of a Joint Stock Company or the amalgamation of industrial concerns.

By H. R. W.

IT would be impossible to give a set of opening entries applicable to every business, as it would depend largely upon the arrangement made with the vendors in regard to the transfer of their business, but in a general way, the "assets" transferred should be debited, crediting "Shareholders of Old Company," the "Liabilities" credited, debiting "Shareholders of Old Company," the balance in the "Shareholders" account showing the amount of stock held by them in the new company, the completing entry being:

"Shareholders of Old Company" Dr.
To Capital Stock account Cr.

If stock is offered for public subscription the entries for "General Ledger" purposes might be made as follows:

Shareholders Acct. Dr.
To Capital Stock account Cr.
(For Amount of Stock Subscribed.)

Cash Dr.
To Shareholder Cr.
(as instalments are received on subscription)

thus closing "shareholders" account in the general ledger.

If various classes of stock are subscribed for, such as first preference, second preference or common, these divisions may be credited instead of simply using the term "capital stock."

As a rule, shareholders are treated collectively in the "General Ledger," one, two or three accounts being kept according to the class of shares subscribed for, the accounts for the individual shareholders being kept in the stock ledger.

A First Difficulty.

Probably the first difficulty with which the office man will have to contend when the amalgamated company has not taken over the accounts receivable or payable of the individual companies, will occur upon receipt of a cheque or money order, the amount of which includes accounts due both to the old and new companies. Let it be supposed, for instance, that Bentley & Jones owe one of the old companies $10 and the amalgamated company $15, the latter being subject to cash discount of 2 per cent. Upon receipt of the cheque or money order, the remittance may be entered in the cash book of the new company as follows:

		c.d.	amt.
Bentley & Jones.....	$24.50	..	....
Less amt. of account for Old Co.	9.80	30	$14 70

The amount posted to the credit of Bentley & Jones in the books of the new company being $15, made up of cash $14.70 and cash discount 30c, the balance $9.80 being entered in the cash book of the old company in the usual way, together with cash discount, if allowable. The new company may pay over the amount of each individual balance due or the aggregate amount due at the end of the day or week.

When goods are returned after the amalgamation has taken place, which were charged prior to the date of transfer, the correct method, although it may appear on first sight a roundabout way of arriving at the desired result, is to credit the goods through the books of the old company at the price originally charged, and, if necessary, transfer such credits, by means of cross entries, to the books of the new company, charging at the same time or at the end of a stated period all goods thus returned and credited to the new company at cost price. If this course were not pursued, the goods would be taken into stock by the new company and a liability assumed by crediting the customer at the selling value, whereas such goods should be taken into stock at cost, as the old company had originally made the profit on them. As the success of a business depends to a large extent in these busy days upon the system employed, a few suggestions as to handling the office department after an amalgamation may not be amiss.

A Few Suggestions.

The aim should be to dispense with all unnecessary work without destroying in any way the history of transaction, the question continually before the office man being, "Is there a possibility of this work being done in a shorter or simpler manner and yet obtain the necessary result?"

Each branch should keep its own cash book in the form of loose sheets, which may be kept on files, a duplicate sheet of each day's transactions being sent to the head office where it shall be audited, filed and posted.

Vouchers for sundry payments should accompany the sheets and should be vouched for by the manager of the branch.

An additional check on the cash would be to have the balance on hand on a certain day, say on the end of the month, deposited in the bank, and the pass book entered by the bank and sent to the head office for verification.

All accounts should be kept at the head office, both personal and impersonal.

Each office may keep its own bank account, and remittance by draft made to head office for all over a stipulated amount.

All accounts payable should be settled by the head office, unless goods are settled for in cash when purchased by the branch, in the latter case the vouchers being sent as usual with the cash sheet.

The invoicing may be done by the individual office in triplicate, one copy sent to the customer, one copy to the head office for posting medium, and the third filed in the branch office for reference only.

DEPARTMENT OF ADVERTISING SUGGESTION AND CRITICISM

NOTE—Herein are discussed the principles and practice of advertising. Subscribers are invited to send Mr. Kirkwood specimens of their newspaper and other advertising, for the purpose of review in this department. Address care of Department of Advertising, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Edited by John C. Kirkwood,
TORONTO.

THE VALUE OF A NAME.

IT will be recalled by many that some few years ago there was brought an action by Walter Baker Co., cocoa and chocolate manufacturers, against certain parties who were trading in similar lines under the name of W. Baker & Co.

In the trial that followed, it was recognized by the Court of Massachusetts that the trade-mark of Walter Baker & Co. was worth one million dollars, a value derived from 28 years of persistent and generous advertising.

This incident serves to illustrate the worth of a name or trade-mark as a commercial asset, and it affirms a truth that has not yet been learned by many a manufacturer, namely, that the only way to make a name or a trade-mark valuable, is to advertise it.

The practice of trademarking one's products is common enough, but this is done in the majority of cases as a protection against infringement. The making of the trade-mark valuable is another thing, and one unfortunately which has received scant attention from those most concerned.

The other day I came across a certain manufacturer in Toronto who has for years been making his goods with his initial A. This letter is the basis of a peculiar design which constitutes his registered trade-mark. He had never attached much value to the mark as a selling factor; it served more to indicate a high quality of manufacture then anything else. This manufacturer sells largely through the jobbing trade, and puts up many lines for the jobber under their private name or label. As he put it himself—"They get lots of label but mighty little of any good," meaning that at the price at which he has to manufacture for the jobber, there was no room for him to give much in the way of quality. He continued to sell his own "Big A" lines at the same time. One day a jobber said to him—"Oh, the people want your Big A brand." The manufacturer was awakened by that remark to see that he had been losing a great deal in not having advertised his Big A brand, and thus developing both a demand for and a confidence in Big A goods. It may be remarked that this manufacturer has begun an advertising campaign whose text is "Big A goods for Quality."

About a dozen years ago E. J. Bliss of Boston conceived the idea of the Regal Shoe. Something over two million dollars has been spent in advertising this shoe, and an offer of five million dollars for the Regal Shoe trade-mark would be refused.

Instances could be given without number of the commercial value of the advertised trade-mark, but the foregoing will suffice.

The average manufacturer is in bondage to some one. His distributer, his jobber, his salesmen, or his retailers have him at their mercy. He recognizes these elements as his mediums of distribution and is afraid of them. The manufacturer selling an advertised trademarked article is absolutely independent. If his goods are right, and his advertising right, the retailer finds it easier to sell them than to explain why he fails to keep them. The question of price is not difficult on advertised trademarked articles. The salesman, the jobber and the distributer of an advertised trademarked article are in their proper places—they are the assistants of the manufacturer, not his boss. When the manufacturer trademarks his product he is making a step in the right direction. When he advertises that trade-mark he has taken the other step which leads to his independence.

Advertising Failure.

The following paragraphs are for the consideration of those whose faith in advertising has become weak, and who may need the encouragement of others' experience and wisdom.

A common error in advertising is to stop if one doesn't get immediate returns, or because "business is dull." In the first case one is disappointed without reason, for not sufficient time has been given to yield results. Those who look for prompt returns must think that the public has been just waiting for their advertisements to appear, and directly will make a headlong rush for the goods advertised. Stopping one's advertisement in dull times only helps to increase the dullness. Trade would be brisker if everyone kept on trying to make it brisker.

Failure of a trial advertisement has set more business men against advertising in general than any other factor in publicity,—which is a pity when one considers the unreasonableness of expecting much from a trial advertisement. It is like the first discord struck on the piano by the beginner. If a student becomes disgusted with such an initial effort he will never advance farther in his work; and if an advertiser abandons his advertising intentions because the trial or single advertisement has not proved remunerative, he will never get farther on towards the end desired.

To think that advertising indulged in for part of the year will leave a reminder in the minds of the public for the balance of the year is a besetting business sin.

Experienced advertisers know that from six months to several years are required to make advertising yield paying returns. Consequently there is no telling how much money will be required to keep things going until the psychological moment is reached when advertising begins to pay.

Never expect the first advertising to bring back its cost immediately—the average return is about 20 per cent., and the profits usually come from subsequent sales.

Advertising is a hard enough proposition at its best, even for established concerns. Think how much more difficult it must be for the new-comer who has not a single claim on the business world, to make his way against those who have been established for years, and whose connections have been of long duration.

A handful of sand thrown at a wall will make no impression,—a single pebble will leave some impression. A lot of small type does not catch the eye nearly so quick as a single word in bold, plain caps.

One brick never built a house, neither can one advertisement build up a business.

None so Blind As Those Who Won't See.

THE CANADIAN GROCER can prove of valuable assistance to the selling end of any business which seeks trade among the grocery and general storekeepers of Canada.

We advance many plain, indisputable arguments to this effect.

And still there are some folks who can't see it.

Some who can't see how it's going to pay them.

And won't even invest a few dollars to find out.

Very few folks like this, but we would like to convince even them.

If we only could, we'd get a good deal of satisfaction out of it—and we know they would, too.

Don't you think they're blind to their own interests?

Here's a paper that finds a welcome in every worth-while grocery store from Halifax to Vancouver once every week—so can't you see that an announcement of any interest must surely command some attention?

The advertising columns of THE CANADIAN GROCER provide about the best way we know of keeping in close touch with all the grocers of Canada all the time.

You can see value in a paper like this—

BUYING BUSINESS SUPPLIES

By M. Martin Kallman in Saturday Evening Post.

THE purchasing department of the modern business house is ordinarily one of its most loosely organized and blindly conducted departments. To a scandalous extent purchasing agents are influenced by improper and dishonest considerations. No other department is so tainted by "business graft" as this—a condition which does not imply that the purchasing agent is naturally more dishonest than the other officers in the house organization, but that he is subjected to far greater temptation. On the other hand, there are thousands of purchasing agents whose integrity has stood the test of hot and steady fire—and who are still far short, in point of efficiency of what they should be, their inefficiency being less the result of their own shortcomings than of defects inherent in the general system under which they do their work.

Consider the nature of the demands made upon the purchasing agent of a fairly large commercial house or industrial concern. He is required to buy everything in the nature of supplies from a paper of pins to a trainload of coal—and that is putting it mildly, for in some instances the coal bought by one purchasing agent equals the entire output of a mine. The variety and diversity of the articles which he must procure is simply astonishing, and yet he is supposed to have a knowledge of all these articles that will enable him to buy them "closely" and economically—a supposition which is one of the weakest points of the system as it is commonly conducted.

Comparative Statement.

Any system involves a certain degree of red-tape; that cannot be avoided. Consequently, in any business organization not of the most elemental kind it is necessary for the main executive officials to get an idea of the results attained and the progress made by their subordinates through the agency of the "comparative statement." Very often, however, the comparative statement shows only the surface indications, is but skin deep, and does not get down to the real facts or reveal them to the official for whose eye the statement is prepared. I am forced to the conclusion that in few, if any, departments of the modern business organization is the comparative statement or report more superficial and misleading than in the purchasing department.

Why is this so? Because, inevitably and unconsciously, the purchasing agent comes to feel that his superior will mainly judge of his work in the matter of "close prices," of "inside buying." When once this idea gets possession of the purchasing agent his ambition is centred in making a showing for buying all of his supplies at less than the ruling market price. He wishes his comparative statement to show that every item purchased was bought at a price lower than the ruling price, and lower than his competitors might naturally be expected to pay.

Cheapness Outbids Quality.

His tendency to attach an exaggerated importance to this difference in price regardless of the total amount actually "saved" naturally increases with time, becomes a settled habit, and leads him into two grave errors: overbuying, in order to get a lower quantity price, and a lowering of his quality standards. He becomes willing to have the quality of supplies shaded down to permit him to make a more impressive showing on the score of low prices.

The items of printing and stationery illustrate admirably the vice of overbuying. The purchasing agent gets a requisition for, say, 10,000 blanks of a certain kind, and calls in the representative of the printing house for figures on the bill. The solicitor, if he is a good one and up to the tricks of the trade, will do a little calculating like this:

"Can't give them to you at less than five dollars at that quantity. Take 25,000, and I can put them down to three dollars and forty-seven cents."

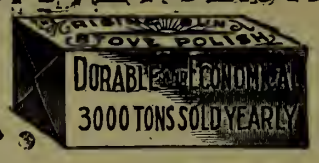
The difference in price is impressive; it will look well on his report, and so the purchasing agent orders 15,000 more than the requisition calls for, or else he has the requisition changed.

And what is the result? Simply this: by the time two-fifths of the blanks are used the "form" must be changed, and 15,000 are so much waste paper.

The same thing occurs in buying almost every other kind of supplies. The purchasing agent does not have a sound idea of the quantity of a certain article that should be bought—very likely it is next to impossible for him to be really informed on that detail—and then he feels that he must secure the large and showy concession of price. In this manner and from these causes many a purchasing agent is every year entrapped into wasting thousands of dollars.

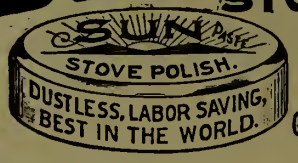
How to Avoid Wasting.

First, either by a departmental distribution of authority to purchase supplies, or by giving the head of each department a check upon the purchasing agent in the matter of quantity and quality of supplies peculiar to that department. In short, the head of the department using a certain supply must be better informed than any other person as to the quantity, quality and price of the article in question, and should, therefore, have a direct "say" on this point and be held responsible for overbuying and for inferior quality.



Second, the analysis of the purchasing agent's report on the part of the superiors to whom he is directly responsible should be far more searching and intelligent than it usually is—so much so that his mind will be effectively disabused of the idea that low prices are the main consideration asked from him. Real, practical, net economics of the long-time and far-reaching sort are the only kind of credit marks by which the work of the purchasing agent should be judged. Of course, this is, to a considerable extent, the basis in the houses having the soundest management and a system that works out the real spirit of organization instead of the "dead letter of the law."

But the other kind is altogether too common, and the "price showing" is the thing which very generally blinds the purchasing agent, so that he fails to get a fair view of what he has really accomplished, or to give that view to his superiors in his reports.



Sound Judgment Needed.

Good, level-headed judgment on the part of the purchasing agent is required to keep a proper balance in his work, to give the requisite amount of time and care to the really important items. Too often the time which this executive should give to the big matters in his field is eaten up by the multiplicity of smaller ones.

I recall a case in which a purchasing agent—and a very conscientious one, too—gave so much time to the smaller matters that he was caught with an insufficient supply of coal. He worked for a large manufacturing concern which, because he had not given sufficient study to coal conditions, faced the alternative of going into the open market and paying almost a prohibitive price for coal or closing down and throwing hundreds of hands out of employment. In one sense of the word, that purchasing agent was not to blame for the costly predicament in which the concern found itself; he was expected to bestow so much detailed care upon the buying of a few dollars' worth of stationery, to put in so many hours beating down prices on little things, that he had no time in which to think for his employers, to look a long way ahead in the matter of coal and other supplies running into big money. In fact, he confessed that he felt obliged to put in about as much time haggling over a printer's bill of $100 as in contracting for a season's coal.

Overlooking Opportunities.

Because of this sort of thing, and also because of the feeling that he must show a concession in price, the purchasing agent is constantly overlooking opportunities actually to benefit his house. Here is a fair example of the way this tendency operates: A very large manufacturing house decided to install a modern office system, and sent for an expert who was the inventor of several of the devices used in the system, and who understood the whole matter completely. He was asked to quote prices on the equipment, and did no, his bid containing a clause to the effect that he would personally install the system and instruct the office force in its use. This part of the matter was either overlooked or ignored, and the purchasing agent at once started out to see if he could "beat the first man's figures."

Apparently this was the only consideration in the agent's mind. He had no difficulty in finding a firm which contracted to furnish the supplies at a lower figure. After the office equipment was received the question of its installation came up—and the purchasing agent found that on this score he had figured without his host. Eventually he discovered that the cheapest way in which he could get the equipment installed and the employes adequately instructed in the operation of the system was to employ the man who had been underbid and pay him a fee for his services, which would have been given without charge under the original arrangement.

To Improve Purchasing Department.

Perhaps the most important particular in which every purchasing department is open to improvement, not to say reform, is in the matter of recording the information necessary to its successful operation. Like the credit man, the purchasing agent is inclined to keep the most valuable information of the department "under his hat." This puts him in the position of being able to dictate to his employers and to make them feel that he is indispensable.

Every house should be in position to discharge its purchasing agent on an hour's notice without crippling the work of the department. In other words, the archives of the department should contain every item of information regarding every phase of the work necessary to place the new purchasing agent in complete control of the situation. Not only should this information be so tabulated and classified as to indicate the quantity, quality and prices of supplies used, but it should also focus before the eye the complete situation regarding the present amount of and probable demand for the more important supplies. Whatever may contribute to a better knowledge of the present and future "market conditions" of a leading supply should have a place in the archives—and be so recorded that its relative importance will be seen and realized.

Some, not to say most, purchasing agents seem to think that if their office system shows from whom the supplies have been bought, the quantity of each article used and the prices paid, then their exhibit is complete and satisfactory. This kind of a record takes in only the A B C of the supply-buying business. The record should go beyond the houses from which goods are bought and deal with the personalities with which the purchasing agent transacts his business.

Character Information.

The cards of the file should give the new purchasing agent a clew to the "personal equation" in each house, should furnish him with that sort of information which is gained by close personal acquaintance—in a word, with "character information." Particular attention should also be paid in the purchasing department to all literature and information relating to scientific progress in lines having a direct relation to the processes for which supplies are bought.

chasing agent who has a broad and progressive mind will make this feature of his system invaluable, for by it he and his house will be kept in pace with progress and will be the first to have those improvements which are practical and which make for economy and efficiency in the business world.

In so brief an article it is impossible adequately to suggest the general points in regard to buying supplies which should command the attention of the careful business executive: but one thing, at least, should be clear to him: no other department will give him a better return for close and unflagging scrutiny than this, and no other department requires better poise and balance. Conducted with too much conservatism, however, this will cramp the operation and cripple the efficiency of the whole business. I recall an instance where red-tape and delay in purchasing a fifty-dollar tool cost a manufacturing concern several hundred dollars. On the other hand, a careless, incompetent or lavish purchasing agent can soon wreck the profit account of a large and prosperous concern. Any chief executive who does not see to it that his purchasing department is in efficient hands, and that the system on which it is conducted is the best known, does himself, his associates and even his employes, a grave injustice.

AUTOMOBILING ROUND THE WORLD.

THE accompanying illustration entitled Automobiling Round the World, is one that will be of interest to readers of The Canadian Grocer. The reproduction is from a photograph taken at Medicine Hat, N.W.T., last September, for which we are indebted to D. H. Bissell, western representative of E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto.

Mr. Bissell is the man at the extreme left side of the picture with the sample case in one hand. The man at the wheel and the owner of the machine is Chas. F. Glidden, a millionaire of Boston, Mass. Permission was granted him by the C.P.R. authorities to make the trip over their tracks to Vancover, providing he carried a crew consisting of conductor and engineer, and with understanding that the machine would be run on schedule time. The trip was successfully made and on New Year's day Mr. Glidden and his wife, who is shown in photograph,, cabled from Suva, the capital of the Fiji Islands.

Automobiling Round the World.

Mr. Glidden has now traveled about 25,000 miles in his car and before he ends his tour in 1906, will have covered 40,000 miles if his schedule be carried out. From the Fiji Islands he goes to New Zealand, Australia, New Guinea, Borneo, Sumatra, China, India and Africa. Readers will observe that car wheels were substituted for regular wheels which are used on automobiles.

The man sitting beside Mr. Glidden is the conductor and the other man is the engineer.

Why This "Trio" Wins

OUR PRICE-LIST IS YOURS FOR THE ASKING. SEND FOR IT.

Boeckh's Brushes, Boeckh's Brooms and Cane's Woodenware, win trade every day of the year because they are the "standard goods of Canada." The Grocer who buys them can't possibly lose money or trade because, first, their quality wins confidence; second, confidence holds business. Like gold dollars, they pass for full face value everywhere and at all times—their value is the same to-day, to-morrow and a year from now. Their name and fame are the result of years and years of constant, steady growth, of confidence in quality in the minds of the great Canadian public.

With the most desirable stock of bristles that money and skill can buy in European markets always on hand, with lumber yards always containing a great stock of domestic woods and imported veneers, with the largest and best equipped factories of their kind in Canada, then why shouldn't Boeckh's Brooms and Brushes be a product worthy to be known as "the standard goods of Canada."

—With a plant and timber yards covering over twenty-five acres, with the newest and most complete machinery, with twenty-four kilns for dry-kilning, with extensive timber lands to draw from (owned by the United Factories), then why shouldn't Cane's Newmarket Woodenware take first and foremost place in the mercantile world?

A GENERAL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

Among the important events slated for Bonspeil Week in Winnipeg, is the meeting for permanent organization of the General Merchants' Association of Manitoba. Last August a preliminary organization meeting was held and although the meeting was not largely attended gratifying assurances of sympathy and promises of support were received from numbers of general merchants who, because it was a busy season, were unable to attend. The meeting for permanent organization is being held at a quiet time of the year when many merchants will be in the city on other business or for pleasure. The meetings are to be held in Trades and Labor Hall on February 8th and 9th at 1.30 p.m. The movement is one which should command the hearty support of the general merchants of Manitoba.

FRESH AND CURED FISH

Failure of New England Fisheries.

MANY are the reasons advanced for the failure of these fisheries, but the true cause is Man. For three hundred years, in and out of the spawning season, he has ruthlessly preyed on the supposedly inexhaustible supply with never a thought of the morrow. With nets, pounds, weirs and other instruments of destruction, not satisfied with catching the fish themselves when about to spawn, he even destroyed the spawn itself—what little found its way to the breeding ground.

Time was when mackerel were caught with the "jig" (hook and line) or with "drags"—small nets dragged behind schooners. These two methods were always effective. Fish remained plentiful, the fisherman made enough money to provide himself with even the luxuries of life, and the price of mackerel remained within the means of the poorest laborer. Then the country grew, facilities for shipping fresh fish to greater distances improved steadily, the fisherman became too affluent and lay awake night devising means how to triple his income. Thousands of fish lifted out of a school became an absurd proposition in his eyes. Entire schools he wanted, two hundred thousand or more at a time; if possible—never mind whether they had or had not spawned. Both fixed and portable nets and traps he invented.

Chief among the apparatus used for catching fish while in a fixed position are traps, pounds and weirs. The trap consists of an oblong inclosure of netting on three sides and at the bottom, anchored securely by the side of a channel. Into this the fish enter, and, the bottom of the net being lifted to the surface at the open end, the fish are penned in and driven into a lateral inclosure where they are kept until needed.

The pounds and weirs are far more destructive. These are adapted not only for taking but, many of them, for retaining the fish until convenient to remove them. They are of various construction, depending upon various conditions—the nature of the water, the tides, the nature of the shore, the kind of fish to be taken. The most common form consists of a fence netting extending fifty or one hundred fathoms into the sea, at right angles to the shore line. The outer end of this straight fence, or wall, is carried into a heart-shaped inclosure of netting, the apex of the heart connecting with a circular "bowl" of netting, the bottom of which lies upon the ground at a depth of twenty or thirty feet. In its course along the coast a school strikes one of these fences, follows it seaward, hoping to swim around it, and continues along the "leader" until it reaches the end which is the entrance to the heart. Here the school swims around and around for a time, the only avenue of escape seeming to be through the apex into the bowl, wherein they circle and circle, seeking vainly for an outlet.

The weirs differ from these pounds chiefly in being constructed in part or in whole of brushwork and narrow boards, with or without netting; and they are often so arranged that at low tide a sand bar cuts off the escape of the fish, leaving them in a basin inside.

But of all the deadly traps of wholesale slaughter perhaps none can equal that portable contrivance, now carried by every fishing schooner, the purse seine. This seine is a net half a mile long and thirty feet deep provided with heavy iron rings along the lower edge to sink it perpendicularly. A rope passed loosely through the rings enables the net to be drawn shut. Entire schools of hundreds of thousands of fish were trapped in this contrivance and scooped to the decks of the schooners. So hugely successful were these nets from the very first, that each vessel was provided with one, and millions upon millions of fishes—on their way to the spawning ground where each female would lay from ten thousand to ninety thousand tiny eggs—were taken.

Often a single haul of these nets was so successful that more mackerel were taken than could be carried away. Then the largest and best specimens were selected and the smaller ones, dead or dying, were thrown back into the sea. Schooner after schooner, with decks and holds crammed full of mackerel, staggered into port only to find the market glutted by earlier competitors. So abundant were mackerel that even in a market so strong as New York's, the fish were sold at fifty cents a hundred, and, frequently, street hucksters could fill their wagons for twenty-five cents a load. In fact, times there were when it was impossible to give the fish away, and the vessels had to put out of the harbor and dump their loads out at sea. In 1885, it is estimated from thirty thousand to forty thousand barrels of mackerel were thus caught and, spoiled, were thrown into the ocean to get rid of them.

And, worse, while this destruction was going on from the time the schools reached Hatteras to the time they were again bound for their unknown quarters in deep water, at Newburyport, a criminal, wasteful war was waged against these splendid fish. Here where the coast is irregular and where there is a difference of twenty or more feet between high and low tides, fishermen-farmers caught mackerel by the wagon-load to spread on their acres in place of manure, or else to feed them to their pigs. The fishes would enter a cove to lay their eggs; when ready to retreat they would find a net stretched across the entrance of the retreat, and a tide falling fast, until at last entire schools were left high and dry. Then the farmers would drive in with teams, and with shovels and pitchforks load their wagons and spread the mackerel to fertilize the soil.

The most potent of all the reasons for the failing of these fisheries is best given in the words of Captain "Sol" Jacobs, "King of the Mackerel Fishers" at Gloucester, who said:

"The chief crime against the fisheries is the practice of catching mackerel during the spawning season. If one-tenth of the eggs of the spawn mackerel caught last season had matured mackerel would be plentiful this year along our shore."

It is easy to understand why, after severe fishing along a certain stretch of the coast, the supply of fish will be reduced to a considerable extent, for, although the supply of fish in the sea may be practically inexhaustible, yet, if the fish of a particular region are all caught there is no hope that others from surrounding localities will take their place. The exhaustion of a local fishery is not like dipping water out of a bucket, where the vacancy is immediately filled, but is more like scooping lard out of a keg, where there is a space left that remains an empty hole, unoccupied by anything else, for it is a habit of fish to spawn on the ground where they were hatched, and the fish of any particular spawning ground having been destroyed, no others will come to take their place.

Other reasons, too numerous to mention within the space of a magazine article, are advanced to explain the decline of these fisheries. But the only tangible one which we may hope to control is their devastation by the fishermen, and the sole remedy is to regulate the pounds and traps and the purse seines during the spawning season.

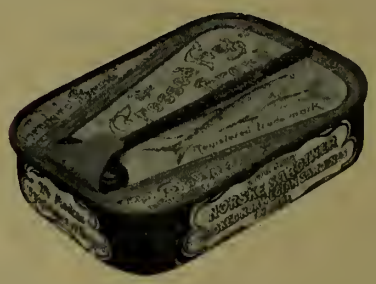
The quickest and surest remedy would be their legal abolition for a series of years. This, however, might prove a harsh measure, and their regulation would probably suffice to restore the fisheries to their former flourishing condition—even as they exist undiminished in Canada to-day, where stringent laws have protected them.

Almost forty years ago, in 1865, our New England fisheries showed their first alarming decrease. Since that time the supply of fish has been going down steadily. In 1871 and 1872, the United States Fish Commission investigated the subject and recommended the passage of Federal laws restricting the operations of traps and pounds and weirs to certain days throughout the spawning season. Not a law has been passed to protect the mackerel, however.—Pearson's Magazine.

Fishermen Opposed to Close Season.

THE attempt of B. C. cannerymen to obtain a closed season for sockeye fishing on the Fraser River during 1906 and 1908 has resulted in organized opposition from the fishermen, among whom a resolution was passed last week for presentation to the Federal Government embodying the following clauses:



1. That there be no closed years for sockeye fishing on the Fraser River.

2. That the uppermost limit of the fishing-grounds on the Fraser River be the Mission bridge.

3. That no limitation of less than eighty meshes be set by the Government on the depth of gill nets.

The fishermen are opposed to the canners on almost every item of the latter's resolutions, but especially the one recommending close seasons in 1906 and 1908. The plea of the canners is that the fish have no chance to get to the spawning-grounds. It is pointed out by veteran fishermen that although 1902, 1903 and 1904 were all virtually closed years on account of the strikes, there were no more fish on the grounds then than in other years. It is their opinion, moreover, that since 1905 is expected to be the big year, the canners hope to get big pack, which they will be able to dispose of in 1906 at advantage, without catching any fish that year. They further point out that the resolution of the canners calls only for the closing of the Fraser River fishing-grounds, while many of the canners most prominent in the movement own canneries in Northern British Columbia waters, which they could operate meanwhile. The fishermen are quite willing to have close seasons in the course of the week, but claim that a complete close season is out of the question.

The canners want to have the depth of nets limited to sixty or sixty-five meshes, but the fishermen think that if a limit is to be set at all it should be not less than eighty. While the canners would see the New Westminster bridge set as the highest boundary of the fishing-grounds on the Fraser, the fishermen want to fish as far up as the Mission bridge.

Dairymen Convene.

THE annual convention of the Western Dairymen's Association in Stratford, Ont., on January 17, 18, 19, marks another stage in the development of an industry in Ontario now ranking among the most valuable of Canada's commercial assets.

The Canadian Grocer has emphasized again and again the national significance of these conventions in which technical experts and practical farmers meet to discuss problems connected with the scientific and commercial improvement of dairying. For instance, it is of utmost importance for the dairy farmer to keep the proper class of cows and supply feed of a certain quality. One of the reasons why so many Canadian farmers have not been more successful in dairying is that they have been careless in the selection, feeding and care of stock, so much so that there are scores of herds throughout the country not even paying for their keep. The same judgment should be exercised in selecting cattle as in picking out farming machinery.

PRESERVATIVES.

In reviewing the Canadian export trade in butter for the year 1904, it is interesting to note that the demand in Great Britain is principally for saltless butter. On this account the use of preservatives in both milk and butter is coming more and more into favor among dairymen, the British trade going so far as to recommend the use of preservatives in an amount not exceeding a half of one per cent. The most common preservatives in use are the borax preservatives, such as borax acid and borax with other ingredients generally sold in the form of a white powder. In an article like butter in which the preservation of its original peculiar, delicate flavor is of first importance, any material which helps to retain this is of particular value. Salt answers the purpose; this, however, will not answer in the English market, which is the destination of most of our export butter. It would seem that if Canada is to retain or increase her trade in butter with Great Britain, she must use preservatives.

The preservatives in use at the present time are thought in certain quarters to be harmful; in view of this the association petitioned for protection against the sale of harmful preparations and recommended that all preservatives be subject to Government inspection, but that their use for domestic purposes be discouraged as much as possible.

SUITABLE PACKAGES

Another matter of vital importance to the export cheese trade is the having of suitable packages. Considerable fault has been found during the season just closed on account of the inferior quality of the boxes used. The sides were cut too thin, and in many cases too many pieces were used in the construction of the lids and bottoms, making a weak, flimsy box throughout. The convention strongly recommended that box makers cut the siding of the boxes not less than 4 to the inch and not more than three pieces in the formation of a head or bottom. In a number of instances cheese were sent in boxes with green headings, causing serious damage to the cheese.

ONTARIO CHEESE WITHOUT A PEER.

R. M. Ballantyne, of Montreal, one of the best authorities on cheese in this country, advised Western Ontario makers that their cheese was without doubt the best made in Canada and fit only for comparison with the best Cheddar cheese of England. The general appearance on its arrival in England was better than from any other section. Makers were advised to hold to the 14 1-2 size, and to the 80-pound weight. But the Summer and Winter cheese was too stiff, and lacked the texture and quality good cheese should possess. The practice of keeping cheese in warm curing rooms should be abandoned for the cool curing system. A cold air duct and a few chunks of ice was no longer sufficient to regulate temperature; more radical changes were needed. Mr .Ballantyne further recommended combined efforts to get better cold storage facilities, and central markets, where cheese could be held. That would entirely eliminate the mistaken policy of shipping green cheese to England.

OFFICERS FOR 1905.

The list of officers elected for 1905 is as follows: Hon. president, Hon. Thos. Ballantyne; hon. vice-president, J. N. Paget; president, R. Johnston; first vice-president, J. W. Steinhoff; second vice-president, T. Ballantyne, Jr.; third vice-president, J. Brodie; directors, J. McQuaker, W. A. Bothwell, W. K. McLeod, A. F. McLaren, J. J. Parsons, J. Connolly, M. R. Brown.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

The Canadian Grocer has much pleasure in presenting its readers in this week's issue with a portrait of Robert Johnston, the new president of the Western Dairymen's Association.

Mr. Johnston who acted as first vice-president of the association in 1903, is a native of the town of Fort William in the Highlands of Scotland. He received his early education in Woolwich, England, and came with his parents to Canada in 1870. Until twenty years of age he was employed at farming, and then entered upon his apprenticeship as a cheesemaker in the North Branch factory, which was under the management of M. Muir. The second year was spent as foreman of the West Nissouri fac-

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—A marked advance is noted in light hogs owing to the scarcity on the local market. The light supply prevalent for some time has curtailed the manufacture of lard somewhat and prices have advanced 1-4c per pound on tierces, tubs and pails, and 1-2c per pound on compounds. This scarcity is liable to effect the cost of curing, and dealers expect an advance on cured meats in a few days. Our quotations are as follows:

Cheese—As far as can be learned the only cheese being shipped to England is consignments in store at Montreal by English importers. Other cheese has advanced to such a high price that it is impossible to export to England and receive the prices ruling here, namely from 53 to 54 shillings. It is generally conceded that stocks are low and expectations point to an absence of surplus stock before new cheese arrives on the market. Trade on the local market is quiet, business men being too much interested in politics this week. Our quotations are:

	Per lb.

Butter—A noteworthy feature on the market this week is a better arrival of creamery butter. One reason for this is that January milk is being used, and reports state that several factories have again begun operations. Another reason is that the recent advances caused by the scarcity put the article beyond the reach of foreign buyers, thereby allowing those consignments which were intended for export to be used for domestic purposes. The better supply of creamery has caused dairy to become easier and large rolls which were principally used during the scarcity, have now declined 1c per pound. We quote:

Poultry—Receipts are light and prices, which have advanced as a result, have prohibited a number of people from buying. However, some retail dealers, fearing another advance, have eagerly purchased the small arrivals, so that at present nothing of any account has been left on the commission merchants' hands. The market is bare of geese and as it will be some time before fresh arivals are expected, they have been withdrawn from the list. We quote the following:

Provisions—Pork has ruled steady with fair sales. No important change in condition of hog market, undertone is firm and good demand for small lots. Fresh abattoir killed sold at $7.25 to $7.50, country dressed $6 to $6.75 with $7 for extra choice light stock. Lard shows a weaker front, a reduction of 1-4c to 1-2c pervailing, with good demand.

Exports via Portland as compared with same week last year show a decline of 27,094 boxes and via St. John, 5,484 boxes, while rail shipments via New York and Boston were 9,000 boxes to nil for same period last year.

Butter—A stronger tone is noticed and prices are fully 1-4c higher this week. Local demand is good. In a jobbing way demand has been for finest creamery, demand being principally from Correction.

Owing to a typographical error in the report of the Eastern Ontario Dairymens' convention in The Canadian Grocer of January 13, the figures representing the dairy produce of Prince Edward Island for 1890 were reproduced also for 1900. The actual value of dairy produce in Prince Edward Island in 1890 was only $8,448 instead of $567,802. According to the first figures it would appear that dairying in Prince Edward Island had made no progress during the ten years specified.

CROCKERY DEPARTMENT

Fine Porcelain and Its Relation to Cheapness

A COMPETITION for cheapness and not for excellence of workmanship, is the most frequent and certain cause of rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufactures."

"All works of art must bear a price in proportion to the skill, the taste, the time, the expense, and the risk attending the invention and execution of them."

"Beautiful forms and compositions are not to be made by chance, and they never were made, nor can be made in any kind at a small expense."

Thus said the greatest of England's many great potters, Josiah Wedgewood.

"A competition for cheapness," one asks oneself; is it possible that such a thing existed in the "good old days," which most of us are inclined to look upon as the halcyon days of English pottery? Whether it existed or not, Wedgewood saw that such a thing was possible, even probable, and he boldly prophesied the inevitable results of such competition. Were Josiah Wedgewood to arise now from his long rest, how instantly would he realize the fulfilment of his prophesy, uttered more than 130 years ago, and the terrible havoc which is being wrought by the competition which he had denounced upon the most interesting, the most fascinating, and what ought to be the most artistic of England's handicrafts. Competition is the mainspring of life and of business enterprise, but in its true sense it must be a competition for excellence. Do boys compete for the lowest place in the class, or be last in the race? And yet this is what is being done by certain English potters of to-day. The exceptions—and it is a matter of deep congratulation that there are exceptions—might be counted upon the fingers of one hand; but are they strong enough to save the prestige of England's greatest art industry? Are they stiff enough to resist the flood of this competition for cheapness? or to stem the tide which is sucking under England's most reputable craft?

"The art of the potter"—is it possible to save what is left of it from being dragged down into the morass of cheap, meretricious, gaudy, and contemptible rubbish with which the artistic taste of this country is being steadily submerged?

We are accustomed to talk very glibly of the beautiful things of the eighteenth century. We take off our hats when mention is made of Queen Anne and her times, of the early Georges, of the Chippendales, the Sheratons, the Wedgewoods and other past glories, and we raise our horror-stricken eyebrows at the very mention of the word "Victorian"; but what about the Edwardian period? What about the ceramics of to-day—are they advancing, or are they drifting down upon the tide of cheapness? Looking at the question fairly and squarely, and judging the pottery and porcelain from the only possible platform, that of beauty, of refinement, and of reposeful charm, it is impossible to confess to any other conclusion than the triumphs of bad taste, of indifferent workmanship, and impossible coloring and gilding. And what has brought it all about, what has caused this "certain and rapid decay?" Nothing but a "competition for cheapness."

This statement must not be misunderstood; it is not necessary that pottery or porcelain should be costly, or of such a price as to be beyond the reach of the limited purse, and only attainable by the wealthy. The simplest designs are often the most beautiful, and dainty work and sweet coloring may be produced with a minimum outlay of cash, provided there has also been a proper expenditure of thought and taste upon them. Is the manufacturer to be entirely blamed for the present most lamentable artistic slump in so large a portion of English china and earthenware, or is it traceable to a demand on the part of the purchasing public for show at little cost? In justice to the manufacturer, let it be said, that the public have been largely instrumental in forcing him into his present most unfortunate po. ition;

the whole state of our present social life is artificial to the last degree; each one tries to go one better than his neighbor, and to make more show and more splash, possibly to hide the leanness of the family purse. The effect of this is seen in the selection of the tea set, the dinner set, the dessert plates, or the household ornaments. The greatest show for the least money is the household motto, and the result is the tearing, sweltering competition to meet this truly humiliating demand; sometimes good designs prostituted by bad workmanship, but more often mere daubs without harmony of color, conspicuous chiefly for splashes of gold without taste, refinement, or beauty, but cheap.

How often we hear in our sale rooms the expression, "Ah! that is a good showy pattern." The saying contradicts itself—a pattern cannot be showy and good. Show in its very essence is vulgar, no matter in what form, and vulgarity cannot be good; but good patterns need not be dowdy or dull or lifeless, we do not want such things about us,—our lives are none too bright without them. Is it not possible, then, for our manufacturers to make some stand against this competition for the greatest show for the least money, and show to the world something simple and dainty which looks worth what it is, and no more? Then comes the crux of the whole matter—if he does so, will the public purchase it? The chances are, yes. Demand creates the supply, but supply can very often create a demand as well, and if in this case it succeeds in doing so, the degenerating tendency in English china will receive a most urgently-needed check.

The second and third quotations must be linked together; they have practically and in spirit one and the same meaning. They raise several points. They take a higher stand than my first quotation, which prophesized a decay of workmanship and a deterioration of technical excellence, in that they refer to taste, art work and beauty of form and composition. What is the true explanation of the taste, beauty and charm of the china of the eighteenth century, which undoubtedly reflects so discreditably upon so much of our present-day work? or, to ask the question in an inverse way, what is it that has caused our present artistic decadence, our present apparent lack of real appreciation of what is refined or of what is true? We boast so mightily of our education, of our Jui de siecle civilization, of our great prosperity, of our progress in "The Arts" (spelt with the largest of capital A's,) and yet if we look back for 150 years we are compelled to admit that our forefathers had truer and more instinctive ideas of taste and of the fitness of things. The fault does not lie so heavily at the door of the manufacturer as it does at that of the people themselves. In the first place there is little or no desire on the part of the ordinary consumer to possess anything that could be dignified by the name of a work of art (and a white tea cup may be just as much a work of art as a painted picture). How is it possible, then, that "the skill, the taste, the time, the expense, and the risk attending the invention and execution of them" should enter into their calculation at all? It rarely, if ever, does, and the buying public have forced the manufacturer, who works to live, into the same cloying, clinging slough. Can we really blame him, a man of business, whose duty to himself is success in life, and whose duty to the commonwealth is to assist others along the same path, by giving them (the more the better) honest employment and a well-earned wage? Not in justice. But must we wait for the tardy conversion of the public? And who or what is likely to bring it about? It may come, but not of itself. If there could only be instilled into the manufacturers, not only of pottery and porcelain, but of other kindred English handicrafts, a competition—not for the most showy, the most superficial, or the cheapest article—but for beauty, for refinement and for taste, by sure and certain, if slow, stages, the public would learn to understand, to appreciate, and, more important still, to purchase, and there would be some chance of our own era and its productions being held up as examples to students of a future generation.—Exchange

Salty Sense

The ordinary Salt of ordinary trade must not be confounded with Windsor Salt, which is sifted, not ground. Think of the goodness that slips away from the Salt crystal that is mangled, bruised, ground—think of the impurities that must creep in. Windsor Salt contains nothing but pure, white, dry, whole Salt crystals—no matter that they are fine and small crystals, they are whole crystals all the time.

Windsor Salt

is prepared in the only safe, sure way, by the Vacuum process. Every particle of moisture is dried out, which prevents the "caking" of the Salt. If you will stop to consider you will quickly see why Windsor Salt is best. Any man of intelligence and sense will agree to that.

The Canadian Salt Co., Limited, Windsor, Ont.

MOLASSES SITUATION.

D. Rattray & Sons, general agents for Da Costa & Co., Barbadoes, report as follows: There has been considerable activity in the molasses market of late, the demand having been principally for Barbadoes, which has advanced to 30c per gallon to jobbers. Owing to the sharp advance in raw sugar the refiners have been ready buyers of all Barbadoes molasses offering, and as a consequence the market is pretty well cleaned up of old stock. Cables have recently been received from Barbadoes indicating that the market opened at 17c and has since advanced to 18c for molasses first cost, including puncheons, but in reply to cables at these prices answers have been received saying that firm offers could not be made. It is not probable that there will be much molasses offering from Barbadoes for another month.

Reports from the island indicate that reaping will be pretty general towards the end of February, but the prospects are that the total of the crop this year will be about one-third less than last, when the actual shipments amounted to 45,765 puncheons. Estimates this year give about 30,000 as the probable crop. This is due to an extremely dry season, which not only is tended to cause the crop to be short but early.

Reports from Porto Rico and other producing islands indicate that their output will be somewhat in excess of last season's, but new crops will come on practically a bare market all over the consuming countries.

HOW TO IMPROVE YUKON TRADE.

Canada's share of the Yukon trade is vastly greater than it once was, according to A. B. Palmer, one of the leading wholesale merchants in that far north country.

In the early days the population was mostly American. They naturally preferred brands of goods whose quality they knew, but now they are gradually getting to find that Canadian canned goods, butter, etc., are equal and superior to the American product. In the first shipments of Canadian butter a great deal went bad through inferior packing, and hams, etc., from Canadian packers were insufficiently cured to withstand the extremes of heat and cold of the Yukon, together with long shipment.

Wholesalers trading with the Yukon are therefore recommended to send only the very best of canned goods and preserved meats to that district. There is never any fault to find with the original quality of Canadian goods, it is the way they are put up.

The Yukon consumes a vast quantity of American hams yearly and will continue to do so, but the experience of the trade has been that the loss through Canadian hams spoiling is so great that it is unprofitable to handle them. Consequently Yukon merchants have been forced in this particular, to sustain that branch of trade with American packers.

Canadian canned fruit is gaining preference over the California product in spite of the fact that a large improvement might be made in the methods or style of labelling. As regards butter, Canadian creamery is now the standard.

A SUMPTUOUS CALENDAR.

Not many calendars for 1905 excel in striking richness that sent out by A. J. Stewart, Limited, Toronto. A predominance of bold reds for a background, a horse-shoe shaped arch of broad sweep, and a beautiful face and bust of a young woman, crowned with jet black hair adorned by a jeweled band, made a picture to be desired. In this day of beautiful calendars, it is becoming increasingly difficult to find those that stand out from among the great host, conspicuous for strength, charm, and beauty; but one can safely say that A. J. Stewart, Limited, have succeeded in this offering.

SELLING PROPRIETARY ARTICLES

A FEW weeks ago The Canadian Grocer referred to the matter of retail grocers devoting a portion of their time to the selling of proprietary articles usually sold by the retail druggists. It appears that this principle is being followed up more generally than we supposed, judging by inquiries and correspondence since we referred to the matter. In several cases it was learned that grocers had for years made handsome profits by stocking proprietary articles and patent medicines. One Ontario merchant in particular has given over a considerable section of his store to the display of these lines alone, and with excellent business judgment has placed this department near the front entrance where it is bound to attract the notice of every customer.

Grocers who have not given this branch of trade any consideration, will find it worthy of the closest investigation, and an experiment on a small scale will soon demonstrate the value in attracting the trade of their female patrons for lines handled by the druggist.

THE WESTERN RETAILER.

THE Winnipeg office of The Canadian Grocer is in receipt of the following letter from a correspondent in Toronto:

Toronto, Jan. 16, 1905.

Editor Canadian Grocer,

Winnipeg, Man.:

Dear Sir,—As a grocery clerk here and a reader of The Canadian Grocer I would like to ask for your opinion. I have a friend in Belfast (Ireland), a first-class business man, who conducts a select grocery and provision store in that city. He asks for my opinion as to whether he would have any chance of success with a capital of say between $2,000 and $3,000 in any city or town in Western Canada.

Hoping to be favored with a reply, I am,

Yours respectfully,

We have replied to our correspondent that there are any number of business openings in Western Canada, as is natural in a new country experiencing and immense development, and that we see no reason to doubt the success of a really capable business man in a Western Canadian town or village. The capital mentioned is not very large but many successful business men in the west have started with less.

A Belfast business man would, we suspect, find conditions in Western Canada somewhat different from those to which he has been accustomed. If he starts business in a small western village he will probably find it necessary to conduct a "general" store or at all events to carry more lines of goods than he has been accustomed to handle in a "select grocery and provision store" in Belfast, Ireland. Moreover, in a small western town or village it may not be possible to conduct a cash business and in that case the capital named is not large. But there should be nothing in this to daunt a capable business man, for there are many examples of success with less experience and capital. In our opinion, success or failure will depend upon the character and ability of the man; if he is a capable business man he will have little trouble in establishing himself in the west

But the letter of our correspondent suggests a larger question which we should be glad to have readers of The Canadian Grocer discuss in our columns. There is no doubt as to the possibilities of the west for the man who tills the soil, but does Western Canada offer a better field for the retail merchant than does the east? Many of our western readers have formerly been in business in Eastern Canada and are acquainted with conditions in both sections of the Dominion. What is their opinion? Are profits larger in the west than in the east? Are there as many bad debts? Is it necessary to give longer credits? How do the expenses of doing business compare? Does a merchant need a larger capital? We should be glad to have the opinion of western readers on these questions and our columns are open for discussion. Any communications on the subject should be addressed to our Winnipeg office, 515 McIntyre Block.

CHANGE YOUR ADS.

When you meet a friend on the street nearly every day, and stop and talk with him, you don't recite a set speech to him every time you meet him. Then why do you use the same old ad. day in and day out? Your readers are as tired of it as you are. You must tell them something new every time they meet you in the columns of the paper, or they won't stop and read your ad. Attract their attention and make them listen to what you have to tell them. Let it be new, bright, interesting. Tell them what you would tell them if they had come into your store to ask about the particular goods you are exploiting.

MANUFACTURERS SELLING TO RETAIL TRADE

DURING the past week the Toronto dailies published an article credited to the London, Eng., Associated Press, in which Canadian manufacturers were taken seriously to task on the ground that goods supplied by them to the trade of Great Britain were not up to sample, and that certain Canadian firms were taking an unfair advantage of the English wholesaler in selling to the retail trade. The Canadian Grocer has gone thoroughly into the situation, and forthwith reproduces the article in question together with one of the replies received from no less an authority than the Canada Canners.

"Considerable complaint is being made by importers in Great Britain as to the treatment meted out to them by Canadian manufacturers, with two or three exceptions. They say they are put to great inconvenience through goods not being sent according to sample and being refused by their customers, also by delay in transmission, in both of which respects American manufacturers have them at a disadvantage.

"The Canadian and American fruit and meat canning industries are being brought into sharp contact as regards the trade of Great Britain. London, Eng., wholesale men complain that certain Canadian canners are attempting to save a small margin by selling direct to retailers. Naturally the wholesalers object to this, and show a tendency as far as possible to boycott Canadian goods and favor American. American canners find in this an opportunity of making a bold bid with the help of the wholesalers to drive Canadian goods out of the British market."

Editor of Canadian Grocer:—

We thank you for clipping from Toronto daily in reference to the "Canadian Combine" selling direct to retailers in England, and we appreciate very much your courtesy in offering us an opportunity to comment on this despatch before publishing same. If some of the Toronto dailies were as considerate of the Canadian trade as your good selves it would be in the best interests of our trade at large.

We feel constrained to reply to the article, as we are, no doubt, the "Canadian Combine" referred to, although our export business to Great Britain is largely confined to canned apples.

The article in question shows every indication of having emanated from American (United States) sources. So far as we are concerned, if there is a boycott against canned goods in London, we have not yet felt the effects of it. On the contrary there has been quite an improvement in our trade with England during the past few months, although it must be admitted that the season of 1904, on the whole, was not a very favorable one as regards the export trade to Great Britain. This was due, however, to the depression in trade throughout Great Britain as a result of the South African war, and also to the large crops both at home and on the Continent. Great Britain's total imports of canned apples from all sources for 1904 were only about one-third of that of 1903.

The first part of the article does not refer especially to canned goods, and requires no defence by us, as we are, no doubt, included as one of the three largest manufacturers especially excepted.

EDITION EXHAUSTED.

The edition of New Year's Greeting to the travelers issued by The MacLean Publishing Co. was early exhausted. This will explain why we are unable to send a copy of this booklet to many who have written in for it. We did not look for so large a demand, and provided no more than was necessary to send to the list of travelers in our possession. We are sorry to have to disappoint anyone, but this year it is unavoidable.

The charge made in the second part of the article is that the "tendency to boycott" has arisen through the "Canners Combine" selling direct to the retail trade, and the impression sought to be conveyed is that this is an innovation on the part of this company, which is proof, as we will establish later, that the article has been written through a bit of sharp practice on the part of some shrewd American packer, or his representative in collusion with a credulous reporter.

The actual facts are that before the consolidation of the "Canadian Canners" each packer had one or more selling agents in Great Britain, and these agents sold to anybody and everybody. After the consolidation the number of selling agents in Great Britain was largely reduced, and business was only solicited from the larger dealers, so that, as an actual fact, there are fewer direct buyers of Canadian canned goods to-day than before the consolidation took place.

Several months ago this company (the Canadian Canners) opened offices of their own at London and Liverpool under the personal management of a competent man, thoroughly acquainted with the canned goods business in Great Britain, and the selection of buyers has been left entirely with him. As a consequence of this change the number of selling agents was still further reduced, and some of these gentlemen, deprived of their agencies for Canadian canned goods, immediately took steps to secure agencies for American canned goods; and they are now, no doubt, doing their utmost to build up the American trade at the expense of the Canadian. These representatives of the American packers find, however, that they cannot compete successfully with Canadian canned goods either in quality or in price. As a proof of this we quote from the "Canner and Dried Fruit Packer" a recent report sent in to his government by the United States Consul-General Evans, London, England. He writes:

"From the eastern coast apples in gallon tins are received. The quality is very satisfactory, but Canada has lately been able to produce the goods at lower prices than those at which similar goods are offered from the United States, and, consequently the trade with the United States has been very small in this article for some years past. This trade could undoubtedly be increased. The trade might be increased by somewhat greater evenness in packing, and competition so far as regards price with the Canadians."

It so happens that canned apples occupy a very strong position in the United States at present. According to the New York Journal of Commerce the upward tendency of gallon apples is still pronounced, and a $2.25 price on state packing is spoken of as a possibility of the near future.

Canadian canned apples are offered c.i.f. Great Britain to-day at lower prices than American apples can be purchased f.o.b., so that it is not difficult to understand why it is in the interests of dealers in, and packers of, United States canned goods using all means, above board and under board, to injure the Canadian trade.

So far as this company is concerned, we have no intention of permitting Americans to get any of our trade away from us. On the contrary we have the means, and we intend making every effort to get a still larger share of the export business. It is generally admitted that Canadian fruits and vegetables have a much finer flavor than those of the United States, and we are sparing no expense in the matter of processing to turn out goods of the very best quality possible, and we will not rest satisfied until Canadian canned goods are generally admitted to be the best in the world.

ONTARIO ELECTIONS.

ONTARIO business men will heave a sigh of relief to know that the political ascendency in the Province of Ontario has been settled for the next four years, and that by a majority so significant as not to admit of question.

The downfall of the Liberal party after a regime of 32 years, a regime which has boasted of many brilliant names, and under which have been effected great services for the province of Ontario, can not but be occasion of sympathetic regret. George W. Ross is unquestionably a man of brilliant parts. It was his misfortune to become involved in an impossible position. His attempt to retain office in the face of the opposition of the country inevitably resulted in the corruption which the last few years has been the shame of the better elements of both parties. The landslide on Wednesday should be a salutary lesson to all parties.

Mr. Whitney comes into office under the most auspicious circumstances. He is relieved of the incubus which weighted down his vanquished opponent, an inadequate majority. With his splendid following, Mr. Whitney is in a position to think only of the good of the province in choosing his cabinet. It is true he owes something to the old guard, but his first duty is to Ontario, which has placed in him such confidence as has never before been placed in any political leader. If Mr. Whitney proceeds with a single eye to the best men for the various portfolios, irrespective of personal claims, he may found a government which may rival its predecessor in length of service, and which may at least have a happier ending.

In a casual review of the legislature-elect, one is struck with the number of new faces, and among them many who should reflect credit upon their constituencies and upon the house. With the disappearance of so many old war-horses, if that term has not become nauseous, there should be more chance for the colts. The next legislature undoubtedly will be a young men's parliament. The last parliament was not remarkable for a plethora of new material of first-class order. The new house will be watched with a great deal of interest. The old lines of battle which, blame whom we may, were the reverse of edifying, should be, and without doubt will be abandoned. Let us have the issue joined on new lines that will bring out the best talents on each side and raise our provincial politics from the dead level of partisanship in which they have been cast of late.

The number of business men in the new house can not escape notice. Mr. Whitney has at his back W. H. Hoyle, Thos. Crawford, J. S. Hendrie, who would make good cabinet material besides others who will be useful men on the committees where, after all, the real work of the house is done. It is a pleasure to notice also that on the Liberal side the business men have best stood the shock and Mr. Whitney will have the boon of an active and intelligent, if small, opposition. It is regretable, however, that Mr. Hugh Blain should have been defeated in North Toronto. Mr. Blain is a type of man much needed in our representative bodies, and one whose election would have done much to elevate the standard of public life. His defeat in such a fine constituency as North Toronto was merely the consequence of being caught by the tide which was flowing against the government the province over.

The rumor that Mr. Ross will not lead the opposition but will retire to the Senate at Ottawa seems well authenticated. If this proves true, it is almost certain that the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who has proved himself an effective leader in Eastern Ontario, will be entrusted with the leadership of the Liberal opposition.

EVAPORATED APPLES CORNERED.

CONSIDERABLE excitement has been caused in Ontario wholesale grocery circles within the last few days by the announcement that three of the largest manufacturers and dealers in evaporated apples in the province have been successful in cornering the market. To-day the market is firm at six and six and one-half cents, a stiff price at this time of year when anything like an active demand cannot be said to have yet set in. The future course of the market will be followed with interest.

BACK FROM WINNIPEG.

MR. W. H. MILLMAN, of W. H. Millman & Sons, Toronto, returned this week from a fortnight's trip to the Canadian west. In the course of an interview with The Canadian Grocer Mr. Millman says that since his last visit to Winnipeg about two years ago, there have been some very noticeable changes. The C.P.R. subway has much improved the appearance of that particular part of the city. Another striking feature is the large number of fine substantial business blocks either up or in course of construction. One hears a good deal of talk about Eaton's new store which is now completed as far as the second storey. The large Winnipeg retailers, however, think they will be equal to the occasion.

Speculators there do not seem to be afraid of investing in expensive property, having implicit confidence in the future of Winnipeg and the west. The wholesale trade speak favorably of the trade possibilities, but are unanimous in their assertion that collections at the present time are not what they might be. Country merchants are very careless about credit and it is no uncommon thing for money drafts to be returned to the banks unaccepted without explanation.

Mr. Millman reports a satisfactory volume of business in canned goods with the western trade, as a result of his visit. One hears a great deal about the preference in Manitoba and the Territories for American goods. This is a mistake, and Canadian manufacturers need not have the least fear of American competition as far as canned goods are concerned.

Among the growing Winnipeg manufacturing concerns is the Royal Crown Soap Co., which is now enlarging its plant to three times its present capacity. This firm claims to control about eighty per cent of the laundry and toilet soap business from Port Arthur to the Pacific coast.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Groceries.

Montreal, Jan. 26. 1905.

THE condition of trade during the past week has shown some improvment. Jobbers on the whole state that business is fairly good, and prospects bright. The heavy storms and cold weather have somewhat retarded farmers from bringing their products to the markets. Travelers, however, are very optimistic as to business. Sugar situation remains strong. Cables from London report beet slightly easier, but this is considered only a temporary condition, and 6c sugar is confidently looked for. Tea is very dull: what animation there is, is in Ceylon and India greens, as well as a firmer feeling in China greens. Molasses advanced 3c for Barbadoes end of last week. A better and steadier demand exists for corn syrups. The coffee situation is unchanged, with a strong undertone prevailing. Spices are also uninteresting with a little better demand, however, for nutmegs and peppers. Canned goods are looking up somewhat, and business is fairly good. Green fruits though quiet are better than last week. The current market was reported firmer a few days ago, but no advance is noted. Rice is in good demand, and the recent advance of 20c is looked upon as being certainly called for, in view of the strong statistical position. The fish trade shows an improvement. The cold weather has considerably helped consumption. Country produce of all kinds shows practically no change, and business is on the quiet side. Provisions have ruled steady with fair sales. Lard is somewhat easier, having declined a quarter cent. Flour has been advanced 20c per barrel by the millers. Despite the advance in oats, rolled oats are easy. The tone of the cheese market continues firm and holders look for higher prices, 10 3-4c to 11c is what is being asked. A better and stronger tone prevails in butter and prices advanced fully a quarter of a cent this week. Eggs are coming in more freely this week, though orders are small. Vegetables unchanged and not much of interest to report.

SUGAR

The sugar situation still is very strong and there is no immediate prospect of any weakening of prices, though cables at hand from London report beet slightly easier; this, however, is looked upon, by the trade, as merely the prelude to another advance. The advance of 10c in effect last week, after The Grocer had gone to press, and the generally strong position of the sugar market, has stimulated buying during the week, and 6c sugar is looked forward to by the trade, as likely to be not distant.

TEA.

Local trade has improved somewhat in all lines, with the exception possibly of Japans, which seem to be on the quiet side. Ceylon and India greens are stronger and a little firmer feeling also prevails in China greens. Taking the situation generally, the tea trade may be considered as being quiet.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

An advance of 3c per gallon on Barbadoes molasses took effect on Saturday last, and puncheons are now selling at 33c. Stocks are light and trade only fair. The high price of these goods has to quite an extent helped the sale of corn syrups and the trade generally report quite a business in these goods. We quote:

SPICES.

Spices are unchanged. There has been a somewhat better demand for nutmegs and peppers during the week. Singapore pepper stocks are rapidly disappearing and the crop for 1905 is estimated short. Nutmegs are much more active, and there has been more demand for the larger sizes. Some little activity has been noted in cassias.

COFFEE.

The local coffee situation is a strong one, in sympathy with New York and foreign markets. Reports at hand show the situation in Europe unchanged, with stocks decreasing and the opportunities for replenishing in Brazil are daily growing less. From reliable information at hand, it is learned that the small crops of the last two years is attributed to poor soil, and that a return to a fifteen million bag crop will only result through replanting on new ground, and this means six or seven years. The Venezuela crop is reported as about forty per cent. of the anticipated outturn.

RICE.

Rice is going out very well, both Canadian and imported grades. The position of crops indicate a shortage in Burmah, and though Japan has a very good crop, that country will require the larger share itself. The recent advance of 20c on Canadian milled rices has stimulated buying. It is altogether likely that when the full statistics are in from rice growing countries, that a further advance may be looked for.

Foreign Dried Fruits.

There is a scarcity of news on dried fruits. Currant market was reported firmer a few days ago, but no success has attended the effort to advance prices in Patras. As regards California raisins, some outside shippers are offering about half a cent below the Big Five. Peanuts have advanced from a quarter to half a cent.

Green Fruits.

Trade seems to be somewhat better this week, as country orders, as well as city trade, are coming in more freely. Apples are selling better with offerings light. Celery is not moving as quickly as was the case a few weeks ago. Peanuts are higher and prices are holding firm, and the trade look for an advance shortly. The Jamaica bitter oranges lately received on the market have not taken hold of the fancy of dealers, but as it was the initial shipment, and consumers are used to the darker Seville oranges, it will take some little time before the superior merits of the Jamaica fruit will be recognized and good trade result; they are lighter in color and those who have tried them consider them better for marmalade purposes than the Seville fruit.

Fish.

The fish trade shows a genuine improvement. The demand for frozen fish particularly is a good one. Prepared and salt fish are still rather quiet, although there has been some inquiry during the week for salt herrings, which will now begin to move, after the last few weeks' lull. The continued cold weather has also helped the fish trade, and better business is looked forward to by the trade during the next six weeks. Owing to the scarcity of some kinds of salt fish, green cod is bound to advance, as there is not enough in this market to supply the demand. This will also have an effect on salt herrings, but frozen fish have largely replaced these two standard commodities in recent years. Frozen fish are popular with the dealer, as there is very little risk in handling them and they can be carried for any length of time in the cold weather.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, Jan 26, 1905.

THE grocery trade has tended towards the quiet side during the week, the temporary lull being caused in a measure, no doubt, owing to election excitement. The most interesting item is sugar, which has taken another jump of 10c. all round, effective on Thursday, Jan. 19. The advance has further stimulated buying, a very large volume of trade being transacted; very little of the buying is speculative, and, as a rule, the retail trade is stocking only two or three weeks ahead. This season, however, is usually a quiet one for sugar, which makes its present activity all the more remarkable.

Canned goods, especially vegetables, are moving fairly well, an inquiry being noted this week for American tomatoes. The probability of there being a shortage in tomatoes is increasing. Teas are more active than they were a month ago, the low prices of Indian and Ceylon blacks being undoubtedly an inducement to buyers. Coffee continues firm, and trade is quiet. The future of the market is uncertain; some look for lower prices; others are firm in their pretensions, notwithstanding their belief in temporary advances in the near future by certain buyers anxious to unload stocks on a healthy market. Foreign dried fruits are quiet. New Selects Valencia raisins are quoted this week ½c. and fine off-stalk ½c. lower respectively than last week. Stocks of evaporated apricots on spot are little or nothing; and according to reliable information, the evaporated apple market has been cornered. prices now being held firmly at from 6 to 6½c. White beans continue firm as a result of farmers having advanced the price.

CANNED GOODS.

Fair quantities of canned goods have been moving at quotation prices. The feature of the week is an inquiry for American tomatoes, undoubtedly brought about on account of the firm situation of this article in Canada. U.S. goods can be laid down in Toronto slightly cheaper than first-class Canadian goods; although when quality is concerned no uncertain preference for domestic goods is shown. From all accounts there will probably be a shortage in tomatoes be the 1905 pack is in.

Canned fruits are becoming more active, although it is a little early for them as yet. Fish and canned meats continue unchanged. We quote the following prices:

SUGAR.

On Thursday a. m., of last week, Jan. 19, just after we went to press there was an advance all round of 10c in Canadian refined. The domestic market has continued firm this week, and a brisk business is reported throughout the retail groeery trade. Wholesalers are of the opinion that the retail trade are not buying for futures, but two or three weeks ahead.

The European beet sugar market has exhibited weakness during the week which has had a tendency to make new business in refined sugar flat in New York. In addition most of the buyers have contracted for about all the sugar they care to handle for the present. No changes, however, have been made in prices, all refiners being on the basis of 6.05c less one per cent. cash for granulated in bags or barrels. American refiners are not bidding on forward shipment, preferring in view of the present unsettled market for beet sugar to hold off and await developments.

Receipts at three Atlantic ports for the week ending January 19 were 30,966 tons, with meltings 30,000 tons, the same as the preceding week, leaving stock in all hands 76,857 tons, a decrease for the week of 996 tons. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,740,357 tons against 3,720,883 at the corresponding date of 1904 a decrease of 980,526 tons. We quote the following prices:

COFFEES.

Coffee continues firm with business quiet generally. The New York Journal of Commeree comments as follows on the world situation in coffee:

From now on more reliable information can be obtained relative to the outlook for the growing Brazil crop, and this too will enter into the market as a factor. According to the latest reports from well informed sources the Rio crop promises to yield about 1,000,000 bags in exeess of the present one, but it will be fully offset by a decrease in the Santos crop; in fact, there are those who report that the prospects are for a smaller yield from the growing Brazil crops than from the present crops. Not all the trade, however, are willing to accept the reports of another comparatively small yield from the growing Brazil crops, they believing that the prolonged rains during the past few months in Brazil will prove beneficial to the coffee trees, and that a fairly full yield can be expected next season.

The position of the speculative market is becoming an interesting one. Owing to the extensive liquidation during the past two weeks, and the fact that the buying has been done very largely by one interest, has resulted in the long interest being exceptionally well concentrated and controlled by interests who are firm believers in the future of the market. Europe, which has been opposed throughout the season to the upward movement of prices, has been a steady seller and stands short, it is estimated, about 1,000,000 bags of coffee in this market on arbitrage. Last season Europe sold heavily in the New York market during the advancing tendency to prices, and when the break came in February was unable to do her straddle at handsome profits. This season, however, the market appears to be in a different position. The interests that were incidental in bringing about a collapse of last season's bull speculation are now supporting the market. Furthermore, there is no wild speculative movement under way and no accompanying large scattered long interest to liquidate and break prices. Europe has allowed her stocks to be depleted to the smallest point touched in several seasons at this period of the year and cannot very well afford to reduce her stocks further by making important shipments of coffee to this country to deliver on her contracts; thus the indications are that she will have to undue her straddles in the open market and this should tend to operate in favor of the American bull interest.

TEAS.

A satisfactory volume of trade in teas is reported for the week, the market showing increased activity over last week. The exceptionally good quality and low price of Indian and Ceylon blacks offering has already stimulated buying to a perceptible extent, and the trade are confidently looking forward to the next two or three weeks.

For the past two months there has been little of special interest to record in Japan teas, on account of the season there having practically closed, and stocks being very light at an advance of 1c. per lb.

According to our American correspondent, jobbers in the United States have done very little business in Japan teas for the past six months as the retail trade was stocked at the beginning of the year when hostilities between Japan and Russia first broke out. Business has improved, however, within the last six weeks, and teas are now moving well, so that an improved demand for Japan teas may be expected within the next thirty days. Fine grades are scarce, and some jobbers have already advanced their prices.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Trade in rice and tapioca is quiet and without special feature. The New York market which more or less directly affects local prices, reports that decreasing production of tapioca in the East has had its influence in favor of sellers.

The announcement of the Japan Weekly Mail that an extraordinary rice crop is expected in Japan this year will be of particular interest to the grocery trade in view of the fact that Japan ranks second among our largest sources of supply. The 1904 crop is estimated at 259,837,696 bushels, as compared with 237,905,720 bushels in 1903, an increase of 21,931,976 bushels. We quote the following prices:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

The foreign dried fruit market has ruled quiet during the week under review with little of special interest except a reported lack of evaporated apricots on spot at a season when the demand is beginning, and a drop in the price of Valencia raisins, new selects, of ½c. and in fine off-stalk of ¼c. per lb. The next arrivals of currants, raisins from Mediteranean ports will probably be reported at Boston and St. John before next week's issue of the Canadian Grocer.

It is interesting to note that the opening price of currants for 1904 has been pretty well sustained to date, while raisins have dropped appreciably. We quote the following prices:

EVAPORATED APPLES.

Considerable excitement has arisen in evaporated apple circles on account of the cornering of the market this week by three of the leading apple dealers. Prices have firmed and are now quoted at 6 to 6 1-2c. Business has been dull during the week with very little doing except in outlying mining districts and lumbering camps. Dried apples are still quoted nominally at 4c.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

Dealers holding eggs in storage are anxious to dispose of their stocks, fearing that the mild weather will considerably increase the arrivals of new laid. As a result of prevailing conditions, prices on storage fresh and pickled have declined 1c per dozen. New laid are also easier owing to better arrivals. The market depends upon the weather. Our quotations are as follows:

Eggs, strictly new laid.....	0 00	0 30

HONEY.

Trade conditions in honey continue unchanged and will do so until the buying season begins. Our quotations are:

BEANS.

Farmers are more disposed to forward their stock of beans than they have been for some time, with the result that prices have declined on hand-picked and primes. Our quotations are as follows:

SEEDS.

A quietness in trade usual at this time of year is prevalent. Domestic trade has opened up, but is expected to remain quiet until the middle of February. Foreign buyers still absent themselves from the market, indeed, the season for exporting has about ended and it is feared the absence of the export trade will cause a glutting on the domestic market which means that a considerable decline in prices will take place in the near future. Alsike clover has become easier and the outside range of prices has declined from $6 to $5.50. We quote the following:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 50	5 50
Red clover.....	5 00	6 75
Mammoth clover, per bush	6 00	7 25

Green Fruits.

Elections have caused a momentary quietness in the green fruit trade. Navel oranges have the best demand. Despite the cold weather these oranges are arriving free from frost. Trade in Valencias and Mexicans is very quiet; few sales are being made, which means a loss to the dealer owing to the low prices ruling. The lemon market is strong and cables report a higher price at shipping points, cold weather having created a strong demand.

Bananas are in good supply, the stocks consisting principally of Jamaicas, which have arrived in good condition. Stocks of cranberries are light and demand limited. Supplies of Almeria grapes are also light; good qualities are arriving second-handed from large American cities on the eastern seaboard. Few orders are arriving for figs. Domestic trade in apples is dull; quietness is also reported in the export trade. Our quotations are as follows:

Fish and Oysters.

Smelts continue scarce. The expectations are for higher prices in whitefish. Sea herring are firm and arrivals are not as heavy as former years. Finnan haddie are arriving in large quantities and the majority of dealers can only obtain 7c per pound. Recent reports state that there has been a series of heavy storms off the fishing points which may mean an advance in price. Large offerings of barreled fish, principally pickled trout and herring have been placed on the market. In nearly every instance this stock has been displaced by the frozen stocks. We quote the following prices:

A quietness in trade is noticeable this week. Some dealers claim that the hard times in England have brought about a decline in imports from Canada. The demand seems to have diminished somewhat since the last advance. Prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are:

BREAKFAST FOODS.

Oatmeal, rolled oats, and rolled wheat are in good demand, although the manufacturers are not receiving as many orders as they did some time ago, the supposition being that the retail trade is well stocked. ST. JOHN FISH MERCHANT IN MONTREAL.

Mr. W. F. Leonard, of Leonard Bros., St. John, N.B., was a visitor to the firm's Montreal branch this week. To The Canadian Grocer, Mr. Leonard stated that stocks of fish were becoming rapidly reduced. The catch, generally speaking, has been light, particularly so in codfish, and prices are high, in fact higher than for nearly twenty years. Foreign markets have felt the shortage in catch and are ruling fully 12 per cent. over last year's prices. Mr. Leonard, who is one of the best-known fish merchants in Canada, remarked upon the changes that have taken place in the handling and preparing of fish for the trade, and looks forward to an enormous increase in the consumption of Eastern fish. As the country fills up and people become more wise to the value of fish as a diet, the demand will increase rapidly and the value of the industry be enhanced proportionately. Mr. Leonard was the first shipper of frozen fish to Montreal, he having forwarded a carload as an experiment, and the reception it received was so encouraging that the policy was pursued, and now the business is a regular, heavy and constantly increasing one.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only, not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

The Eby-Blain Co., Toronto, are offering a snap in Labrador herrings, barrels and half barrels.

Leonard Bros, Montreal, call the attention of the trade to their large assortment of all kinds of fresh frozen, as well as prepared and salted fish. They solicit enquiries from buyers.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, have received 25 barrels and 45 half barrels of very fine quality red Labrador trout, which they are offering at contagious prices.

Leonard Bros., Montreal, report that sea-herring are meeting with big demand. The prospects are that prices may go higher, unless there are further arrivals at Halifax in the near future.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Montreal, are offering Valencia raisins at interesting prices, and expect these goods to advance shortly.

McWilliam & Everest, Toronto, are expecting one car of marmalade oranges, one car of bananas, two cars of fancy Washington navel oranges, one car of yellow American onions, one car of red American onions, and one car of Florida head lettuce (the first car ever received on the Canadian market).

White & Co., Toronto, report the arrival of two cars of bananas on Thursday, Jan. 26.

DEATH OF MRS. CHAS. GYDE.

Mr. Chas. Gyde, one of Montreal's oldest and best-known grocery brokers and commission merchants, has been afflicted during the past week by the death of his wife. Mrs. Gyde, who was 55 years of age, had been ailing for some time, but it was only during the past few weeks that her illness was considered serious. Her death occurred on Wednesday, Jan. 18, the funeral being held at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 21, from her late residence, 4150 St. Catherine street, Montreal. Mr. Gyde and family have the sympathy of not only their most intimate friends, but of the trade throughout Canada. The Canadian Grocer extends its sympathy.

A PROSPEROUS BUSINESS.

Annual Meeting of the E. W. Gillett Company, Limited.

THE fourth annual general meeting of E. W. Gillett Company, Limited, was held in the company's offices, corner King and Duncan streets, Toronto, on Thursday, January 19, at 11 a.m. A large number of stockholders from various parts of the Dominion were present, and all were thoroughly pleased with the very satisfactory financial statement presented by the management. Charles W. Gillett, president of the company, acted as chairman, and the utmost harmony prevailed.

The minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary and adopted. The statement presented for the consideration of the stockholders, showing the result of the company's business for eight months ending Dec. 31, or the period since the fire, was an exceptionally good one. As our readers are aware this company's entire factory, including machinery, stock, etc., was totally consumed in the appalling conflagration which destroyed a large area of the wholesale and manufacturing district of Toronto on the night of April 19, 1904. Temporary offices and factory space were secured immediately after the fire, and on account of the foresight exercised by the management of the business in having a duplicate set of machinery stored in an entirely separate building to provide for just such a contingency as that which occurred, the company was able to resume manufacturing operations with practically no interruption, and, besides, within a couple of days after the fire the completion of the purchase of their fine factory property, corner King and Duncan streets, was consummated. Notwithstanding the interruption that the fire caused, 1904 proved to be the banner year for this company, as far as sales are concerned. This is true, not only in the business done since the company was incorporated, but for the entire period of 19 years that the goods have been manufactured in Canada. The fact of the fire not preventing the company from paying dividends at regular periods is almost unprecedented, and a feature that caused a good deal of favorable comment. The attention of stockholders was directed to the fine record which the management has been able to show year after year in the fact of doing such a large business without loss in the way of bad debts, and in this respect a clean sheet was shown for 1904.

The prospects of the company are of the brightest, and owing to the thoroughly efficient manner in which the business is conducted, stockholders are assured of most satisfactory returns, and, indeed, at this meeting were told that the rate of dividend from the first of the year would be increased.

A motion was unanimously adopted expressing deep regret on account of the death of the late president of the company, E. W. Gillett, which occurred last March.

A pleasant feature of the stockholders' meeting was the fact of their showing appreciation of the unusually successful and difficult work by the management in voting a handsome bonus to the general manager and treasurer, assistant general manager and the secretary, and, besides, passed a vote of thanks to all who had contributed to the success attained.

D. Hoskins, chartered accountant, was appointed auditor, and the following Board of Directors were elected, viz.:—Chas. W. Gillett, John Firstbrook, H. C. Barker, M. A. Thomas, William Dobie.

After adjournment of the meeting the stockholders were entertained at luncheon in the building, the catering being looked after by the Harry Webb Company, Limited.

After luncheon a meeting of the Board of Directors was held, at which the following officers for 1905 were elected, viz.:—

Charles W. Gillett, president.

William Dobie, general manager and treasurer.

Geo. H. Macfarlane, assistant general manager.

Geo. Hepburn, secretary.

REVIEW OF TEA TRADE FOR 1904.

THE following interesting review of the tea situation for 1904 has been received from Gow, Wilson & Stanton, London, Eng.:

During the early months of 1904 the prospects of tea growers in the Far East seemed brighter than had been the case for some time. The long period of depression through which the industry had passed appeared to be coming to an end. Overproduction had been checked, and prices were at last on a moderately remunerative basis for many plantations, and it seemed likely that more prosperous times were in store.

It was long since a year had opened so auspiciously for tea producers, but their hopes were short lived and soon gave place to gloomy forebodings, for a most unexpected blow came upon an industry which was almost exclusively British. This was an additional 2d to the duty levied in the United Kingdom—the largest consuming market in the world. The effect was serious in more ways than one. By immediately raising the price of common tea, which was then in only moderate supply, it induced the import of heavy quantities of poor tea from China; it also tended to encourage coarser plucking in India and Ceylon. But there were other influences besides the increased duty which adversely affected tea producers. The fall in the value of green tea in North America gave a serious check to the manufacture of this grade, thus throwing an additional weight of black tea on the market.

These causes resulted in a gradual fall in the value of medium and poor teas, while the disinclination shown by consumers in the United Kingdom to pay higher prices than when the duty was 6d, militated seriously against higher grade teas, and caused also a general reduction in their value.

Thus, all along the line the tea planter has been a heavy sufferer, and the average price of Indian and Ceylon tea during 1904 has gone back very nearly to the level of the disastrous year 1902, while even less has been so far realised by this season's Indian crop.

The effect of the previous rise in duty in 1900, as a war tax, was to entirely check the normal annual increase of five to six million pounds in consumption at home. Had the duty not then been raised, there is every reason to believe that this increase would have continued, and that we should now be consuming much larger quantities of Tea, with a correspondingly greater demand and more remunerative prices to the growers. The prospects of the industry are by no means encouraging so long as the duty in this country remains at its present high figure.

Notwithstanding that less green tea was exported to North America, substantial progress in the use of Indian and Ceylon tea was made in that market. Progress continues in Russia, though owing to the war teas are going via Europe, instead om Dalny. Indeed, the steady growth of foreign and colonial markets is the one bright spot in the present condition of the industry. Aobut 133 million lbs were taken during 1904, against 120 million lbs in 1903. This steady expansion affords strong testimony to the good qualities of British grown tea.

Indian Tea.

The crop has proved rather larger than that of last season, but the quality has been hardly as good. Neither Assam nor Darjeeling was up to last year's standard, while Dooars was hardly equal; Cachar and Sylhet, however, were, on the whole, perhaps a trifle better, except where coarser plucking had been resorted to. Travancore has now become an important district, but its quality is still open to improvement.

Ceylon Tea.

Ceylon suffered severely from unfavorable weather during the early months of the year, with the result that production was somewhat curtailed, but recent climatic conditions have been more suitable for flushing, and more leaf has been produced, consequently the total crop may slightly exceed that of last year.

Java.

Continues to grow in importance and gradually increases her output, the total export of the last few years being as follows: 1899, 12,841,702 lbs.: 1900, 15,406,984 lbs.; 1901, 16,750,872 lbs.; 1902, 16,911,166 lbs.; 1903, 22,138,187 lbs. Quality tends towards improvement, as the gardens planted some years ago with Indian seed continue to increase their output.

THE GROWING TIME.

THE A. F. McLaren Imperial Cheese Company, Limited, Toronto and Detriot, are now in possession of their new offices at the northeast corner of Scott and Yonge streets, Toronto, which for location, spaciousness and general appearance challenge comparisons with anything of the kind in Canada. The interior, comprising business offices and sample rooms, has been richly redecorated, and has the rare advantage of being well lighted from both the south and west. The lower halves of the windows facing Scott and Front streets have been enamelled in green and gold, each window bearing prominently the name of one or other of the firm's numerous agencies. In addition to these effective business directories a large exterior display sign extending around two sides of the building is also being utilized.

While the cheese business of the A. F. McLaren Imperial Cheese Company, Limited, has made phenomenal strides during the past few years the growth of their agency business has been equally satisfactory, so satisfactory in fact that the firm's former premises at 51 Colborne street have been for some time entirely inadequate to the demands of business, necessitating the move to 28 Front street East. 51 Colborne street has been retained and will be used in future for warehouse purposes exclusively, thus providing the extra accommodation of which the firm has been so much in need.

At the present time their trade extends from Atlantic to Pacific; they have latterly extended their trade policy by opening up an extensive export business with a branch office in St. Thomas, Ont., in charge of R. Johnston, of whom a picture will be found on another page of this issue.

The history of the A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Company, Limited, dates from 1891 when E. H. Copp and H. Wright formed a partnership as manufacturers' agents in Toronto. Very soon after they secured the agency for MacLaren's Imperial Cheese. In 1895, Mr. Copp died and the business was continued under the firm name of Henry Wright & Co. About this time, Mr. Wright became a partner with Mr. A. F. MacLaren in the A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. and in 1902 the two businesses were amalgamated under the name of the A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Company, Limited. At present the president of the firm is H. Wright, the vice-president being J. E. Ganong, of St. Stephen, N.B.

In addition to controlling a very large cheese business, the firm are extensive handlers of grocers' specialties, and represent at the present time among other manufacturers, The Surprise Soap Co., T. Upton & Co., The American Cereal Co., and Bensdorp's cocoa.

The Toronto office staff consists of nine. There are in addition two travelers on the road, some seventeen warehouse men and from forty-five to fifty girls employed constantly, the number of the latter increasing to over one hundred in the busy season. The firm's American business is on a correspondingly ambitious scale, they have large business staffs both in Detroit and New York, in addition to a small army of agents who experience no particular difficulty in creating a demand for MacLaren's goods throughout the Republic.

CANADIAN FISHERIES OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Gilbert H. Troup, managing director of Black Bros., Company, Halifax and LaHave, N.S., was in Montreal for a few days this week. Mr. Troop had been in Ottawa to interview Hon. Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine, in reference to matters pertaining to the betterment of the fishing interests of the Maritime Provinces. In an interview with the Canadian Grocer at Windsor, Mr. Troop gave a most interesting history of the fishing industry of the provinces, particularly of his native province of Nova Scotia and at the request of the Grocer's representative consented to prepare the same for publication.

The study of the fish question is one that Mr. Troop has closely pursued for many years and his experience and views will be of value and interest to our readers when we present same. Mr. Troop expressed the opinion that the fishing industry not only of the Maritime Provinces but throughout Canadian waters was only in its infancy and with proper attention and encouragement its value would soon be not $20,000,000 per annum but $100,000,000. Mr. Troop on his return to the East will take up his residence at LaHave, N.S., where he will superintend the curing and preparing of "Halifax" and "Acadia" codfish for the market. It may be incidentally stated that Mr. Troop was accompanied by Mrs. Troop, and that the trip to Ottawa and Montreal constituted a part of their honeymoon journey. The Grocer extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Troop.

NEW FACTORIES FOR TORONTO.

UNITED STATES soap manufacturers are regarding Toronto as a favorable location for Canadian branch factories on account of the recent anti-dumping regulations by which a duty of thirty-five per cent. is levied on toilet soaps imported into Canada. Prior to the enactment of the anti-dumping clause, manufacturers in the States gave their Canadian customers a rebate to offset the duty; subsequently, the Government has confiscated the refund with the exception of five per cent., which means that the discount goes to the Department and not to the jobber.

The situation is urging United States manufacturers to action. One branch office has already been opened in Toronto, and last week a company with a capital of $15,000,000, closed a contract with an East Toronto factory. Colgate & Co., and Hudnut & Co., both of New York, are negotiating with Toronto houses and certain large laundry soap concerns are paving the way for similar action.

TORONTO TEA MERCHANT DEAD.

The Canadian wholesale and retail grocery trades will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Wm. Minto, of Minto Bros., tea merchants, Toronto, which occurred on January 23.

Mr. Wm. Minto was born in Huntley, Scotland, in 1845, and came to this country when a mere boy. Settling in Montreal, he entered the employ of Mitchell & Gear, wholesale grocers, Montreal, which firm afterwards went into the wholesale tea business exclusively under the title of Henry J. Gear.

Twenty-eight years ago he came to Toronto and started in the wholesale tea business with his brother, Mr. John Minto, at 73 Colborne street. The firm is perhaps best known to the trade as proprietors of Melagama Ceylon packet teas. Two years ago Minto Bros. moved their place of business to 55 Front street east, which premises they occupied at the time of Mr. Wm. Minto's death.

CALENDARS FOR 1905.

J. H. MAIDEN, Youville square, Montreal, will be pleased to mail readers of The Canadian Grocer one of his calendars for 1905. Eagle Baking Powder and C.P.C. goods are doing themselves credit in this attractive souvenir of the flight of time. Mention Canadian Grocer when writing for a copy.

Shaw T. Nishimura, Canadian representative of the Japan Central Tea Association, Montreal, has forwarded to The Canadian Grocer his calendar for 1905. The leading characteristic is two colored photos of lovely Japanese maidens, in their native kimonas. The work is very artistically done, and those who are fortunate in securing one will be pleased to a degree. Address 40 Hospital street, Montreal, and mention The Canadian Grocer.

Leonard Bros., Montreal and St. John, N.B., have issued a very handsome calendar. The central portion represents the rugged figure of a hardy fisherman. The color work is splendid, and one can almost smell the salt sea air. There are only a few of these calendars left and applicants for same should lose no time addressing the firm at either Montreal or St. John, N.B. The Canadian Grocer is indebted to D. J. Byrne of the Montreal firm for its copy.

LAST MINUTE PROVISION MARKET.

Montreal, Thursday, Jan. 26, 12.30 p.m.

PROVISIONS — Small demand. Fresh abattoir killed sold at $7.25 to $7.50; country dressed, $6.50 to $7. Lard, fair demand.

CHEESE—Firmness prevails; 10¾ to 11c. for finest quality, white, mixed or colored; latter not free seller.

BUTTER—Firm. Improved demand to-day. Finest October creamery, 22c.; fiuest fresh, 21½ to 21¾c.; Good to fine, 21c.

EGGS—Fair demand from outside points. Prices steady at 25c. for selects; 17½ to 18½c. for No. 2; cold storage selects, 20 to 21c., and straights, 18 to 20c.; Montreal limed, 19 to 20c.; western limed, 18½ to 19½c.

POULTRY—Better demand with fair business. Turkeys, 12 to 15c.; assorted chickens, 10 to 12c.; mixed, 7 to 8c.; ducks, 10c.; geese, 10 to 12c.

MONTREAL CHEESE MARKET.

While the general feeling in the cheese market is one of confidence in the strength of the situation, there are some holders willing to clear their small holdings at a little under the asking price of 11 cents. Some five to six thousand boxes of cheese have been sold to exporters at from 10¾c. to 11c. Stocks for sale now have got down to pretty small dimensions, in fact, it is generally conceded that they are smaller than they have been for many years past.

Butter continues very strong and the home trade is taking hold freely at 21½ to 22c. The demand from the United States also is kept up, and the article must be pretty scarce and high down there when they can afford to pay freight and import duties on prices ruling here.

The strong defence of T. Kinnear & Co. again aserted itself on Saturday, January 21, when they defeated H. P. Eckardt & Co. by a score of 5 to 1. On account of the ice being covered with snow most of the time, neither team was able to do anything in combination play. During the first half Kinnear's scored four goals and it looked as if the match would be a one-sided affair. Eckardt's, however, settled down in the last half and allowed the winners to score one goal only. The only goal scored by the losers was within five minutes of the finish. The game was keenly contested during the last half and doubtless the score would have been different had Eckardt's settled down sooner. The game was inclined to be rough throughout. Humphrey decing the fence twice. The line up was as follows:

H. P. Eckardt & Co.—Goal, Robertson; point, Gausby; coverpoint, Brown; forwards, Williams, Hill, Chapman and McLaughlin.

T. Kinnear & Co.—Goal, Holden; point, Walkinshaw; coverpoint, Humphrey; forwards, H. Renuie. C. Rennie, Kinnear and McGregor.

Hugh Lambe officiated as referee.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, January 26th, 1905.

UNSATISFACTORY collections are complained of in wholesale circles and the improvement is not yet very marked. Throughout the Northwest money is tight in spite of good crops and high prices. A considerable portion of the crop remains in the country yet and some relief may be expected when it is marketed. But the root of the trouble seems to be the investment by all classes of their spare money in real estate. Every available dollar is sunk in land and although the investment is doubtless a good one it is often made at the expense of neglecting the grocer's bill and the whole trade suffers in consequence. Apart from the slowness of collections, the year is opening out well, although sales are probably not so large as in January of last year. Sugar continues to climb upwards; an advance of 10 cents was made last week just after we went to press. Starch has been reduced and particulars of the reduction will be found below. Coffee is advancing and our quotations below show some change. A new list price has been published for Clark's meats. This list is higher than the one in force before, but as a discount of 5 per cent. is allowed, the net prices are somewhat less per dozen. The Empire Tobacco Company are advancing the price of all their plug tobaccos and changing the style of the plugs. Locally "currency" has been advanced to 47c., an advance of 1 cent, and "Stag" has been advanced to 46c., an advance of 2 cents. There are still some old stocks of the other Empire tobaccos in the city and until they are cleared no advance will be made. In another fortnight, or sooner, all Empire tobaccos will be advanced.

Sugar.

Apparently the end is not yet; sugar continues to advance and no person is prepared to predict how high it may not go before the present movement is stopped. Sugar is now at a higher price than for many years past. Late last week an advance of 10 cents was announced on all grades for points between Winnipeg and Dunmore and from Dunmore to the boundary an advance of 20 cents was made. In the Far West, the advances are greater than in Manitoba, where rival refineries from the East and West meet in active competition. We quote:

Canned Goods.

There is not much activity in canned goods this week. Prices are about stationary. As noted in the summary above, there is a new list on Clark's meats which is higher than that previously in force but, as a discount of 5 per cent. is allowed, the net prices are lower than before. Canned tomatoes are in very poor demand owing to their high price, and it is doubtful whether the market would stand any further advance. We quote:

As noted above, there has been a general reduction in starch. The Canada Laundry's Starch has been reduced ¼c. per lb., and "Satin," "Ivory" and "Silver Gloss" starch have all declined ¼c. per lb. St. Lawrence corn and Benson's corn starch have been reduced ¼c. and all other grocery starches have declined ½c. per lb.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

Office of The Canadian Grocer,
St. John, N.B., Jan. 24, 1905.

THERE is still light business. Markets continue very firm. There is hardly a weak point anywhere. Perhaps the exceptions may be pork products and fresh meats. There are of course a few special lines which are low, some very low, as nutmegs and ginger, also linseed oil. Cream of tartar is not high. It is surprising the general tendency there is to high values. Rice, which has been so low, is higher and samples of new for later shipment go to show how firm the market is. The farmers should be happy, but it is most surprising how they continue to complain though everything is so very high as compared with a few years ago, particularly poultry, eggs and butter. In butter, however, much of the advantage of the high price is lost because of the very poor quality of a large part of the butter offered. Good dairy butter is almost a thing of the past. The Maritime Boards of Trade are again taking steps to urge on the Government that the preference allowed British goods should only be allowed on goods imported via Canadian ports, and some of the resolutions add "when imported in British bottoms." St. John and Halifax take very strong ground.

Oil.

In burning oil, while the big season of demand is perhaps over, the sale is very large. Prices are unchanged at the rather lower prices lately quoted. Linseeds continue exceptionally low with full stocks bought. Turpentine is unchanged. Lubricating oils are quite firm. Castor oil is firm and higher prices are looked for. Cod oil is held firm at the advance.

Salt.

No season since we have had direct Winter steamers from Liverpool has so little coarse salt been imported. In fact it might be said so far none has been imported. Stocks are not large. Price is very firm. Importers so far have refused to pay the rates charged by the steamers. In fine salt, business is very quiet.

Canned Goods.

There is little of interest. Peas are quite plentiful. A fair stock of corn and tomatoes is held with full prices asked. Fruits have but a fair demand. Gallon apples are dull. Salmon shows a fair stock with prices unchanged. Dealers begin to be interested in meats for future shipment. Oysters are very firm and higher prices are expected. In domestic fish, except sardines, stocks are very light, particularly haddies.

Green Fruits.

Sales at this season are light. Oranges have chief demand. Valencias, although too early for good fruit, are chiefly sold. There are but few Jamaicas, season being late. Californias have but a light sale. Floridas are used where best stock is wanted. Apples sell slowly with market quite firm. Grapes about done. In Cape Cod cranberries, while price is firm, it is not high. There is a light sale. Lemons are low, with just fair business.

Dried Fruit.

Business is quiet. Raisins are low. There is little stock held except seeded. Currants are rather easier. Dates are low. Import prices are higher. Prunes are very low, but small sizes are hard to replace. Sale is rather quiet. Figs and peels show very little business after the holidays. Evaporated apples while low are tending higher. Dealers find it impossible to replace stock at former prices. Onions are higher, stock not large.

Sugar.

Prices are still advancing. In the last two months the advance being about one cent. Dealers hold large stocks and are getting the advance; so far it has not been noticed that the price has effected the demand. The trade look for still higher prices.

Molasses.

There is but a light stock of Barbadoes held and while there is a large stock of Porto Rico prices have been advanced this week and the market is considered very firm, the result of the high price of sugar.

Fish.

There is a fair supply of fresh fish except frozen herring. Last year, the first year for some time, they were quite plentiful. Dry cod contiue very high While full prices are asked for pickled herring the market is not so firm. Smoked are quite low. Finnan haddies are firm. Frozen smelt scarce.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

Flour is held firm at the advance. Feed has but a fair demand. Oats are firm. Oatmeal unchanged. Cornmeal has a steady sale at even prices. Beans are rather higher. Yellow eye beans are freely offered. Barlev is scarce but has a limited demand. There is some interest in seeds. Clovers are quite high and firm. Timothy is quite reasonable.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Special correspondence of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 19, 1905.

AN interesting commentary on the conditions of trade and the lines upon which demand runs in the Yukon Territory was contained in the remarks made the other day by a prominent gentleman just arrived from the North. Though he did not wish to be quoted, this gentleman is in such a position in Dawson that he is well able to judge. To begin with, he pointed out the practical helplessness of the miner away out on his claim on one of the creeks, and the dependence he had to place on his supplies. It was not possible to come into the city every day or so, even if the supplies were not just right. Therefore, when a line of goods had been tested and found dependable, the miner invariably asks for that.

The gentleman interviewed, referred amusingly to the flour question. Many of the miners are Americans, and it is related of one of them that in buying his supplies once, he was asked what brand of flour he wanted. His reply was: "Why, they only make one brand in Canada, don't they?" He had been getting Ogilvie's flour and would take no other, as he knew he could count on it, when baking his batch of bread away out on the creeks. Apropos of the flour question, and the crude attempts of "'prentice hands," the familiar title of "sour-doughs" given by old-timers in the Yukon to themselves, is full of meaning.

Butter and cream were other articles on which the miner was very particular. One firm a few years ago did a great deal to knock out the faith of miners in Canadian butter, by the rascally methods of putting up tinned butter. The trade went to the U. S. for some years, to a great extent, but has now returned, though some extremely bad packing of what was labelled Government Creamery from the Northwest Territories, had a bad effect again. Nowadays, the New Westminster Creamery, through making a specialty of tinned butter, has secured a first place in favor in the North, he said. In cream, there was practically only one concern in it. Every one asked for Truro cream, and when the fact is considered that the tinned article has to be used all the year round it is a very important article indeed. Milk fresh from the cow is a luxury indeed, in Dawson, and the miner's "tin cow" is on the table of rich and poor alike in the Yukon. Concluding his extremely interesting remarks, the gentleman quoted, said:

"If manufacturers and producers would realize that this great and profitable trade is so easily held when once confidence is established, there would be fewer opportunities of complaint as to quality. It means simply a case of no competition when an article has once secured the mark of approval in the North. The people expect to pay the price and when that price is bound to be high they naturally expect also to get the best. Once opinion is fixed, for or against, it is difficult to change it."

The prospects of revival of the fruit canning project at New Westminster are very favorable. A somewhat bad start was made a year ago, but the possibility of having a cannery for all varieties of fruit has been so clearly demonstrated that the business men of the city have now taken the matter up and the Board of Trade is taking active part in the work of reorganization of the company, which had progressed so far as to have secured a favorable site on the Fraser River, and with railway facilities as well. The supply of fruit is easily secured from the immediate district, and transportation by means of rail and boat is excellent.

The wholesale grocery firm of Kelly, Douglas & Co., has announced its intention of erecting a very large warehouse this year, the present premises having been outgrown, though only occupied some four years. The new block will be located on the railway front and facing on Water street, a short distance west of the present premises of the firm. The building proposed to be erected will have a frontage of 125 feet on Water street, a rear line, facing the railway, of 97 feet and a depth of 120 feet. It will be solid brick and stone and will be six storeys in height, or depth, for the track frontage is two storeys below the street frontage.

In grocery circles matters are rather quiet. The offering of Iowa canned corn at a price to wholesalers enabling them to sell 15c. to 20c. below present quotations of Eastern corn, has caused a little comment. A car of dates from Turkey via New York arrived this week, Vancouver taking the whole lot. A car arrived a short time ago which was divided between Vancouver and Victoria.

In produce the market is well supplied with local butter, and the price is firm at 26c. to 30c. for local creamery stock, strictly fresh, and 25c. for Eastern Canadian creamery. Not much move in dairy stocks, which are light. In eggs the supply of local fresh-laid is improving, and price is now not likely to remain long at 35c., as it has been for some time. Eastern stocks are still quoted at 26c. and 28c.

The little Jap oranges which returned to the market unexpectedly through the arrival of a consignment by way of one of the Japanese liners, have again become pretty well cleaned up, and now marks their final exit for this season, as it is too late for others to arrive.

Okanagan apples are beginning to move in the coast markets for the better class of coast stock is now well cleaned up, and there is a big demand for choice fruit at this time. Imported fruits are practically down to bananas and oranges. There were some Malaga grapes at Christmas and some pines have been received, but both are now practically out of the market.

California potatoes still arrive in liberal quantities, and sell at 1½c. per lb. No change in the situation as to local supply has been noted since last week. There may be some potatoes in the upper country, Kamloops and Okanagan, which can be secured when the weather in those districts is a little more suitable for shipping.

Celery is noted as being received from California now, the local article being out of stock. Other lines are still local supply.

An advance of 20c. per barrel in flour is announced this week by some manufacturers, but whether it will still further affect the present high quotations has not yet been seen. Sometimes a raise of price is noted outside, when the local market is held at the same as before. This has been true of late, in the reverse way with cured meats, which still quote firmly at 15c. and 16c. for hams and bacon, while weaker prices have been noted in the U.S. markets. Some Eastern cured meats have been received this week, but they are held for as high prices as the imported stock.

Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

ALWAYS MORE BEYOND.

By W. R. McColl.

WINDOW trimming is never completely learned. It is perhaps best likened to an advanced scholar, who, when he reaches what he thought was the object of his ambition, still finds so much before him that he wants to learn, and that some others already know, that he considers his own attainments mediocre indeed.

Room Yet for Cleverness.

There is ever newness being evolved; some clever plan of arrangement or construction; not the result of one man's thought and study, but the conception of innumerable minds working for similar ends, and in the same direction.

Keep Goods Moving.

The initial object in arranging a show window is to so display goods that its tenants will move out at once and for the same reason that the shoe man gave when he said, his shoes were all empty and he wanted tenants to move in at once.

To Sell Goods Quickly.

Windows should be trimmed not only to show goods well, but to sell goods—sell more goods, and do it quickly. You can trim a handsome window; and spend much time and some expense upon its construction and yet know only too well that it is not going to sell the lines upon exhibition. Why? Because you are not trying to sell goods; you are striving for effect—beauty, praise, or commendation—knowing full well at the same time that you could have handled the same materials in a manner to bring results.

Special Lines for Special Days.

While the elaborate and artistic arrangement of goods and the beauty of the blending of colors have much to do with attracting the public eye, one cannot help but notice that especially in our western Canadian towns the merchant who advertises special lines for special days, and makes his window trim (even though it be less beautiful) and window cards work with the advertisement, is the man who is forging ahead and outstripping his competitors. There are those in cities who do not follow this plan; but what works in a city is not always suitable for a smaller town with weekly papers only to reach its clientele.

Some Points.

Points, many and important, are to be considered in background, and the character of goods to be used, and sold, must be taken into consideration when dressing. It takes time to develop an idea and there is the making of cards appropriate to the trim; besides the effect arrived at must be suitable, yet artistic enough to delight the beholder. The central idea, however, is something that will attract attention and sell goods—the idea that is radical and embodies timely suggestions is invaluable.

Preserved Fruit and Condiment Window, James Rae, 1468 Queen St. W., Toronto.

Keep Within Your Limits.

Readers of The Canadian Grocer in minor cities and towns should give over their futile and expensive efforts for schemes beyond their resources and strive for simpler designs—effects that are artistic and within their reach.

See that your trims are seasonable goods; and now that St. Valentine's Day and Easter time are within hailing distance make as elaborate and attractive a display within the store as possible.

He Has His Troubles.

No one but the country trimmer realizes what they have to contend with. There are many who strive to make elaborate and trade-drawing displays in their little cooped-up windows which are in too many instances too small to give the proper or desired effect.

The designs are frequently too elaborate for the resources of the stock; for in many instances, as soon as the trim is completed the trimmer is compelled to disarrange the display by having a customer ask for some article that composes the display.

The trimmer must be governed by these limitations; and when under these relative disabilities he produces a display that is attractive through its beauty and well serves its main purpose of drawing buyers instead of merely curious crowds, he deserves more than passing commendation.

Give Him Time.

Some of the country stores have supplied their trimmers with modern fixtures or their equivalent, but too often neglect to allow the trimmer sufficient time to plan his displays. If the trimmer cannot get notice that he is to display so and so to-morrow and no time for him to plan, how can his employer expect artistic and uncommon work?

In these progressive days a trimmer's mind must be upon his work; and he cannot be expected to make a success unless it is; yet, if he does not do so he is looked upon by his townspeople, and the trade, as a man of little originality and taste. He is not only expected to make a display which will sell goods, but expected with all the disadvantages to attract such attention to his show windows that the people may behold a work of art.

The Other Side.

There are two sides to all questions, and while one side of the question has been briefly touched on there is still another to be considered.

The trimmer who has not the time to plan during the day has a few hours in the evening, when, if he is anxious to put his talents to the best use and become an artist in the profession, he can do so. It is to his advantage to study, for every true artist studies and gains the goal by constant and sustained effort.

Interior Decorations.

A look into the average store convinces one that something is wrong. Above the counter there is a pole suspended by a wire or cord from the ceiling; upon which is hung everything from laces to boot jacks, and in the rear of this is a ledge which is piled with boxes and bundles commonly designated as reserve stock. Such boxes and bundles detract from the appearance of the store, while the poles, to an artist's eye, suggest nothing but clotheslines, all of which shows carelessness and a lack of decorative knowledge.

If you purpose to be a trimmer and are striving for an artist's ability, go to your employer and ask him to have those boxes, bundles and poles taken down; have the ledge cleaned after the store closes and the dust covers are up, and then go to work on those ledges and make your display.

The interior trimming is not supposed to be as elaborate as that of the windows, and is only intended to make the store inviting and attractive: but one should rather make a great many tasty little trims throughout the store and utilize all available space without going

This Week's Illustration.

The accompanying illustration represents what may be accomplished with preserved fruits, pickles, condiments, etc., by a skilful window dresser. The three pyramids which are built up to a height of about three feet and covered with white cheese-cloth, are filled with glass jars containing maraschino, cherries, raspberry vinegar, olives, olive oil, Indian relish, etc. The color effect and general decorative scheme in general is much enhanced by the background of bevel plate mirrors extending some four feet above the floor level of the window. The elegant and artistic effect of this arrangement of preserved fruit and condiments may well be copied in similar display.

EARLY CLOSING.

CANADA can well afford to take a few practical lessons from her sister colony New Zealand in the matter of early closing of shops, if one is to judge from the comparatively large number of merchants in the larger towns and cities of Canada who keep open after hours.

The following clauses of the new Shops and Offices Act which was passed during the last session of the New Zealand Parliament are interesting in this connection:

"All shops in which two or more persons, including the occupier, are employed shall be closed for business at 6 p.m. on five days in the week, and at 9 p.m on one day. It is provided that should the late evening fall on Christmas or New Year's eve shops may remain open till 11 p.m., and if Christmas day or New Year's day fall on a Sunday or a Monday, then shops may remain open till 11 p.m. on the preceding Saturday. These requisitions may be limited to particular trades and may specify different hours for different days, or may provide for Saturday closing only. A proviso is added that only British subjects (whether by naturalization or birth) shall be deemed to be occupiers.

"Shops now exempted from the Saturday half holiday are not exempted from early closing. A shopkeeper employing members of his family is compelled to close at 6 p.m.

"The definition of closed shop is amended to provide that a shop shall be deemed not to be closed if it is not locked and effectually closed against the admission of the public, or if the occupier or his employes are engaged in canvassing or delivering.

"Hitherto only women and young persons could not be employed more than 52 hours in any one week; this is now extended to include all employes in or about a shop. Employment is also limited to 9 hours in each day (exclusive of mealtimes) except on the late evening, when employment may be for 11 hours. Employes may not be employed for more than 5 hours continuously, without an interval of at least an hour for meals. For the convenience of country storekeepers these provisions do not apply to shop assistants deliveing goods at a distance of 4 miles and upward from the shop and not being within 3 miles of any borough or town district, but the week's work must not exceed 55 hours. For the purpose of stock taking or other special work an employer may, with the written consent of the inspector of factories, employ his staff for 3 hours per day beyond the usual working hours, but not on more than 30 days in the year. This provision formerly applied to stock taking only.

"A new provision imposes on the employer the duty of keeping an extra time book for the recording of all overtime, together with its purpose. This book shall be open to the inspector of factories. As the clause originally stood, all office books were to be open for inspection, but after a hard fight in the committee the foregoing compromise was agreed on. Overtime must be paid at one and one-half times the ordinary rate, with a minimum of 12 cents an hour for employes receiving $2.50 a week or less, and 18 cents an hour for all other employes. No overtime shall be paid, however, to heads of departments receiving $1,000 a year."

A Board of Trade has been organized in Elm Creek, Man., with J. T. Cook as president.

Interesting Facts about RED ROSE TEA

The tea bush is indigenous to Assam in Northern India and botanists are of the opinion that it is the parent species of all the cultivated varieties in India, Ceylon, China and elsewhere. In a wild state, it grows to a height of fifteen to twenty feet, but the cultivated shrub is only three to four feet high.

Assam being the natural home of the tea bush, it is not surprising that this and other districts in Northern India produce the richest, most pungent teas grown in the world, teas that command higher prices than even the finest Ceylons; but Ceylon teas are very flavory and fragrant, and seem to be especially made to blend with the richer, more syruppy tea of India; when combined, the Ceylons giving point and piquancy to the liquor, the Indians richness and strength.

The distinctive characteristic of Red Rose Tea, that rich fruity flavor, is obtained by blending these fine Indians and Ceylons; and another very important feature of Red Rose Tea, viz., its uniformity of flavor all the year round, is secured the same way, something not possible to obtain where Ceylon or Indian teas are used alone.

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAILERS.

Making Maple Syrup in the Fall.

THE maple sugar industry of Canada is one of constant and growing interest to the trade and consuming public generally, and the attention now being paid by the Government to the bettering of conditions surrounding the business, as well as the intelligent study given to the same by farmers and sugar and syrup men, makes anything pertaining to the maple sugar industry especially worthy of notice and consideration. A firm that has for many years stood in the front rank of sugar and syrup producers is J. H. Grimm & Co., Montreal and Rutland, Vt., and it is to Mr. Geo. H. Grimm, of this firm, that The Canadian Grocer is indebted for the following letter written to The New England Farmer on the subject of increasing the output of maple syrup and sugar. Mr. Grimm's remarks are based on an experience in the maple sugar industry extending over more than 25 years. The plans suggested are worthy of careful study by country merchants dealing with the sugar-producing farmers:—

As numerous journals are giving me credit for discovering a new method for making maple syrup in the Fall of the year and that I obtain the flow of sap by reboring old bores, etc., I submit the following matter, it being the result of my experiments:

I have discovered that the flow of sap in the Fall is less than half, and not so sweet as it is in the Spring under similar climatic conditions. It also lacks in flavor, although the maple flavor is quite prominent, in fact, more delicate than the average sugarmaker gets in the Spring time. Indeed, the color of three samples I obtained November 23, 24 and 26 will score with the finest grades of syrup that were made last Spring. From one of these samples of syrup a cake of sugar was made, its quality being much above the average. It would not be profitable to tap a maple bush in the Fall notwithstanding the quality being good, and even if the sap runs occurred at close intervals as above referred to. Being convinced of this fact at the early stages of my connection with the maple sugar industry, my experiments in the past 25 years were for the sole purpose of increasing the quality and quantity of maple sweets with the least injury to the tree and at the least expense. Notwithstanding the expense and annoyance which were incurred by these experiments, I have been well repaid as I can fully demonstrate that the maple sugar crop has been only two-thirds what it should have been.

Assuming, with old methods, that annually in Vermont 20,000,000 pounds of maple sweet is made, it, at 10 cents per pound, has a value of $2,000,000. By adopting new methods that I have discovered, the production will be increased fully one-third together with a much better quality of product. The question will naturally arise, How can this gain be accomplished? It is as follows:

Bore a hole with a 7-16 inch bit, 1½ inches deep, with the point of the bit pointing slightly upward, without removing clinging bark from the tree. Use a spout that will fill the space of the bore and one that will only come in contact with the hard outer layer of bark, one that drains the sap from the bore and excludes the air. The spout should not be driven too hard. If the hard bark splits and the sap wood holds the spout, there is a loss by leakage and the best portion of the sap flow is plugged by contact of the spout with sap-producing fibers.

Climatic conditions cause sap to flow at all seasons after a frost sufficient to form ice. As a rule there are long intervals between sap runs. Either continuous cold weather or lack of frosts puts a damper to the business, the latter being the most harmful. To illustrate: If, after two or three good sap runs the temperature rises above the freezing point, there will be no fresh sap and the amount that the bore contains, which is more than half its diameter, becomes sour, sticky and very often dry—this being the very substance that nature provides to prevent bleeding of the wound, and unless this substance is removed, sap cannot flow at its full capacity and what does ooze out through this substance when the weather conditions are favorable becomes contaminated so that a prime quality of syrup cannot be made from it. For this reason it is very necessary to select a spout that will drain the bore of sap and a spout which will permit reaming. With a reamer designed to cut a chip the entire circumference of a 7-16 inch bore to ½ inch, the sap-producing fibers are opened afresh and all the contaminated matter the bore contained is removed. The end of the reamer having a cutting edge, permits deeper boring, which removes the injury the screw end of the bit has made. Prime sap in accordance with weather conditions will flow equal in quantity and quality to that from a freshly-made bore.

I have repeatedly demonstrated that sap produced from a reamed bore at the end of the season, and even after buds have started, will produce a syrup equal in color to that produced at the beginning of the season, but of inferior flavor. Therefore, a properly-constructed spout and one reamed bore will bring better results than two spouts and two unreamed bores, with less injury to the trees. It will be seen that tapping the tree and cultivating the bore is an important matter, and the outlay for the necessary articles is small in proportion to the amount, in dollars and cents, of loss without them.

Without covers for buckets a uniform, prime quality of syrup cannot be made. It requires about 16 quarts of sap to make one pint of syrup or one pound of sugar. There is scarcely a season in which 16 quarts of sap, on an average per tree, is not wasted on account of snow and rain, as sometimes the best runs of sap occur during storms. It is a common occurrence that hundreds of buckets full of prime sap are left for "to-morrow" to be gathered, which becomes an entire loss owing to its being mixed with rain or snow, and all for the lack of a cover. A cover can be constructed of shingles, cheap lumber, tin or black steel painted, by a person at all skilled with hammer and saw. One cent will purchase a practical fastener, which anyone can attach to the cover. Having this combination with a proper spout, and the cost being so small, no sugarmaker has a reasonable excuse for not equipping his sugar bush with this necessary article as there is no question but that one run of sap accompanied with either a rain or snow storm will more than pay the cost of a cover. The cover should fasten on the spout and the bucket on a swivel hook to facilitate gathering of sap without being obliged to remove either the bucket or cover. A cover attached to the spout, and as above described, will give ample ventilation which is absolutely necessary to the sap in the bucket. I control a patent on this cover fastener and sugarmakers can utilize it without paying me any royalty as I am anxious that this improvement should come into general use and give sugarmakers the greatest profit from their industry by producing an article that is more uniform in quality and an increase in quantity at the very least expense, and to those that are interested I will gladly furnish printed instructions as to how to proceed without cost.

The demand for maple sugar is increasing year by year and a good article demands a good price. There is no industry in connection with a farm that pays so well as a sugar-bush properly equipped. For profit I would rather have one thousand good maple trees than twenty of the best cows in New England.

ADVANCE IN MOLASSES.

There has been considerable activity in the molasses market of late, the demand having been principally for Barbadoes, which has advanced to about 30c to 31c per gallon. Owing to the sharp advance in raw sugar the refiners have been ready buyers of all Barbadoes molasses offering, and as a consequence the Canadian market is pretty well cleaned up of old stock.

Reports from the Island indicate that reaping will be pretty general towards the end of February, but the prospects are that the total of the crop this year will be about one-third less than last year, when the actual shipments amounted to 45,765 puncheons. Estimates this year give about 30,000 as the probable crop. This is due to the extremely dry season, which not only tends to cause the crop to be short but early.

Reports from Porto Rico and other producing Islands indicate that their outputs will be somewhat in excess of last season's, but new crops will come on practically a bare market all over the consuming country.

It is expected that with the approach of the Spring demand, prices will advance still further.

GREEN FRUITS

New Market for Canadian Apples.

IN view of the fact that the attention of Australian fruit dealers is being directed towards Canada for future supplies the following comments on recent experimental shipments of Canadian fruit to Australian ports will be of interest to shippers in this country:

"The kinds of apples to ship to Australia are Spitzenberg, Canadian Red, Westfield and Black Twig, especially the two former. Five cases of Wealthy were not wrapped and arrived in poor condition. Had these apples been wrapped and packed properly they would have carried better, although the class Wealthy is not suitable for a long journey. Pears should not be shipped unless in cold storage and apples should always be wrapped. The packing as a whole shows considerable improvement, although there is still much to be desired particularly in the case of plums. Plums as well as pears land in Australia from San Francisco in very fine condition; there is therefore no reason why they could not be brought from British Columbia or even Ontario. They should be packed after the Californian method, in small boxes, each pear or plum in a separate compartment as eggs are packed.

"Of the six varieties of apples received, namely, Spitzenberg, Wealthy, Jonathan, Wagner, Maiden's blush and Canadian Red, the Spitzenberg, Jonathan and Canadian Red landed in the best condition and gave most satisfaction to buyers. The Wealthy Wagner, and Maiden's Blush were evidently of too soft a nature for shipping. The Maiden's Blush landed quite worthless. Shippers advise that they have had an exceptionally severe Winter and that the apples did not receive a sufficient amount of sun and dry weather to harden them. This may account for some landing in rather soft condition.

"Another point that must be paid attention to is the size of the fruit, which should run about fourteen to sixteen dozen to the case. Those received contained ten dozen only, which is not a profitable size for retailers. Canadian apples were easily passed by the Australian inspectors and were evidently quite free from disease in which respect they are far above the Californian apples.

"There is little doubt that a profitable and extensive trade can be opened up between the two colonies. Of course, everything depends on the quality of the fruit and the price. At a cost f.o.b. at Vancouver of $1.25 to $1.75 the Brisbane market could take about 2,000 cases by boats arriving at the end of October and during November and December. In conclusion the chief points to be aimed at are: (1) Selection of medium hard apples: (2) good and careful packing; (3) proper grading, with quantities marked on each case and care that only clean fruit is packed. (Well colored preferred.)"

Suggestions to Shippers.

The fruit must be free from codlin moth or disease.

It must be packed in cases light but strong and wrapped in paper.

The apples should be medium in size and if possible, highly colored.

Apples should be shipped in cool compartments and all other fruit must be.

The apples termed the Black Twig landed in fine condition, but its defect was in color. It ripened after landing and color in ripening improved, turning to a yellow. Then it was not as attractive as the higher colored varieties. Cool compartments entail a cost of fifty per cent. above 'tween decks space, but it will pay through the better flavor and better condition of the fruit. There is some difference of opinion as to the exact temperature, but from 32 to 40 degrees are safe temperatures. Under such conditions even tender fruit like the Wealthy, if put on board in good condition would carry safely.

Yield of California Fruit.

The California Fruit Grower, in its annual review, points out that California produced during the season of 1903-04 6,400,000 pounds of almonds, or 325 cars, while bean shipments reached 54,-879 tons. The beet sugar output amounted to 65,360 tons; canned fruit and vegetable pack, 4,077,078 cases; citrus-fruit shipments, 10,701,210 boxes; cured fruit, excluding prunes, 37,750, tons; fresh fruit, 104,200 tons; honey yield, 8,400,000 pounds: hops, 56,000 bales; prunes, 165,000,000 pounds: raisins, 120,000,000 pounds; tomato pack, 958,-295 cases; vegetable shipments, 86,620 tons; walnut yield, 11,000,000 pounds; wheat crop, 446,000 tons; wine production, dry and sweet, 34,571,856 gallons.

Sunlight Bleaches Preserves.

There is one thing certain, namely, that sunlight will bleach bottled preserves, liquids, etc., and if the color of a grocer's fancy glassed peaches, cherries, and pears has been bleached by the sun, they might as well lose their flavor also, so far as their sale is concerned.

One of the most onerous tests that table sauce can be submitted to is exposure in a warm and well-lighted window while the sun is shining, yet table sauce is repeatedly seen in precisely that predicament, and olive oil also, this latter article being peculiarly subject to changes when exposed to the light and heat of the summer.

Co-operative Packing of Fruit.

In order to overcome the frauds which are perpetrated from time to time by certain fruit shippers to the detriment of the fruit growing interests in Ontario, the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association has decided to push the idea of co-operative packing and shipping of fruit. This will insure a proper grading and marking of fruit as well as better prices and the establishing of a reputation for the Ontario product.

To Exterminate Codlin Moth.

A parasite has been discovered in Brazil by G. Compere, entomologist for West Australia, and agent for the Commissioner of Horticulture of California, which it is claimed will effectively exterminate the codlin moth.

Fruit News.

The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association will ask the Government to extend for five years the Act by which the Government bears one-fifth of the cost up to $500 of establishing cold storage warehouses, and to grant the same aid to the establishment of central fruit shipping stations.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

The Grocer's Own Flour Brand.

IN discussing flour from the grocer's standpoint we give a few wholesome truths in regard to flour sold under the grocer's own brand. We admit that the argument for the use of such a brand sounds plausible to both grocer and customer. The grocer's name and reputation stand for the brand. He knows what his trade wants and he wishes the confidence and patronage of that trade. Of course he will sell only the best. But the temptation comes to the grocer after a while, and he succumbs, using a lower grade of flour, with the result of ultimately losing either the confidence or trade of his customers, or both.

It is assumed that the grocer knows flour, having made it a study. If the grocer is an expert, his substitution of poorer flour, after he has built up a reputation for his brand, amounts to a fraud.

But usually the grocer does not know flour practically, as the baker does, for example. He buys first-class flour from some good miller and put his own brand on it with the best intentions in the world. The flour gives satisfaction and his trade is suited. After a while the miller is obliged to raise the price of his flour, owing to market conditions. The grocer demurs, possibly not appreciating the miller's position. He is offered another flour which seems just as good, and possibly is just as good, at the old price; it may be a bait for his trade, or maybe the miller who offers it doesn't know what his flour costs him. Possibly, even, the first miller who supplied the grocer was getting a pretty full price. Anyhow, he has changed the flour under his brand and none of his customers are the wiser of it.

Now the second miller may raise his price or lower the grade of the flour. Perhaps another change is made in the source of the grocer's supply, as a result of it. In any event, the flour sold under the grocer's brand is not uniform. He may have the best intentions in the world toward his customer and yet his changing millers will give his brand a reputation of unreliability almost before he is aware of it. The grocer may not be grasping or dishonest, and yet fail to keep up the quality of his brand. Of course, the usual reason for wanting his own brand is that he also wants the last cent of profit he can get, on the cheapest flour; but he may be the squarest kind of a man and yet have his brand fail to give satisfaction, for the reason that he is not an expert and does not know milling conditions.

There is but one best way for the grocer to sell flour, and that is under the mill's brand. The mill is entitled to the credit belonging to its good flour, and the grocer need not shoulder the blame for the poor flour.

Clover Seed Crop in 1904.

IT is difficult in any year to make a close estimate of the supply of alsike and red clover seed until the season for threshing is well advanced. From the best available information at this time, it would seem clear that the total output of red clover seed produced in the Province of Ontario will prove to be rather less than two-thirds of an average crop. The severe Winter of 1903-4, combined with prolonged drouth in many of the districts where clover seed is most extensively grown, was exceedingly unfavorable to the clover crop of 1904. In consequence, the area left for the purpose of seed production was considerably less than in former years. The clover seed midge was also much in evidence in nearly all of the districts in Ontario.

The alsike crop fared even worse than red clover. Not only is the available supply of home-grown seed limited, but the quality of the seed produced this year is, on the whole, inferior.

The growing of high-class clover seed in the Province of Ontario has proved to be amply remunerative in the average of years, and has, to a considerable extent, taken the place of the production for sale of cereal grains. The extent to which clover seed is grown in Ontario can be better appreciated when it is mentioned that the Toronto seedsmen are said to control the world's prices for alsike seed.

There are many districts in the other provinces, particularly in the Province of Quebec, where the production of red clover and alsike seed could be taken up to good advantage. More than two tons of really good red cover seed have, within the last month, been threshed near Shawville, in the county of Pontiac, by the use of an ordinary grain thresher.

Flour via St. John.

The New York Produce Exchange, one of the most influential commercial bodies in the world, has made the important discovery that the freight rates from St. John, N.B., to Africa are considerably lower than from New York, so much lower that it pays to rail their goods to St. John and tranship from there.

In order to ensure entire satisfaction to African importers it has been deemed advisable by New York firms interested to have an official inspection of goods at St. John. Twenty thousand packages of goods consisting principally of flour and corn products are now en route from New York for shipment to Africa per steamer Wyandotte which sails within the next few days. This business will in all probability assume considerable proportions, in which event the future Winter port business of St. John will be largely increased.

The Grain Standards.

APROPOS of the discussion in some of the daily papers and the dissatisfaction of the Western farmers with the Grain Standard Act The Canadian Grocer was favored with an interesting interview last week with Mr. C. N. Bell, secretary of the Winnipeg Board of Trade and Grain Exchange. Mr. Bell characterized the majority of the complaints now being given publicity in the daily press as absurd. "We never hear anything about these complaints in years when the general quality of the grain is good, but when it is poor there is no end to the faults which are found with the Grain Act or the criticisms of the Grain Standards Board. The plain fact o fthe matter is that the Act is necessarily technical in its nature and the Grain Growers' Association do not understand it."

"Last February," continued Mr. Bell, "there was a meeting here in Winnipeg of the Grain Growers' Association and conferences were held with the members of the Grain Standards Board. Two days and more were occupied by the discussion and it was made abundantly evident then that the grain growers were not acquainted with the Act and did not know what grievances they wanted remedied. They suggested a number of "changes" in the Act and they were very much surprised when it was shown to them that the "changes" were already embodied in the Act. Their complaints were met at every point and they had no real grievance to present. Finally. in order to justify themselves they protested that they wanted farmers on the Grain Standards Board. When questioned it was found that they did not know how many farmers were already on the board, but they were sure o fone thing—they wanted more. To that no objection was raised and a member of the board moved that the Government be petitioned to appoint a majority of farmers to the board. It was made pltin that the city members of the board would be pleased to have all the members farmers thus relitving themselves of the responsibilities of a position which brought them no reward but abuse.

"The sequel to the story is that the Grain Growers' Association made no nominations to the new board—a majority of which was to consist of farmers—although they were requested by the department at Ottawa to do so. Finally at the request of the Minister I myself nominated the farmer members of the board.

"Moreover, the whole question of the grain standard was inquired into a year ago at Ottawa, not by a standing committee of the House, but by a special committee appointed for the purpose. This committee communicated with the Grain Growers' Association and asked them to attend as it was the intention to go into the matter thoroughly with a view to recommending amendments to the Act. Not a member of the Grain Growers' Association appeared and it devolved upon me to explain the farmers' complaints to the committee. These men don't know what they want, but when grain is poor they always kick."

Grain Situation.

WHEAT has been quiet during the week with little of special interest either in the domestic or export markets, Manitoba wheat ruling about 3-4c lower than a week ago and only a fair volume of trade in futures reported. Considerable difficulty is experienced in getting wheat locally and dealers report hardly the usual demand from millers. Exporters complain of the comparative dullness of the export trade in wheat both as regards spot and future trading and shippers look forward to a slack time at the opening of navigation. This is due to other nations than Canada and the United States supplying Europe's requirements, Russia, Roumania. India, Australia, and Argentina having filled the shortcomings of the United States.

The domestic trade in flour is dull although export business in flour has been unusually brisk during the week, the bulk of it going via New York on account of United States mills which have been obliged to buy largely from Canada to meet the requirements of long established customers in Great Britain, the West Indies and South Africa.

According to the London Miller the period from now until the end of April is the one during which such reduced arrivals of flour may be expected as will seriously deplete the present large stocks in Great Britain and on the Continent and in this way give a healthy fillip to the market. According, since the market has stood up well against the adverse circumstances of several weeks past, it is suggested that a better state of things may gradually supervene. At any rate in the face of the admittedly large consumption at present going on and which must continue all through the Winter, there seems hardly room for any serious decline from present values.

The Argentine harvest, upon which so much depends at the present juncture, seems, on the whole, to be making favorable progress and it is confidently expected that from February onward the Plate will be a large contributor to the grain importing countries of Europe.

Tobaccos, Cigars, and Smokers' Accessories

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAIL MERCHANTS.

Have Your Own Brands of Cigars.

IN these days of specializing one hears much of private brands of foodstuffs, staple groceries and other articles of merchandise. The up-to-date grocer is resorting to ways and means innumerable of building up a reputation for his store as the only place in town for buying certain lines of goods. In almost every city, town and village throughout the country housewives flock to Johnson's, say, for good coffee, and to Smith's for holiday fruits. Wherever possible the grocer avails himself of the opportunity of advertising his business by placing his own trade mark upon articles most in demand.

Why should he not extend the practice to include cigars and tobaccos. Hotels, clubs, tobacco stores and even wealthier individuals make a specialty of private brands of cigars, and some have been successful in building up not only a large an d successful cigar trade, but an enviable reputation for their particular brands of cigars. There is nothing like utilizing an idea in business at the exact psychological moment. Private brands are the fad just now in addition to having an indisputable commercial value, and the judicious grocer can make no mistake in experimenting along the lines mentioned with a cigar suited to his particular class of customers.

The complaint is often heard "that the druggist and tobacconist have all the trade that's worth trying to get and it would be sheer foolishness for me to go to the expense of having a special brand of cigars put up. This may be true enough in cities, but in towns, villages and country districts the grocer has himself to blame if he does not control the local tobacco trade. The "private brand" idea if properly worked out is one way of cultivating this particular trade. If it is worth while for the druggist or tobacconist it is also worth the grocer's while to get out after the tobacco trade in his town, especially when his claim to it is a just one. Ingenuity and enterprise in the cigar and tobacco department of a grocery store will not only win back trade that has drifted away to the tobacconist or druggist but pay well as far as direct profits are concerned.

A Visit to Cuba.

J. Bruce Payne, president, and J. Topp, director of J. Bruce Payne, Limited, cigar manufacturers, Granby, Que., who are now in Cuba on one of their annual purchasing trips, write to The Canadian Grocer that this year's tobacco crop is excellent quality although prices for "Pharaoh" standard are high.

Their objective point in Cuba is the Manicaragua district in the Province of Santa Clare, where the finest filler in the world is grown. They have found that the only way to keep up the high standard they have set for their "Pharaoh," "Pebble" and other brands of cigars is to investigate the conditions of the crops personally and buying direct from the growers.

To Destroy U. S. Tobacco Trade.

Secretary Toft's proposition to reduce the duty on Philippine cigars and tobacco entering the United States to 25 per cent. is being warmly debated in Washington this week. United States manufacturers look upon the bill as a direct attempt to destroy the commercial existence of the tobacco trade of the Republic.

An interesting solution of the Philippine problem has been suggested to Secretary Toft to the effect that the cultivation of purely tropical products should be stimulated in the Philippines instead of sugar and tobacco which compete with similar products in the United States. For instance, in 1900 the United States paid Brazil alone nearly fifty-three million dollars for coffee and rubber which could be produced in the Philippine Islands, where both grow to perfection. They annualy import from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 worth of coffee, rubber fibres, and spices and other purely tropical products which can never be grown in the United States, and every one of which can be produced in the Philippine Islands. In 1871 there was an import duty of three cents per pound on coffee. This yas taken off and immediately Brazil put on an export duty, and during the subsequent twenty-eight years the United States lost in revenues $304,000,0000 on Brazilian coffee, which went into the Brazil-

Tobacco Trade in Cuba.

THE following figures represent the output of tobacco in Cuba for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904:

Cuban tobacco crop in the past year was good in both quality and quantity, and may be safely valued at over $30,000,000. The exports during 1903 were valued at $26,046,431, against $25,400,000 in the previous year. The exports of leaf tobacco in 1904 exceeded those of the previous year by $600,000. The total exports of leaf tobaccoo amounted to 40,977,946 pounds, valued at $13,245,187, 24,128,430 pounds of which, valued at $9,931,802, went to the United States, and 10,306,574 pounds, valued at $1,921,079, to Germany, the next largest purchaser.

Tobacco stems, which are used in the manufacture of snuff, etc., were exported to the amount of 598,178 pounds, valued at $9,959, principally to the United States, Argentina and Germany.

Cigars exported numbered 205,244,298, valued at $12,302.969, of which 45,769,422, valued at $2,888,111, went to the United States; 28,388,074, valued at $1,968,395, to Germany, and 92,559,817, valued at $5,197,785, to England. Of cigarettes, 14,662,209 packages (each package containing about 14), valued at $404,173, were exported during the year. Of these 287,767 packages, valued at $7,055, went to the United States; 16,693,372 packages, valued at $49,070, to Dutch possessions; 1,323,127 packages, valued at $40,926, to British islands; 7,259,354 packages, valued at $191,854 to Columbia, and 586,002 packages, valued at $17,632, to Germany. Much of the remainder went to the Canary Islands. The export of cut tobacco amounted to 226,648 pounds, valued at $81,031, of which the United States received 75,205 pounds, valued at $23,583, and Columbia 57,283 pounds, valued at $21,201.

Freights And Charters

A GLANCE at the manifests of outgoing steamers shows that immense quantities of grain are being shipped, principally from Portland and St. John to Bristol and Liverpool. Freights are brisk and transportation companies are already feeling in better humor over the prospects. From St. John seven charters have been reported for South American ports and yet business is dull at this port. On January 28, the Allan Line R.M.S. Sicilian which has been loading this week will sail for Liverpool. The Parisian which sailed last Saturday had a fair cargo for the time of year and rates have kept up well comparatively.

The Dominion Line has placed the ss. Roman on its service from Portland and she sails Saturday, January 28, for Liverpool. Space in this boat has been booked ahead, although the rates have not changed.

The C.P.R. service from St. John, N.B., is of the best, largely owing to the excellent feeder which their railway supplies. The Lake Erie has been loading during the past ten days and an immense grain cargo has been stowed away. SS. Lake Manitoba is the next boat on this line to arrive and her capacity for cargo is large. There is no doubt about the C.P.R. doing the business of the port and this is not surprising when the forces which it controls for success are considered. At any rate the air already is full of the probabilities for next season's shipping at Montreal and the different companies are making their plans and contracts in anticipation of one of the largest shipping seasons on record.

RETAIL MERCHANTS MEET.

A meeting of the St. Catharines branch of the Retail Merchants Association was held on Jan. 13 for the purpose of meeting E. M. Trowern, general secretary for the Dominion and S. A. Brubacher, secretary of the Berlin branch.

"Assessment," "The Collection of Small Debts," "Peddlers," "Weights and Measures," and "Premiums" were among the other questions discussed.

DEPARTMENT OF ADVERTISING SUGGESTION AND CRITICISM

Edited by John C. Kirkwood, TORONTO.

NOTE—Herein are discussed the principles and practice of advertising. Subscribers are invited to send Mr. Kirkwood specimens of their newspaper and other advertising, for the purpose of review in this department. Address care of Department of Advertising, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTION ON ADVERTISING

IN this day when advertising is so necessary to the development of business in general and individual business in particular, there is need on the part of many of some helpful instruction on the subject of advertising, presented briefly yet containing desired information of a general and technical sort. To supply this information in compact form is the object of the chapers which follow:

To think that with the purchase of space in a chosen medium one has thereby purchased the favor of its many thousands of subscribers is a fatal error. The purchasing of space in a good newspaper introduces one, well accredited, to a host of buyers, but whether the impression one makes is favorable or otherwise depends upon the advertisement, not upon the newspaper. The appearance, language, and style have all to be considered. Size is not so important, though it has a value—the big advertisement being stronger, other things being equal, than the smaller one. At the same time it is possible for the small advertisement to be so persistent, bright and aggressive that it accomplishes quite as much as its bigger brother.

Advertisements reveal the man behind them. They are the expression of his mind, purpose, character. It is through the advertisement that the reader acquires his impressions of the advertiser Hence it follows that if the advertisement be dull, and uninteresting and seldom or never changed, the man for whom it was prepared comes to believe that the concern that sends out such an advertisement is sleepy, and unprogressive, and this impression sticks and stands in the way of business. On the other hand, if the advertisements of a firm are always fresh, bright, attractive and businesslike, the reader concludes that the firm they speak for are active, progressive and always on the alert for the best things and best values and there is born in him a desire to do business with people who are manifestly thinking of his interests as well as of their own.

I.—General Instructions.

The first thing to consider is what is to be sold, the second, who should have it. the third, how can possible buyers be influenced to become purchasers.

What is to be Sold.

In preparing an advertisement ask these questions: What is this article for? In what way is it better than its rivals? Will it meet requirements in every way? Upon answers to these build up your advertisement, always exercising judgment in laying the stress of the advertisement upon the superiority of the article, if that is its claim, or upon the price if that be its advantage.

Housebuilders

A METAL CEILING for the kitchen is the only proper article. It improves the appearance of the room and always looks well. It is not affected by the steam and heat from cooking which loosens and cracks plaster.

Any defects in plumbing are easily got at by simply removing one plate. Most sanitary. Lasts a lifetime. First cost is last cost.

Write or call and we will give you estimate.

John Smith & Co.

Do not depend upon memory when you describe goods. Set a sample on your desk before you begin to write. Take it up for inspiration. Try to draw a picture of it in short, forceful words. Become enthusiastic over it. Hunt out its novel points, its excellent points, its marvelous points. and try to convey them adequately. The result ought to be as convincing a statement as you are capable of writing.

Go to the best salesman selling the goods you are advertising. Learn from him how he sells, what he says to customers, the points he has found to be effective. Ascertain what buyers of the thing you advertise are interested in and talk the points that appeal to them. Become in imagination a buyer yourself of the goods you are advertising, and make the advertisement convince and persuade you. When an advertisement convinces the writer of it it is pretty certain to convince those to whom it is addressed.

Who Should Have Your Wares.

Without having clearly defined in your mind the buyers of what you have to sell, it is impossible to prepare the best copy. One must have an audience to develop inspiration. You know more about your goods than does the buyer of them, and it is for you to suggest reasons why your goods should be purchased in preference to anything else. Run over in your mind the names of some buyers of your wares. Pick out from among them the one whom you believe to be the most shrewd buyer, the man most difficult to persuade. Talk to him. Convince him. What will make him a customer will do the same with others.

Again, there are many people who would profit by having your goods, but have not yet discovered their desirability. They need to be awakened. An illustration of this is afforded in the accompanying advertisement.

It suggests a use for metal ceiling that does not occur to many a builder of houses, and provides excellent reasons why metal ceiling should be used for kitchens. The good advertiser creates business by suggesting things which people will want or ought to have but either did not know the advertiser could furnish or had overlooked purchasing.

How to Influence and Persuade.

This is a subject upon which numberless counsellors have written, and is so vast that the last word will never be uttered. It is the psychological side of advertising and is boundless in extent.

From among the mass of good things said on the subject of the preparation of advertisements the following have been selected as being at once terse, sane and instructive. They have no special sequence, and in some instances may seem to be out of agreement, but possibly they may be the more valuable on that account.

These paragraphs have been somewhat roughly grouped under different headings for ease of consultation. It is pretty certain that the truths contained in them will be perceived only according to the development of one's advertising experience, therefore read them over from time to time.

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

Be a Quality Grocer

Once a grocer has established himself as a quality man he has an asset which will pay him rich and lasting returns.

Customers who want cheap things regardless of quality are swept away from him by every bargain-sale wind that blows.

THE SUCCESS OF CONQUEST

It is always good to be on the winning side when the issue at stake is just.

In the matter of Teas, for instance, it is well for every grocer to be on the side of

Ceylon Teas

That these Teas are winning against all others competing for life and favor, the grocer knows as well as we do. To be on both sides is not good business, not good policy.

They Cost Something, Of Course.

But enough Allison Coupon Books to last a year won't cost as much as the amount you will lose by the carelessness of your clerks in forgetting to "charge up" numerous small purchases; and disputed pass-book entries, where you have to allow your customer's kick, or lose him.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING. There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? MONTREAL

To Restrict the Exposure of Meat, Fruit, Fish, Etc.

ONE of the most vital questions before the grocery, fruit and provision trades of Canada to-day is "How much latitude should be allowed in connection with the outdoor display and exposure of meat, fruit, fish, milk, and other food products?" No one will gainsay that the open-air displays so popular within the last year or two are anything but conducive to public health.

In the matter of fresh meat, for instance, during the holiday season of 1904, in some of our larger towns and cities, the casual observer could not help having the impression that fully two-thirds of the butchers' and provisioners' supplies of dead meat and poultry were exposed to the open air in front of shops. This may do very well when the temperature is low and the air free from dust. On a windy day, however, when the atmospherc is laden with dust particles and other impure matter, a hind quarter of beef is none the better, to say the least, for having been exposed in this manner even for a few hours. A similar method of displaying fresh and frozen fish on exposed shelves and tables in front of store windows is also open to criticism. The same objections apply to out-door display of fish as to meats, an added one in the case of fish being the disagrecable odor, informing one that he is in the neighborhood of a fish store when hc is a block away.

What threatens to become a nuisance is the store front displays of fruit and vegetables during our fruit season. Certain varieties of fruit are displayed day after day in such a way that they are exposed to all the impurities of a dusty, dirty thoroughfare. In the case of hard fruits, such as apples, pears, etc., this is not serious, since the fruit may be washed. Peaches, strawberries, raspberries, etc., will become contaminated in a very few hours, and it is clearly contrary to the most fundamental rules of health that they should be exposed in such a manner for two days in succession.

The present method of carting meats, fruits, etc., from farm to market and through public thoroughfares from dealer to consumer, is open to all the objections that can be raised against outdoor display, in as far as the exposure of meat, fruit, etc., to all kinds of weather, dust and a thousand other impurities, owing to carelessness in handling and a lack of proper covering, causes the use of such products to be attended with more or less risk.

A By-law Along the Right Lines.

By way of offering a solution to this question, Dr. Sheard, medical health officer for the city of Toronto, has prepared a by-law regulating and restricting the exposure of meat, fruit, fish, milk and other goods upon public streets unless protected and covered so as to avoid contact with dust and other objectionable matter. This by-law will be presented at the first meeting of the city council in February, and followed by a petition at the first session of the Provincial Legislature asking that the city council be empowered to pass the by-law. Its provisions are as follows:

1. The Medical Health Officer, or such officer or officers as he may appoint, shall be the Inspector or Inspectors under the provisions of this by-law, whose duty it shall be to see that the provisions of this by-law shall be carried out.

2. It shall be unlawful within the limits of the municipality of the city of Toronto to expose upon any street or streets or in any market or public place or places any carcass, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, or milk, unless the same be so protected as to avoid contact with dust, water, or other matter which might tend to render the same offensive or objectionable for the purposes of food; the proof that the same was not intended for food for man resting with the party charged.

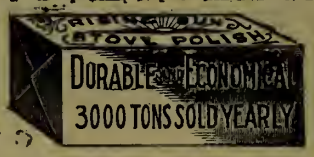
3. All carcasses, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, or milk intended to be used as food for man shall, when being conveyed from place to place within the municipality, be carried in a closed or dust-proof vehicle, or so thoroughly protected by clean linen or hempen coverings or tarpaulins, as to render impossible any contact with dust or other noxious or offensive substances on the article so protected.

4. No butcher, purveyor, or dealer in any of the above-mentioned articles, shall expose the same or permit the same to be exposed outside of his shop, or inside an open window, or upon any public street, or in any public market, at any time, or in such manner as in the opinion of the Medical Health Officer is likely to cause such article of food to be contaminated or rendered injurious or objectionable in consequence of contact with or deposit thereon of dust or any noxious or offensive material.

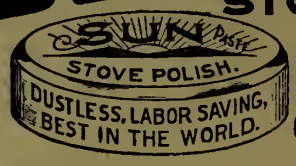
5. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law shall forfeit and pay, at the discretion of the convicting magistrate, a penalty not exceeding (exclusive of costs) the sum of twenty-five dollars for each offence, and in default of payment of the said penalty and costs forthwith, the said penalty and costs, or costs only, may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in case of there being no distress found out of which such penalty can be levied, the convicting magistrate may commit the offender to the common gaol of the city of Toronto, with or without hard labor, for any period not exceeding six calendar months, unless the said penalty and costs (if any), including the costs of the said distress and of the committal and conveyance of the offender to the said gaol, are sooner paid.

In the course of an interview with The Canadian Grocer, Dr. Sheard said that "although it is rather early to speak positively, there is little doubt but that the by-law will be enforced in the near future. There are a great many considerations involved, as well as a diversity of interests, all of which it is desired to meet justly and effectively. Unquestionably the new by-law will serve the public in a direction in which improvement is sadly needed.

Hucksters.



"A difficulty which is almost certain to come up is that of hucksters or peddlers who will be required to have proper coverings on their carts and wagons, or else to sell by sample only. Toronto has already accomplished considerable in regulating out-door displays of fruit, etc., a by-law having been passed about a year ago requiring all such displays to be at least fifteen inches from the street level.



"You hear more or less talk about the present method of delivering bread. Some fastidious housewives would have their bread labelled, wrapped in waxed paper, in single loaves, and handled with gloves. We come across more fanatics in this department than in any of the other municipal offices, and it goes without saying they never are through wanting, although they scarcely, if ever, know what their wants really are. Very few real complaints have reached the department in the matter of bread, although any such will be dealt with summarily."

Impure Milk.

If there is any article of food that requires closer scrutiny than another on the part of the Public Health Department of a municipality, it is milk. The Canadian Grocer in talking pure food to manufacturers of food products has frequently to parry an unexpected, but none the less powerful, thrust, namely: "You talk about spices, jams, etc., being adulterated. Why don't you devote some of your energy to enforcing the regulations in regard to milk? Mixed spices, or jams are perfectly harmless in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, and what is more, very little complaint regarding them is ever heard from the consumer. On the other hand a very large percentage of the epidemics to which our cities and towns are subject is due to the use of impure milk."

Unfortunately the charge against milk is only too true in many parts of the country, and the necessity of exercising the closest possible public scrutiny over milkshops, dairies, vendors, etc., cannot be over-emphasized. At the same time it is gratifying to know that the regulations governing dairies, the delivery of milk, etc., in the city of Toronto, as well as the system for effectively enforcing the same, are such as make Toronto an example in the matter of pure milk.

By way of illustrating the thoroughness of the system, the following regulations governing Toronto milk vendors are of special interest:

"All dairies, or other places in which milk is sold or kept for general use, and all cheese factories and creameries shall be subject to regular inspection under the direction of the Board of Health once every two months; and proprietors of such shall keep such dairy, cheese factory, creamery, etc., only on permission of the Board and after an official inspection has been made; subject to the condition that all such places are so kept that the milk shall not contain any matter liable to produce disease either by reason of adulteration, contamination with sewage, absorption of disease germs, infection of cows, etc.

"All dairies, or milkshops, shall be thoroughly drained and well-lighted and ventilated, and at all times kept clean and in a sanitary condition.

"Every dairy, and in stores or shops every refrigerator or other receptacle, where milk is kept or stored for general use, shall be used for milk only, and be at least twenty-five feet distant from any stable, outhouse, etc., and shall not be exposed to the air of any living or sleeping room, or any business or other surroundings that may tend to make milk foul or impure.

"All cans, bottles, or measures used for milk shall be kept clean and be thoroughly washed before milk is put into them, and dust proof when in use."

No permit whatever is granted by the Department of Public Health unless the premises for which application is made comply with the above regulations. Every dairy in the city is well known to the authorities; regular chemical analyses of the products of each are made in addition to official inspection of the said dairies; thus a record is kept which makes it practically impossible for a dairyman to become negligent or otherwise violate the public health regulations without running serious risk. In the event of a dairyman persistently neglecting to meet the above-mentioned requirements, his premises are either closed permanently or else reorganized along right lines, a strict scrutiny being observed by the health authorities in the meantime.

Coloring Matter.

In answer to the query as to the advisability of using coloring matter in milk, such as anatto (a preparation of bullock's blood), chemicals, and vegetable extracts, Dr. Sheard said this was not a serious matter. The all-important consideration is to prevent milk from becoming contaminated, and it is along this line that he is directing the work of the Public Health Department as far as milk is concerned.

FRESH AND CURED FISH

Opposed to Close Season.

THE Victoria, B.C., Board of Trade, acting in conjunction with a number of Victoria business men, have sent a deputation to Ottawa to protest against the proposed enforcement of a close season for sockeye salmon in British Columbia waters during the years 1906 and 1908, on the ground that the forbidding of fishing in these years would cut off the means of livelihood for workers in the canneries and fishermen employed.

Many of the canners fear that even if the Government should establish the desired close season it would be difficult to prevent poachers operating and shipping their catches by steamer to canneries on the Columbia River.

It is thought that the Columbia River canners would be only too willing to receive fish poached in the protected waters of Puget Sound and the Gulf of Georgia. Despite any legislation which the State of Washington might enact to protect the salmon fisheries within its jurisdiction, nothing could be done to prevent the Oregon canners from putting up fish taken in these waters. The only way to prevent the Columbia canners from benefiting at the expense of those on the Fraser River and Puget Sound would be for the State of Washington and the Dominion Government to patrol the protected waters each year from July 10 to August 25. This patrol would have to be constantly maintained and the cost would be no bagatelle.

As an alternative to closing the Fraser River and contiguous waters against salmon fishing during 1906 and 1908 it is proposed to limit fishing on the Fraser to two-thirds of the width of the stream for a number of years to come. It is thought that if a third of the width of the Fraser be protected against the fishermen's nets, a sufficient number of salmon can ascend each year to the spawning grounds to solve the propagation problem now confronting both canners and Government.

Just as we go to press, word is received from Ottawa that the Department have decided to recommend the adoption of an order-in-council suspending fishing operations in British Columbia for the two years named. It will be provided in the order, however, that in the event of the American canners on Puget Sound, who are acting in conjunction with the British Columbia canners, not living up to the agreement, the Canadian restrictions regarding the close season will be immediately removed.

To Promote Sardine Industry.

In connection with the sardine industry of New Brunswick waters there seems to be a diversity of opinion as to whether an export duty should be placed on the fish which now find their way in large quantities to the Eastport and Lubec canning factories on the American side. Those who have given the matter especial consideration believe that the industry can be transferred in time to Canada exclusively.

Sutton Clark, a gentleman well known in the sardine business, is now canning on the Canadian side with success, finding a good market for all he can preserve. Of course, the sardines canned in Eastport find a home market in the U.S., and in that way the duty is saved, which would have to be met in the event of the canning being done on the Canadian side, and looking for the U. S. market. Apart from the creation of an industry on this side in the canning of sardines, which would mean the employment of a large amount of labor, New Brunswick is confronted with the fact that the spawning grounds are being depleted by the large quantity of fish that are at present taken from New Brunswick waters and exported to the Maine factories.

It is a fact that many tons of these small herring, which have been taken too late for sale to the factories, have been sold for use as fertilizers. The report of the commissioners appointed to investigate this question will be awaited with interest, and it is understood that it will be made very soon.

By a special arrangement, the American Government allow these small fish which their own factories require, to come into the country free of duty, but of course there is a duty on the preserved article.

Herring Industry on Pacific Coast.

J. Cowie, the Scotch fishing expert, who a few months ago visited the Pacific Coast to inquire into the herring industry, has submitted his report. The substance is as follows:

(a) Pacific herring, in the main, are smaller and contain far more oil than the Atlantic herring.

(b) Pacific herring are adapted for kippers, suitable for use within a limited time; but not so suitable for pickling in barrels to compete with the best Scottish or Norwegian herring.

(c) They will not keep so long in good condition as the Atlantic herring when pickled, and could not therefore compete with the Atlantic herring when properly cured.

(e) Some pickled Pacific herring, put up in barrels similar to the best Scottish pattern, sold well; but the best quality of salt was not used; hence it would seem that a market could be secured for Pacific pickled herring in China, Australia, the Strait Settlements, etc., as well as in the Western States.

(f) Dry salted Pacific herring would also be in great demand in these places.

(g) After the Atlantic experiment is completed next Fall, it is recommended that half the staff of Scottish herring curing experts be sent to the Pacific Coast to put up some herring in the best Scottish methods and to give instructions to persons desiring to learn these methods.

Nova Scotia Cod Fisheries.

The bank cod fisheries of Nova Scotia for 1904 was below the average; but prices mark the highest figures ever reached. The bank catch amounted to 145,000 quintals which is 60,000 below the average. The average price paid to fishermen, ex vessel, the past year was $5.40.

Maritime Fisheries for 1904.

P. Macfarlane, superintendent of bait cold storage work in the Maritime Provinces, in his latest report states that the cod fishing industry for 1904 was a poor one as far as the catch was concerned, although the fishermen has some compensation in the comparatively high prices current for dry fish. The lobster catch was very good and on account of fair prices paid the trade did well on the whole.

The mackerel fishing was not as successful as usual as far as catch was concerned, although prices ranged very high.

Mackerel have not been so scarce in years, no fish whatever being taken in the Bay of Fundy. The season for Fall herring has been remarkably good and some of the new freezers have been sending to the Bay of Islands for supplies of fresh herring for the haddock fisheries.

Japan Leads the World.

Japan is the leading fishing nation in the world to-day, although the value of her sea products is surpassed by that of two other countries. The United States (outside of Alaska), and Great Britain each produce about $45,000,000 worth annually, and Japan produces about $30,000,000 worth. Japan leads in the proportion of the total population engaged in the fishing industry, in the actual number of people living by the industry, in the relative importance of fish products in the country's domestic economy and in the support given by the government to the industry.

To Stop Seine Fishing in Lake Champlain.

The New York Herald publishes the following despatch from Albany: "New York State may appeal to the President if Canada refuses to co-operate with it in the effort to stop seine fishing in Lake Champlain. When the State's Committee, with a committee from Vermont, visited Canada recently it learned that 111 tons of fish had been taken from the lake within six weeks. These fish were taken in nets at Mississquoi Bay, where the lake is narrow, and were shipped from a small town in Vermont.

"In the interests of sportsmen the State and the Federal authorities have for a long time stocked the lake and have taken steps to protect the game and edible fish in that body of water. New York passed a law prohibiting the use of nets in Lake Champlain and was successful in procuring the aid of Vermont, which passed a similar law.

"The Legislature last year sent Senators Prime and Cullen, Assemblymen Reeve and Knapp and J. W. Pond, chief game protector, as a committee to urge the Dominion Government to refuse to license the use of nets. Vermont sent a similar committee. Little progress was made, however, by the New York and Vermont legislators. The Canadian officials offered little encouragement."

Fish News.

A fisheries research station is to be established in British Columbia, probably at the northern end of Vancouver Island.

The Capital City Canning Co., British Columbia, has been incorporated with share capital of $150,000 to carry on a general fishing business.

The Great Northern salmon cannery, built four years ago on the north shore of English Bay, B.C., has been purchased by W. McPherson and M. B. Wilkinson, of Vancouver, for $20,000.

The stockholders of the Alaska Packers' Association have authorized the directors to increase the capital stock of the association from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000 and to create a bonded indebtedness of $2,000,000.

Butter and Cheese Situation.

CHEESE is reflecting the quiet tone now ruling in the English markets and there no business is reported. What shipping out took place last week consisted of stored goods ordered out by the English owners. As there is quite a nice little margin of profit between prices now ruling abroad and what stored cheese on both sides of the Atlantic cost, there is room for some of the merchants to let some of their goods go at a shade under present Canadian asking prices, and until a better demand springs up there is little chance of an advance in price here.

Butter is getting scarce and pretty full prices have been realised. The prices at which goods move freely are between 21 1-2 and 22 cents.

Quebec Dairymen Meet.

THE importance of the dairying industry in Canada was again emphasized on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, it being the occasion of the twenty-third convention of the Province of Quebec Dairymen's Association at St. Johns. In the course of his annual address the president referred to the satisfactory advance of dairying in Quebec within the last decade and to the fact that its growth had been greater relatively than in any other province of the Dominion. The increase in Quebec was $9,955,850 while the total increase for the Dominion during the same period was $18,764,523, so that of the total increase a little over 50 per cent. was due to the large growth in Quebec alone. As Canada grew and the population increased, the home consumption of butter and cheese was bound to be much larger than to-day. On this account it was in the interests of all concerned to do all they could to improve the quality and increase the production of butter and cheese in Quebec.

One of the most interesting features of the convention was the review of the cheese and butter trade for the year 1904 by J. H. Scott of A. A. Ayer & Co., which is reproduced in full:

"Our special sphere is to do all we can to develop the dairying interests of the Province of Quebec. Is there room for a great increase? I answer yes; the Province of Quebec is eminently a butter and cheese country with enormous possibility for development. Look back a few years. This great province had the land and some good cattle, but the produce was poor, our butter was filled with rough salt; the packages all sizes and shapes, ears on the tubs, birch bark instead of cloth or parchment often on the tubs, prices were low for the reason that the quality and style were fitted only for the poorest kind of trade. Our farmers had little ready cash, their trading was largely done by barter. What do we find now? Prosperous butter and cheese factories all over our province, the farmers improving their cattle, barns, houses, growing in wealth and intelligence, possessing fat bank accounts and as an evidence of the great growth among these lines we find our banks establishing agencies in scores of towns, and villages. All this is encouraging, and I congratulate you on the great measure of success you have attained. But do not rest. The future is greater than the past. Keep on the road of progress, gain knowledge, it means wealth and comfort. Now you ask: 'How can we do this?' By heeding the warning given you, repeatedly to improve your cows, weed out the poor ones, look after their comfort, see that the food and water are of the most suitable kind, the barns clean and warm, your milk cans always carefully cleaned and kept from contact with anything objectionable about farm or surroundings. We cannot have fin est butter or cheese unless we have absolute cleanliness. Insist on your markers showing a daily example by keeping their factories sweet and clean. See to it that your goods are properly packed for the foreign markets on which we must depend. They insist on good clean boxes for butter weighing 56 lbs. each or 70 lbs. tubs, wrapped with double parchment of the best quality. Makers must not only keep clean factories but should whitewash them thoroughly to avoid mould. Cart or draw butter to station in the cool of the day, if possible, and always have a good cover to keep off rain, dust, etc.

"Cheese—Last season we have had to complain many times of bad flavors, poor style, uneven weight, weak and bad fitting boxes; these are all important points and must be remedied if you want to keep in the race with your sister Province of Ontario. On account of our advantage of climate, water, etc., we should be leading, not following. What do you say? If you try honestly, you can do it. Bad flavor simply means dirt. Will you guilty ones turn over a new leaf, and see that the coming year that you do not sin in this respect? Uneven weights mean carelessness. Weigh your curd and see to it that your hoops are good, your cheese upright, handsome, and about 75 to 80 lbs., but uniform in weight, and the bandage neat and of the right size, no use of wasting it as so many do, by covering the tops as well as the sides.

"Bad boxes means wasted money, repairs and damage cost time and money. Buy good material and see that you get it, and cover the cheese when drawing to the station so as to keep boxes dry and clean. When the inspector or instructor or dealers call attention to the faults in your butter and cheese, don't get cross and waste your time or temper about it, see what you can do to find out the cause and stop it.

"The Montreal Merchants' Produce Association, knowing that I would be present at the meeting, requested me to emphasize on their behalf the points already mentioned and also those they have repeatedly called your attention to in circulars from time to time, one of the most important in their opinion being the manufacture of fodder cheese. They are distinctly opposed to these being made either in the Spring or in the Autumn. The quality is usually poor and the result is they only tend to bring the market down so that when grass cheese are offered for sale, they meet these low priced goods in competition, and, of course, suffer in consequence. They would also like to see some movement made to improve the character of the factory buildings and furnishings; also the closing up of very small factories where possible and sending the milk to the larger and more efficiently appointed factories. They also think it would be a great advantage to have all makers have a certificate of competency from the dairy school and all factories before starting operations should have a certificate from the local sanitary inspectors that they are properly placed, and have all the necessary facilities to keep them clean and free from contamination."

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—The retail trade are stocking up with cured meats, preparing for the Summer trade and better and larger orders are reported. Consumers are using a larger amount of fresh meats which curtails the amount arriving for exporting and curing purposes, although a better arrival is noted this week. Lard is in good demand. Prices continue unchanged but are firm with an upward tendency. Our quotations are as follows:

Cheese—Prices have advanced in England to 55 shillings for best stock. As a result trade is quiet and it is expected on the English market that holders will drop their prices if a better demand does not soon spring up. A good demand is noted on the local market during the week. We quote the following prices:

Butter—An increase in the amount of milk produced during the month of January has enabled a number of the creamery factories to resume operations which were closed down owing to scarcity of cream. Since the arrival of larger amounts of creamery the better class of customers have held back from purchasing dairy butter. It is estimated that a larger amount of dairy roll is being exported and the price has advanced 1c per pound. Our quotations are:

Provisions—No further change is noted in condition of local provision market. The demand is fair and the volume of business up to the average for the season. There is a stronger feeling in pork, in sympathy with the recent steady rise in prices for live and dressed hogs. The dressed hog market is decidedly stronger. Supplies are light in coming forward and keen demand from packers. Selected live hogs sold from $5.50 to $5.60 per hundred lbs. Fresh killed abattoir sold at $7.50 to $7.75, and country dressed at $6.50 to $7.

cheese market and business is on the quiet side. There seems to be no disposition on the part of holders to make any concessions, however. It is estimated that the stocks on hand do not exceed 40,000 boxes, and that the Canadian stock is about 250,000 boxes. Some of the larger holders are hanging out for 11c for finest western, although 10 3-4c to 10 7-8c is mentioned as having been offered and accepted.

The quantity of Canadian butter exported to Great Britain for 1903 totaled 185,464 cwts., and the value was $4,315,745, an average of twenty and four-fifth cents per pound. The increase in the shipment for 1904 totals 83,143 cwts., the average price realized being nineteen and one-third cents per pound.

Shipments of Canadian cheese to Great Britain for year 1903 amounted to 1,848,852 cwts., of the value of $23,472,371, an average of eleven and one-third cents per pound. The increase in the shipment for 1904 totals 52,404 cwts., and the average price realized was nine cents and sixty-nine hundredths per pound. It is thus seen that a considerable shrinkage in the values of butter and cheese on the English market took place last year. The importers are looking forward to higher prices during the coming season.

Western Packing Establishment.

A meat packing industry is being started in Virden, Man., by the citizens and farmers of the town and district which will be inaugurated and run entirely with local capital. Westerners are awakening to the fact that there are other ways of making money than grain growing, and in order to secure the greatest possible margin of profit from stock raising which is assuming considerable proportions in the West, the farmers of Virden have decided to do their own packing.

The principal movers in the new concern are Duncan Macdonald, ex-mayor of Virden; Harvey Simpson, J. R. Mullins and C. J. Bell. Application has been made for incorporation under the name and style of the Virden Meat Company, with a capital of $50,000.

Canadian Butter Gains Ground.

At the annual dinner of the Manchester Wholesale Provision Association last week, the president remarked on the great possibilities of the colonies of Great Britain in the matter of food supplies. Colonial butter is now within two or three shillings per cwt. of the price of Danish, which for generations has held sway in England. This is a great accomplishment when it is remembered that colonial butter has to travel half the circumference of the globe before being landed on the shores of Great Britain.

Eastern Townships Dairymen.

The following officers of the Eastern Townships Dairymen's Association for 1905 have been elected: H. S. Foster, president; T. L. Burnett, vice-president; W. S. Ball, secretary-treasurer; H. F. Williams, auditor, and P. C. DuBoyce, assistant secretary.

Western Canning Co.

The Manitoha Canning Co., Grande Pointe, Man., which have been doing a successful business in canned meats, game, etc., with Western points during the past year and a half, have decided to devote more attention in future to Winnipeg trade. The company is composed mainly of French capitalists and has a paid-up capital of $50,000.

Dairy and Provision News.

D. D. Allan, Brantford, has sold out his creamery to A. D. Lamont, of Woodstock.

The D. B. Martin Co., of Philadelphia, which recently came into possession of the Eastern Abattoir, Montreal, will double the capacity of the present abattoir and expend about $150,000 on new buildings.

Over half a million dollars worth of stock was shipped from Medicine Hat, Assa., during 1904, the estimate including 7,800 cattle, 2,234 horses and 8,856 sheep. Wool to the amount of 217,200 lbs. was also marketed at a valuation of some $27,000.

An interesting conference, which is likely to lead to developments, was held at Bristol, Eng., last week between W. A. MacKinnon, Canadian commercial agent at that point, and the Bristol Docks Committee, on the subject of the development and increase of direct Canadian cattle trade with Bristol.

NEW WHOLESALE GROCERY FIRM.

J. E. Adams, of Lindsay, and W. B. Sparling, of H. P. Eckardt & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, have decided to open up a wholesale grocery business on Cambridge street, Lindsay.

ESTABLISHED IN 1842.

WHAT WE EXPORT TO NEW SOUTH WALES.

IN a recent report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, J. S. Larke, Canadian commercial agent to Anstralasia, refers to the great increase in imports of foodstuffs from Canada into New South Wales, the total for 1903 being barley, maize, oats and wheat to the value of £22,324, and flour valued at £60,280, as compared with nothing in 1902. Canada had the flour, the wheat and the oats needed by New South Wales during the drought period in 1903, and yet all that was supplied from this source was one-eighteenth part of the oats, one-tenth of the flour and one-hundredth part of the wheat.

In this is surely a lesson for Canadian exporters to be ready for such opportunities when they come instead of allowing the trade to pass into the hands of the United States. The figures of the total imports for 1903 ,namely, $1,428,139 for grain and $596,452 for flour, indicate what a broad field is open to Canada in New South Wales and the improvement in methods that is necessary if Canada is to secure its share of the trade.

There has also been a fair growth in most lines in which trade with Canada was done to any extent. The most marked exception was in timber in which trade fell to comparatively low proportions. In 1903 Canada exported into New South Wales cordage and twines to the value of £3,613, fish valued at £7,785 (the total importations of fish into New South Wales for the year being valued at £149,047), agricultural implements valued at £43,004, as against total importations of £167,308, medicines valued at £3,283 as compared with £101,606 from all countries, whiskey valued at £1,076 in comparison with total importations of £51,144 and £10,159 worth of timber out of a total of £290,312.

The most interesting feature in connection with the above figures is the very small proportion of the total business Canada is doing except in one or two lines. Canada has special advantages both in the richness of her accessible fisheries as well as in efficient means of doing a large trade in fish, and yet her share is but one-twentieth of the total amount imported by New South Wales. The same remarks apply to timber.

J. T. James, Bridgeburg, Ont.

GAZETTED POLICE MAGISTRATE.

THE Canadian Grocer has pleasure in reproducing in this week's issue a portrait of J. T. James, general merchant, Bridgeburg, Ont., who last week was gazetted police magistrate for the town of Fort Erie, Ont.

Mr. James was born in Cheltenham, Eng., in 1851, receiving his early education in the commercial college of that town; later he was apprenticed to the general dry goods business. Coming to Canada in 1871, he settled in the Niagara district, where he engaged in farming for six years; in 1881 he purchased a general mercantile business in Bridgeburg, then known as International Bridge.

Since 1898 he has been police magistrate of Bridgeburg, so that the new appointment does nothing more than extend his jurisdiction. In 1900, owing to the increasing demands of trade, he was obliged to enlarge his premises by erecting a fine two-storey structure, which ranks among the most substantial stores of the town, and provides accommodation for a successful and rapidly-growing business.

Mr. James has always shown an active interest in municipal affairs, having been a leader in the movement for incorporating Bridgeburg as a village in 1894, and reeve for two years immediately following. At present he has extensive farming interests in the adjoining township of Bertie, and is senior partner in the firm of James, Disher & Near, lumber dealers and contractors, Ridgeway, Ont. He enjoys the distinction of having edited and published the "Bridgeburg Review" for three years, and has for the last three years been president of the Bertie Agricultural Society.

GROCERS COMPLAIN.

At the last meeting of the Vancouver Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, a resolution was passed complaining against the workings of the British Columbia Assessment Act and suggesting that certain amendments be made. The Exchange also passed a motion asking the Dominion Government to place a duty on lumber entering Canada.

ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the Richards' Pure Soap Co. in Woodstock last week the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. W. Stend; vice-president, D. Richards; secretary-treasurer, D. C. Coutts.

Good morning, Mister Grocer.

What do you think of the elections? Too busy to think about them, eh? So am I.

Don't want anything to-day? How is your stock of Soup? No demand for it? Well! Well! It's plain you haven't been giving much attention to Soup.

Did you ever stock Tomato Soup? Aylmer Tomato Soup, I mean. What! you never did; that accounts for it.

Why don't you push Soup just now when everybody wants Soup? No use?

People prefer to make their own Soup do they? Why? I'll tell you. Because they think they can't buy it as good or as cheap as they can make it themselves. I am here to tell you they can.

You're in business to make money, so it's in your interests to give me your ear for a brief moment.

If you can convince your customer that it will not pay her to bother making her own Soup because she can buy it cheaper and as good, or better than she can make it herself, she will buy Soup rather than make it. But first she must be satisfied as to quality. Well, the fact that you offer her Aylmer Soup sets her mind at rest at once as regards quality and cleanliness, for she knows as well as you, or I do, that quality and cleanliness have made Aylmer Canned Goods famous.

You can assure her that Aylmer Tomato Soup is not like some other Soups, merely a mild Tomato Catsup, but that it is a Soup just like mother used to make, in fact, made after mother's own recipe. The ripe tomatoes, cream, butter, beef stock, seasoning, etc., are all there. All she has to do is to put the can in boiling water for a few minutes, then send it to the table.

You know the old saw, "the proof of the pudding is in the eating." Then, why not try a can of Tomato Soup on your own table? I did before I started to sell it, and that's why I can so confidently recommend it.

Another thing, Aylmer Tomato Soup is attractively put up. The can is covered with a handsome embossed wrapper label, and will sell on sight.

Now don't wait until the season is over before making up your mind. Just drop a line at once to the "Canadian Canners, Limited," Hamilton, mention my name, and ask them to send you a sample, and to tell you where you can get a few cases as a trial shipment. Do it now.

Well, I must say good-bye for the present.

WHAT THE TRADE PAPER DOES.

A FEATURE of the trade paper which is peculiar to it, but not often discussed, is its co-operative side, i.e., its making one family of the members engaged and interested in an industry. Take a man in the grocery business for instance. He has his local newspaper every day from which he gets a modicum of what is going on in the world of politics and finance. But what has it to put him in touch with his own particular interests? Absolutely nothing. The latest process of manufacture or brand of goods on the market may mean dollars and cents to him and yet nothing about them is to be found in such a paper.

On the other hand his trade journal keeps him in touch with all the people who make or job or retail the goods in which he is most interested. Through it he is made acquainted with developments in the grocery trade—in the manufacture of food stuffs, etc., and put in real touch with the industrial family of which he is a member.

Another valuable feature of the trade paper is that while it does not altogether take the place of the salesman, it does take his place in many places where it is not profitable for a manufacturer or jobber to send a salesman. It brings the little man in the small town in touch with the big man in the large town. It is a distributer of ideas, a drummer for business, and is often more effective than any individual traveling man can ever hope to be.

DIRECT FROM THE FIJI ISLANDS.

ONE of the novel occurrences in Montreal during the next two months will be the arrival of a cargo of raw sugar direct from the Fiji Islands for refining purposes. The Dominion imports a considerable quantity of sugar from this far-away source yearly, the total value of sugar from the Fiji Islands during the fiscal years 1903 and 1904 being $231,333 and $175,615, respectively. This sugar has formerly gone to Vancouver, whereas the latest shipment in December, 1903, was for Montreal. Owing to navigation on the St. Lawrence being closed at this season of the year, it will be necessary to discharge the cargo at New York and transfer by rail to Montreal. Had the steamer been able to complete the journey to Montreal, it would have afforded an opportunity to test a return cargo direct to Australia. It can hardly be hoped, however, that direct trade between Canada and the Fiji Islands will be regular or permanent, else it might go far towards solving the problem of cheap transportation from Eastern Canada to Australia.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY A MENACE.

WE have always been opposed to the principle of free rural mail delivery. We have taken this stand on the ground that it would unduly increase the opportunities of the big city mail order houses to injure the trade of our country stores. This in itself is a sufficient reason why no such system should be introduced into this country.

There is another, and an even stronger reason. Rural delivery is an accomplished fact in a considerable portion of the United States and what has been the result? The expenditure in maintaining the service has grown far out of all proportion to the receipts. The country has in fact saddled itself with a system which is constantly clamoring for more money to keep it alive. Within a few years, expenditure has leaped from one million to thirteen million dollars.

Even this might be overlooked, were it not that a most pernicious principle is involved. The system has become nothing more nor less than a political agent.

The rural postmen are, of course, government appointees and government supporters. They cover the country districts thoroughly, and they know everybody. They are in a position to do many favors, and they do them. By degrees they are working up a formidable influence in their district, which can be used to immense advantage by the politicians.

So far as the mail carriers are concerned, the scheme works both ways. They curry favor with the people on the one hand that at election times they may influence votes. They hold up the government on the other hand for increased pay. One instance is known where a mail carrier obtained a contract for $300. Next year he asked $1,200, and got it. The third year he actually held the government up for $1,800.

As sure as the system is introduced, it will breed just this kind of trouble. In the United States they would now like to get rid of it. Can we in Canada afford to make the experiment?

A SHARPER'S TRICK.

THE retail grocery trade of Kingston, Ont., are lamenting the coming of a strange traveling salesman to their midst a few days ago. The "slick" gentleman in question made large sales of Chinese sacred lily bulbs on the representation of an excellent sample; the bulbs, upon examination proved to be hollow, decayed and practically worthless. And now the grocers are wondering how it all happened. The Kingston police department have been notified of the occurrence, but hesitate to take action, fearing they may be balked by some technicality in the by-law regarding peddlers.

The Canadian Grocer is not familiar with the provisions of the peddlers' by-law in Kingston and can only deduce from its knowledge of such by-laws in general. At the outset the offender in question would be liable unless he were in possession of a license. Further, it would manifestly be a peculiar by-law that would protect any man in such a case of deliberate fraud. Judging from the data submitted it would seem that the Kingston grocers have a perfectly clear case if they wish to push it.

WHO WILL BE THE ELECT?

WITH the air full of gossip as to the material Mr. Whitney will select within the next few days for his Cabinet, and several professional gentlemen already singled out as among those likely to have ministerial honors conferred upon them, the business community are naturally anxious that the few of their number who can "qualify" should not be passed over.

The new premier has been given an unusual opportunity to serve the Province of Ontario and serve it well. He will be justified, moreover, in introducing a strong professional element into his Cabinet. At the same time, he ought to bear in mind that the biggest factor in the industrial and commercial expansion of Ontario and Canada for many years to come will be its business men. If he would legislate wisely he should see to it that a fair share of the machinery of government is intrusted to those who are in closest touch with Canadian trade and commerce.

A VIEW OF THE FAILURE RECORD

ACCORDING to Bradstreet's the commercial failures in Canada during the years from 1896 to 1904 were as follows:

		Assets.	Liabilities.
1904	1,177	$4,136,618	$10,018,.99
1903	956	3,852.197	8.328 262
1902	1,092	3,·97,220	8.328,658
1901	1,370	5,196,951	11,656,937
1900	1,333	4,244,932	1 ,786,276
1899	1,285	.....	11,077,891
1898	1,427	.....	9 644,100
1897	1,907	.....	13,147,929
1896	2,179	.....	16,208,460

The increase in 1904 over 1903 was 221 in number, $284,421 in assets and $1,690,037 in liabilities. Over 1902 the increase was 85 in number, $539,398 in assets and $1,689,641 in liabilities. The failures of 1903 were much below the average. In fact, they were the smallest in the Bradstreet's record since 1882, though during the intervening period there has been a large increase in population, and a considerable increase in the number of traders.

Dun's Review in a table of the Canadian failures by branches of business shows the largest adverses in 1904 appeared in general, dry goods, liquor and grocery stores. The following are the figures:

	1904.		1903.		1902.
	No.	Liabilities.	No.	Liabilities.	No.	Liabilities.
General Stores	261	$1,893 250	217	$1,281,194	251	$1,776,190

Even during the past three years the development of the departmental store in city and town can be seen to have swelled the failure list of especially the general stores. It has also tended to reduce the number of the smaller class of merchants not only in the cities and larger towns where it is established, but in the surrounding towns and villages. There is no reason, however, in the record noted above or anything presently developed in the general situation to think that the growth of commercial mortality is on the increase. The report for the last year is hardly of a character to cause general uneasiness. At present we are in a waiting stage. A moderate check was felt in 1904. Until we learn what 1905 will bring forth it is impossible to tell much about the future. If the great staple crops are abundant, the foundation will exist for good times. The important industries in the various sections of the country have complaints, but are generally in a flourishing condition. Banks are loaning freely to legitimate borrowers, which is a healthy indication.

ADVANCE IN JAMS AND JELLIES.

THE abnormally high price of Canadian refined sugar has already been effective in advancing the cost price of several grocery staples. A few days ago manufacturers of confectionery in New Brunswick advanced prices, and their lead has been followed by several of the Ontario candy manufacturers, who say that with sugar at six cents they have no choice but to put up the price of the manufactured product.

This week the jam and jelly makers advanced quotations on all staple lines one-fourth of a cent.

Naturally enough the question suggests itself to the retailer, "Will the price of canned and preserved fruits advance in sympathy with the rest?" The answer is difficult to foresee. If the sugar market continues firm until the 1905 pack there can be little doubt but that prices of canned fruits will be affected. As for the 1904 pack, it is largely out of first hands, which makes a considerable advance between now and the Autumn extremely unlikely.

WHO FIXES THE PRICE OF SEED.

THE statement was recently made by one of the leading Canadian dailies that Toronto seedsmen stood in the unique position of fixing the world's prices on alsike seed, and of being the leading seed exporters in the world.

The reason for making such a sweeping assertion is not apparent, unless it be the desire to "boom" Canada. In any event it is wise for those who would fain wax eloquent over the trade possibilities of Canada to be careful of their premises. It so happens in this particular case that they are partly wrong and partly right. Canada, Germany, and the United States rank as the largest producers of alsike seed in the world, and although Canadian seedsmen have a good deal to say in determining the world's prices, they can hardly claim to control the market absolutely. Some years Canada leads in the production of alsike; in other seasons the yield is larger in Germany or the United States, in which event the ruling price is fixed for Canadian seed exporters, as happened during the year just closed.

FRAUD AND INJURY IN ADULTERATED FOODS.

IN view of the attention now being paid to the question of food preservatives and adulteratives by the Canadian trade, the following generalization in the New York Journal of Commerce of Jan. 25 is particularly timely:

"In the effort to secure legislation and the enforcement of existing laws to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs, or their sale under fraudulent labels, there may have been some magnifying of the poisonous character of various sophisticated articles and of the injury to health that results from their use, but it is not safe to give too much credence to the plea that adulteration is in most cases harmless and that it has the merit of cheapness.

"The ground is sometimes taken, for instance, that there is no proof of injury to health from the consumption of peas colored with sulphate of copper, or articles preserved with boric acid, or fruit jams and jellies made of vegetables and glucose and variously dyed, because there is no record of deaths caused by them. But injury to health and impairment of nutrition are quite a different matter from homicide. We can hardly be expected to wait until articles of food pronounced by science to be unwholesome, deleterious or lacking in the nutrition they purport to have, are known to be killing people before prohibiting their sale or requiring their true character to be disclosed to consumers. It is not easy to say what causes the large proportion of premature deaths that occur every day, but unwholesome and injurious food contributes largely to the list. Neither is it easy to trace the multitudinous ills that impair strength and undermine the health of people to their causes, but we may be sure that impure and adulterated foods, drinks and drugs are among them.

"If chemical and medical science tells us that certain common adulterations of food are deleterious to health, that is reason enough for restraining their manufacture and sale and for compelling those who purvey such articles to let their customers know what they are getting, without having specific proof of the injury done in individual cases or of deaths caused by their use. If they are in their character and quality injurious to health, there can be no doubt that they are injuring the health of a large proportion of those who consume them, and that is a matter of public concern. Nor is it logical to say that the enforcement of laws intended to prevent this insidious undermining of the public health should be in the hands of a "hard-headed business man" instead of a scientific expert. The purpose of such laws is preventive, and to be effective they must take cognizance of the character and quality of the articles sold for food and the effects they must produce, and not wait for empirical proof that the harm has been done in particular instances.

"Another position contended for which can hardly be conceded is that it is not a function of public authority to afford protection against fraud and deception as well as against injury to health, the reference being to the labeling of food products. The health of the people, however, may be protected by labeling goods, if the labels show what the 'goods' are and tell whether or not they contain deleterious matter. Moreover, the people have a right to protection from fraud. They have a right to know what they are buying and paying for, when it is so disguised or packed as to conceal its character. It may be that many adulterations and imitations or falsely-labeled articles are not injurious or unwholesome and are cheaper than the genuine. Very well, let them be sold honestly and for what they are. Let those who cannot afford better and are willing to take these know what they are getting. Fraud and false pretense are no more respectable in a grocery store or an apothecary shop than anywhere else, and where they affect the food and medicine of the people they are proper subjects for legal repression."

THE PRICE OF TOMATOES.

Mr. Owen, of the Bloomfield Canning Co., was a caller at the Toronto offices of The Canadian Grocer during the week. Naturally enough conversation was directed to the recent action of the tomato growers of the Hamilton and Niagara districts in "holding up" the canners for 30c. a bushel for tomatoes instead of 25c. as heretofore. Mr. Owen says that if the growers hold together they may succeed in bringing the canners to time for the present at any rate. Their action will undoubtedly have the effect of forcing the canners to take up the cultivation of vegetables on their own account.

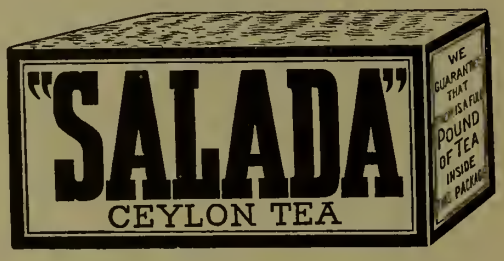
At this juncture a comparison between prices paid for raw material by canners in Canada and the United States is interesting. Canadian canners pay on the average 7c. a bushel more for tomatoes than their American cousins, which means that the contention of the Ontario growers that tomato growing is unprofitable at the present prices must be taken with a grain of salt. The canning factories here, moreover, would not object so much to paying 30c. for tomatoes if they could only secure suitable supplies; if the growers want a better price, about the quickest way to get it is to pay more attention to quality.

CANADIAN TRADE IN 1904.

THE annual report of the Trade and Commerce Department of Ottawa shows that for the fiscal year 1904 there was an increase of nearly $18,000,000 in the imports and a falling off in exports of over $12,000,000, leaving a net gain of nearly $6,000,000.

The increase in imports during the year has been general on all important articles, notably among them, coal, coke, etc., to the extent of about $4,640,000, sugar and molasses nearly $2,300,000; tea, $1,222,000; wood and manufacture of, $200,000; wool and manufacture of, over $1,700,000; electrical apparatus, nearly $800,000.

During the year there was an increase in the imports from British Guiana and the British West Indies aggregating $4,500,000 in round numbers. This has practically all occurred in the imports and is covered by the item sugar, where the increase from British Guiana has exceeded $1,600,000, and, from the British West Indies, $2,700,000 or a total of some $4,370,000 on the other hand the imports from Germany of sugar fell off from $3,116,741 in 1903 to $368,717 in 1904.



On the other hand the decrease in exports amounted to over $1,600,000 on animals (living); over $10,800,000 on breadstuffs, wheat; over $1,000,000 on fish; over $4,000,000 on provisions; over $3,000,000 on wood, unmanufactured. There has, however, been an increase in the exports of minor articles aggregating nearly $8,500,000, leaving a net total decrease of $12,328,489. Nearly the whole net decrease is attributed to the one item, wheat. The production for export in Manitoba and the Northwest was considerably less than in the previous year, the quantity inspected at Winnipeg being but 40,400,000 bushels, as against nearly 52,000,000 the previous year, indicating that practically the same proportionate quantity to that produced was inspected as in the year 1902. The great influx of immigration into the Northwest and the increased acreage prepared for the coming year's crop would naturally account for the holding back of a larger quantity for consumption and seed than was the case in the previous year, reducing to that extent the quantity available for export.

It might be interesting to note that the total increase in the aggregate trade of the country for the twenty years from 1873 to 1893 was a little less than $30,000,000, while for the eleven years since 1893 the increase has exceeded $225,000,000.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, Feb. 2, 1905.

Groceries.

BUSINESS among the jobbing trade is reported as being fairly satisfactory. In spite of the heavy roads and severe storms that have prevailed during the past week or ten days, travelers' orders are fairly numerous and for good amounts. One jobber states that the month of January has turned out better than the previous three Januarys. Collections also are reported as being fair. The sugar market continues unchanged and firm. Beet is reported somewhat easier abroad, but not sufficient to warrant any changes by local refiners. Teas are quiet. The demand for Ceylon greens is fair. Some offers for round lots of Ceylon greens have been declined. Coffee is in somewhat better demand locally and a general firmness of the New York and foneign markets has a tendency to conserve present prices. Spices generally show an easier tendency, with business only fair. Molasses and syrups are both firm. The report of the short crop from the islands has made holders of what little stock there is here firm and indisposed to sell. Canned goods are unchanged with somewhat better demand, corn being more freely inquired for. The foreign dried fruit market is very quiet. Some little trading has been done in Valencias and stocks are reported generally short. California fruits are firm and prices well maintained. The fish business is improving and dealers look forward to a larger volume after February 1st. Frozen fish are meeting with ready sale and the continued cold weather is favorable to good business. Green fruits generally are dull and little business going. No change in rice. Nuts are reported as about 10 per cent. higher for some grades, though little business is being transacted. Flour shows no new feature this week. Business is small, with the undertone of the market firm. Feed is unchanged. In rolled oats an unsettled feeling seems to prvail, owing to the fact that American rolled oats are coming on the market, despite the duty and freight. Hay is easier, owing to good supplies. No change in local provision market. Business is up to the average. Dressed hogs are decidedly stronger, with supplies light. No change in cheese and business quiet: holders do not seem disposed to make any concessions. Butter maintains its firm tone. Eggs are coming in slowly and prices are firmer in consequence. Owing to the limited offerings of potatoes, the market is firm and prices looking up. Beans are decidedly stronger, and an advance is noted. Evaporated apples are very strong. Stocks are very short indeed, which is explained by the fact that the combine has restricted production this year. An opportunity for the old style of dried apples is now open, and although no firm figures have been made, 4 1-2 to 5c is the general idea on these goods. Maple products have been in somewhat better demand during the week. Honey is quiet and hops are unchanged.

SUGAR.

There is no change to report this week in sugar prices. The market though somewhat easier abroad for beet, has been unchanged on the local market. New York still maintains its firm tone. The demand from the trade has only been fair. Buyers in the west have apparently taken advantage of the rising market some time ago and stocked themselves with fair supplies.

TEA.

Business generally is on the quiet side, and the situation unchanged from last week's report. Stocks are apparently not heavy, but holders have shown a little more willingness to sell. The demand for Ceylon greens seems to be fair, and in fact of the low price of Japans, are holding their own. A firmness in London and Ceylon apparently obtains, as several offers by jobbers for round lots have been refused. China blacks are showing a little more interest. Generally speaking business is on the quiet side. Some little inquiry has been made for China greens, though trading is light.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The market is very firm for both molasses and syrups, though no change in prices are noticed this week. Stocks of Barbadoes are very light and holders disinclined to sell. Refineries would take all available at even the present strong figures, but holders will not sell. Corn syrups are being asked for more freely, in view of the high prices in molasses. Glucose is reported somewhat easier.

Canned goods are commencing to be in better demand. Corn is being inquired for more freely. Foreign Dried Fruits.

The market generally is quiet. There has been more or less demand for Valencia raisins and some good selling has been done since the last issue. Indications are that there will be a short supply of dried fruits, and it is expected that the low prices at present ruling will not continue, stocks being none too large in this market. There is a scarcity of California fruits and prices of same are well maintained. Currants unchanged and no recent advices from Patras at hand.

Green Fruits.

The fruit trade report things as very quiet. Florida oranges and other fruits are expected to advance on account of the unfavorable weather and frost of the past week. In fact from some quarters it is reported that the crop is seriously damaged. On Monday two cars of California navels were sold at prices ranging from $2.25 to $2.80. A thousand boxes of Sorrento oranges brought $1.55 to $1.90. Several cards of xxx apples sold at auction, at prices ranging from $2.25 to $3; xx from $1.75 to $2. Trade for Jamaica oranges has been in poor demand during the past week.

Fish.

Business is improving and fish dealers look for a much larger volume of business after the 1st inst. Frozen fish are meeting with ready sale, owing to the continued favorable cold weather. There is also a good demand for smoked fish, especially haddies. Frozen herring are scarce with prices tending towards an advance. In salt fish the demand is quiet, as is usual during January, but these conditions will change after the 1st inst. Oysters are quiet and little business turning.

Country Produce.

BEANS.

There is a better and stronger feeling in beans during the week and prices have advanced to $1.50 for prime, handpicked for car load lots, and $1.65 for small quantities.

EVAPORATED APPLES.

These are getting very interesting and prices are advancing. Stocks last year at this time were over 90,000 cases, while at present there are only about 8,000 cases available. This shortage is attributed to the fact that the combine has restricted production. This position has caused some inquiries for the old style dried apples, but on account of the unknown quantity available for these, prices are merely nominal, from 4 1-2 to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.

There has been a somewhat better demand this week for maple sugar and several fair sized lots were sold at 6 1-2c. Syrups unchanged.

Flour and Feed.

FLOUR.

There are no new features to report this week in the local flour situation. There has been little or no cutting of prices, due, no doubt, to the comparatively small business and the quiet position of the market as a whole. The demand for Ontario grades of flour has been somewhat limited, though the undertone is firm.

ROLLED OATS.

Business during the week has been quiet. An unsettled feeling has prevailed, due, no doubt, to the fact that American rolled oats are coming in, and this in spite of the duty and freight. Not enough, however, has been imported to make any noticeable change in quotations.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, Feb. 2, 1905.

Groceries.

NOW that the Provincial elections are over, trade has settled down to its ordinary routine. Wholesalers report business as fair to good, it always having to be borne in mind that this season of the year is always a quiet one. Sugar continues firm; earlier in the week the bect market showed signs of weakness, and some slight fluctuations were reported. Since then, however, there has been an improvement and sugar may he said to have quite recovered its former strength. The demand for sugar, which is usually light at this season of the year, is more active than might be expected. In view of the high price of sugar, the manufacturers have advanced the price of jams and jellies ½c. per lb.

Canned goods are moving freely, especially vegetables. On account of shortage of European fruit crops and the consequent improvement in export demand, the price of canned apples has been advanced. The Canadian canners report that supplies of fruit and vegetables are getting low, and that a large number of lines are already out of first hands.

Coffee is firm and quiet; teas are moving fairly well, cable advices from Calcutta recording a farthing advance in Ceylon and India teas. A slight advance is noted in Penang cloves and pepper, as well as a decline in nutmegs. Tapioca continues firm and high. Late shipments of Mediterranean fruit have arrived and the trade are quoting Valencia raisins a shade lower. Evaporated apricots and peaches are firm and high. The most active inquiry as usual in February, March and April is for prunes. A slight advance is noted in Valencia shelled almonds. Evaporated apples are very firm and quoted this week ½c. higher.

New French olive oil was probably ready for shipment about Feb. 1; the marketing of this will probably mark the taking effect of an advance of from 15 to 20 per cent., due to the scarcity of good oil on account of the partial failure of the crop.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade in canned goods continues extraordinarily brisk considering the season of the year. Canned vegetables are moving freely, while the situation in canned fruits is beginning to show decided improvement. There is a shortage in tomatoes, and importations from the United States are frequent; imported goods, however, are comparatively inferior, only the cheapest brands being available on account of the high rate of duty. These goods are used mostly in the Northwest.

The meeting of Hamilton and Niagara district tomato growers last week, when a determined stand to charge 30c per bush. for tomatoes for canning purposes, is of particular interest to the grocery trade at the present juncture. The canners have been paying 25c., which the growers contend is an unprofitable one for them. If the growers press their claims, the canners may have to grow their own tomatoes; it is hinted in certain quarters that canned tomatoes are too near the export margin now to warrant the canners in paying more.

Owing to the export demand , and shortage in foreign markets, the price of gallon apples has been advanced 10c. per doz. The Canadian Canners report that stocks of fruit and vegetables are exceptionally low for this time of year, and that supplies of the following varieties have been exhausted: asparagus tips 2's, crystal wax beans 2's, golden waxed beans 1's and 2's, refugee beans 1's, corned beef and roast beef 6's and 14's, blueberries standard gallon, corn 1's and 2's, all red currants in gallons, black currants in standard gallons, red cherries 2's not pitted, gooseberries 2's in gallons, grapes 2½'s and 3's, lawtonberries gallons, damson plums 2's light syrup, damson plums 2½'s and 3's heavy syrup, Lombard plums 2's light syrup and 2½'s heavy syrup, green gage plums 2½'s heavy syrup, egg plums 2½'s and 3's heavy syrup, peaches 2½'s white and 1½'s yellow, pines 2's and 3's, gallon pumpkin, black raspberries 2's, red raspberries gallons, prescrved rhubarb 2's and tomatoes 3's and gallons.

Several bargains were picked up during the week in canned strawberries by the wholesale trade. Manufacturers have advanced the price of jams and jellies ½c. per lb. on account of the high price of sugar. We quote the following prices:

SUGAR.

The sugar market has been in a nervous state during the week under review. Earlier in the week there was a decline in the price of beets in Europe to 15s. 3¾d., which afterwards recovered to 16s. 3¾d. and eased again to 15s. 9¾d. The parity of beet in New York to-day is 5.40, duty paid. Centrifugals are quoted at 5¼c., recent sales having been effected at that price. Buyers' ideas are 5⅛c., but sellers are indifferent.

In refined, there are no changes to report locally, and sugar at the present time is moving only fairly well.

Receipts at U.S. 4 ports for the week ending Jan. 25, 1905, were 37,500 tons, with meltings 30,000 tons, the same as last week, leaving total stock in all hands of 84,357 tons, an increase for the week of 7,500 tons.

Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,755,857 tons against 3,723,868 tons last year at the same uneven date, and a decrease for the week of 968,011 tons. Total stocks and afloats together show a visible supply of 2,866,857 tons against 3,868,868 tons last year.

An active movement in syrups and molasses is reported for the week, at prices quoted below. New crop New Orleans is beginning to arrive on this market and is showing exceptionally good value. New Barbadoes is expected almost at any time; the opening price of Barbadoes and West Indian molasses will undoubtedly be much higher this year than last owing to shortage of crop. TEAS.

Although the tea trade for the week can hardly be said to be brisk, a fair volume of business has been transacted. The Ceylon and Indian markets are looking up, cable advices this week recording an advance of one farthing all round. The advice goes on to say that supplies are diminishing and a firmer market is expected. At the present time the average price of Indian and Ceylon tea is nearly 1d. below what it was a year ago, while the prices of some of the lower grades show an even greater difference than this. The exceptionally good value now offering ought to be sufficient to induce further buying.

In London, teas are correspondingly cheap and moving fairly well. Our quotations are as follows:

The arrival of late shipments of Valencia raisins was reported during the week and as a result this article is being quoted slightly lower to the trade. Sellers in primary markets, however, are still firm in their pretensions. The market is practically bare of evaporated peaches and apricots; supplies at the coast are difficult to obtain and the price almost prohibitive at present. A lively movement is reported in prunes, this being the beginning of the season of largest consumption. Our quotations are as follows:

FOREIGN NUTS.

Valencia shelled almonds have advanced slightly in Malaga owing to the rapidly declining rate of exchange and the fact that the crop is nearly exhausted.

A better demand is current for peanuts and a fair amount of assorted orders have been received during the week. Prices remain unchanged. We quote:

DRIED FISH.

A fair movement in dried fish is reported for the week at unchanged prices. A British Columbian has been exploiting the Ontario market for smoked salmon, cod, etc., but as yet it is a question whether the new varieties will be placed to any extent. We quote the following prices:

Boneless fish, per lb.		0 04

EVAPORATED APPLES.

The evaporated apple market continues firm at 6 1-2 to 7c. Although comparatively little is moving, the market is in the hands of a few of the large dealers who control prices absolutely. Dried apples are quoted at 4c.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

The continuation of mild weather has caused freer arrivals of new laid eggs, and holders of cold storage and pickled stock, fearing a surplus, have dropped prices 1c per dozen. A number of eggs classed "held fresh" are arriving as new laid and when the commission merchant cannot obtain for them the price paid for new laid eggs dissatisfaction arises between the shipper and the commission merchant. The future market depends entirely upon the weather. Our quotations are as follows:

Eggs, strictly new laid.....		0 23

BEANS.

Prices quoted below are firm. Owing to the increase in exports to France, Germany, and England, stocks on the local market are light. Some dealers claim it is a problem to obtain enough cars of beans to supply the local wholesale houses and it is thought that the holders are not anxious to sell their stock, which is small, in the expectation that a higher price will rule in a few days. We quote:

Beans, handpicked, per bush.....	1 55	1 60

HONEY.

A normal amount of honey is being sold. Nothing new has developed during the week and the outlook is for a quiet market until the buying season begins. Prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

" sections, No 1, per doz.....	1 90	2 25

SEEDS.

Unless foreign buyers waken up at once, the export trade which is rapidly drawing to a close, is liable to be far behind that of former years. Much depends upon the demand of the next two weeks. Offerings up-to-date have been light and it is feared that when farmers learn that the export season has closed they will glut the market. Prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 50	5 50
Red clover.....	5 00	6 75
Mammoth clover, per bush	6 00	7 25
Timothy.....	1 00	1 35

Green Fruits.

Mild weather has brought about a freer movement of fruit. The improvement in the size of orders is quite noticeable, implying that trade is rallying once more to its former position. California navel oranges are easier. A large number of cars are on track owing to the fact that the usual diverting points throughout Ontario are glutted.

Trade in Florida fruit is active owing to the heavy frosts in that country recently. Grape fruit and oranges will advance in price as no more shipments are expected this season. Recent consignments of navel oranges received have been affected by frost. Lemons are arriving in large quantities. An active demand is in progress and sales are quickly transacted, a good price being obtained. A few Almeria grapes are arriving in choice condition. Marmalade oranges have arrived on the market and are selling at $2.50 per box. The weak demand for figs has caused another decline of 1-2c per lb. Our quotations are:

The following cable has been received by Eben James, Toronto, from Woodall & Co., Liverpool, dated January 30, 1905: "18,000 bbls selling. Market very flat except for sound fruit. From present indications it would appear that American apples are netting lower prices than ours, which should result in diverting the demand from American to Canadian apples.

Vegetables.

With the exception of the regular sale of domestic stock in bulk, trade is quiet. Florida head lettuce has arrived in the market and is selling in half barrel hampers at $1.75; California celery is in good demand, and dealers are laying in large stocks in expectation of a brisk trade. We quote:

GRAIN.

A strong demand for oats has sprung up in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and as a result, prices have advanced 2½c. per bushel. A decline of ½c. per bushel is noted on Nos. 1 and 2 Manitoba Northern wheat. With these two exceptions, prices and conditions continue unchanged. Our quotations are as follows:

BREAKFAST FOODS.

Rolled oats and oatmeal are very firm owing to the advanced price of oats, but on account of the keen competition from the American millers no advance in price is expected to take place. American oatmeal has the better sale in Toronto and surrounding district owing to the price being lower than that of the Canadian product. Cereals requiring preparation before using are receiving better inquiry. Our quotations are:

London sales of hides have closed with quotations firm at opening prices, although there were several instances where prices were lower during the sale. The East India sales which were conducted at Liverpool have closed with the opening prices ruling. Tanners on the Chicago market are quoting a lower price on hides, and although they show no desire to purchase, holders will not sell until they obtain their own prices. Tallow is quiet and a decline of ¼c. is noted this week. Our quotations are:

TRADE CONDITIONS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Special Correspondence of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 26, 1905.

TO supply the Tanana mining district in northern Alaska, it is necessary to have goods shipped to Fairbanks, the principal camp, via the Yukon River from Dawson and thence up the Tanana. This trade has been growing very rapidly during the past two seasons, and nearly all of it has been secured by the wholesale houses of Dawson. To facilitate trade efforts have been made to secure the establishment of a sub-port of customs at Fairbanks, by the U. S. customs authorities. Word comes from Washington that such a move is not likely to be made and that it is opposed by the Northern Commercial Co., one of the big companies doing business in the north. It is an American concern, though having a large establishment in Dawson. As the creation of a sub-port at Fairbanks would make it possible for Canadian steamers to traffic from Dawson, the N. C. Co. operating a large fleet of river steamers of United States register, on the Lower Yukon, naturally opposes, as it leaves a monopoly in its hands, of the transportation. Dawson being a Canadian customs port, United States registered vessels of the N. C. Co. may enter and clear there, and of course can go to Fairbanks which is in United States territory.

The very greatest of the many important moves in opening up of the fruit-growing areas of the famed Okanagan district is that just completed or brought to successful issue by the Messrs. Shatford. This deal, involving a transfer of property covering over 35,000 acres, in one of the most favored districts of the interior of the province, is on a financial basis ensuring success, as the gentlemen negotiating it have ample backing. The amount involved in the transfer has not been definitely stated to the public, but it is understood to overrun $400,000.

The properties known as the Ellis ranches, are located at and near Penticton at the extreme south end of Okanagan Lake, and are to be divided into small plots of ten acres, and some larger, as the conditions favor. This will be put on the market as soon as surveyed, and such is the demand that already many people have made a payment on sites selected before survey, and which will be reserved for them. The large number of prosperous Manitoba farmers desiring to make homes in the milder climate of British Columbia, ensures a rapid settlement of the new location. Many of these Manitobans, attracted by excursion rates given by the C.P.R. have been visiting the Okanagan district and in nearly every case, the visit has resulted in the decision to purchase land and return to settle and engage in fruit-growing, as soon as a disposal can be made of property on the prairie. As all of these men have accumulated an independence at farming in Manitoba, they are in position to make a fair start in British Columbia where conditions differ greatly, and capital to start is absolutely necessary.

To the visitors from the colder climate of Manitoba and the Northwest, it is simply marvelous to find that instead of forty below, the weather seldom is so severe as to make the mercury drop below zero. When it does, it is not for long, and not often more than once in a Winter. At the present moment, there is but slight snow at all points on Okanagan Lake, and thawing weather is the rule instead of frost. Those who have lived there for some time assert that it is better to have it a little colder than it has been this season. At Armstrong and Enderby on the branch line of railway leading south to Okanagan Lake the snow is a little more in evidence, but only just enough for sleighing, while thawing every day is the rule there as well.

The wonderful success of the efforts being made to grow all kinds of fruit, from grapes and peaches to apples has stimulated efforts to establish canning industries. At the present moment, Mr. J. M. Robinson, who deserves credit for having been the pioneer in opening up this district, by placing small acreages on the market, is in Montreal to interest capital in putting up a $100,000 fruit and vegetable cannery to serve the two settlements of Peachland and Summerland on the southwestern shore of Okanagan Lake, in both of which he is interested. The surplus of such fruits as peaches, and vegetables as tomatoes already warrants the building of a cannery, and the industry is but in its infancy. Nearly a hundred thousand fruit trees are set out in the peachland settlement alone. Of these hardly more than ten per cent. have been old enough to bear yet, but every year they are coming in, and every year the number of trees planted is increasing, till it will not be long before there will be hundreds of thousands of bearing fruit trees. The acreage already brought under cultivation even in this one settlement, now approaching its sixth year, is very small compared to what is available. But rapid progress is being made, and the acreage cultivated is increasing enormously.

The marketing of fruit from the Okanagan has shown a gratifying increase in the past season. The shipments of apples from Vernon and Kelowna, the principal shipping points as yet, are increasing, while other points, notably Peachland, towards the southern end of the lake, will soon be a considerable factor. At the latter point peach-growing is bound to be a valuable industry, and there is practically no limit to the quantity possible to be produced. The season of 1904 was the first, practically, in which peaches in any quantity were marketed, but the results were remarkable. The crop was large and of finest quality. Orchards set out but four years ago had splendid crops. Others are coming into bearing next season. Grapes also are being cultivated and promise great results. The apples from older orchards at Peachland are unexcelled anywhere.

At a meeting of the British Columbia Wholesale Grocers Exchange held in Vancouver on Saturday last, a resolution was passed setting forth the views of the wholesale men respecting the present Assessment Act, and suggesting amendments which would remove the handicap under which the trade now labors. Some of the difficulties set in the way of local enterprise have been adverted to in a former letter. The Wholesale Grocers Exchange also endorsed the request for a duty on lumber, which is now being pressed at Ottawa.

The attention being given to fruit-raising in all parts of the province is leading to considerable discussion as to the advantageous disposal of the surplus over what can be consumed in the province and shipped out in the fresh condition. As mentioned a week ago, New Westminster is taking active steps to make the establishment of a fruit cannery there a success, in the interests of the Fraser Valley. Above, reference is made to the efforts to establish a similar industry on a large scale in the Okanagan, and at the same time the Victoria Fruit Growers' Association has been taking up the same matter at their recent annual meeting. It was stated there that the association had a number of propositions for such an establishment, and reports are to be made shortly.

Another matter taken up by the Victoria fruit growers, was that of a second fruit inspector under the Dominion Fruit Marks Act. The ground upon which this is to be urged is that a large number of districts on Vancouver Island and adjacent islands market a large quantity of fruit which is bought in Victoria and shipped out to a considerable extent, with no marking or grading at all. It is impossible for one inspector to cover the whole province, so the association claims. Hence they have sent a strong resolution to the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Sydney Fisher, asking for the appointment of an inspector with headquarters at Victoria.

Steamer Athenian of the C.P.R. Oriental service reached Victoria and Vancouver on the 22nd, with a large cargo, mainly of rice and tea for shipment to eastern points.

Steamer Miowera of the Canadian-Australian line, reached port on Saturday last. She brought 499 boxes of butter consigned to local wholesalers, 35 cases of arrowroot, 129 sacks of grass seed, 100 bales of fodder from Australia, 300 tons of raw sugar from Fiji for the B. C. Sugar Refinery, and a large quantity of general cargo, including 1,500 bales of wool, and 700 bales of hemp.

An interesting banquet of local manufacturers was held in Victoria on Friday evening last, the object being to foster a spirit of mutual support and friendliness between local institutions, and to advance their interests in opposition to outside competition. "Encourage Home Industry" was the motto. The claim was put forward by one of the speakers that Victoria had more manufacturers than all the rest of the province, if the lumber industry were excepted. The banquet was largely attended, and the menu served was unique, everything being of local production. There were on the list: Cowichan mutton, Island turkey, Sooke oysters, Saanich vegetables, etc., while the liquid refreshment was Victoria brand as well.

LAST MINUTE MANITOBA MARKETS.

Just as we go to press, word is received that the B. C. Refinery has reduced all refined sugars 30c. from list of Jan. 19, for all points between Danmore and the British Columbia boundary.

OLD TRAVELER DEAD.

The Canadian Grocer regrets to chronicle in this week's issue the demise of Mr. W. L. Hunter, one of Canada's veteran traveling men, which occurred in Toronto on Jan. 22.

Mr. Hunter represented some of the largest wholesale grocers of Canada, including J. W. Lang & Co., Davidson & Hay, Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, and Chaput, Fils & Cie., of Montreal, whom he represented for the last two years. He was a prominent member of the Commercial Travelers' Association, the Sons of England (Surrey Lodge) and the '66 Veterans, being the youngest member in the Q.O.R. serving in the Fenian Raid.

He leaves a widow and five daughters, Amy, Lulu and Edith at home, Mrs. H. G. Rawlinson and Mrs. A. E. Mills.

WHAT WE HEAR.

Holbrooks, Limited, of Birmingham, England, are making excellent progress with their goods in Toronto, and although hardly two weeks have elapsed since their representative, H. Gilbert Nobbs, arrived in the city, their brand of Worcestershire sauce is already to be found in many of the leading grocery stores.

Holbrooks are to be congratulated upon the smart appearance of the sample bottles which they are distributing from house to house throughout the city. The Canadian Grocer wishes them a large measure of the success that has already attended them in the other large markets of the world.

HAMILTON GROCER DEAD.

A cable has been received from Mentone, France, announcing the death of Mr. F. B. Greening, of the firm of Bickle & Greening, grocery brokers, Hamilton. Mr. Greening had been sojourning in France for some time for the benefit of his health, and the news of his sudden death will come as a shock to many friends throughout the Canadian trade.

CONFIDENCE AS AN ASSET

By Frank L. Odell.

THE great invisible force in commercial life to-day, which until recently has not received the consideration its importance demands, is to the mind of the writer what is commonly known as confidence.

We may think that we have confidence and trust in our business neighbors, advisers, customers, and in those with whom we come in contact in a business and social way, but if we stop to consider we will find if it does actually exist the recipient has created it by his acts, transactions and associations and not through words expressed.

A person can oppose us: he may regard matters in an entirely different light; yet his actions may develop to our satisfaction that he conscientiously believes what he advocates, and if such is the case we cannot help but respect his opinions.

Many of our great thinkers have viewed matters in advance of their time and the world has stamped them as fanatics; but they persisted in their belief, and how often do we find that they were right and realize that they had studied the question from all sides and naturally were able to express an opinion in advance of us who had erred in our hasty expressions, which were based upon what we had heard and not upon what we knew from an intimate knowledge of the question.

A man who in this manner proves to us our error creates in us a confidence which only the most overt acts can change. We should not judge hastily, or think ourselves possessed of more knowledge in reference to a subject than any one else, for we are likely to find, although we may be as familiar with the subject as any one else, they may know something of which we are not aware, and we may be in possession of facts which they have not learned, whereby the exchange of views will prove beneficial to both.

It does not take a trained mind to discover the influence which confidence has upon the public. We find without any apparent reason or without radical views expressed by either of the great political parties in this country that the approach of a political campaign with its problematical results produces depression and uncertainty in business circles. The same is the case when any change of policy is contemplated or believed to be under consideration, however advisable it may prove to be. We know the influence which the failure of a large financial institution has upon houses engaged in kindred lines, although their solvency and ability to carry out their contracts is not questioned. The same is the case when a commercial house is forced into bankruptcy, it creates a lack of confidence in trade circles which it takes time to overcome. This places the banker, merchant and credit man on the alert and he becomes more diligent and careful regarding those with whom he forms his business connections.

There is no one more susceptible to the influence of confidence than the credit man, who is daily brought face to face with all phases of duplicity and evasion of the solvency laws. Too many small debtors of to-day fail to appreciate what influence confidence has in the formation of a basis for credit. If the creation of confidence was encouraged by them there would be no need for laws which at present work a hardship to many small merchants who are struggling along, denying themselves, endeavoring to build up a business which in the future will place them in an independent position. The honesty of such men in many cases is a more substantial asset than the capital of the merchant regarded as money good. and law honest who endeavors to evade the law and delay the payment of accounts whenever an opportunity affords.

Honesty as the best policy is too often forgotten in the present day, but he who takes it into consideration is bound to succeed if he but perseveres. Bad faith, deception and insincerity can never be covered by flowery words or smiling professions to the contrary, for our acts are bound to belie our words, and to-day a person is judged by what he does and is and not by what he assumes to be.

The world is a severe, but, in most cases, a just, critic. We can never deceive ourselves, and in the long run of life we are unable to deceive the world, for sooner or later the truth will out.

The merchant and banker of to-day do not sufficiently encourage the efforts of those who live a business life which entitles them to the confidence of those with whom they have connections. A breach of faith, a wrong deed is severely criticized, and justly so, but the honorable act passes unnoticed. Why should it not receive the commendation it warrants? A little more display of gratitude and appreciation would prove a mighty factor in producing and encouraging meritorious efforts.

Young men cannot cultivate a more lasting or substantial asset than the confidence of those with whom they are associated, or make an investment which in the future will pay a better dividend.

Too many follow the instructions of the grasping old parent to his son when he entered the business world, "Get money—honestly if you can; but get it," and follow the spirit of the words uttered in jocularity, but wisely applicable, to "do others before they have the opportunity of doing you." Our great cities possess sections the environments of which seem to be productive of criminals. The people of these sections believe that no one has confidence in them, there is nothing for them to gain; they become reckless, care not what they do and usually reap the harvest of their deeds. This can be attributed to a lack of ambition and aspiration and of confidence in their ability to command the respect and confidence of their fellowmen, whose position in life they would strive to attain. Our educational system has overcome this to some extent, and produced a confidence within the individual. Hence, we find to-day the most modest sections developing masterminds who are destined to be a power for good in the future.

The confidence of our merchants is daily shaken by fakirs with schemes whereby they promise to give most anything for a nominal remuneration. This class of commercial sharks creates a lack of confidence and untold annoyance and handicaps those doing a legitimate business who can offer so little in comparison with the others' ideal, but never materializing propositions. Let us constantly make deposits in the world's bank of honesty, straightforwardness, sincerity, honorable deeds, and destroy all checks of bad faith, deception and hypocrisy, in this way cultivate and accumulate a fortune of confidence, which reverses, produced by conditions over which we have no control, can never affect; and the credit based upon such a capital will never be reduced unless we forfeit it ourselves.

I, Mr. G. R. Small, of the Canada Maple Exchange, do emphatically state that I will not comment on claim put forth by certain Syrup Company that ½ the maple syrup sold bears their trade mark, but will plank down dry figures and facts. Sweeping claims may do for fairy tale books, but we think figures more appropriate for trade journals. 1st. Small's Brand, monogram mounted on maple leaf, was registered in 1881, the oldest registered maple syrup trade mark in the British Empire. 2nd. Small's Brand has been awarded with but one exception, all Gold and Silver Medals ever offered in Canada, and many from abroad. 3rd. Telfer Bros., Winnipeg, (Wholesale) took in month of January 1903, 22 cases Small's Brand; in January, 1904, 355 cases, and in January, 1905, took 1,072 cases, or over 4 cars. Wm. Maitland & Co., St. Peter Street, Montreal (retail) in 1903 sold 1,428 packages, and in 1904, 2,614 packages. Small's maple confections are equally received. C. P. R. News Agency in 1903 sold 14,640 packages, and in 1904, 17,988. Montreal theatres in 1903 sold 14,640, and in 1904—well, listen ! " We recently tried to shove in a few new lines for a change ; but it won't go. The people demand Small's—therefore we are practically handling nothing else."—E. Danforth, Theatre Francais. Now, if there are grocers stemming the tide, trying to force on new or questionable private brands, it's not our business. Ours is, as it has been for past 55 years, to turn out maple goods only, with our guarantee and certificate of purity from government analyst on every package—that's all ! !

May be had through wholesale trade everywhere. Price list of complete or particular lines free.

HOW TO DO BUSINESS IN THE WEST INDIES.

The Canadian Grocer is in receipt of the following letter from Pickford & Black, steamship owners and agents, Halifax, referring to West Indian trade, in which a valuable suggestion is offered to Canadian exporters:

Editor Canadian Grocer,—The article in The Grocer of Jan. 20, on "Our Trade with the West Indies," is good reading. Still we differ a little in one item of your article. The proper way to work the West Indian business is to have an exportation company at the point of shipment which would carry in stock all lines of Canadian goods required by the West Indian trade. This trade could thus be handled very economically, necessitating only one traveler instead of half a dozen, and the goods could be shipped promptly on receipt of orders.

(Signed) Pickford & Black.

SUGAR PRICES IN 1904.

WILLETT & GREY, reviewing the year 1904 in their Weekly Statistical Sugar Trade Journal, say: "The year opened with granulated sugar at 4.36 cents per pound, declined to 4.26 cents per pound in February, and with fluctuations of 5 cents to 10 cents per 100 pounds, from time to time, the quotations steadily advanced to the end of the year, when granulated closed at 5.60 cents per pound. The average price of granulated for 1904 was 4.772 cents per pound, against 4.638 cents per pound in 1903, a gain of .134 cent per pound in refined sugars, against a gain of .254 cent per pound in raw sugars. The average difference between raw and refined in 1904 was .798 cent per pound, against .918 cent per pound in 1903, a decrease of .12 cent per pound in refiners' returns for the year.

"The average price of granulated in 1902 was 4.455 cents per pound; in 1901 it was 5.05 cents per pound and in 1900 5.32 cents per pound. The average price of granulated for ten years has been 4.731 cents per pound. The average difference, centrifugals and granulated, for ten years has been .836 cent per pound.

"Refined business for 1905 will be done on a different basis than in 1904, inasmuch as the former contract business has been done away with and the guarantee of prices is also abandoned, placing the business on a cash basis at the refinery door."

Concerning the raw-sugar market they say: "The year opened with centrifugal sugar 96 test (the standard for raw sugar) at 3.47 cents per pound, declining at the end of January to 3.31 cents per pound, which was the lowest point of the year, and within .06 cent of the low price for a long series of years. From February throughout the year prices steadily advanced with only slight reactions, closing the year at 4 7-8 cents per pound. The average price of centrifugals for the year 1904 was 3.974 cents per pound, against 3.72 cents per pound in 1903 and 3.546 cents per pound in 1902. The year 1904 shows an increased valuation of .254 cent per pound for raw sugars. The average price for ten years has been 3.89 cents per pound duty paid.

"The influence of the Cuban reciprocity treaty has been in 1904 to maintain the price of centrifugal sugars below the parity of beet sugars in European markets, with the exception of a short time in the months of August and September, when Cuban centrifugals and foreign beet sugars were quoted at the same parity. Thus it appears that while the general advance in the price of sugar throughout the world has given the Cuban planter large returns for his crop, he has not obtained the full benefit of the reduced duties, mainly for the reason that he has not asked it. His position in 1905 should be such as to enable him to obtain full benefits of the reduced duties."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, February 2nd, 1905.

WHOLESALE grocery business is not yet very brisk, but as this is ordinarily a quiet season of the year, there is nothing surprising in that circumstance. The only unsatisfactory feature in the situation is the slowness of collections, and in this respect there is now some improvement. The entire price list is steady this week. Sugar is quiet, and at time of writing is still at $6.40 for granulated. No one seems disposed to hazard many guesses as to the future of the market. Readers should always consult our "last minute markets" for changes in sugar about the time of going to press. Canned goods are quiet, the only changes of note being a general reduction in canned apples. Owing to the high price, canned tomatoes are not selling very briskly. The price has reached the point where the consumer refuses to buy. Coffee is easier in the New York markets and the local advance noted in these columns last week is not being followed in all houses. In foreign dried fruits, such as apricots, peaches, pears, nectarines, a sharp advance may be expected soon on the local market. Nothing but the fact that local houses had good supplies on hand has prevented this advance being made before this. These goods would cost the wholesale houses much more laid down in Winnipeg to-day than they are now charging the retail trade, and a sharp advance is due at almost any date. Retailers would be well advised in stocking at present prices. Evaporated apples are lower on the local market than might be expected in comparison with Eastern prices, and at the prevailing values no new stock is coming from the East. This is another line of goods in which an advance seems inevitable. The local market has been almost bare of xxx spies, but new supplies arrived early in the week. Quotations are to be found below. Oranges and lemons are cheaper. Cornmeal is sure to decline still further, and the trade are advised to buy sparingly at present prices.

Sugar.

Sugar still maintains its strong position, but its future course is hard to determine. The trade are buying only for immediate requirements and are expecting a decline. Time will tell whether they are right. More than a week has passed without any further advance. We quote:

Coffee.

Coffees are reported easier on the New York market, and in consequence the advance noted in these columns last week has not been followed by all the local houses. As the present easier tone of the market is not expected to be permanent, no change has been made in our quotations below. We quote:

Starch.

As noted last week, there has been a general reduction in starch. The Canada Laundry's starch has been reduced ¾c. per lb. and "Satin," "Ivory," and "Silver Gloss" starch have all declined ¼c. per lb. St. Lawrence corn and Benson's corn starch have been reduced ¼c., and all other grocery starches have declined ½c. per lb.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

Office of The Canadian Grocer,
St. John, N.B., Feb. 1, 1905.

VALUES continue strong and tend upward. Evaporated apples are the last line to join the procession and the advance is quite marked. There are the usual Spring changes in the air. The Maritime Spice & Coffee Co. is to be amalgamated with the Geo. E. Barbour wholesale grocery business, under the style of Geo. E. Barbour Co., Limited. Mr. Barbour is the youngest among the young men controlling the wholesale grocery business of St. John, and has already made a marked success. There are not many changes of special interest. Nutmegs are particularly low. Hops are tending higher. Rice is firmer and to offset the price some very poor samples are seen.

Oil.

There continues a large sale for burning oil. Prices are unchanged. In linseed oil the very low prices are still quoted. Dealers have very largely bought for their Spring requirements. Turpentine is unchanged at the rather high prices quoted. Cod oil is held firm at full figures. Stocks are not large. Lubricating oils are unchanged.

Salt.

There is still no agreement between the importers and the Winter port boats in regard to salt importation, owing to high freight rates quoted. There is still a fair stock of Liverpool coarse held. Prices are firm. The railways, including the street railway, use a large quantity at this season.

Canned Goods.

Dealers are making contracts for later deliveries in canned meats. Prices are the same as last year. In vegetables, prices are held firm at full figures. In fruits, quite full stocks are held. Salmon seems plentiful. Oysters are rather higher. Gallon apples are dull. In domestic fish, stocks of finnan haddie, kippers and clams are very small and sardines are not a large stock.

Green Fruits.

There is but limited business. In apples, Ontario fruit supplies the demand for best stock. There is a full supply of cheap apples, but demand is not large. Valencia oranges have a fair sale. Some nice Jamaicas are still offered, but season is late. Sale of Floridas and Californias, particularly the latter, is light. Lemons are quite low. Cranberries are rather firmer.

Dried Fruit.

There is little movement. The sharp advance in evaporated apples is the chief feature of the week. They are 25 per cent. higher than a very few weeks ago. Prunes are also higher. Some Valencias are offered. Raisins, while firm, show little business. Currants are low. Prunes are unchanged. Apricots and peaches have but a small demand. Dates are quite a fair stock; prices, while low, are firmer. Peels have very little demand and figs are also light sellers at this season. Nuts are dull. Peanuts hold at higher prices than last year.

Sugar.

No advance is reported this week at the time of writing this report. Prices are held firm at full figures. It is many years since the trade made as handsome a profit on sugar as has now been the case for some months.

Molasses.

Prices are maintained firm at the advance reported last week. While the stock of Porto Rico is quite large, holders seem confident it is good value. There is but little Barbadoes.

Fish.

Perhaps never before has a full car of fresh fish been brought from the coast. A mixed car of frozen halibut and salmon has been received. Quality is very satisfactory, and the manner of packing is considered particularly good. Price is not too high. In dry fish the high prices still hold. Pickled herring are rather easier. Smoked keep low. Fair receipts of fresh cod and haddock are noted. Finnan haddie are firm in price. Smelt are very scarce this year.

Flour, Feed and Meal.

Flour is firm at full prices. No further advance this week at time of writing. Oatmeal seems easier, as does cornmeal; some Ontario ground meal has been imported. Beans are firmer; there is just a fair sale. Seeds, while freely quoted, receive as yet but little attention. Clovers are reported tending higher.

Canada Grocers vs. H. P. Eckardt & Co.

The Canada Grocers won their first game on Jan. 26, at the Victoria College rink, when they defeated H. P. Eckardt & Co., the score being 3-2. Eckardt's were quite confident, and th? result of the game came as a surprise to everybody. The Grocers have improved a great deal since their last game, and as a result of several brilliant rushes after the face off they succeeded in scoring two goals. Eckardt's scored a goal near the finish of the first half, the teams retiring with the score 2-1 in favor of Canada Grocers.

During the second half the Grocers played on the defensive. The other team believing that the winners were beginning to lose faith, became careless until another brilliant rush on the part of the winners gave them another goal and a good lead. Eckardt's succeeded in finding the net once more, but were unable to score the tie. Stewart as rover for the winners showed up well, and Barnhouse on point proved to be a good defence man. For the others, Brown at point and Williams on the forward line were the stars. The line-up was as follows:

H. P. Eckardt & Co.—Goal, Robertson; point, Wilkinson; coverpoint, Brown; forwards, Williams, Hill, Chapman and McLaughlin.

Canada Grocers—Goal, Wylie; point, Barnhouse; coverpoint, Howard; forwards, Stewart, Hortop, Smith and Warren.

T. Kinnear & Co vs. Grocery Brokers.

A good crowd of supporters and hockey enthusiasts gathered on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 28, at the Aura Lee rink to witness the second game of the wholesale grocers' series between T. Kinnear & Co. and the Grocery Brokers, which resulted in a win for the latter team, the score being 3-2. Good, clean combination play was noticeable throughout the game; the winners' combination seemed to worry Kinnear's defence, and as a result the puck went dangerously near the losers' net rather frequently. Several excellent chances to shoot were allowed to escape by Kinnear's men while others tried for, landed wide of the mark. An air of listlessness was noticeable on the part of the losers during the first half and it was evident from the amount of interest they took in the game that they were inclined to carelessness. A brilliant rush by Humphrey resulted in a goal being scored for Kinnear's, but, although they brightened up near the finish, the Brokers had too good a lead.

The forward line of the Brokers showed up well. This, coupled with good support on the part of Banks and Millman, practically won them the game.

R. Moody, of the St. George's, acted as referee and, although inclined to be easy, kept the game well in hand. The line-up was as follows:

T. Kinnear & Co.—Goal, Holden; point, Walkinshaw; coverpoint, Humphrey; forwards, H. Rennie, C. Rennie, Kinnear and McGregor.

Grocery Brokers—Goal, Guthrie; point, P. Millman; coverpoint, Banks; forwards, A. Millman, Donaldson, May and Webber.

Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

A CORNWALL GROCERY ESTABLISHMENT.

THE accompanying illustration shows the interior of one of the most complete and up-to-date grocery stores in the thriving manufacturing town of Cornwall. Its proprietor, R. Nicolls, commenced business there some four or five years ago, with a thorough knowledge of all details of the grocery trade, gained through long experience in Western Ontario.

Recognizing the fact that there was room in Cornwall to put this experience to good use he has demonstrated its thoroughness by a record of continued success. Mr. Nicolls is a firm believer in the adoption of modern methods to modern merchandising, and in compact handling of stock. A glance at the handsome interior reveals this fact very noticeably. Every line of goods handled is within easy reach, and is replenished as occasion requires, from reserve stocks in store.

Prominent among the fixtures are three unique revolving plate glass circular show cases for the display of high class confectionery, cigars, tobaccos, pipes, etc. Mr. Nicolls makes a feature of jobbing in biscuits and confectionery to smaller establishments, in addition to having a select and increasing family trade in which he devotes personal attention to teas. While not disdaining the package varieties he prefers to exercise his own judgment in the selection of bulk teas, very much, as he claims, to his own profit, and to the satisfaction of his customers, among whom "Nicolls' Teas" have become a synonym for excellence, and an example which others in the trade might advantageously follow.

BUILDING UP A COFFEE TRADE.

PERHAPS but few grocers have ever heard of Jenkins, and the methods by which he worked up a coffee trade in his own vicinity amounting to over one hundred thousand pounds a year. This, too, without any permiums, gifts, stamps or other inducements further than quality. It was not a cheap coffee either, thirty-five cents the pound to one and all alike.

Jenkins was a grocer—a progressive grocer. His store was bright, clean and up to date. His clerks were salesmen, not mere order takers. His stock was well assorted and attractively arranged. He was making money. Still he wasn't satisfied.

Jenkins had ideas and he was not afraid to carry them out. That may be the reason for his success, though he won't admit it.

I had heard of him and his coffee, so I took the trouble to look him up. My appearance must have pleased him for he treated me like a prince, and seemed very willing to give me all the information I desired. In fact I think he rather delighted in talking about his coffee.

"Just about four years ago," he said, "I came to the conclusion that we were not selling the amount of coffee that we should. To tell the truth, I didn't know much about coffee then. Green, one of the clerks, had handled this department ever since I opened the store. He used to do all the buying, and I thought he handled it in an intelligent manner. But I noticed that the receipts were growing smaller each week. Something was wrong. I transferred Green to another department, put a young man in his place, whom I knew was a hustler, and then made up my mind to find out what was wrong.

"One day a drummer was in the store. We got to talking about coffee, and in less than an hour he gave me more valuable information on this subject than I had ever heard before.

"The next day I sat down and figured out a little campaign by which we could increase this line of business.

"We had some attractive canisters, one, three and five pounds, for our coffee.

"I started advertising. I used a ten inch double column advertisement in all the local newspapers. This brought some returns, but not enough to satisfy me.

"Then I tried another plan. I put a coffee machine in the store and served hot coffee free to all customers. Right away the sales began to increase.

"We next had ten thousand checks printed. Each check called for a sample cup of coffee free upon presentation at the store. There was one condition, however. Every applicant was required to fill in his or her address on one side of the cards. The checks were distributed all over the town, and for several weeks we had our hands full dealing out free coffee. But the pleasing feature was the way in which our sales were increasing.

"Perhaps it would be well to mention right here that to-day we give no free coffee whatever, but instead we keep three girls busy the year round serving delicious hot coffee, rich in flavor, for two and four cents a cup. We also serve teas and cocoas at the same counter. Our seven large coffee machines are in constant use. The profits from these sales alone are large, and they not only help the sale of our coffee, but they bring into the store people who otherwise would not visit us, and who frequently make large purchases in other departments.

"It was suggested to me that we try house-to-house canvassing. For this purpose I secured four young ladies who appeared to have ability in this line. Before I sent them out at all I gave them two weeks of instructions in the store. I had four sample cases made, each case to hold a small nickle-plated coffee machine, a cup and saucer, a jar of whipped cream, and a jar which contained loaf sugar and a can of ground coffee. With this apparatus the girl could go into any house or office and in from six to eight minutes serve a cup of hot coffee.

"I first sent them to the addresses on the checks we had given out for a free cup of coffee, after which we made a systematic canvass of the city and suburbs. The girls were required to send in a written report of every house they visited. If they failed to interest a party we would find some other method of getting their order. To-day there is hardly a person in the town who can afford to pay thirty-five cents for a pound of coffee that is not one of our customers. Most of them are regular customers who have given us orders to leave a certain amount of coffee each week.

"Once we get a customer we keep them, or at least try our best to do so. We have a system for keeping track of each and every customer. We enter their name and address on a card, together with the size of the family. Then we put down the amount of coffee delivered, together with the date. By this method we can tell about the quantity of coffee used. Should we fail to receive an order when we think it due, we send a salesman around to learn the reason. It is only by keeping after our trade in this manner that we are able to do the enormous business we now handle.

"Last year we sold the most of our customers a small coffee grinding mill so that they might grind their own coffee in small quantities as wanted. It was pointed out to them that this would make a big difference in the quality of their coffee. At first they didn't approve of this, but to-day most of our coffee is sold in the bean, the customers doing their own grinding.

"Then we had to educate them to the fact that they could not make coffee 'any old way.' We published a little booklet giving simple but practical instructions for making good coffee. After this we sold several thousand coffee machines of the French style to customers.

"By showing our customers how to make good coffee, we have induced them to use more coffee. All this increases our sales.

"We are constantly looking for new trade. Lately we have started to push the sale of a dollar tea. While this price seems too high for most people in this locality, the results so far have been very satisfactory and we hope to work up a large and constantly increasing trade.

"I don't think that grocers give the thought to pushing an article like coffee that is required. There is only one way to get trade—that is go after it."—New England Grocer.

SHOULD SHOW TRADE DISCOUNTS

In his latest report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, P. B. McNamara, Canadian commercial agent at Manchester, Eng., says it is a matter of great importance to English buyers that the catalogues of Canadian manufacturers should show the trade discount if any is given, otherwise prices should be marked net less cash discount when allowed. Buyers in Great Britain are slow to move, and everything is carefully weighed up before a decision is reached. The question is often met in connection with Canadian manufacturers' catalogues "What trade discount is allowed," and in order to ascertain, correspondence ensues, delay occurs, and sometimes business is lost. Continental competition, especially German, is very keen in the Manchester district, in almost all kinds of wooden manufactures, and in order to get a foothold prices should be made as close as possible commensurate with profit.

Make two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

The Eby, Blain Co., Toronto have a carload, consisting of Pacific coast cod, salmon and halibut, which is due next week. It contains several lines which are new to this market, but which, judging from the number of orders booked ahead, are sure to prove good sellers.

W. H. Millman & Sons, brokers, Toronto, have just received a carload of sugar and molasses from the Barbadoes government as sample lot. The goods have turned out very satisfactorily, the molasses being probably the finest that has reached Ontario for some time. Mr. Millman says this is only a forcrunner of a large business from this source.

About a year ago he returned to Canada to join Dawson & Co., wholesale commission merchants, and represented them in both Eastern and Western Ontario. His beginning business on his own account is in keeping with his characteristic energy. Mr. Elliot will deal in California and southern fruits, and has already acquired several good agencies.

A DEPARTMENT FOR RETAILERS.

PURE FOOD SHOW IN MONTREAL

FOOD shows are one of the most effective means of directly bringing the qualities of goods to the attention of the consumer, and when such goods are judiciously advertised in journals closely in touch with the grocery trade, the benefit to the manufacturers from orders received through the regular trade is great. A lady will visit one of the Pure Food Shows and sampling and liking what is shown here will very frequently ask her own grocer for what has appealed to her taste. If the grocer has not the goods in stock he will look up his trade journal and if the goods are advertised therein nine times out of ten he will place an order for same with the manufacturer or the jobber. Pure Food Shows are trade drawers and are considered of the greatest value by the leading departmental stores of the country. The S. Carsley Co., Montreal, have for some seasons past at this time of the year given close and careful attention to their Pure Food department and under the efficient management of Mr. Foreman always had a most successful exhibition. This year's fair, which ran some two three weeks was a better arranged and better managed exhibition than even its good forerunners. Among the exhibits The Canadian Grocer noticed "Force." H. O. Co., Buffalo, N.Y.; the National Food Co.'s exhibit of "Shredded Wheat" and "Triscuit," was in charge of J. H. E. Davis, and attracted a good deal of attention; the Cowan Co., Toronto, looked after by E. Cowan, Montreal agent, and his staff had a well arranged and attractive booth near the main stairs, and certainly Canadian goods as exemplified in the Cowan Co. product, can hold their own; "Eagle" Baking Powder and Jellies, J. H. Maiden, agent, had a most creditable exhibit and the merits of the goods were demonstrated in a practical manner as a chef was kept busy preparing and baking tasty cookies and buns.

The largest exhibit was that of W. H. Dunn, whose two counters and booths contained examples of all that was good in the Pure Gold Co.'s products, jellies, jams, extracts, etc. Borden's Condensed Milk, Millar's "Paragon" Cheese, Libby, McNeill & Libby's Canned Meats and Bensdorp's "Royal Dutch" Cocoa, were all represented, for which lines Mr. Dunn is Montreal and Eastern Canadian agent. With such a selection it is easily understood that the booths attracted crowds, the decorations of the booths were conspicuously bright, the festoon and litho cards making a good background for the individual exhibit. The Ozo Co., Montreal, had on exhibition their well-known pickles, jams and jellies, and a most creditable arrangement met the eye. Next to the Ozo Co.'s booth was an exhibit of the Grocers' Trading and Mfg. Co.'s "Lorette" Maple Syrup and Sugars. In connection with the delicious pan-cakes supplied by the H. O. Co. in the next booth a good demonstration was given of the qualities of both syrup and "H. O. pan-cake flour." Lipton's Teas near the main door arrested the attention of the patrons and the cheering cup was appreciated. Opposite Lipton's the Bovril Co. had a very tastefully arranged department, the various styles of packages backed by the attractive lithographs of the company, making a fine show. Hot, nourishing Bovril was served by two young ladies and the comforting extract was much appreciated by visitors. The zero weather that prevailed during the first week of the fair was particularly good value to the merits of Bovril. C. M. Hodge, advertising manager of the Bovril Co., had charge of the company's exhibit.

In the centre of the large grocery department John G. Bauld, Montreal agent for the Eager Chemical Co., Halifax, N.S., exhibited Eager's "Wine of Rennet" and the excellent dishes prepared by the young lady in charge of the booth were a revelation to visitors. This article should win for itself a good place on grocers' shelves and require only proper demonstration to bring its possibilities to the front. The last exhibit noted was "Fairy Floss" candy by the World's Fair Candy Co., and the several handfuls that were served out to the scribe were as a lovely dream and just as evanescent. This is a new line of candy made by electricity and its description is impossible.

The entire exhibit was a credit to the exhibitors as well as to the S. Carsley Co., and its grocery manager, Mr. Foreman, and The Canadian Grocer's half hour there was a most enjoyable one. That the public were interested was evidenced by the crowds that patron-Canadian refined sugar.

Dearer Candy in New Brunswick.

Manufacturing confectioners in New Brunswick have advanced the price of penny goods five cents a box or ten cents a gross. Retailers will now sell these goods for twelve instead of ten cents per dozen. No advance has yet been made in the general retail price of box confectionery, and it is not likely there will be any unless a much more decided advance in the price of sugar occurs than has yet been announced.

Several of the leading Ontario confectioners have advanced the price of fancy confectionery from five to twenty per cent. owing to the high price ruling in Canadian refined sugar.

NEW OFFICE IN LONDON.

A BRANCH office of the Commercial Department of the Canadian High Commissioner has recently been established at 73 Basinghall street, E. C., London, England. The need of a city office has been felt for many years, and the action of the Government in establishing an office of this sort in the heart of the city will be greatly appreciated by business men throughout London. The office is situated in the heart of the city, in what are known as the Board of Trade Buildings, and is in charge of Mr. Harrison Watson, who for some years has been curator of the Canadian section of the Imperial Institute. The rooms are on the ground floor with several large windows looking into Basinghall street. On each of these windows is a neat gilt sign likely to attract the attention of passers by, so that Canada will be permanently advertised in that section of the city.

Although the offices have only been opened up quite recently, Mr. Watson reports a large number of calls from business men and the amount of correspondence is growing in a very satisfactory manner. It might be mentioned that Mr. Watson attends only to commercial enquiries, and correspondence relating to all other matters should be addressed to Lord Strathcona's offices in 17 Victoria street, S. W., as before.

GREEN FRUITS

Banana Lore.

FIFTY years ago bananas in New York were as much of a novelty as an elephant would be in Lapland. The 10,000,000 bunches of the yellow fruit which now are pouring into the United States every year were not to be found at that time even in the West Indies and Central America, where a shrewd Yankee trader "discovered" the succulent fruit. Such bananas as New York did see were from Florida.

It was about fifty years ago that the British Parliament passed an act to equalize the sugar duties on British and foreign productions. The result of this act became known throughout the British colonies as the "sugar crisis." The West Indian islands had cultivated every acre of their available land in sugar cane, and presently things came to such a pass that the planters abandoned their estates, and the islands that had once been gems in the British crown became barren reproaches to the Government.

Into these island paradises, where only finance and men were vile, one Sunday morning there sailed in a small trading schooner the shrewd Yankee trader already referred to. While the natives were in church at one of the Greater Antillean islands, he surveyed the coast and saw the bananas, which at that time were used for fattening pigs.

Capt. Bush was the name of that man. He sent word to the people ashore that, as he hated to go back to America without a cargo, he would load up with bananas, which would "do for ballast, anyway." For the trouble of cutting the bunches and bringing them aboard he offered something like 5 cents a bunch. So poverty-stricken were the people just at that time that they rushed helter skelter from church to cut bananas for Bush. It is even handed down in banana history that the clergyman folded up his sermon, and—well, the poor man had a small grove of bananas around his own rectory! That was the beginning of the banana trade, which at the present time imports into the United States 10,000,000 bunches per annum. Bush's first experiment was a huge success.

Unfortunately, the pioneer and his vessel were lost at sea. Then came a Boston skipper, named Baker. He, with his schooner, had more success. Presently the West Indians were toiling on the abandoned estates, planting bananas; later on one schooner became ten schooners, ten schooners became a dozen steamers. A great fruit company sprang up, with Baker at its head. In time other companies sprang up. But that is all banana history and dry as dust compared with the romance of the banana itself.

The typical banana plantation is snugly laid out in a beautiful, fertile valley watered by a river and walled in by mountains clad in an evergreen mantle of the thousand and one plants of tropical luxuriance. Here and there occur stretches of pasture land, lending bright contrast to the denser green of the forest. On those hillside meadows one can see steers, mules, and horses dotted here and there, and lazy cattlemen in the shade of the breadfruit trees. All around wave the bannerlike leaves of the banana forest, whence come the metallic "clink" of hoes wielded by bangle-decked coolie girls, while near by a gang of men are engaged in the more laborious work of forking roots under a blazing sun for 30 cents a day. In the distance arise the faint calls of the cowboys as they drive the yoked oxen before the plowman's blade, while a nearer sound is the splashing of a native washerwoman at some cool nook by the river.

The bananas are planted in fifteen square "pieces" of ten acres each, a total of 150 acres. The plants flourish at a distance apart of twelve feet, (although the distance varies,) i.e., 275 bananas to the acre, 2,750 to each ten-acre "piece," and a grand total of 41,250 banana roots to the plantation.

Barring all special acts of Providence, relying upon the fertility of the soil, and allowing for all accidents of ordinary weather and ordinary handling of a delicate fruit, an ordinary-sized banana plantation yields 35,000 medium-sized bunches of fruit per annum.

No doubt this sounds very much as if there is a fortune to be made in the cultivation of bananas. There certainly is money in the enterprise, but many forces must be reckoned with in calculating return of a fortune. Even a gust of wind, lasting only a few seconds, may do enough damage among the strangely fragile trees to make the colonial receivership in bankruptcy no sinecure.

But when a lucky year does come, the man who has money in bananas can estimate a return of from 50 to 100 per cent. when the banana market is in good shape, for the outlay is only about $50 per acre, against a possible return of even $150.

But even the big banana ship company has its own troubles. Ever since Bush brought the first cargo of fruit, half rotten, to this country, the problem of preserving the fruit on the voyage has been a trying one. Even now it is more or less a gamble—the carriage of bananas on a five or six day voyage.

The temperature from Watling's Island, in the Bahamas, to within 100 miles of Cape Hatteras does not drop much, but at Hatteras the trials of the supercargo with a shipload of bananas begin.

Up to this point the hatches are kept open to permit a free current of cool air through the ripening bananas. With heat they ripen quicker, but with too much cold the fruit "chills," ripens with difficulty, and is almost unpalatable in the end.

Consequently, great care has to be exercised at Hatteras, where the great climatic change takes place.—N. Y. Times.

Vegetable Growers' Combine.

The vegetable growers of the Niagara district, in conjunction with the Hamilton district growers, have formed a combination, binding themselves not to sell tomatoes to the canners for less than 30c. per bushel this year. Heretofore the price has been 25c., but the growers say they cannot continue to grow tomatoes any longer at this price, and have any profit. The farmers declare that rather than sell tomatoes for 25c. they will plant their ground in something else this year. The outcome of the situation will be awaited with interest by the trade.

The West Lake Vegetable-Growers' Association has been formed in Prince Edward County, Ont., with A. P. Hyatt as president, M. M. Hicks as treasurer, and J. M. Tubbs as secretary. The association has decided to demand from canners this season 30c. per bushel for tomatoes, $8 per ton for green corn, and $40 per ton for green peas, as they come from the vines. The canners are prepared to concede to the price in corn and peas, and the only difference now is in regard to the price of tomatoes. If the demands of the growers are not met on this point an effort will be made to secure joint action with the growers of Prince Edward and Wentworth counties for the purpose of bringing combined influence to bear upon the canners.

Frost Ruins Fruit.

The heavy frost of Jan. 25, in Florida, is thought to have destroyed all citrous fruits on trees excepting in the extreme southern part of the state, the total destruction being placed at 300,000 boxes. It is feared that trees in the Jacksonville section are injured, if not killed. Orange trees in the northern section of the state will also be badly damaged.

At the recent meeting of the Victoria, B.C., Fruit-Growers' Association, the question of the establishment of a local factory for canning and preserving fruit was discussed.

Will Wheat be Higher?

THERE is probably no question at the present time more interesting to the community at large than the above. It has a direct bearing on the price of bread which is such an important item in the living expenses of a large portion of our population, especially in the towns and cities of Canada.

Bakers say the price of bread is now too low considering the cost of manufacture, and that any further rise in the price of flour will compel them to advance the price of bread. As the price of Ontario wheat is now as high as it has been on this crop, and Manitoba wheat is higher than for a long time, indications point to an advance rather than any reduction in the price of flour unless wheat declines—But will it?

As far as Canada is concerned, prices are as high, if not higher, than the legitimate conditions here or in our natural market, Great Britain, warrant; as neither wheat nor flour can be exported at a profit on the present prices, but legitimate, or rather we should say usual conditions do not appear to rule this year.

On Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27 and 28, telegrams from Washington and Chicago stated that Manitoba wheat to the extent of 6,000,000 bushels would be admitted free to supply the Spring wheat farmers with seed. Should this take place, and it is not at all improbable when you consider the poor quality of wheat grown in the Northwestern States last Fall and that a change of seed is highly desirable under ordinary conditions, it would certainly force the price of Manitoba wheat considerably higher. It is very doubtful if there are 6,000,000 bushels of No. 1 and No. 2 Northern wheat left in Manitoba and the Northwest, and these are the grades best suited for seed. No doubt a considerable quantity of No. 3 Northern would be used for this purpose also, as it is said the Manitoba No. 3 Northern is better quality this year than the No. 2 Northern grade in Minnesota and Dakota.

As the total quantity of all grades still available for export is only estimated between seven and ten millions by the most optimistic Western grain men, the taking of even 3,000,000 bushels for seed purposes to the United States would undoubtedly cause a sharp advance in prices, temporarily at least, and stop our export business with Great Britain unless foreign markets advance also.

The granting of the request of the American millers to permit the mixing of Manitoba wheat with their native wheat in the making of flour for export, also has a most important bearing on this question. The information available on this point is very contradictory. The Chicago Herald on Saturday of last week had a lengthy despatch from Washington tending to prove that there is no possibility of this request being granted, while the Canadian dailies published on Monday, Jan. 30, a direct despatch from Washington saying that Attorney-General Moody had drafted his opinion for Secretary Shaw, that it was quite within the law to permit the payment of the drawback of 99 per cent. of the duty on the Canadian wheat ground and exported in this manner. If this is correct it will cause a decidedly increased demand for Manitoba wheat from mills in the United States if prices remain at or about their present level, but any advance in price would put it above an export basis and prevent the American mills buying the wheat for the manufacture of export flour.

There are a number of other factors which will have a direct bearing on the price of wheat, but we will have to leave them to be dealt with in a future article.

The Grain Situation.

THERE have been no startling developments in the grain situation for the week under review. Manitoba wheat is ruling a little firmer than last week, and a moderate amount of trading in May wheat is reported at a higher level of prices. Grain receipts at Winnipeg are reported to be about the same as last year. The proposal to admit seed grain into the United States free of duty will doubtless have the effect of stimulating the Manitoba market.

Oats are firmer in Ontario, prices now being in the neighborhood of 38c. a bushel. This is owing to the failure of the crop in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and the consequent movement of part of the Ontario supply to these districts. A further appreciation in values is regarded as certain, due to the scarcity, and it is thought in some quarters that there will be no more than sufficient for home requirements between now and next crop. Should this be so, there will be little or no business for export from this out. A year ago sales of car lots were made at 5½c. per bush. under present prices.

On the other hand, New York oats are selling at about 31c. a bush. They have not been able to compete to any extent in the Canadian market owing to the protective duty. American farmers and millers have succeeded, however, in entering the English market with their grain and oatmeal. Failure of the Fall wheat crop in Southern Ontario has made its entire crop necessary for home consumption, and as a result, Ontario's wheat exports to England have been small.

The English wheat market is improving and prices have advanced in consequence of Broomhall's latest report in which he reduces his estimate of the probable Argentine surplus of wheat for export from 96,000,000 bush., to from 81,000,000 to 86,000,000 bush, and his estimate of Australia's surplus from 28,000,000 to from 5,000,000 to 15,000,000. Well-informed London firms also now reckon the Argentine wheat surplus at 20 per cent. less than last year's (93,500,000 bushels were shipped in 1904).

The shipments of wheat to Europe from the principal exporting countries for the week ending Jan. 30, as compared with those for the corresponding week of 1904, were as follows:

America	1,102,000	2,908,000
Argentina	1,640,000	1,304,000
Australia	1,216,000	1,176,000
Danube		40,000
India	1,920,000	480,000
Russia	2,408,000	3,408,000
Totals	8,286,000	9,316,000

The quantity of grain on passage to Europe during the week ending Jan 30, 1905, was as follows: Wheat, 29,120,000 bush., as compared with 27,600,000 bush. the previous week. Corn, 16,240,000 bush., as compared with 18,400,000 bush. a week ago.

were 39,387,000 bush, an increase for the week of 4,000 bush. Visible supplies of corn and oats were 11,682,000 bush. and 18,888,000 bush., an increase of 170,000 bush., and a decrease of 463,000 bush., respectively.

The total amount of wheat in sight on Jan. 30, consisting of the visible supply and the quantity on passage, was 68,507,000 bushels, against 66,983,000 the previous week, 65,840,000 last year, and 71,087,000 in 1903. The total amount of corn in sight on the same date was 27,992,000 bushels, against 29,912,000 last year, and 16,130,000 in 1903.

British Market for Foodstuffs.

THE magnitude of the British market for foodstuffs makes one of Canada's greatest opportunities. Many other countries are our rivals, the United States being the one chiefly to be considered. No effort will be spared by our neighbors to retain their hold on the British market. The movement on the part of the United States millers to secure the privilege of grinding Canadian wheat in mixture with domestic wheat for export and yet of obtaining a drawback of duty, is but one manifestation of the enterprise and energy Canadian exporters will have to meet.

The following table prepared from British official publications shows the quantities of breadstuffs imported into the United Kingdom during the calendar year of 1903 and the amount supplied by the United States:

	All countries. Bush.	United States Bush.
Wheat	164,511,200	46,662,737

Beans are apparently not imported at all. In all the other articles, except maize and its products, Canada should be able to compete successfully with the United States.

Future of Canadian Wheat.

C. E. McPherson, general passenger agent of the C.P.R. for lines west of Fort William, predicts that in ten years the United States will buy Canadian wheat for home consumption.

"We are increasing our yield of wheat by leaps and bounds, while in the American Northwest the wheat production is growing less. It is easy to see what will happen. Some of these days the United States will need wheat it cannot grow, and Canada will have the wheat to sell."

Split Rates for Cereals.

An endeavor is being made to secure a split freight for the products of the American Cereal Mills, Peterborough, which have been partially closed for the past two months. The Peterborough Board of Trade is asking the boards in all the leading cities to co-operate with them in securing from the railway companies a split rate for all cereals manufactured in Canada. Even the partial closing down of the American Cereal Co.'s mills in Peterborough means a loss to the town of $100,000 annually in wages, as the company employ some three or four hundred hands regularly.

Australian Wheat Harvest.

According to latest reports Australia has thoroughly recovered from the effects of last season's drought, and it is expected that the season's harvest will result in a surplus of 5,000,000 bushels being available for export.

The Australian Government statistician, T. A. Coghlan, has completeh his estimate of the wheat harvest, which he describes as follows: "Having completed the compilation of the returns relating to the wheat harvest, I am now able to furnish an estimate of the probable returns for the various divisions of the state. The total yield is estimated at 16,121,000 bush., or 10.2 bush. per acre, which is slightly in excess of the last decennial average (9.9 bush.). The actual figures, as returned by my reporters, amount to considerably more than this total; but as they are based mainly on the returns now being obtained I have reduced the estimate to allow for the losses which so often occur in harvesting the late crops. Still, if the conditions of harvesting are specially favorable, I should not be surprised to see the actual returns reach 17,000,000 bush. A considerable quantity of the wheat is pinched, but, after allowing 8,000,000 bush. for home consumption and 2,000,000 bush. for seed, some 5,000,000 bush. of this season's crop should be available for export, and I am now taking steps to ascertain what stocks of old wheat are still held in the country."

Cereal Notes.

The Pure Food Bill now before the United States Senate at Washington is being strenuously opposed, principally because of its indefinite and indeterminate character.

Arrangements have been completed for the shipment of 50,000 bush. of grain, mostly oats, from Winnipeg to Japan within the next few weeks.

The flour mill and elevator, at Treherne, Man., known as the Treherne Roller Flour Mills, was destroyed by fire on Jan. 24; loss about $15,000.

W. F. Forrest is about to erect an up-to-date grist mill at Atwood, Ont., to cost $11,000, and has already signed a contract with the Stratford Mill Building Co. for a complete outfit of modern mill machinery.

Tobacco Trade of Canada.

DURING the fiscal year 1904 the people of Canada took from the producers 13,160,000 pounds of home manufactured tobacco, or about 1,200,000 pounds above the average of the four previous years. Canadians seem to have smoked also 180,000,000 Canadian cigars, or nearly one hundred for each adult male in the country. Only about 9,000,000 cigars were imported, or about five per cent. of the whole number sold. Half the smokers in Canada will, perhaps, think they were supplied out of this five per cent. It will also surprise the smoker of imported cut tobacco to know that while the people of Canada smoked 13,000,000 pounds of tobacco manufactured in Canada, the quantity imported was only about a quarter of a million pounds, or two per cent. of the whole.

To produce the tobacco manufactured in this country 8,110,800 pounds of raw leaf tobacco was imported, paying an excise duty of 25 cents per pound. With this was used 2,995,000 pounds of Canadian tobacco and 1,550,000 pounds of "combination tobacco." Roughly speaking, between one-quarter and one-third of the tobacco sold in Canada is from Canadian leaf. Of the cigarettes sold in this country only about four per cent. are imported. A few millions of those made in this country are the product of Canadian leaf.

In 1904 there was an increase in imported tobacco leaf and a decrease in the use of the home grown product. In addition to other material, 3,334,000 pounds of raw leaf tobacco "and other materials" were sold in Canada for the manufacture of cigars. Most of these were made of imported goods. Only 2,015,000 out of more than 180,000,000 were wholly composed of Canadian leaf. A combination of native and foreign leaf was used for 7,221,000 cigars. But apparently ninety per cent. were made of foreign raw material.

Anti-Coupon Bill.

A bill aimed directly against the premium exchange system has been introduced in the California State Legislature. Its provisions are as follows: To prohibit the selling or exchange of property under the representation advertisement, or inducement that an unidentified, unknown, unselected or chance prize, premium, or trading stamp, stamps, coupon or other like device entitling the holder to receive such a prize or premium is to be part of the transaction, or the selling or exchange of any trading stamp, stamps, coupon or other like device to aid in the sale or exchange of property or the redeeming of any such trading stamp, coupon, etc. The Canadian tobacco trade will be interested in this original point of attack on the premium system, namely, the uncertainty regarding the nature of the prize to be got, which it is contended imparts to it the character of a gamble.

Insurance for Tobacconists.

A novelty in the cigar business which is being introduced by the United Cigar Stores Co. is a system of insurance for employees. The company undertake to issue and pay the premiums for every one of its employees whose salary is less than $2,500 a year, paying the premium so long as he is in their employ. The amount of the policy will be his salary for one year, provided this is not less than $1,000. In cases where the salary does not reach this figure the policy will still be $1,000. The object of this innovation is, of course, to provide for the widows and children of men who die when in the company's employ. Cigar salesmen are not usually particularly provident, and more than once salesmen of the company have died leaving their family totally unprovided for.

News of the Trade.

McBride & Co.'s cigar store in Collingwood, Ont., was destroyed by fire on Jan. 24; loss estimated at $2,500.

G. T. Matthews, of Moncton, N.B., traveling representative of the Dominion Tobacco Co., Montreal, is dead.

N. Michaels, manager for Grandas Hermanos y Ca, tobacco manufacturers, Montreal, returned from Cuba last week, where he has been in the interest of his firm. Mr. Michaels has since left for the North-West and Pacific Coast.

J. Bruce Payne, of J. Bruce Payne, Ltd., tobacco and cigar manufacturers, Granby, Que., returned this week from a trip to Cuba. He was accompanied by H. Gagnier and W. H. Steele, of the W. H. Steele Co., both of Toronto.

Andrew Wilson & Co., wholesale tobacconists and cigar manufacturers, Toronto, celebrated their twenty-fifth business anniversary on Jan. 21. The event was the occasion of a presentation and banquet tendered A. Wilson by the traveling and office staffs and factory executive of Andrew Wilson & Co.

Freights And Charters

BUSINESS is better in freights. Plenty of grain and provisions are being shipped. By far the largest business is being done from Portland as may be readily proven by the manifests of steamers which have sailed. For instance, last week the big Dominion Liner Ottoman sailed from Portland with 40,000 bushels of wheat and other grain, also 3,189 sacks of flour, 1,375 boxes of cheese, 2,972 packages of provisions, 369 cases bacon, and 1,465 packages lard.

boxes of cheese, also 2,422 bales of hay. These cargoes only act as barometers to show the immense trade that Canada is doing. One steamer went to Liverpool and the other to London.

Allan SS. Hibernian sailed for Glasgow with an immense cargo; in fact, very much larger than the mail boat, the Corinthian, of the same line, took from St. John, N.B., verifying what the Allan Line officials complained about early in the

It is also necessary to know shipping point and on whose account engagement is to be made. All contracts subject to confirmation.

This would indicate that business is picking up all over, and is especially encouraging in view of the extreme weather and the difficulty experienced in all kinds of transportation. On this very steamer there were 4,712 barrels of apples, and one remarkable shipment of 1,493 pieces of maple blocks.

Donaldson Line SS. Cervona, another large boat, carried away 40,000 bushels of grain, also 25,714 bushels of corn, 110 sacks of peas, 1,000 sacks of flour, 1,582 sacks oatmeal, and 1,000 cases cereal foods. On this steamer, too, were 7,536 season, namely, that they can get bigger cargoes at Portland.

To contrast the two ships just named; it may be mentioned that the Hibernian carried 16,320 bushels of barley, 40,000 bushels wheat, and 122 sacks of clover seed, as well as 11,342 sacks of flour, and 4,036 sacks of oatmeal, 327 boxes cheese, 2,982 barrels of apples, 3,041 bales of hay, and a large quantity of other cargo. The Corinthian sailed a week earlier to St. John and carried 9,360 bushels wheat, 43 packages of butter, 4,500 packages of lard, and other provisions in small quantities, also 1,840 barrels apples, 1,485 bales of hay and 26,937 pieces deals.

There is a contrast when a mail boat has to carry lumber from a Canadian port.

A glance at the C.P.R. steamers Montrose for London, and Montcalm for Bristol, shows immense cargoes, because the C.P.R. feed their own steamers at St. John, N.B., and the other boats are practically starved.

Probably the G. T. Pacific will remedy these matters in years to come.

W. J. Dawson of North Augusta, Ont., is about to put in a complete stock of groceries and general sundries.

The Ad-writer.

Ad-writers are made by experience joined to force.

No man will ever arrive at that point in advertising writing where there will be no more for him to learn.

The best place to learn advertisement writing is at the advertisement writer's desk in any institution where advertising is used. Actual experience combined with exhaustive study, not alone of type style but of the business and goods to be advertised, and of the work of other advertisers, is the best way to develop the art of writing good advertisements.

A writer may be quite master of his subject and yet may not be able to present it advantageously for want of sympathy with his audience.

In writing an advertisement it is a good idea to presume that the buying public are anxious to know all about the goods you offer for sale.

One's advertisements should represent one's goods—not oneself.

Advertisement-writing requires aptitude, common-sense, a good knowledge of everyday English and of human nature and experience. There should be added to these hard work.

One who writes advertisements must learn how to make an appeal to the understandings of men. Oftentimes the very brightest ideas fail to do more than arouse the curiosity for a brief space.

Many an advertisement writer imagines that he is pursuing a literary rather than a business calling—and the result is disastrous.

The man who has a great knowledge of and deep insight into human nature possesses one of the chief essentials of a good advertisement writer.

Neither big words nor big type can magnify a small idea.

A too frequent use of superlatives in advertisements is to be condemned. Claiming to have the best and biggest of everything excites distrust.

Originality in advertising does not mean sensationalism—it simply means the use of one's ideas in one's own and usual way, instead of an endeavor to make over some other person's ideas and present them in a slightly different form.

Every little while one comes across advertisements containing a short essay. To the reader who is genuinely interested in the gist of the advertisement, the essay feature is vexatious. Stringing out a pretty story may be interesting to the writer but his interest is subordinate to that of the buyer. The man who forgets all about himself and who simply says what he has to say, briefly, pointedly, and without frills, writes the best advertisements.

In writing an advertisement ask yourself these questions: What is this article for? In what way is it better than its rivals? Will it meet requirements in every way? Upon answers to these build up your advertisement, always exercising judgment in laying the stress of the advertisement upon the superiority of the article, if that is its claim; or upon its price, if that be its advantage.

The best thing to talk about is the thing you desire to sell—talk of its quality, its price, its advantages, its desirability at the price quoted. Advertise to the point, and always be as explicit as possible.

In writing an advertisement first arrange your facts in your mind in the order of their importance. Then grade your display in accordance. If you will be guided by this simple rule, even if the advertisement which you may construct therenpon be no masterpiece, it will certainly never be a poor one.

Subscribe to the metropolitan dailies and the good magazines. Read the advertisements of the really great advertisers—the strong, sure, big salaried fellows. Read, above all, the advertisements of the man you most admire—the one whom you are sure you will never be able to emulate, much less equal. He will benefit you. No one knows how such mental processes work out but it is certain you will acquire writing strength from him.

Before you send your advertisement to the printer just read it over and ask your self how the man next door, your neighbors and your wife would regard each statement. For they are living, breathing human beings representative of the human beings who are to read your advertisement. What will appeal to them can be depended upon to appeal to their kind. What will not receive their sanction can never touch humanity in the mass.

Brevity.

Most advertisers are caught on the run. In our busy, bustling life, time is valuable, and readers naturally select what can be quickly read and readily comprehended, so that while no persuasive argument should be omitted, the statements should be as brief as possible, consistent with thoroughness.

Be brief, but don't be afraid that the reader will refuse consideration to an interesting story. Cut out every superfluous word, but use enough to make your point. Keep the end of your matter in view—to give a true, satisfying, complete idea of your goods.

Brevity never fatigues, therefore is a welcome guest.

Don't be too brief. The sermons on brevity, preached so persistently in advertising journals, are mainly intended for the beginner—the young writer who uses six words upon an idea that can be expressed in two, and then fails of making it clear. Practice soon gives him precision in writing, and when he has arrived at proficiency he chooses fitter words to clothe his thoughts. When a writer has real thoughts and some skill in expressing them, it is usually safe for him to use as many words as he thinks necessary. Any advertising matter that is interesting will be read — and the experienced writer makes it interesting. If it is clearly expressed in two hundred words the reader gets through it more quickly than if it were cramped into half as many. The longest way round is frequently the shortest way home.

The soul of advertising is not brevity, but interest. Advertising is not altogether the art of saying things in the minimum number of words, but of saying them in forceful words, and as many as are needful for the purpose. Sentences may be filed down to the fine point, but the point must not be filed away. In certain cases three sentences are more effective than three words of epigram. The ad. writer must exercise judgment, looking to his matter rather than to the economy of words in presenting it.

Just like fishing

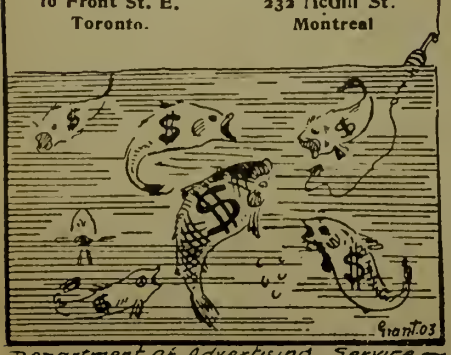
Building up trade is just like fishing.

If you use the right kind of bait and cast your line where the kind of fish you want are most plentiful, you'll quite likely get a number of bites.

Then if you go about it right you are pretty sure to land most of them.

Apply the illustration to business.

If you want to catch the grocery trade, cast your line where all the good grocers in Canada congregate every week—looking for bait to build up their businesses with—in THE CANADIAN GROCER. But



Suppose results don't come at fust
What be yew goin' tur dew?
Take out yewr ad, and kick yewrself,
An' go ter feelin' blew?
Uv course yew hain't; yew're goin' tew fish,
An' bait an' bait agin;
Bimeby some nibbles 'n bites 'll come,
Then yew'll pull 'em in.

Our Department of Advertising Service is now providing good bait for a number of our advertisers—and stands ready to help a few more in this connection.

Drop us a line about it.

A GRIEVANCE

of the average grocer is that he has to carry such a heavy tea stock. What with Japans, Chinas, Indians and Ceylons, he certainly has a grievance. But—— there's a way out. Encourage all your customers to use

Ceylon Teas

You can do it, and ought to do it. You simply can't get your customers to use any other country's teas, so it is no use trying; but you swing everybody into line on Ceylon Teas, which come in both blacks and greens.

Why! Go burn it. There is 10 times more satisfaction in burning money than in losing it in driblets. through carelessness of clerks, or disputed accounts. IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

Should Meat, Fish and Fruit be Exposed

FOLLOWING last week's announcement of Dr. Sheard's proposed by-law to regulate and restrict the exposure of meat, fruit, fish, milk, and other goods upon puhlic streets in the city of Toronto, unless protected and covered so as to avoid contact with dust and other ohjectional matter, the Canadian Grocer has pleasure in reproducing in this weeks' issue, interviews with a numher of representative wholesale and retail grocers, fruit and provision dealers. These may he said to express the consensus of opinion of the Toronto trade in regard to the new hy-law, which will he the leading order of business at the coming meetings of the Toronto Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Associations, and is already a live topic on the street.

H. D. Kelly, 90 Queen street East.

"There can be little doubt that a whole lot of people would appreciate the restrictions proposed hv Dr. Sheard. At the same time it is too severe to meet with the approval of the grocery trade generally.

"As far as butchers and provisioners are concerned, it ought not to be a serious obstacle. Nearly all butchers have tarpaulins or other suitable coverings for their meat while it is in transit between slaughter house and retail store. In their display, however, the trade might be seriously handicapped, and it is a question, whether outdoor displays of meat are objectional in cold weather, except on windy and dusty days. The grocer, himself, makes a specialty of poultry displays at holiday time, and would have to cut out this trade altogether of he were not allowed to display it outside his store front, not only because poultry has to be displayed to sell, but because it will not stand the indoor temperature of the average store. The latter remark applies equally to fish.

"If the hy-law goes into force, it will unquestionably interfere with the sale of small fruits, and put an end to the speculative buying of such fruit by the retail trade. It is no secret that a grocer can sell twice as much fruit when he huys in quantity as when he purchases in small lots. People get to look for certain varieties of fruit, cheap at certain seasons, and only require to have their memories jogged hy seeing a big display in a grocery store front. If the grocer could not expose this fruit it would mean much reduced sales for him, smaller profits for the retailer, and a much smaller volume of husiness for the wholesale trade.

"I believe the exposure of fruit is necessary if it is to be sold, especially in down town districts, where the trade is transient. A passer-hy may not have any notion of buying, but may he attracted hy something that catches his eye. A workman going home at night, sees an attractive display of fruit, and if it is not too much trouble, jumps off his wheel or the street car, and carries away a box or two of herries.

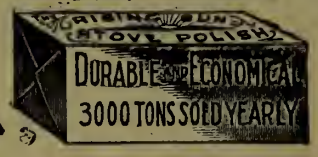
"It would be impracticahle for the average grocer to display fish inside his store, on account of lack of space and the difficulty of regulating the temperature. In the Summer time, there can be little complaint, as the grocer handles nothing hut smoked and dried fish, and when he stocks fresh fish, he keeps it in an ice hox. In the interior of provision or hutcher shop, the temperature is usually regulated for such displays.

"The by-law would help the grocers in a modified form, in putting a stop to the huckster trade, it would render the grocers a distinct service. One difficulty which would undouhtedly arise is in regard to the down town fruit market, where it is ahsolutely impossihle to exclude dust. The wholesale fruit men would have something to say here."

Mr. Park, of Park & Thompson, King street E.

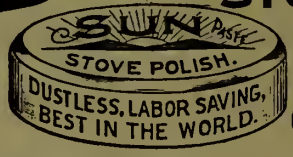
"The hy-law is all right along general lines, but too severe to meet with the approval of the provision trade. Were it to go through, I should be unable to display even a few turkeys at Christmas time, a serious matter when it is remembered what a feature provisioners make of their outdoor displays.

"Discrimination should he made, hetween fresh meat such as beef, where a fresh cut leaves the meat exposed and cured meat and poultry, which dust cannot get at so easily. The former class of meat should not he exposed, except in clear cold weather, and never when it is liahle to become contaminated from dust, etc. Lard, cooked meats, etc., should never he exposed. The average butcher has perhaps still a few lessons to learn in cleanliness, at the same time such a sweeping by-law is almost sure to arouse opposition, and the desired end he thus defeated. The hutchers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association will in all probability deal with the hy-law officially."



J. S. Bond, 220 Gerrard street.

"It looks like another opening for officials of whom we are afflicted with too many already. As for the hy-law, it will never meet with the approval of the trade in its present form.



"The clause to restrict the exposure of meat is all right. The dust that accumulates on meat in front of our butcher shops is anything hut conducive to the health of the consumer. Butchers will tell you that dust can he washed off, such a process, however, does not improve the quality of meat. The practice of some hutchers in exposing meat until it is positively hlack, is to he condemned unequivocally. More care might also be exercised in conveying meat from slaughter house to meat and provision stores.

"It would go hard with the grocer, were he to he prohihited from making an outside display of fruit. As a matter of fact, only a small percentage of his fruit supply ever sees the store front; at the same time, he has no other way of showing fruit, and unless fruit can he displayed it sells slowly at hest. The hy-law might have one good effect in teaching grocers to exercise greater care in huying fruit. As far as improper exposure of fruit is concerned, I think this has been considerahly exaggerated. If fruit becomes contaminated with dust and foreign matter, much of this is gathered while the fruit is on its way from the country to the market, and while it is exposed in the wholesale fruit market. The grocer is, or ought to be, careful to have his outdoor display of fruit well shaded, and covered with netting, and if these simple details are looked after, there need he little anxiety on the part of the public, as fruit is never exposed long enough to cause deterioration."

A. Snuggs, Gerrard and Mutual streets.

"Dr. Sheard's new by-law is undoubtedly along right lines. It is my firm conviction that there is altogether too much fruit exposed in front of our grocery and fruit stores, and I have no hesitation in expressing myself in favor of any law or by-law prohibiting the outdoor display of foodstuffs. Even in door displays should be protected as far as possible from dust and foreign matter, which goes to make them unfit for consumption. As far as I am personally concerned, I never expose fruit in Summer, considering that I have a responsibility towards my customers; and there can be little doubt that the dirt and dust of a city street during warm weather is highly injurious to fruit displayed in front of groceries and fruit stores.

"Of course, the down town grocer immediately raises the objection that it is absolutely necessary for him to display fruit thus to sell it, and I will admit that the prohibition of outdoor displays would not effect my business, situated as it is in a residential section, nearly so much as it would the down town man. At the same time, I take the stand that the grocer ought to have some consideration for the public good as well as for his own immediate profits, and I believe that the volume of business on the whole would not be curtailed to any great extent, even by the passage of as stringent a by-law as Dr. Sheard's, while at the same time a distinct service would be rendered the public. It is true enough that outdoor displays of fruit are among the most effective silent salesmen known to the grocery and fruit trades at the present time. On the other hand, every grocer knows that much exposed fruit is unfit to eat, and it would not take very long to educate the consumer to the importance of this fact.

"In regard to fish, the same rule holds. I do not think fish should be exposed even in winter time; both retailer and consumer would be better off, if all such goods were confined to the inside of a store. People must have foodstuffs, and will buy them whether they are displayed outdoors or indoors.

"While I am speaking of by-laws, there are a couple of suggestions that I should like to bring before readers of The Canadian Grocer. First, in connection with the weighing of bread, an inspector comes around and possibly finds one loaf an ounce or two light, he carries it off, and reports, but never says a word about the loaf that is an ounce overweight. Second, in buying prints of butter, the consumer seldom gets a pound weight. The grocer is simply in the position of a middleman, his profits are the same whether the print weighs 14 or 16 ounces. The gainer is the manufacturer, and the loser the consumer. Something ought to be done to remove this grievance."

R. Barron, 728 Yonge street.

"Dr. Sheard's new by-law meets with my entire approval. There is altogether too much fruit, fish and provisions, carelessly exposed on our streets and thoroughfares. Personally, I have avoided outdoor displays of fruit, etc., for some years. There can be little question that articles of food become contaminated from exposure on a city street, especially one where there is much city traffic. Dust, even in the interior of a store, often becomes a serious problem for the grocer. Two years ago, I had a semi-open front put in my fish department, but some months ago, did away with it on the ground that exposure of fish to the open air was not advisable.

"It is a mistake for the grocer to say fruit, meat, etc., has to be exposed to sell. People must have the necessaries of life, and it is only a matter of educating them to look for what they want in the interior, instead of the exterior of a shop. I do not think that trade would suffer in the least during the revolutionary period if one might use such an expression.

"Take soft drinks, in which the grocer does a more or less thriving business. In passing a store, you often notice three or four ginger beer bottles lying on a shelf display of fruit. As a rule, the bottle has a substantial coating of dust; a child carries off the bottle, taps it on the spot, drinks dust and all, and yet some grocers say that the consumer has no grievance. This sort of thing should be absolutely prohibited."

F. W. Johnston, 82 Davenport Road.

"The idea embodied in the proposed by-law is to be commended, the grievance, however, is not sufficiently great to warrant the passing of a by-law that would undoubtedly hinder business. Take for instance, the clause which prohibits the outdoor exposure of fruits, etc., on a Summer evening, I keep a man outside selling bananas. If I were compelled to keep bananas inside my store, the bulk of them would remain unsold. People have got to see fruit, if it is to be sold readily. Further, people won't go out of their way to see it. This item is a comparatively big one where a grocer's trade is largely transient.

"There may be something in the contention that exposure to dust doesn't improve the quality of fruit. It cannot be said of the average grocer that he is liable to the charge of undue exposure of fruit and produce; he gets half a dozen crates of berries for the day's trade, opens and displays one after another of them, and is usually sold out by noon. Further, the small grocer seldom has room to store fruit indoors.

"The by-law, as it stands, will, if passed, mean a direct loss to the grocery trade, and on this account cannot help meeting with general opposition. As a matter of fact, there has been little if any grievance in connection with the exposure of meat, or of fruit, for that matter, and it is manifestedly unjust to legislate with the knife against the trade in general, in order to bring one or two offenders to time. The by-law might be more acceptable if it were not so strict.

"It will be hard on the hucksters, and in this particular to be commended by grocers and fruit dealers generally. Finally, I am opposed to giving the city medical health officers any more power than they now have.

"A matter which has been irritating us grocers and which might profitably be taken up by the public authorities, is in connection with the selling of potatoes by hucksters. They deliver to the consumers at the rate of 75c. per bag, presumably 90 lbs. although if you ask them whether they are selling 90 lbs. they get round the difficulty by claiming to sell simply a bag of potatoes. A grocer cannot sell the regulation bag of potatoes cheaper than 90c. except at a loss."

H. Swan, 162 and 164 King street E.

"In as far as any such by-law interferes with business, it will not meet with the approval of the grocery trade. My own business is of such a nature that it would not be appreciably affected; speaking generally I doubt whether the public have such a grievance as to warrant the passing of such a severe by-law. The butchers and fruit men look after the carting of their goods pretty well at the present time. The average grocer must display his fruit in order to sell it, and it would be a mistake to tie him down hand and foot when there is no particular point at issue.

"The by-law is unnecessary, it is too stringent, and impracticable, especially in the down town fruit and meat markets."

Fruit Men Express Their Opinion.

Mr. Dawson, of Dawson Bros., Mr. Everist, of McWilliam and Everest and Mr. Clemes, of Clemes Bros., as well as several other prominent Toronto wholesale fruit men unite in condemning Dr. Sheard's proposed by-law on the ground that "it will seriously curtail business, and be impracticable as far as the Toronto wholesale fruit market is concerned. Fruit must be exposed there, and what is more, dust cannot be altogether excluded. There is this to be remembered, however, that fruit is never stationary for any length of time. Considerable dust and dirt will also be gathered by the fruit in transit from the country.

"The grocers are justified in contending that fruit has to be displayed to sell readily, and any such by-law would hinder more than it would help. Hucksters sell approximately one-half of the fruit sold in Toronto, and naturally the wholesale fruit men are not anxious to see this section of the retail fruit trade blocked, which the proposed by-law would undoubtedly do."

PERMANENT INJUNCTION ISSUED.

On Feb. 2, 1905, Justice Archibald, in the Superior Court, Montreal, issued a permanent injunction enjoining Miss Juliette Lepage (The Colonial Specialty Co.) from manufacturing table jelly under the name of "Krouah," The injunction was sought for by Sutcliffe & Bingham, Manchester, Eng., on the ground that "Krouah" in both name and package was an imitation of "K Kovah jellies. Mr. Jas R. Greig, of Montreal, is Canadian representative for the K Kovah goods, and expresses much gratification at the judgment rendered.

AMERICAN GROCERS CONVENE.

THE eighth annual convention of the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States held in Cincinnati on Jan. 24, 25 and 26, was the most important in the history of the Association. Among the vital questions discussed by this representative organization were the "Premium Exchange System," the "Pure Food Bill," "Trading Stamps," and "Parcel Post." The successful work of the association in endeavoring to put a stop to the Premium Exchange System in the United States is to be especially commended, going as it does to show the power such an organization may be in removing trade evils.

The election of officers for 1905 resulted as follows: President, John A. Green, Cleveland; vice-president, Lorenz F. Padberg, St. Louis; secretary, Fred Mason, St. Paul; treasurer, H. W. Schwab, Milwaukee; director, Charles J. Kramer, Little Rock.

The next convention will be held at Niagara Falls, N.Y. The Natural Food Co. have invited the association to become its guests on that occasion, and have donated $12,500 to further the cause of organization, believing that the interests of manufacturers and distributers are so closely allied that whatever affects the one affects the other.

FRESH AND CURED FISH

New Salmon Canneries.

CONSTRUCTION will be shortly begun on the big cannery to be erected by the Capital City Canning & Packing Co., on Esquimalt Harbor, Vancouver Island. It is the purpose of the company to have the establishment ready to handle the run of sockeyes which occurs in July. The cannery will be built to have a capacity of 1,500 cases a day, and the building will be so arranged that machinery to double the output can be installed without enlarging.

As a preliminary undertaking three salmon traps will be erected on sites secured by the company on the southwest coast of Vancouver Island in the vicinity of Sherringham and Otter points. This being the first shore touched by the vast schools of sockeyes that annually pass through the straights of Juan de Fuca, on their way to the Fraser river, it possesses peculiar advantages in a commercial point of view.

As the signs are that Victoria will become the centre of supply for the salmon fishing industry, under the new conditions inaugurated, the undertaking of this enterprise at Esquimalt may be regarded as one of the first important stages in a transition of great advantage to Victoria. It means a distribution of money there for labor, boxes, cans and supplies of various kinds, which will, of course, result in increased advantage as operations develop and the industry seeks its most profitable centre, in which connection it may be pointed out that Vancouver Island is much better situated commercially for the prosecution of the industry than Alaska for instance, where the freightage on material back and forth amounts to 30 cents per case, and the transportation of labor amounts to 3 cents per case, a very considerable item.

The officers of the company are: President, Duncan E. Campbell; vice-president, Capt. J. Graham Cox; secretary treasurer, Richard Hall, M.P.P.; directors, Capt. Wm. Grant, John Taylor, Thomas Walker and Wm. Turpul.

J. H. Todd & Sons and W. Munsie have also commenced the construction work on their new cannery, which is to be erected at Esquimalt. It is expected that the cannery will be completed by April 1. The pack prepared for will be from thirty to forty thousand cases, and in the height of the fishing season their industry will give employment to about 250 men.

Alaska Salmon Pack Diminishing.

One of the strongest features in the salmon situation, says the New York Journal of Commerce, is the heavy reduction in the number of Alaska canneries that will be operating this season, compared with those worked in previous years.

In 1902, fish were packed in seventy-two factories in Alaska. The next year the number was sixty-three, in 1904, it was fifty-three, and this year, but thirty-seven canneries are expected to pack. It is understood that the A. P. A. will close down this season eight of their plants, which in 1904 season packed 425,000 cases reds, and 60,000 cases pinks. It is not expected that any of the P. P. & N. Co. plants will operate this year, although they did run five plants in 1904, packing 250,000 cases, mostly all reds. Other independent plants are closed down, many of whom have failed.

The reason why some packers are shutting down and others have failed, are according to the Kelley-Clarke Company of Seattle, the losses caused by excessive labor exactions, expensive marine operations and equipments, higher costs of tin plate, boxes, solder, etc., expensive offices, high salaried officials and poor marketing.

White Fish From Slave Lake.

IT is a fact not generally known that Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba are becoming depleted of their white fish, which are justly celebrated throughout Canada. Last week the first shipment arrived in Winnipeg of winter-caught white fish from the Lesser Slave Lake. It has been found necessary to turn to the far northern lakes for supplies which formerly were to be had in abundance in Lake Winnipeg. The Lesser Slave Lake is the nearest of these lakes to a line of river, but the fish have to be teamed for many miles to Edmonton.

With the extension of the railway facilities of that country the large lakes farther north will, no doubt, be exploited, and Winnipeg fish men are interested for this reason, among others, in the possible routes of the G.T.P. Of course, the Slave Lake fish are necessarily more expensive than those obtained in Lake Winnipeg, but the Winnipeg Fish Company who brought the first car load to Winnipeg state that the quality is superior and the fish are meeting with a good reception from trade and public.

Fish News.

Four American fishing vessels laden with frozen herring are reported to be frozen up in Bay of Islands.

Owing to stocks of dry cod being very low, it is rumored that the LaHave fleet will be off to the Banks about March 1,—a month ahead of last year's sailings.

The lobster industry for the Winter season between Halifax and Yarmouth opened on Dec. 15. Between Shelburne and Yarmouth so far the fishermen have not done well, but from Shelburne to Halifax they have had good success. Factories for Winter packing have been kept pretty well supplied in the eastern section, but in the western some canning shops have found it necessary to close down for the present.

Exports of canned salmon from the United States for 1904 gained considerably over the previous year, the figures for eleven months of 1903 and 1904 being $3,370,764 and $3,995,599 respectively.

The B. C. Packers' Association contemplates the construction of three traps on the southern shores of Vancouver Island, near Otter Point, and will commence operations as soon as weather permits.

According to advice received from the Pacific coast, the demand for canned salmon from the far East has fallen off to some extent, and of late more mess beef has been shipped to the Orient. B. C. packers are preparing for a big catch this year, it being the fourth in the cycle since the immense pack of 1901.

DAWSON CITY WHOLESALE GROCER IN MONTREAL.

Mr. H. B. Palmer, of Palmer Bros., wholesale grocers, Dawson City, Y.T., is a visitor to Montreal. The Grocer had the pleasure of an interview with Mr. Palmer in Lockerby Bros.' sample-room. Business is reported as not having been as active nor as heavy during 1904 as in previous years, attributable to the fact that the discoveries of new gold fields are drawing the population away from the commercial centre of the Yukon. The late rush to the new fields just across the American line took away about 4,000 miners in a short time; this naturally means a reduced local trade. There are four large jobbing and supply houses in Dawson, besides quite a number of smaller jobbing and wholesale grocery houses.

Canadian canned goods are much in favor, although a singular feature is that Canadian canned meats are not popular. It is thought that in time, when the existing prejudice in favor of United States pack of goods has worn off and the quality of Canadian goods is properly demonstrated, the latter will get a better reception. The demand for canned meats has fallen off very much since fresh-killed meats began to come in and cold storage facilities were established on proper basis.

Mr. Palmer is East on a purchasing trip; incidentally he is renewing old friendships.

and Cold Storage News.

The Bacon Situation.

DURING the week under review there has been an advance in the price of live hogs to 5½c. per pound, owing to temporary shortage in the Danish market, and a falling off in shipments from Canada, which resulted in an advance on select Wiltshire sides in the English market to from 53 to 54 shillings, other less desirable lines being quoted at 50 shillings. Canadian buyers failed to see that this was an abnormal condition of the market and went to extremes, advancing prices directly to 5½c., although leading Canadian packers hold that this advance was altogether unwarranted. Their contention, moreover, has since been verified, as the market dropped no less than from 4 to 5 shillings on Feb. 7. Authorities say that although the price of hogs has not yet dropped to a lower level, the market at the present time will not warrant 5½c. In regard to the claim that packers have been under-supplied with hogs during the last few weeks, it would seem that they have been over-supplied, and that the recent advance was entirely due to abnormal conditions arising in the British market.

For domestic consumption, trade in cured meats is satisfactory for this time of year, although the volume of business transacted is never so large as at a later date. Fresh meats are in seasonable demand with supplies coming freely and little or no fluctuation in prices during the last few days.

Cheese and Butter Trade.

The cheese market is practically lifeless, as cheese available for sale is run down to very small compass. Prices consequently are nominally 10¾c. to 11c. and holders in most cases are not anxious to push sales owing to the smallness of stocks. The bulk of stocks held here are the property of United Kingdom merchants, and as they are being ordered forward weekly they are also much less than ehey were a year ago. British markets also display no great strength and little activity; but as holders over there are convinced of the statistical soundness of the situation, prices are firmly maintained at about 52s to 54s Liverpool, 53s to 55s London, 53s to 55s Bristol, with an odd shilling or so higher for the North of England and Scotch markets.

A brisk demand for butter continued locally at slightly higher prices, and if scarcity of supplies continue, there may be an advance in this article before long.

Canadian Export Egg Trade.

THE following letter on the export egg trade of Canada has been received by the Extension of Markets Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, from Watson, Fraser & Co., Glasgow, the largest egg-importing firm in Glasgow. Their remarks re frail egg cases from Canada are endorsed by the chief of the Markets Division, who states that he has received more complaints of this nature during the past season than in any previous year. Canadian exporters should take the hint and stop using cases that are too weak to protect their contents during transportation:

Dear Sirs,—On the whole, we regret to report that the Canadian egg trade has been a disastrous one this year, both for the exporter and importer. The chief reason for this was that the markets in Canada in the Spring of 1904 were far too high, and this made the price of preserved eggs much dearer than they had ever been before. Fewer contracts were placed, and those who made them had practically to sell out at cost. Even at present there are fairly large stocks lying over both in Liverpool and Glasgow, and it is not at all likely that importers on this side will take the risk of paying such extreme prices another season for preserved eggs.

Prices kept up throughout the whole season, and the result was that fresh and cold-stored eggs were from 20 to 24 cents per hundred dearer than they were the previous year. This had a great effect on our markets. If there were no other eggs but Canadian coming into the British market it would be all right, but shippers in Canada must bear in mind that Russia is creeping up on them every year, both as regards quality and the average they ship to our markets.

The quality of the Russian egg this season has been very fine, and has given buyers every satisfaction. Some of our customers, in fact, who generally go on to Canadians, have worked entirely with Russians, and left Canadians severely alone. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the market this Spring will not be rushed up, but will come down to more on a level with two or three years ago, and thus assist importers on this side to keep the Canadian eggs well to the front. As already mentioned, Canadians must not forget that other countries are sending eggs into the Scotch and English markets, such as Denmark; the price of these has been practically the same as the preceding years, and it has been with great difficulty that importers on this side have managed to get a profit out of the Canadians this season.

Another matter we would like to call attention to is the style of case that has been arriving from Canada. They are much too slim for carrying eggs in, with the result that one shipping company could not get them out of the hold without putting them into cheese tubs. This gives you a fair idea of the state of the cases when the shipping company had to resort to this means of getting the eggs discharged.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Toronto.

Provisions—Bacon and cured meats are slightly firmer this week on account of the advance in the price of hogs, due it is said, to a temporary shortage in supplies of the latter, and because packers haven't been able to obtain sufficient supplies to keep them going. In certain quarters, higher prices are predicted: in others, the contention is that the present advance is unwarrantable. Hogs are now quoted at $7.00 to $7.50 for car lots, and $7.50 to $7.75 for street lots. We quote the following prices:

Long clear bacon, per lb	$ 0 08½	$0 08½

Butter—Dairy butter is scarce, with more creamery offering than a week ago. An active demand is noted for best grades of dairy butter, and supplies are barely sufficient to keep the market going.

The situation in dairy has firmed somewhat on account of peculiar conditions prevailing in England. There is only a difference of from 4 to 5s between the price of ordinary dairy and choicest creamery, whereas, the difference is usually from 15 to 20s. The high price of creamery has had the effect of inducing comparatively free buying of dairy butter, which has firmed in price accordingly. Times have been hard in the old country, and as the demand is for shilling butter in consequence, the Canadian market is kept pretty well cleaned up of dairy butter on account of the export trade. We quote the following:

Cheese—The cheese trade continues dull but steady, as is natural for the time of year. A fair amount of business reported on export account. The price quoted last week, namely, 55s. for export were not c.i.f. prices, but "out of store." The c.i.f. price at present is 53-54s. for choicest, which means that Canadian cheese is netting shippers for export about 10 3-4c. Our quotations are as follows:

	Per lb.
Cheese, large	....	0 11
" twins	....	0 11½

Poultry—Receipts of poultry have been extraordinarily light during the week under review, but there is a ready demand for all supplies available. Geese are out of the market, and the same might also be said of ducks. We quote the following:

Preservation of Butter.

The French National Society of Agriculture has recently received from one of its members an interesting communication on the preservation of butter by fluoride of sodium. The writer says this substance is not hurtful unless administered in doses of 463 grains a day for animals weighing 125 pounds. From 4 to 15 grains suffices for 2 pounds of butter, which it will preserve indefinitely. It is stated that the strength of the fluoride, so far as effect upon the health is concerned, is diminished one-half by mixing. If, however, it retains its full strength, no inconvenience can result, as many physicians prescribe as much as 6 grains every twenty-four hours in order to regulate indigestion.

It is further stated that the fluoride can be used only in infinitesimal quantities, as more than 7 grains to a pound of butter renders it unpalatable, but that instead of making the butter indigestible and less nutritive, the fluoride, when used properly, is considered an aid to digestion.

Utilizing By-Products.

"One of the greatest secrets of business success lies in avoiding waste," remarked a successful business man the other day. "In this single fact," says the New York Commercial, "lies the principal reason for the great success of the Armours, the Swifts, the Standard Oil Company, the American Sugar Refining Company and practically every other successful industry.

"Take the packing industry as an example. Nothing is allowed to go to waste. The buttons that you wear on your coat are made out of the blood of the cattle, hogs and sheep. Instead of allowing this blood to go to waste it is gathered up, congealed and manufactured into buttons. The hoofs of the cattle are manufactured into combs and brushes. Glue, vaseline and dozens of other by-products are manufactured out of the entrails and other portions that at one time were allowed to go to waste. At the present time these by-products furnish one of the principal sources of revenue to the beef-packing companies.

Beef Trust Unlawful.

The Supreme Court of the United States has arrived at the unanimous decision, that unless the corporations constituting the alleged "Beef Trust" shall heed the injunction recently made permanent by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the Government will institute proceedings against the individual members of the corporations to enforce the decision of the court. The injunction referred to prohibits the continuance of a combination to suppress competition in the purchase of cattle for slaughter; forbids combinations to maintain uniform prices in selling meats; forbids combination between parties to obtain discriminatory rates from the railroad companies.

World's Cold Storage Capacity.

During 1904, Australia, with 27 freezing works, having a total freezing capacity of 62,900 56 lb. carcasses per day, shipped 11,942 tons to the British market, and 17,498 tons to other countries. The 23 works in New Zealand, with daily capacity of 65,200 56 lb. carcasses, shipped 91,624 tons of frozen meat to the British market, and 1,631 tons to South Africa.

The Argentine Republic, with 7 works, with daily freezing capacity of 54,300 carcasses, shipped 154,537 tons (frozen and chilled) to the United Kingdom, and 29,512 tons (frozen) to other destinations—principally the Cape.

At the recent annual dinner of the Bristol District Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association, at Bristol, Eng., the president made the significant statement that imports of Canadian butter into Great Britain now stood third on the list as a direct result of organized effort on the part of Canada to cultivate this trade.

Mr. J. H. Ginge, manager of the Canadian Packing Co., London, is dead.

J. L. Bradshaw, crockery and china merchant, Stratford, has gone on his annual buying trip to England.

The name of Mr. C. N. Kittson has been proposed as successor to Mr. Jardine, the late Canadian Trade Commissioner to South Africa.

Mr. W. B. Innes, president, and Mr. W. H. Ferguson, vice-president of the Canners' Consolidated Limited, were in Montreal during the past week interviewing the trade.

Mr. D. W. Douglas, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, is reported as doing a good trade on the North shore of the St. Lawrence, between Montreal and Quebec city.

Mr. W. M. Harrison, representing Salada Tea, between Ottawa and the Gaspe coast, dropped into the Montreal office of The Grocer this week. He reports business most satisfactory, and on the increase.

Mr. Archibald Hutchinson, of the St. Lawrence Starch Co., Mr. J. H. Ruddy, of the Brantford Starch Co., and Dr. Reid, M.P., of the Imperial Starch Co., Prescott, were visitors to Montreal this week.

Mr. Chas. Gyde, manufacturers' agent for Rowntree's cocoa, McIntosh's toffee, etc., is on a business trip to the lower provinces in the interests of the above-mentioned firms. Mr. Gyde is expected to return about Feb. 18.

R. J. McCrea, son of J. A. McCrea, of Guelph, was a recent caller at the Toronto offices of The Canadian Grocer. Mr. McCrea has recently been admitted as partner to his father's business. This means more than paternal favor; it is a tribute to young Mr. McCrea's ability and fitness.

Mr. Geo. W. Baines, of the Preston Metal Shingle & Siding Co., Preston, who is making his first trip of this year through the larger business centres of Eastern Ontario and Quebec, favored the Montreal offices of The Grocer with a call this week.

Mr. J. Ernest Clark, representative in Montreal of the Harry Webb Co., Toronto, was a caller at the Montreal offices of The Grocer this week. Mr. Clark is enthusiastic in pushing the merits of Webb's goods to the front, and as he is an energetic and experienced salesman, the combination of a good firm, good goods, and good salesmanship, should secure a share of the trade in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Jos. F. Eby, Mr. H. C. Beckett and Mr. Gardiner, members of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Price Committee, were in Montreal during the past week in consultation with the Montreal members. Some interesting discussions were held, and matters of vital importance to the trade arranged, particulars of which will appear later.

Mr. J. Bromley, of John Bromley & Sons, extractors and refiners, Bloomsbury Works, Leeds, Eng., who is also president of the Leeds Road Club, was recently presented with a gold medal at the annual dinner of the club, as a token of esteem for services rendered the club during the two years he has filled the presidential chair.

MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held on Thursday, Feb. 2, at 8 o'clock p.m., at Monument National. There was a large attendance of grocers, both members and non-members, as the result of a special circular sent out by the secretary inviting discussion and action on that bugaboo of the trade, the pernicious trading stamp.

President Daoust occupied the chair. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read by Secretary Larandeau, the serious question of trading stamps was taken up. The committee appointed some time ago to visit the retail grocers of the city, reported that over 500 grocers had signed the agreement not to give trading stamps after February 1. Only 12 out of all the grocers called upon had declined discontinuing the giving of stamps, and this number was thought too small to stop the cessation movement.

The petitions circulated were addressed to the honorable Senators and members of the House of Commons of Canada, and read as follows:

"We, the undersigned retail merchants, respectfully petition you. In view of the evils without number caused to the retail trade of the petitioners by the histribution of trading stamps, known also as cash receipts;

"To amend the Criminal Code in such a manner as to declare illegal the issuing, the sale and the distribution of said trading stamps or cash receipts, etc., etc."

An animated discussion followed, in the course of which many valuable suggestions were thrown out to counteract the evil. It is to be regretted that there were so few English-speaking grocers present. On inquiry as to the reason of this by The Grocer representative, he was informed that it was solely due to the fact of the discussions being entirely or almost entirely in the French language, which made it impossible for an only English-speaking member to take an intelligent part in the society's affairs. It had been made a rule of the association that the discussion should be in both languages and to President Daoust's credit be it said, he endeavors to guide the members along the lines of the resolution adopted some time ago. It is to be regretted that the French members, who predominate and are all able to understand and speak English, do not placate their English fellow grocers,—it certainly would strengthen the entire association and make for good for all the trade. As long as matters continue in their present state the association cannot properly be designated as the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, and there can only be one outcome, and that is the formation of an English-speaking grocers' association. In fact, such a proposition has been mooted, but it is to be hoped that the parent association will not further debar, possibly not intentionally so, the English members from a proper participation in the affairs of the association. The old legend "Unity is strength," should be the association motto, and where the interests of all grocers, English and French, are identical, it is folly not to act along the easy lines above indicated.

It was announced that an interview had been arranged for Friday noon, Feb. 3, with the Hon. J. C. McCorkill, Provincial Treasurer of Quebec, to petition the Legislature to enact a law separating the liquor from the grocery business similar to the law in force in Ontario, and a committee was appointed to wait upon the Hon. the Provincial Treasurer.

The report of this committee will be presented at the next meeting of the association in March.

H. P. Eckardt vs. Grocery Brokers.

The brokers succeeded in adding another victory to their list on Thursday evening, Feb. 2, at the Queen City Rink, Toronto, when they defeated H. P. Eckhardt & Co., the score being 7 to 2. This win for the Brokers, and a loss to Kinnear's, which took place on the same evening, changes the leaders of the league. With the exception of some good work by Brown and McLaughlin for the losers, and P. Millman and Webber for the winners, the game was featureless. Eckardts arrived on the ice minus two men, and it looked at first as if they would have to default the game. A member of the club, however, McLennan by name, was put in goal, Robinson was moved to point, Tickell to cover, and Brown went up with the forwards. Still they were one man short, and to even up the Brokers took off Donaldson. The Brokers had the best of the game from start to finish, and the score would doubtless have been larger had it not been for the poor condition of the light, and the large amount of snow on the ice. Frank Morrison officiated as referee, and was inclined to allow rough play. The line up was as follows:

H. P. Echardt & Co.—Goal, McLennan; point, Robinson; cover-point, Tickell; forwards, McLaughlin, Chapman and Brown.

Grocery Brokers — Goal, Guthries, point, P. Millman; cover-point, Banks; forwards, Webber, May and A. Millman.

Canada Grocers vs. T. Kinnear & Co.

There was a general surprise at the Victoria College Rink, Toronto on Thursday evening, February 2, when the Canada Grocers succeeded in defeating T. Kinnear & Co., the score being 4 to 3. During the first half the Grocers had slightly the best of it, scoring two goals to their opponents' nil. Kinnears started in strong at the last half, and almost succeeded in tieing the score. The class of hockey put up by the Grocers in this game was greatly superior to that played by them in their last game with Eckardt's. Notwithstanding the vast improvement that has been made in the combination of the forward line, the defence is still very weak. Howard in goal played an excellent game, stopping scores of shots which looked like sure winners. Stewart, as cover, was the star of the evening, although his speed made it rather difficult for the others to play combination.

The losers put up a good game, but, as the saying is—"luck was against them." The defence did not appear to be as strong, and several times the forwards of the winners succeeded in getting past what is generally concluded by other teams to be almost impregnable. The line up was as follows:

T. Kinnear & Co. — Goal, Holden; point, Walkinshaw; cover-point, Humphrey; forwards, Minett, C. Rennie, Kinnear and McGregor.

Canada Grocers—Goal, Howard; point, Wylie; cover-point, Barnhouse; forwards, Stewart, Hortop, Warren and Smith.

Grocery Brokers vs. Canada Grocers.

One of the most interesting games of the league was played off at the Aura ee Rink, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, February 4, between the Grocery Brokers and the Canada Grocers. The play on the whole was clean, only one man being sent off the ice.

Stewart, Hortopp and Howard played star game for the Grocers and Banks, May, and Aidran Millman for the Brokers. Fred Donaldson shot no less than 4 of the Brokers' goals. At the end of the first half the score stood 2 to 0 in favor of the Canada Grocers.

Later in the game, the Grocers shot 2 goals, after which the Brokers caught up, and at the end of the time they were all. Five minutes play each way was allowed, the Grocers shooting one which was offside. Another five minutes was played, during which the Brokers shot one, and won the game. The line up was as follows:

Salt Sense

The ordinary Salt of ordinary trade must not be confounded with Windsor Salt, which is sifted, not ground. Think of the goodness that slips away from the Salt crystal that is mangled, bruised, ground—think of the impurities that must creep in. Windsor Salt contains nothing but pure, white, dry, whole Salt crystals—no matter that they are fine and small crystals, they are whole crystals all the time.

Windsor Salt

is prepared in the only safe, sure way, by the Vacuum process. Every particle of moisture is dried out, which prevents the "caking" of the Salt. If you will stop to consider you will quickly see why Windsor Salt is best. Any man of intelligence and sense will agree to that.

UNION LABEL AGAIN.

NO session of Parliament can very well pass without the introduction of a union label bill. With indefatigible persistency, Mr. Ralph Smith, M.P., has again brought forward his pet measure, and its provisions are once more before the legislators of this country.

We admit that the adoption of this measure, aiming as it does to give a legal recognition to the trademark of union labor, would be a fine thing for the unions. It would immensely strengthen their hand in their apparently ceaseless conflict with capital.

But viewing the matter from the standpoint of the public, the question naturally arises, what advantage will we gain from having the union label legalized? Will it be any more than it is now, a guarantee of quality? If so, by all means let us have a legalized label.

But the measure does not make any reference to this point: In fact it accepts the label in its present significance as merely the indication that a piece of work has been done by a union workman. It does not mave any provision that a standard will be set and legally enforced by a legally-constituted body.

We come to the conclusion, then, that Mr. Smith's measure is but another of the countless moves and countermoves in the struggle between capital and labor and that, as it does not seem to be of any particular advantage to the long-suffering public and will not tend to smooth out industrial difficulties, it need not call for our support.

WESTERN GROCERS' CHANCES

A LETTER in this paper two weeks ago inquiring into the chances of a grocer commencing business in Western Canada and some editorial comments thereon have brought us the following letters from western grocers:

Editor Canadian Grocer.

Winnipeg, Man.:

In reference to the letter in your issue of January 27, from a Toronto correspondent asking as to business conditions in the West, I might say that in my opinion they are on the whole more favorable. After a business experience in a Western Ontario village I came to a small place in Assiniboia and started with a capital of about $3,000. In Ontario my business was straight groceries and provisions, but here I found it necessary to carry certain lines of hardware and to handle some staple dry goods. In proportion to the capital invested, my turnover has been about a third larger than in the east. I don't think there is very much difference in the percentage of profit, but what difference there is is in favor of the west. The only drawback I have found has been that there is too much credit asked. I haven't suffered much from bad debts, but it isn't convenient always to wait for one's money. But perhaps this is more than offset by the increasing value of my property.

(Signed) WESTERN READER.

Editor Canadian Grocer,

Winnipeg:

In reply to your Toronto correspondent who asks about Western chances in the grocery trade I would like to make a few remarks. An Ontario merchant would be apt to succeed out here, but I don't know enough about Belfast, Ireland, to know how a merchant from that place would prosper in the west of Canada. Conditions are quite different.

I don't think that when everything is considered there is much difference between the West and the East as a field for the grocer. Profits are perhaps a little better out here, but in the country at least we have to wait so long for our money that we are not much better off. There are not many bad debts, as crops have been good for several years. A crop failure, however, would hit us merchants very hard as we would have to carry our customers over.

Just now we are having our troubles getting in our money. Out here it is little trouble to sell goods but it's not so easy to get the money. I hope some other Western merchants will write you, as I would like to know if their experience is the same as mine.

(Signed) MANITOBA GROCER.

GOOD BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

THAT Canada is at last to have a mint of her own, where her gold can be converted into bright coins, is matter for favorable comment. When we have the necessary production of the precious metal, it seems a shame that we should have to market it in the United States and bring in our currency from England.

Though Sir Wilfrid Laurier remarked in the debate on an appropriation for the mint, that he did not think as a commercial venture there was any money in it, we are inclined to think that in time there will be a revenue from its operations. The seigniorage which is levied by the mint on its output is a constant source of revenue.

There is also another consideration. At present the gold of the Yukon, whence the bulk of the Canadian production of the precious metal comes, is almost entirely marketed in the United States. In fact, two-thirds of the output is controlled by United States interests. The progress of the city of Seattle is directly attributable to Yukon gold. In view of these facts it is evident that the marketing of the gold in future in Canada will prove highly beneficial to Canadian trade and commerce. The stream of trade will then set in towards our own Canadian cities instead of going to build up Seattle and other American cities.

THE DRAWBACK ON FLOUR.

THE announcement from Washington that Attorney-General Moody has at last handed Secretary Shaw his opinion stating that it is legal to grant a refund of 99 per cent. of the duty paid on foreign wheat when mixed with the native wheat and the product exported, is the most important piece of news of the week, affecting, as it will, not only the milling industry in the United States, but also in this country.

It will give a larger market for the wheat of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, which may prove of great importance in the near future, when these great wheat-growing provinces double or treble their present output, and the United States does not grow enough wheat to feed her own people, owing to the great increase in population and the exhaustion of her wheat fields.

That the speculators in Manitoba expected the decision to cause an immediate advance in the price of wheat was shown by the May option in Winnipeg opening Friday morning at $1.06½ an advance of 1c. a bushel over the previous night's close, but the U.S. buyers not coming into the market, as expected, the price dropped back to $1.05⅝ before the market closed.

While U.S. millers are delighted with the favorable decision of Attorney-General Moody, granting them the same privilege which other manufacturers have enjoyed, they are not going to rush into the market and buy wheat recklessly without knowing exactly what the regulations are, which Secretary Shaw will issue for their direction in handling this particular business. The wording of the Attorney-General's decision is such that caution is necessary in acting upon it. He says in part: "Drawbacks may be allowed on flour produced in part from imported wheat provided the custom officials can identify the foreign material and can ascertain to their satisfaction by the books of account or otherwise the quantity or measure of the foreign material actually present in the completed article." He also says: "It is to be presumed that having in view the danger of mistakes or the substitution of material, suitable regulations would be framed which will require clear proof of identity and quantity of measure of the imported material actually present in the completed article offered for export." As it would be absolutely impossible if Manitoba wheat were mixed with the hard Spring wheats of Minnesota and Dakota to identify the product of the Manitoba wheat in the flour made from the mixed material by any commercial method, it is easy to see that great difficulties may arise in putting the decision of the Attorney-General into force. The benefit of that decision to the U. S. millers depends very largely on Secretary Shaw making the regulations of such a flexible character, that while insuring the export of all the product of the Manitoba wheat on which the drawback is claimed, they will at the same time not hamper the mills so as to make the business unprofitable. The margin of profit at any time on export flour is so narrow that a comparatively small additional expense would eat it up and make the favorable decision of no value to the millers.

This is where Winnipeg speculators made their mistake in looking for a sharp advance in the price of wheat, because the better grades of Manitoba wheat were above an export basis before this decision was made, and when wheat is too high for export, flour made from that wheat cannot be profitably exported. While the decision will give the Manitoba grain dealers and farmers a larger market for their wheat, the price cannot advance unless there is an advance in the price of flour in foreign markets or the product of Manitoba wheat goes into consumption in the U. S. without paying the duty and the drawback is secured by exporting the equivalent amount of flour made from native U. S. wheat. This is the danger which the Secretary of the Treasury has to provide against in his regulations, and one which, if it was permitted, would work great harm to the milling trade of the U. S. and also prove injurious to the U. S. farmer. On the other hand, if the identical flour made from Manitoba wheat is exported, the mixing will be a benefit to the U. S. farmer, as it will enable the U. S. miller to utilize much of the low-grade wheat which is of too poor a quality, if ground alone, to make flour, even for export; he will thus get a better price for it than if he had to use it for feed, as he has frequently had to do.

The granting of this privilege will undoubtedly take away from the Canadian mills a certain amount of trade which they at present enjoy, but the Canadian mills will have no right to complain as long as the U. S. mills are compelled to export the actual flour made from Manitoba wheat, unless they pay the duty on it, as the competition will be fair, and this the Canadian mills are not afraid of.

TRADE DISCOUNTS AND TERMS.

FROM time to time the retail grocery trade is stirred up by the action of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, some prominent manufacturer of a well-established proprietary article, or some package-tea man, by a circular changing the established trade or cash discounts and reducing the time limit for payments. All such changes are looked upon by the grocers as so many more steps towards making trade conditions extremely hard, vaguely arousing the suspicion in their minds that the Guild, the jobber, or the manufacturer is endeavoring to get all the profits, or the best of a business deal.

That this idea is an erroneous one will, on reflection, strike every thoughtful business man. Who, of all the merchants in business for the past 15 or 20 years, would want to go back to the long credits, the uncertain term-payment period of the past? What has tended to place trade on practically a cash basis and the certainty of knowing where the merchant stands financially, but the reduction to a common-sense basis of payments? The conditions of modern trade, the keen competition and the necessity of carrying larger stocks and a more varied and changeable class of goods, makes it absolutely imperative for the manufacturer and jobber to get as close to quick payment and reasonable living discounts as possible.

In some quarters it is believed, and there are individuals in the trade who take pains to foster this impression, that the jobber or manufacturer is too avaricious, too ready to squeeze everything he can out of the retailer. This idea is readily seen to be absolutely without ground,—the jobber must depend upon, and encourage the retailer in every possible way to do business on paying lines, else the losses will fall upon him;—if the retailer cannot make money to pay the jobber the latter certainly cannot exist; therefore, it may be assumed that any changes in time terms or discounts introduced by the jobbers are carefully thought out on the hard lines of business experience, and made with the rational view of not killing the "bird that lays the golden egg," but of causing it to lay more and larger eggs. The Grocer cannot help thinking that the nearer business is done on short terms and reasonable discounts, the closer we shall come to a cash basis. It also appears that the reason a bad impression of changes made by the Guild or other bodies exists, is due to the methods employed in many cases by those empowered to alter trade conditions; they savor too much of "Star Chamber" or "Family Compact" character, and it would seem to us that the hands of the trade would be greatly strengthened if, before any radical changes are made, such matters were first brought to the notice of, and then discussed by, the larger Retail Grocers' Associations of the country. A conference of all interested through the various committees, would remove the most serious friction and secure the adoption of such methods as can be shown to be for the betterment of the trade. To attempt "to drive things down the throat of the trade," as a prominent retailer expressed it, can only antagonize interests that should work harmoniously.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETINGS.

Halifax.

ONE of the most pleasant features in connection with the recent meeting of the Halifax Board of Trade was the presentation to Charles M. Creed, the retiring secretary of the board, of a check for $460 as a slight token of the esteem in which he is held by his business colleagues and in recognition of forty-three years of long and faithful service to the board. Mr. Creed also holds the position of secretary of the Maritime Board of Trade.

This year's annual meeting was probably the largest gathering of business men that ever assembled in Halifax, and by far the largest meeting in the history of the board. The executive for the ensuing year is as follows: President, James Hall; first vice-president, A. M. Ball; second vice-president, G. E. Faulkner; council, G. C. Campbell, W. J. Clayton, L. J. Mylius, O. E. Smith, I. C. Stewart, J. E. DeWolf, A. McKinlay, J. P. Cox, H. L. Chipman; auditors, W. A. Major and L. S. Poyzant. Seven additional members of the council have still to be elected.

Lindsay Board of Trade.

At a large meeting of Lindsay business men last week, the Board of Trade, which has been in a state of suspended animation for nearly three years, was reorganized with a membership of 46. The following officers were elected:

C. M. CREED,
Retiring Secretary of the Halifax Board of Trade

President, Robert Kennedy; vice-president, Alexander Fisher: secretary-treasurer, J. P. Donald; council, N. Hockin, John Carew, H. J. Lytle, E. Gregory, Joseph Staples, Richard Sylvester, R. Bryans, W. McWalters, Thomas Brady, W. F. Sutcliffe, R. M. Beal and Lorne Campbell.

CANADA GROCERS AT HOCKEY.

The first of a series of hockey games between the Hamilton and Toronto branches of the Canada Grocers, Limited, was played off in Hamilton on Feb. 6, at the Thistle Rink, the resulting score being 6-3, in favor of Toronto.

The following games have been arranged: Feb. 14, Victoria Rink, Toronto; Feb. 18, Thistle Rink, Hamilton; Feb. 21, Victoria Rink, Toronto.

SUCCESSFUL AT-HOME.

ON Wednesday evening the president, officers and members of The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association were at home to their friends in the spacious assembly rooms of the Temple Building. Over 300 guests accepted the hospitality of the grocers, including large numbers of the fair sex and many traveling representatives of the wholesale houses. That everybody had a good time goes without saying, and the 1905 At Home passes into history as by far "the best yet." Every care was taken of the guests by President Kelly, Secretary Panter and their able committee, who were one and all indefatigable in their efforts to see that everybody enjoyed themselves.

Dancing began soon after nine o'clock and was kept up, with a short intermission, for supper, until well on into the morning. D'Alesandro provided excellent music and old and young kept at it right up to the finish. Of course a good many of the men, notably the travelers, spent their time around the card tables which were placed conveniently through the corridors. The supper was served from eleven o'clock and was in Lloyd's best style.

Among the drummers present were noted: E. Huskwitt and J. M. Wright, Maclaren's Imperial Cheese Co.; A. McBride, McBride Bros. & Co.; H. Scully and W. Booth, Canada Biscuit Co.; S. Richardson, The T. A. Lytle Co.; J. W. Bates, Bates, Peacock & Co., Hamilton; J. Litzter, W. Spittal and Frank Crowly, Pure Gold Co.; J. N. Rawn, Andrew Wilson & Co.; J. F. Smythe, United Factories; D. Casey, J. A. MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, Feb. 9, 1905.

The grocery trade is reported as fair to good for the week. Sugar continues in an excited state with local trade only fair. Canned goods are moving actively, especially canned fruits and meats. The trade are evincing considerable interest in the war on at the present time, between the tomato growers and canners, and vegetable canners, which may have the effect of advancing the price of canned tomatoes for the next pack.

New crop New Orleans molasses medium grade has arrived on this market, and is proving very acceptable to the trade. New Barbadoes is also here, the opening price being 5c. above that of last year, and the market showing a higher tendency. An interesting item in connection with the Barbadoes molasses market is the shipment of some very fine goods to Canada by the Barbadoes Government. This molasses is thought to be too high class for ordinary trade, but has readily sold to the local wholesale trade.

There has been an advance in Ceylons all round, of 1c. per lb., in primary markets, and reports are of diminished supplies and firmer prices. Coffee is moving well, the speculative market being easier than last week by some 15 points. Increased enquiries are noted in Valencia raisins, as well as Sultanas, and prunes continue in active request. Evaporated apples continue to move in comparatively small volume, the same being true of dried apples. The egg market shows signs of breaking, and already prices have been considerably reduced. Beans are firmer than they were last week, hand picked and No. 1 primes having each advanced 5c. The recent cold weather has seriously interfered with the green fruit trade. Oversupplies of Valencias are noted on the local market, and prices have declined as a result. On account of the frost in Florida last week, Florida grape fruit is higher in price. New tomatoes and cauliflowers from Southern points have arrived on the market, and are quoted this week for the first time.

The grain markets are quiet, seeds being weaker, and Manitoba wheat slightly firmer than last week. Oats continue to advance, as well as the price of Canadian oatmeal products.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods trade, although much cannot be said of it ordinarily at this time of the year, has been unusually brisk during the past week. Not only in vegetables, but in canned fruits and canned meats.

The trade are inclined to the opinion that tomatoes may be high in price during the next Spring, if the tomato growers hold out successfully in their contention for higher prices. Our quotations are as follows:

SUGAR.

The sugar market has been dull and dragging during the week, and there has been a decided lack of confidence all round. The market in Europe has been pronouncedly weak which has had rather a depressing effect upon dealers on this side of the water. United States refiners have shown a market indifference to all offerings of Cuban sugars, and for the time being have met with the same attitude on the part of holders who have continued to ask 3 7-8c c. and f. for basis 96 on which parity a small lot of 7,300 bags in port was offered. It was at one time the intention of holders to store rather than accept less. We have since heard, however, that a cargo has been placed with refiners at 3 3-4c c. and f. which is equal to 5 1-8c duty paid, thus establishing 1-8 decline in raw cane sugar at this point for offerings of sugar afloat and for early shipment from Cuba while for March-April shipment 1-16 more is asked. Refiners' purchases for February-March shipment were so heavy that they are naturally indifferent as to offerings, and the course of the market will depend largely upon the ability or disposition of planters to hold such February-March sugar as still remains unmarketed. There would be no difficulty about this were it not for the weakness in Europe which shows no sign of recovery, and after several fluctuations the market is to-day 2 1-4c lower than a week ago, 88 per cent. beet for February-March shipment being quoted at 15s 7 1-2d f.o.b. Hamburg, which is equal to parity of 5.34c duty paid New York for 96 test centrifugals. The differential in favor of cane sugar is now 21 1-2c per 100 lbs.

Present indications are full of uncertainty and a better market need hardly be expected before the end of the present month. We find we were in error in last week's report, in naming the lowest recent price touched by beets at 15s 3 3-4d, whereas it should have been 15s 8 1-4d, so that to-day's quotations mark the lowest figure so far this year.

The depression in raws has appreciably affected the demand for refined, buyers being without inducement to anticipate wants, and we hear to-day that New York prices have declined 10c per 100 lbs. without, however, affecting Canadian quotations, which remain as quoted below.

Receipts at United States Atlantic ports for the week ending February 1 were 33,961 tons, with meltings 30,000 tons, the same as last week. Total stock in all hands was 88,318 tons, combined stocks of United States and Cuba were 176,818 tons, against 189,555 tons last year, the deficiency being 12,737 tons. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,770,818 tons, or 919,737 tons less than for the corresponding period last year.

Latest cables from Europe advise no change in the crop situation. In Cuba there are 174 central factories in operation, an increase of 10 for the week, and 19 over the same period a year ago. Previous estimates of the Cuban crop continue unchanged—namely, 1,200,000 tons, all of which will be required by American refiners.

Just as we go to press word is received that sugar has declined 10c. all round, the drop being effective Feb. 9, at 10 o'clock a.m.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A seasonable trade in syrup and molasses is reported for the week under review. Samples of Barbadoes molasses received during the last few days show excellent quality. A comparison of opening prices is interesting, viz., 12 and 17c., an increase for new crop molasses of 5c. over last year. This is easily accounted for, when it is considered that this year's crop is estimated at 28,000 to 30,000 puncheons, whereas last year the crop was 45,749 puncheons. Barbadoes planters were disappointed at the opening prices, expecting at least 18c. and refused to accept orders for delivery on this basis, except for three weeks ahead. Their expectations, however, have since been realized, and at the close, new Barbadoes molasses is being quoted at 20c. This represents prime cost on the Island, including package, making c.i.f. goods approximately 32c. An item to be considered in connection with the high opening price of Barbadoes molasses is the abnormal firmness in the sugar market, in view of which it is not a difficult matter to forecast high prices in Barbadoes molasses during the coming season.

COFFEES.

The coffee market is somewhat easier this week than last, speculative price of Rios having declined from 15 to 20 points. Wholesale trade reports a very fair movement of coffees generally. Mild coffees continue to hold their former firm position. We quote the following prices:

TEAS.

January is reported by the wholesale grocers to have been a very satisfactory month indeed, for tea sales, Ceylons having gone into retailers' hands in gratifying quantities, especially Ceylon blacks. As was predicted some weeks ago in these columns, there has been an advance of 1c. per pound on Ceylons all round in the primary markets. The quality is improving, supplies are diminishing, and higher prices are looked for. According to cable reports, the competition has been particularly brisk in the Indian market, where the crop is practically known, the grades receiving particular attention being medium teas over 7c. per pound, which show a distinct recovery from the depression of last month.

The English trade is much interested at the present time over the effect of the additional tea duty in curtailing the consumption of tea during the past year, as well as the disturbance caused in duty payments by Budget influences seen by the variation in clearances each year before and after the end of April. We quote the following prices:

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The rice and tapioca market is without special feature this week. Along with Standard B rice, we quote: Choice Rangoon at 3 5-8c. to 3 3-4c. New Orleans rice is making a successful bid for this market, and considerable quantities have already been sold on account of the price being favorable to buyers. This is owing to the extraordinarily large supplies of rice this year in the Southern States, which must be worked off even at reduced price. The quality of the American market is reported to be first class.

Latest reports advise decreasing supplies of rice in the Southern States, and that the market is firming on account of increase demand in Cuba, Porot Rico, as well as a recent shipment of 5,000 packets to Liverpool. Our quotations are as follows:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

The trade in Valencia raisins has evidently taken a new lease of life, and active enquiries are reported for the week under review, which is rather unusual so soon after the holiday season, considering that there is usually a lull in the Valencia raisin trade. There are also frequent enquiries for Sultanas, stocks of which on the spot are not abundant.

Prunes are moving well, 100-110's being particularly scarce. Fresh shipments of prunes are expected from the coast during the next few days. Latest cable reports say that the situation in currants is unchanged and firm, as last advised. The following are our quotations:

FOREIGN NUTS.

There is little or nothing new to report in foreign nuts this week. Trade is quiet, but steady, and prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are as follows:

DRIED FISH.

Trade in dried fish continues steady, with demand seasonable. Cod is reported to be moving fairly well. The dried fish business will undoubtedly pick up soon, as Lent is only a little over a month away. Last week's prices continue unchanged. We quote the following:

EVAPORATED APPLES.

Evaporated apples continue firm at 6 1-2c. with trade only fair. Dried apples are slow and featureless, with quotations nominally at 3 to 4c.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

The egg trade continues dull, and a break in the market may be confidently expected within the next few days. It is known that there are a number of large holders of stocks of pickled eggs, and as supplies of new laid eggs will shortly be arriving on the market in better volume, these interests will want to dispose of their stocks.

There is considerable diversity of opinion among the trade as to the price that ought to be quoted this week, the range of prices for strictly new laid eggs varying from 24 to 28c. Some dealers say that there has been a drop of from 3 to 4c., others, that the drop in the market may be easily covered by a margin of less than 3c. The same remarks may apply to cold storage eggs, prices ranging from 17 to 22c., the lowest quotations are 17 to 19c., and the highest 10 to 22c. Pickled eggs according to lowest quotations are from 2 to 3c. cheaper than last week, while other dealers say that 1c will cover the drop in price. Reports from New York say, that the cold weather has checked the supply of eggs arriving there, and that in consequence, the market has firmed considerably, the result being enquiries for Canadian eggs. We quote the following prices:

pickled	0 16	0 18

BEANS.

The bean market has firmed appreciably during the week under review, owing to increased enquiry generally. The demand from lumbering and mining districts is brisk, and liberal shipments to outlying points are reported. Hand picked beans and No. 1 primes have each advanced 5c. We quote the following prices:

Beans, handpicked, per bush	1 55	1 65
" prime, No. 1	1 45	1 55
" prime, No. 2	1 25	1 35
" Lima, per lb	0 07	0 07½

HONEY.

The honey trade is without special feature during the week under review, and the price of extracted clover honey has dropped 1c. We quote the following prices:

Honey, extracted clover, per lb	0 08	0 09
" sections, No 1, per doz	1 90	2 25
" " No. 2, "		1 65

SEEDS.

There is more disposition among the trade to take lower prices for seed, and as a matter of fact, Alsike is quoted this week from 40 to 50c. below last week's prices. Several reasons are responsible for this situation, namely, a falling off in the export demand, and the fact that receipts of seed continue large. Growers of Alsike are familiar with the fact that after the export demand is over, there is usually a tumble in prices, which condition prevails at the moment. We quote the following prices:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 10	5 00
Red clover	5 00	6 75
Mammotb clover, per bush	6 00	7 25
Timothy	1 00	1 35

Green Fruits.

The recent cold spell has seriously interfered with the distribution of fruit through the country. Prices are low, and there is a considerably over supply of fruit, particularly of oranges, in the larger city markets. The recent severe frost in Florida which destroyed five million boxes of oranges, will not effect the orange trade in this market, as wholesale fruit men had practically come to the conclusion that Florida oranges were not a profitable article to sell. The consumptive demand, however, which has been already created, will hardly be met next season as the orange trees are known to have been severely damaged although not killed outright, and this will undoubtedly curtail next season's crop. Florida grape fruit has advanced in price 25c on account of the frost, and the market is considerably stronger. Prices in New York have advanced $1.00 per box, during the last ten days.

Mexican oranges are practically out of the market. California navels have dropped 25c. and the market is reported to be in poor condition, with considerable over supply, and prices so low, that they are not profitable for shippers. Valencies are from 25 to 50c. dearer than last week, and scarce. Large 420's are out of the market.

Bananas are in liberal supply. Pines and tomatoes are beginning to come from Southern points, tomatoes being quoted this week for the first time. The lemon market is firmer, an active demand being reported during the last few days of cold weather. Bitter oranges have arrived on this market, and are already selling well. In reference to supplies of bitter oranges in the Canadian fruit market, it is interesting to know that New York dealers frequently have orders filled for them by Canadian wholesale fruit men. We quote the following prices:

Florida oranges, per box	2 50	2 75

Vegetables.

Fair trade is reported in vegetables, especially in domestic stock. Cabbages, which have been scarce in this market for some weeks, are now being supplied from the United States, and an easier feeling is noted. Imported tomatoes arrived on the market this week, and are quoted for the first time this season at $4.50 to $5.00 per case. California cauliflowers are also another novelty, being quoted at $3.25 per case. Beets are 10c. higher than they were last week, and butter squash has been crossed from the list. Artichokes are 25c. dearer they were last week.

The recent heavy frost in Florida will have the effect of delaying the vegetable crop three or four weeks, which means that the bulk of supplies of early vegetables will be somewhat later in reaching this market than usual. We quote the following prices:

Fish and Oysters.

There is nothing of special interest to record in the fresh fish and oyster market this week, except a healthy demand at quotation prices for nearly all lines quoted below. There are no new arrivals on the market to record, and last week's prices continue unchanged. Our quotations are as follows:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

Owing to a temporary falling off in supplies of Manitoba wheat, prices have advanced during the week as follows: Manitoba Northern, No. 1, 1 1-2c. No. 2 and No. 3, Northern, each 1-2c. Red and white wheat have each advanced 1c.

The market in oats continues very firm, an advance of 1-2c. being noted during the week. This advance is not due to increased demand, as there is very little oats moving. Oats are scarce, however, and at ruling prices are being undersold by American oats. We quote the following prices:

FLOUR.

The sales of flour have improved somewhat during the week, although trade as yet cannot be said to be brisk. An easing off on the export demand is noticed. Local prices continue unchanged last week. We quote the following prices:

Strong bakers " "	5 20	5 40
Ontario wheat patents " "	4 90	5 00

BREAKFAST FOODS.

Owing to the scarcity of oatmeal, which is quoted 12c. per bushel higher than the same product from the United States, there has been an advance in oatmeal breakfast foods of 25c. covering the list of oatmeal, standard and granulated, which is now quoted at $4.70 per barrel. Rolled oats in bags now quoted at $4.15 per barrel, in wood, $4.40 per barrel and broken lots, $4.55 per barrel.

The American cereal companies are competing successfully for the Canadian breakfast food trade, especially in the larger cities and domestic manufacturers are out of it for the present, on account of prices being favorable to the former. Our quotations are as follows:

Oatmeal, standard and granulated, carlots, on track, per bbl	4 70

Hides, Tallow, Skins and Wool.

The hides and wool market continues dull and featureless, although prices are remarkably steady. A certain amount of trading is reported, the volume, however, being comparatively small. The only change to note is an advance of 1c. in fleece wool, new clip. Our quotations are as follows:

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, Feb. 9, 1905.

Groceries.

THE jobbers report a fair week for business, inquiries and orders all coming in very well. Sugar holds at the same price, and the tendency is firm. Sales are reported as light. Teas are quiet and unchanged. India and Ceylon greens are reported as selling fairly well. No large transactions are noted in Japans, but inquiries are coming in as to expectations. Prices are the same, with an upward rather than downward tendency. Recent quotations on spices have shown a slight decline in the price of cloves and nutmegs, which, however, is said to be caused by some holders being willing to dispose of surplus stock. Molasses is very firm, and Barbadoes has advanced to 20c. at Barbadoes, including puncheons, which would cost from 32 to 33c. here. Stocks held in first hands here have been advanced to 30c. and over. The prices of canned goods are unchanged and sales are light. Canners have advanced gal. apples 10c. on account of the high price of evaporated apples. Dried fruits are firm and stocks sold up. Holders are looking for higher prices. Apricots and peaches are scarce and stocks held in primary markets very light. Fish sales are improving. Frozen herring are scarce and higher. Malpecque oysters are out of the market. Green fruits are selling lightly. Celery is in good demand selling freely at $5.00 per crate. An advance is looked for this week. California navels dropped from 25 to 50c. per crate, in sympathy with New York. Pineapples are arriving in frozen condition. Cranberries advanced from $1.00 to $2.00 per bbl., on account of light stocks held in New York. Rice, firm with upward tendency. Crops reported as being light. Nuts practically unchanged. Flour is in good demand, and prices firm. Seed is firm. Ontario bran has advanced. Rolled oats have advanced 25c. per bbl. Hay is unchanged. Local provision market unchanged, with business fair. Butter is firm. Eggs are scarce, and high. Potatoes firmer and some fair sales reported. Beans are firm. Evaporated apples unchanged from last week. Stocks very short. Maple products have fair demand, especially for buckwheat honey. Hops are unchanged.

SUGAR.

No changes in sugar prices of any kind. Sales are light. Foreign beet market fairly steady, though slightly easier in tone. Business locally has been none too active; country merchants apparently being well supplied for present requirements.

TALK WITH AN OLIVE MAN.

THE CANADIAN GROCER ran across an olive traveler at the Windsor in Montreal last week. While Canadians are consumers of olives and the consumption of this fruit is becoming more general as people become appreciative, on trial of this appetizing American institution, there are not many travelers covering the country whose sole aim, talk and breathing says "Olives!" and it was a treat to run across such an energetic, enthusiastic missionary as was found in the person of Mr. Anson B. Leo. Mr. Leo represents the well-known (at least to the United States side of the boundary) olive house of Alart & McGuire, 66 Madison street, New York, and has been calling upon the jobbing trade of Montreal during the week.

Mr. Leo knows olives—and some other things,—and The Grocer found him as full of information as a Baedecker. In the course of his travels he has exploited the merits of his wares in Porto Rico, Cuba, Central America, Mexico, the United States and Canada. Knowing that he represents one of the largest olive houses, if not the largest in the United States, The Grocer asked him for a sketch of his firm and business, which Mr. Leo kindly furnished.

About twenty-five years ago there was a concern in New York City, the old-established house of Alart & Rossiter, doing a business of about $75,000 per annum. This was previous to the present Mr. McGuire becoming a member of the firm; on his entry into the concern the name was changed to Alart & McGuire. The business grew very rapidly, and from the one salting and pickling house in West Chester County, N. Y., they now have thirty-five factories, owned, controlled and operated by the firm. These factories and salting establishments are located throughout the United States, touching practically all the large centres in the East, Middle West and as far west as the Missouri River, and south to New Orleans. Their manufacturing capacity of vinegar alone is given as 150,000 barrels annually, that is, 100 grain test vinegar, which is the highest strength vinegar now manufactured by the process of distillation. This full-strength vinegar is usually shipped in carload lots to the smaller packers, who reduce it to the respective grades required for their trade. Their capacity for pickles averages annually between four and five thousand cars.

A number of years ago Alart & McGuire started importing olives; to-day they claim to be the largest olive importing house in the United States, and the New York custom house returns are given as proof of their claim to this exalted distinction. Their bottling department is located at 299-305 Water street, New York, and is said to be the largest in the world, being an eight-storey building, and possessing every modern appliance tending to the cleanly, proper, prompt and careful packing of olives. This department is under the control and management of one of the ablest gentlemen in the business, Mr. Colin D. Mawer, formerly connected with Francis H. Leggett & Co., one of the largest wholesale grocery houses in the United States, and who thoroughly understands olives and their preparation.

Alart & McGuire, in conjunction with other large United States olive packers, have been making strenuous efforts to secure the entire olive trade of Canada, and though no one house can lay claim to having control of the trade, they are all developing and encouraging the demand for olives. As an indication of how this business has grown, it may be stated that during the past ten years the Canadian trade has increased over five hundred per cent. Jobbers, who some years ago purchased only small quantities and had difficulty in disposing of their stock, are now buying in carload lots. Mr. Leo expressed pleasure to the writer in stating that he had found Canadian jobbers, in comparison with those of many other countries visited, more up-to-date and progressive and alive to the great possibilities of their business. Notably in Montreal, he found several houses, that in the amount of business done, and in the methods employed, need not "take a back seat" after even the mammoth grocery houses of the United States and Great Britain. It was seldom that such cleanly and bright and well-equipped offices and sample rooms were met with in his country. The courteous manner in which American salesmen were received by buyers in Montreal was also especially noticeable.

Mr. Leo is now in the West spreading the "gospel of olives according to St. Leo." While in Montreal, Mr. Leo's commercial headquarters were made at Mr. W. H. Dunn's offices, St. Paul street, who is resident representative for Alart & McGuire. Mr. Leo complimented The Canadian Grocer as "about the best grocery paper he has seen, and I see them all."

TO STOP TEA FROM CANADA.

RE-ENACTMENT of the law which provided for a duty on tea brought into the United States from Canada, and was repealed by Congress some time ago, was strongly advocated by President Thomas A. Phelan at the annual meeting of the National Tea Association, held in New York on February 1.

"We have discovered that our Canadian friends have been seeking trade along the States bordering on the dividing line and underselling our market," said President Phelan. "While they have a special duty against all goods coming from the States to Canada of ten per cent. over the above all other duties which they impose from other countries, and which effectually forbids our seeking the markets of Canada, we have no such protection. Through a mistaken idea of expected reciprocity, Congress repealed the law which existed for our protection. We find that the re-enactment of this law is absolutely necessary to put us on an equality with our Canadian friends."

This is a phase of the tea trade in which manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer are vitally interested and The Canadian Grocer will be glad to have an expression of opinion from members of the trade through its reading columns.

DROP IN STARCH

A meeting of starch interests was held in Toronto on February 8, and as a result prices have dropped 1c per pound on all grades except Canada Laundry Starch, which is down 1 1-4c. The change took effect on February 8.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. C. H. Colson, of C. E. Colson & Son, Canadian representative of Crosse & Blackwell, London, returned to Montreal last week from a six weeks' trip to England. Mr. Colson reports that a very good business was done during 1904 and that despite a certain restriction to general trade throughout England he returns with a complete re-arranged plan and schedule for handling the increasing Canadian business and Crosse & Blackwell's goods, as well as the other English lines carried by Colson & Son will receive the closest possible attention and expansion. Indications for Spring trade of 1905 are very promising, large orders being already on hand, for first Spring arrivals. These orders are from all over the Dominion, from Vancouver to Halifax.

Mr. Albert N. Reay, Toronto, Canadian manager Force Food Co., was a caller on the Montreal trade this week, and paid a visit to The Canadian Grocer offices.

Leonard Bros., Montreal, have new arrivals of Labrador herrings in bbls. and half-bbls.; prices will interest the trade.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, February 9th, 1905.

BUSINESS continues fairly active, and the volume of sales is considered satisfactory for the season. Collections show some improvement, but there are still many complaints in this matter. For the present, sugar seems to have reached the highest mark, but there are not many wholesale men who are prepared to hazard many guesses as to the future course of the market. The decline of 30 cents on all grades for points between Dunmore and the British Columbia boundary, noted in our last issue, is not taken here, as indicating the future course of the market. One refinery controls the market in that territory, and owing to the absence of competition, the price in that district was higher than that charged by the same refinery for delivery farther East. The price had advanced to a point where it interfered with the consumption, and the reduction was made for this reason. Coffee continues easy in the New York market, but the local price is unaffected as yet. Some advances have been made in dried fruits, as has been predicted in these columns for several weeks. Peaches and pears have been advanced this week, and apricots are sure to follow suit very soon. California dried fruits now cost the wholesale houses more when laid down in Winnipeg, than they are charging the trade, and it is only the presence of large local stocks that prevented an advance being made about the first week in January. Evaporated apples are advancing as predicted last week. The advance noted below is likely to be followed by another very soon, if the Eastern market continues to develop further strength.

Sugar.

At time of writing, the sugar market has been quiet for several days. The reduction of thirty cents noted in these columns last week, as having been made by the British Columbia refinery on all grades of refined sugars for points between Dunmore and the British Columbia boundary, is not interpreted here as necessarily indicating the long expected turn of the market. Owing to the absence of competition, prices in that district had been advanced to a point out of proportion to values further East, and it was found that the high price was checking consumption. Window and Interior Displays

Timely Hints and Suggestions

Window Dressing for Provisioners.

FOR a window display in a provision or butcher store, an ice effect is one that may be utilized to excellent advantage at this season of the year. The ice must, of course, be the foundation. There are three ways of producing an ice effect. One is by simply laying sheets of ground glass, rough side up, being careful to have them match as evenly as possible. If there should be any cracks or corners these should be filled in with salt, darkened sufficiently to match the color of the glass. Another way of making window ice is to take thin cakes of paraffine, lay them together, filling in the cracks and corners with some of the same substance, melted. The third possibility is to stitch a clean, smooth sheet of parchment paper tightly over boards. Having the ice, we must consider what to put on it. A flag with a red ball in the centre, is an excellent idea. The flag should be fairly high up, say put above the level of the eye, and should be kept fluttering by means of an electric fan in the side of the window, but hidden from view. This same electric fan, by the way, is a good thing to keep frost off the windows.

Having the ice and the flag, a simple scheme would be to have a number of people skating for a prize, which would, of course, be a handsome turkey or chicken. The window should also contain a show card, which should be bright, snappy and appropriate, and neither too large nor too small.

The border of the ice pond should be made sloping, like the banks of a real lake. On these banks may be placed upright a number of those canvas-covered dummy hams, painting on the smooth side the eyes, nose and mouth of a man, to make them look like people watching the race. Further, a couple of small colored flags with the words "Smith's Hams," or "Smith's Market" may be stuck in the ground. The background of the window may be arranged as a wood scene, with pigeons looking down from the trees and rabbits watching the race from the ground, which could be made to look like snow or not, as desired. The effect would be considerably enhanced if the scene were to be lit by moonlight. Take a small round box, about the size of a five pound butter box would do. Knock out the bottom and leave off the cover. Over one end of this cylinder paste two or three thicknesses of white tissue paper, put your light inside the box, and you have a good enough moon for anybody.

This Week's Illustrations.

The window shown in this week's illustration was arranged by E. Dore for S. E. Cornell, of Sarnia. It is especially to be commended as a first-class meat and provision window. The display consists of spiced roll bacon, select English breakfast bacon, mild cured ham, boiled ham, tenderloin, spare ribs, fresh pork sausages, weiner wursts, bologna, headcheese, jellied hocks, jellied tongue, besides canned roast beef and other canned goods, fresh eggs, fruit, olives, etc. The whole is garnished with sprigs of parsley and celery, tasty bits of the printers' and lithographers' art being also used to good effect.

NEW MOLASSES REGULATION.

The Department of Customs has issued new regulation respecting the direct importation of molasses from other than British countries. The invoice of shipment is required to bear a certificate stating that the molasses therein described has been produced in the process of manufacture of cane sugar from the juice of the cane, without any admixture with any other ingredient, and is in the original packages in which it was placed at the point of production and not afterwards subjected to any process of mixing or treating. Molasses produced in Louisiana shall be consigned direct by vessel or railway from a port or place in Louisiana to a port in Canada. Molasses produced at Porto Rico shall be consigned direct from a port in Porto Rico to a port in Canada (without transhipment). Molasses produced in Cuba shall be consigned direct from a port in Cuba to a port in Canada, but may be transhipped in any intermediate country, under customs supervision, without change of original destination in Canada.

INTERVIEWED PROVINCIAL TREASURER.

The committee appointed by the Retail Grocers' Association of Montreal to act with members of the wholesale grocery trade on the proposed amendment to the Provincial License Law, met the Hon. J. C. McCorkill, provincial treasurer, at 12 o'clock noon, Friday, Feb. 3, in the Provincial Government Buildings, Montreal. The committee, which was introduced to the Honorable Minister by Ald. C. B. Carter, M.L.A., consisted of His Worship Mayor Laporte, Prest. P. Daoust, Ald. N. Lapointe, Ricard, Lariviere, John Robertson, Geo. Graham, L. E. Geoffrion (of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie.), L. J. Demers, of Demers, Fletcher & Cie.; John Scanlon, A. de Repentigny, J. Cochran, M.L.A., J. B. Deschamps, P. Brunneau (treasurer M. R. Grocers' Assoc.), J. P. Dixon, D. C. Brosseau, J. A. Menard, and others.

After the deputation was introduced, Mr. McCorkill explained to them the proposal to reduce the number of shop licenses to 400, and asked the Grocers' Association to support him in that position.

Mr. John Robertson said he spoke for himself alone, but he was strongly opposed to limitation. He believed it would mean a vast amount of trafficking in licenses. In the old country and in parts of the United States limitation of licenses had led to the most deplorable state of affairs. There nearly all the saloons were in the hands of capitalists and brewers. If the liquor-selling business was legitimate at all, let everyman go into it who paid the license fee and satisfied the commissioners, and leave the task of keeping the business decent to the law and those who had to enforce it. It was said that restriction of licenses would put out of business a lot of low class dives and "shebeens," but if the law were enforced and the revenue officers did their duty such of these places that were improper would be put out of business anyhow. The fault is any lay in the administration of the law.

Mayor Laporte complained that in view of the proximity of the surrounding suburbs the price of liquor licenses in Montreal was altogether too high. He thought that the object sought by limitation of the number of licenses could be secured more effectually by a more careful examination into the qualifications of license applicants, not only on the moral side, but on the pecuniary, to require that they should have sufficient financial strength to carry on a legitimate and bona fide grocery business, and the suggestion appeared to please the treasurer. Other grocers supported this contention, and claimed that in Griffintown and other similar districts there were scores of "grocers" who did not carry $25 worth of groceries, and made their living by selling liquor for consumption on the premises in violation of their license. The business was strictly local and it was very hard for the revenue officers to secure convictions.

Mr. Brittain of A. H. Brittain & Co., Montreal, selling agents for Black Bros. & Co., Halifax and La Have, was a visitor to the Toronto offices of The Canadian Grocer this week. Mr. Brittain reports satisfactory sales of "Acadia" and "Halifax" brands of cod fish in this market, and says his firm have only one complaint to make, namely, a shortage of supplies.

EASTER NOVELTIES.

AMONG the novelties in confectionery offered to the trade for Easter this year is a design in the form of a cross with elaborate floral decoration. Another seasonable line in chocolate is the wish-bone shown in assorted sizes. There is no end to elaborate fancy packages ranging from the comparatively cheap 25c box to the most extravagant creation in hand-painted silk. One very pretty box particularly suggestive of Easter is in gold with decoration of sweet peas. The usual lines of Easter eggs, chocolate roosters, figures, rabbits and chicks are to be seen in great variety. The tendency seems to be more and more in the direction of high-class, fancy confectionery, and it is particularly gratifying to be able to state that no confectioner need now go outside of Canada for even the choicest lines. In the larger centres Canadian confectionery is slowly but surely taking the place of imported goods; at the present time many of the largest hotels feature nothing but candy made in Canada.

The grocer and confectioner ought never to be behind hand at holiday seasons with something seasonable to tempt customers. Regular trade needs rejuvenating from time to time in confectionery perhaps more than in any other department of the grocery business. For instance the up-to-date retailer will put in a few extra lines of confectionery for Easter week. For St. Patrick's Day he will stock some boxes of confectionery with shamrock decoration. One of the most striking candy packages for March 17 is in the form of a top hat with pipes crossed and a bit of old Ireland thrown in. Such lines sell easily and well, if only a little care is taken to educate the consuming public.

GREEN FRUITS

Standard Apple Barrels.

THE adoption of a standard apple barrel for all Canada and the better enforcement of the Fruit Marks Act are matters which are occupying the attention of the department of agriculture just now, and in the near future some definite action will be taken in both directions to the certain benefit of the Canadian fruit trade.

Under present conditions two distinct sizes of barrel are used. One, the Ontario, or, as it is called in England, the Canadian barrel, being the maximum size prescribed by law and containing 112 quarts, and the other, used in the Maritime Provinces, containing 96 quarts, the minimum. The result is confusing and, as A. McNeill, chief of the fruit division of the department of agriculture, points out, on the whole, prejudicial to the interests of those exporters who persist in using the smaller barrel. In getting apples to the English market some half dozen charges are encountered — railway and steamship freights, dockage, drayage, etc.—all of which are per package, so that the Ontario shipper gets his 112 quarts of apples in the English market for the same money paid by the Nova Scotian for his 96 quarts. The prices received on the other side are about proportionate to the size of the barrel, the Ontario man getting an everage of about two shillings more.

Mr. McNeill says those two shillings are paid for 16 quarts of fruits upon which—compared with his Nova Scotian competitor—the Ontario exporter pays no freight. As the average cost of a barrel of apples to the grower is about $1, this means that, for every barrel the Ontario exporter sends across the water, he ships free of freight charges—compared with his competitor—16 quarts of apples, which cost him about 16 cents, for which he receives about 40 cents, or a clear profit of 24 cents a barrel more than is received by the Nova Scotian exporter. The advantage is so obvious that it is a mystery why the lower provinces adhere to the smaller and less profitable size.

Suggestions to Apple Shippers.

GEO. R. MEEKER & CO., receivers of Canadian and American fruits, Covent Gardens, London, Eng., write concerning the British apple market that the great thing is to get apples over there packed as tightly as possible and protected absolutely from frost. At the present time the market is in a state of collapse owing to the dullness of trade generally and the fact that large quantities of apples have been placed in cold storage at Southampton.

Hon. Sydney Fisher has given notice of a resolution to amend the act respecting the packing and sale of certain commodities so as to provide as follows:—"When apples are packed in Canada for export for sale by the box they shall be packed in good and strong boxes of seasoned wood, the inside dimensions of which shall not be less than ten inches in depth, eleven inches in width and twenty inches in length, representing as far as possible 2,200 cubic inches. Every person who offers or exposes for sale, or who packs for export, apples by the box otherwise than in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty of 25 cents for each box of apples so offered or exposed for sale or packed."

STRUCK BY PARALYSIS.

MR. W. H. FERGUSON, vice-president of the Consolidated Canners Limited, was stricken by paralysis on Thursday, Feb. 2, at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal. Mr. Ferguson, who was attending a meeting of Price Committee of the Dominion Guild, had retired to his room Wednesday evening in perfect health and spirits. As he did not put in an appearance next day, at the meeting, his absence was commented upon, but the other members of the committee presumed he had been detained by some special business at the hotel. The housemaid endeavored several times to enter the room, but it appears that Mr. Ferguson had bolted the door. Becoming alarmed at last, the maid advised the office, and the door was broken in. Mr. Ferguson was found lying near the door in his night dress, with a gash on the back of the head, received no doubt in falling as he was trying to press the call button. Medical attendance was at once called in, when it was found that he had received a paralytic stroke, and was unable to speak. After careful attention had been given him, Mr. Ferguson was removed to the Homoepathic Hospital, where he now lies in a critical condition. Messrs.

Innes, Eby and Beckett, who were staying at the hotel arranged for his comfort and telegraphed for members of his family.

The shock is a serious one, and is the second one that has befallen Mr. Ferguson, he having had a slight stroke some eighteen months ago. It will be some weeks before he can be removed to his home at Delhi, Ont., and the permament results of the shock cannot now be ascertained. Mr. Ferguson is well and favorably known to the grocery trade of Canada, and is one of the leading spirits in the Consolidated Canners' Limited.

TRADE NEWS FROM TRINIDAD.

In their commercial review of Jan. 12, 1905, Gordon, Grant & Co., Port of Spain, Trinidad, state that all grades of flour are in light supply, with demand fair, especially for superfines, and the position gradually improving. Pork heads, ribs, loins, and other sundries command a ready sale at full rates. Canadian split peas are in request. Newfoundland cure codfish should shortly command higher rates.

Sugar grinding will be general in February, the phenomenal advance having created a demand for export. All old crop mallases has been cleared out, and no more will be available for some time to come. The cocoa crop proper will not start until about March, and quite moderate supplies are expected until then. The light showers being experienced are of great benefit to the young fruit, but with the dry season at hand, planters are still somewhat concerned about the crop. Prices have advanced, and are expected to go higher. Most plantations have contracted for this year's output of cocoanuts at the equivalent of $20.00 per 1,000 f.o.b. for large selected peeled, in bags. Crop reports from Venezuela are still very discouraging, the cocoa trees there having suffered from unseasonable weather.

Export Duty on Wheat.

THE speeeh of Robert Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., at the annual meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade, last week, seems to have ereated a vast amount of interest among wheat dealers and millers. and some very foreible and argumentative language has been used by the daily press during the past few days. Mr. Meighen's foreible and logieal statements seem to have provoked wheat exporters to an extent bordering on frenzy. It is natural to assume that wheat exporters would oppose any sueh eontemplated move as the plaeing of an export duty on wheat, but it would seem logical enough, and a wise move to eneourage domestic milling industries to the fullest extent, and as pointed out by Mr. Meighen, new mills will spring up throughout the eountry, partieularly in the Northwest. Mr. Jas. Carruthers and Mr. Alexander MeFee fear that the imposition of an export duty on wheat by Canada would have a disastrous effeet upon our trade with England, where Canada enters into eompetition with Russia, Australia, the United States, and other eountries, and that if Canada should impose the duty, the English miller would buy of other countries. The question of eheap mill by-produets on extensive farming is one of great moment, and, as Mr. Meighen states, the effeet on the dairy industry of Canada would be supremely benefieial with by-produets attainable at reasonable prices. Such by-produets are easier to get when the milling is done in Canada. This view is strongly eoncurred in by R. M. Ballantyne, of the Lovell & Christmas Co., and seeond viee-president of the Montreal Board of Trade. As a eonelusive argument of the wisdom of imposing such a duty. Then Mr. Ballantyne refers to the approval of the export duty on logs and pulp-wood. "If any export duty is good for the eountry in the case of logs and pulp-wood, how mueh greater would be the benefit of the milling of Canadian wheat, were all done in Canada, giving employment to an inereased number of mills, keeping the transportation in Canadian channels, giving labor to manufaeturers of barrels and leaving the most valuable stock food obtainable for the Canadian farmer to convert into live stoek and dairy produee." We publish the views of Messrs. Meighen, Ballantyne, Carruthers and MsFee, as set forth in interviews during the past few days. Mr. Meighen advoeates an export duty on the ground that sueh a duty would eause the milling industries of the West to inerease and the farmer to reap a direet benefit.

"My proposition is that by putting an export duty on wheat bought by the Ameriean miller, to be ground in bond and exported to Great Britain, will be diverted from Minneapolis, Duluth and Ameriean eities, and the Ameriean miller be eompelled to establish his mills in Manitoba and our Northwest Territories, at our farmers' door, and greatly to the advantage of the wheat produeer, but, greatly against the interests of the wheat exporter, as the latter will have to eompete in the market purehasing his wheat with the largely inereased number of mills in Manitoba and our Northwest Territories."

Jas. Carruthers expresses himself strongly against the proposed tax.

"Just talk that to the farmers of the Northwest and you'll have a revolution. It is to the interests of the farming eommunity to have as wide a market for their grain as is possible, and any eurtailing of it would be a direet blow at them. I think the proposal of Mr. Meighen, to benefit some few people, would mean to tax the whole farming community.

"Wheat and grain is not like other raw produets. We compete in England with Russia, Australia, the United States and numerous other eountries. Just as soon as we raise the priee of our wheat there, the English miller is going to buy the other countries' products. Where will we be?"

Mr. McFee says an export duty on Canadian wheat is absurd.

"It is nothing more than an admission by Mr. Meighen that the Canadian millers cannot export their flour as eheaply as those of the United States ean. We have been doing all we ean for them in the way of eheapening railway and other forwarding facilities, but when they ask that we shall tax ourselves to put money in their pocket they are asking too mueh.

"The wider the market Canada has the better it will be for her. The Canadian market has been little better than a close preserve for the English miller. The new trade with the United States gives the farmer another string to his bow and should not be restrieted. No Government dare put an export tax on wheat."

Mr. Meighen, replying to Messrs. Carruthers and MeFee, speaks "not as a miller, but as a Canadian on this question.

"I make bold to say that the farmer would not have reeeived the priee for his wheat that he has for the last fourteen years if it had not been for the competition given the wheat exporter by the millers.

"If the Amerieans will give us a new market, open up their market for Canadian wheat, and allow the produet ground from Canadian wheat, to be distributed and sold for home eonsumption in their own market, I believe it would be suicidal poliey to put an export duty on wheat. However, as they deeline to do this, and will only purehase our wheat to be ground in bond, to be exported to Great Britain—a market whieh we already have as free as free air,—where does the new market eome in?

"Speaking of the absurdity of the proposal to put an export duty on wheat to be ground in the United States by Ameriean mills, my proposition is to bring the Minneapolis mills to the Canadian farmer's door, and inerease the competition against the wheat exporter. In faet, do away with the middle-man, and have the miller purchase his wheat direct from the farmer, thus saving the middle-man's profit. I again mave the assertion that by putting an export duty on Canadian wheat, bought by American millers from wheat exporters in our Northwest, to be ground in bond in American mills at Minneapolis and Duluth, the product to be shipped to Great Britain, this will be decidedly in the interest of the Canadian farmer from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It will increase the competition in wheat buying to the Manitoba and Territorial farmer; it will establish the mills practically at his door; it will give him the benefit of the by-product to enable him to increase his mixed farming. The West will not develop as it ought to, until large and small milling industries are carried on in its midst.

"Few people properly appreciate the influence of cheap mill by-products on extensive farming, as one is scarcely possible without the other. Dairying only becomes a leading industry, and in a prosperous state when the milling of by-products at reasonable prices becomes available. Bran and shorts enter largely into successful poultry raising, swine husbandry, cattle and sheep feeding and dairying. I do not think I am putting the case too strongly when I assert that Canada's greatest need to-day is cheap feed. I include Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"The more mills established in Canada, the keener the competition the present miller will have in the domestic market for the sale of the product of his mill. The home market will also have much keener competition from the new large milling industries that will be started, in the purchasing of his wheat, than it is possible for him to have from the exporter."

R. M. Ballantyne's views, as expressed in an interview, bear directly on the effect of such a duty on the dairy industry of Canada. As one thoroughly conversant with and closely identified with Canada's great industry, his opinion is worthy of close consideration:

"To such an extent has the wheat-growing of the West been brought to the attention of the public generally, by the expenditure of large sums of money for transportation systems, elevators, etc., that the other branches of agriculture seem to have been forgotten, whereas live stock and the products of the dairy are so overwhelmingly greater that it is difficult to understand how they could be overlooked.

"The annual value of dairy products exported is upwards of $25,000,000,—to which must be added the Canadian consumption of milk, butter and cheese, amounting probably to another $25,000,000,—or $50,000,000 in all. The value of bacon exported is in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 per annum, and the value of hog products consumed in Canada must be equal to the value of the exports, making a total of $30,000,000 for hog products.

"Then there is the value of cattle and sheep exported and consumed in Canada annually, which, added to the value of the foregoing, makes a grand total far exceeding the value of wheat. For the production of all this wealth, feed must be obtained. But if the milling of the Canadian wheat is not done in Canada, the most valuable feed that the farmer can procure is lost to the farmers of this country; for not one pound of the shorts and bran obtained when grinding the wheat is ever returned to the country, whereas, if the milling were done in Canada, every pound of it would be fed to stock in this country, and Canada would be richer to the extent of the value of the stock and their products produced thereby. It should be remembered in this connection that about one-quarter of the wheat consists of the by-products, bran and shorts."

The Grain Drawback.

Winnipeg grain men were reticent when asked their opinion as to the probable effect on the price of Canadian wheat of the final decision with regard to the grain drawback. It had been predicted that, in case the final decision were in favor of the legality of the drawback, there would be an immediate sensational advance on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and a morning paper on the day the announcement was made predicted an immediate advance of perhaps 10 cents. These predictions did not come true and there was in point of fact very little excitement on the Exchange. Grain men evidently were waiting in something like bewilderment to see what would be the result. There were so many things to be considered that very few had any definite opinions as to the probable result.

There can be no doubt, though, that there will be a much increased demand from Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin mills for Canadian wheat. Formerly only the larger concerns which could afford to put in bond an entire mill for the purpose could import the Canadian wheat, but under the new state of affairs created by the drawback decision, the smaller mills can also import.

Electric Treatment of Flour Successful.

In an article on "The Bleaching of Flour," M. Fleurent, one of the leading chemists of France, expresses himself as being favorable to the process for accomplishing by electrical means the same chemical change that is otherwise done by the slow process of time.

This process is being extensively adopted in Britain, the United States, and other countries, and Canadian practice has proven that the method is not only beneficial to the flour, but adds to its selling value, and the purifying and sterilizing of flour by electricity is now regarded as one of the greatest revolutions in the history of milling as a result of experiments which have been extensively carried on for over a year.

Tobacco Crop of Cuba.

THE Cuban tobacco crop in the past year was good in both quality and quantity, and may be safely valued at over $30,000,000. The exports during 1903 were valued at $26,046,431, against $25,400,000 in the previous year. The exports of leaf tobacco in 1904 excceded those of the previous year by $600,000. The total exports of leaf tobacco amounted to 40,977,946 pounds, valued at $13,245,187, 24,128,430 pounds of which, valued at $9,931,802, went to the United States, and 10,306,574 pounds, valued at $1,921,079, to Germany, the next largest purchaser.

Tobacco stems, which are used in the manufacture of snuff, etc., were exported to the amount of 598,178 pounds, valued at $9,959, prineipally to the United States, Argentina, and Germany.

Cigars exported numbered 205,244,298, valued at $12,302,969, of which 45,769,422, valued at $2,888,111, went to the United States; 28,388,074, valued at $1,968,395, to Germany, and 92,559,817, valued at $5,197,785, to England. Of eigarettes, 14,662,209 package s (each package containing about 14), valued at $404,173, were exported during the year. Of these 287,767 packages, valued at $7,055, went to the United States; 16,693,372 packages, valued at $49,070, to Dutch possessions; 1,323,127 packages, valued at $40,926, to British Islands; 7,259,354 packages, valued at $191,854, to Colombia, and 586,002 packages, valued at $17,632, to Germany. Much of the remainder went to the Canary Islands. The export of cut tobacco amounted to 226,648 pounds, valued at $81,031, of whieh the United States received 75,205 pounds, valued at $23,583, and Colombia 57,283 pounds, valued at $21,201.

Tobacco seed to the value of $3,112 was exported to the United States.

The principal shippers of leaf and manufactured tobacco in Habana are as follows: Habana Tobacco Company, Cuban Land and Leaf Tobacco Company, G. Arostegui, Jose Suarez & Co., Luis Marx, Calixto Lopez & Co., H. Upmann & Co., G. Solomon & Co., Bridat Montros & Co., Federico Bauriedel & Co., Leslie Pantin, S. L. Indian Tobacco Industry.

THE Island of Sumatra exported in 1903 tobacco to the amount of 254,000 bales, valued at £3,118,000, the profits of some of the best concerns ranging between 50 and 100 per cent.—a gratifying showing when it is remembered that the industry is only forty years old. This success has not been wholly due to soil and climate, but is the result of a sympathetic alliance between labor and capital, in which the laborer has had a direct pecuniary interest in the quality of his work, thorough efficieney, and the application of science to every stage of the cultivation and manufacture.

In India, on the other hand, the industry is on the downward grade; the native cultivation is unsupervised by European experts—an absolutely essential factor to ensure success; and the methods employed in nearly all the so-called factories of Southern India have fallen far short of the perfection attained in Sumatra. Moreover, the native cultivator works by rule of thumb, as his ancestors did before him; and Indian-grown tobacco is almost a byword in the trade. There is, a priori, no reason why European capital, employed under European supervision, should not do for India what it has effected in Sumatra. In the case of Indian tobacco, the import duty in the United Kingdom would amount to at least 1,000 per cent., thus effectually preventing any importation of Indian tobacco, or of Indian cigar manufacture in the United Kingdom. Owing to the greater thickness of the leaf, Indian cigars are 25 per cent. heavier than all others. It is proposed, therefore, to allow importers of these goods a proportionate rebate of duty. Unlike the rest of the civilized world, India admits foreign-grown leaf free and imposes on manufactured tobacco a nominal ad valorem duty of 5 uer cent. Thus while in England India tobacco pays a far heavier impost than any other grade, within India itself a struggling native industry competes with foreign products on most unfair conditions. The proper balance would be readjusted by a return to the 20 per cent. ad valorem duties levied on foreign tobacco imported into India between 1860 and 1862, only this should be restricted to manufactured tobacco, while gt the same time the raw leaf should be admitted free as at pres-

You cannot dream yourself into a character, you must forge yourself into one.

A TRUE SAYING

T & B Smoking Tobacco is MADE right. Its long, long history is proof of that. It is the realization of effort, of purpose. Its character is the outcome of the forging process.

System for Selling Cigarettes.

Writing of the application of system to large businesses, Atherton Brownell says in the December World's Work ' Systems have been devised, by which, with the aid of a single clerk, a more minute and accurate record can be kept of a great business house than could be kept by a large force of accountants. A good example of a perfect system is the one used by a firm of cigarette makers who have a private trade, for they make their goods to order for individual customers. The characteristic feature of their business is that they mix the tobacco to suit each individual customer's taste. They must have direct communication with their patrons, and these patrons buy as few as 500 cigarettes at a time. To get their trade is easy; to hold it is more difficult. On their files, they carry a memorandum of the tastes of perhaps 2,000 smokers and the formula of the mixture which suits every one best, together with a design of his crest or monogram, which he desires stamped on his wrappers. Every customer's daily consumption is noted and by the automatic operation of their system, his name comes to the front a week before he may be reasonably expected to have exhausted his last order. So nicely has this system been adjusted, that recently, during a spell of extremely humid weather, when orders could not be filled, every customer found his wants supplied, during this period of waiting, from a stock kept on hand for the purpose.

Notes of the Trade.

The Tuckett cigar factory, Montreal, was damaged by fire on Feb. 3, to the extent of $60,000.

The Ontario Cigar and Tobacco Co., of Kingsville, Ont., has been organized with capital stock of $40,000.

A free movement of Canadian leaf tobacco from Leamington, Ont., to Granby, Que., is reported for the month of January.

Freights And Charters

A CONTINUED improvement has been noticed in freights during the week under review. Although there is still room for improvement, freight men generally are optimistic and look forward to February and March as months in which they may pull up on the deficiencies of the December and January just passed.

Grain is going forward in immense quantities, and provisions also form a major portion of cargoes from all the keep their advertised sailing dates, have been compelled to leave over some of their booked cargo for the next scheduled steamer.

Charters for early spring are now being reported, and some new boats will be seen in the St. Lawrence trade this coming season. The Allan Line has gone so far as to publish their sailing list between Montreal and Liverpool, and this stroke of enterprise enables shippers to pick their steamers during a season and arrange winter terminals. Liverpool and London still seem to attract the heaviest shipments, and it is quite notable to see so many apples going forward at this time of year. Portland and St. John still bear no comparison that is favorable to the Canadian port. The Allan line, in fact all the lines except the C.P.R., are not very jubilant over the cargoes available at St. John, N.B. The weather has been bitterly cold, and ships have been delayed by storms on the Atlantic, while freight trains all over Canada have been irregular. Thus, some boats, which are compelled to suitable cargoes for the most profitable steamers at the best possible period.

The Dominion Line have carried out their promise made in November, when it was stated by Mr. Torrance that if the trade to Portland warranted, extra steamers would be put on. In fact, the Dominion Line boats seem to be getting an excellent share of the outward freight, and the same may be said of the Thomson boats from Portland. The Thomson Line have kept their sailing rigidly so far with reliability.

DO NOT EXPOSE PICKLES.

Pickles (especially the mustard ones) and curry powder in bottles (says The Australasian Grocer) should never be exposed in windows, as the contents are affected by the daylight. Care should be taken in selecting both bags and paper for wrapping purposes. Very often both are highly charged with soda, which affects goods placed in them. This is very noticeable in some kinds of butter paper. The ink used in printing tea bags affects the tea when the latter is packed in them and placed in canisters or bins.

FINANCE AND INSURANCE

CANADIAN failures for 1904, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s report, totalled 1,246, as compared with 978 in 1903 and 1,101 in 1902. Liabilities amounted to $11,394,117, as compared with $7,552,724 in 1903 and $10,934,777 in 1902. The bulk of the failures were of general stores, numbering 261, with liabilities of $1,893,250. Dry goods houses failed to the number of 83, with liabilities of $1,208,032; groceries, 175, with liabilities of $903,120; clothing stores, 68, with liabilities of $374,624; shoe stores, 40, with liabilities of $197,487; furniture stores, 21, with liabilities of $235,654; stove dealers, 30, with liabilities of $325,974, etc. Out of fourteen manufacturing classes analyzed, only four reported smaller losses in 1904 than in 1903. In trading classes every one with the exeeption of books and stationery, showed greater losses. The largest adverse exhibits appeared in general stores, groceries, dry goods and liquors.

THE annual meetings of a good many Canadian banks have been held during the past month, and all have shown satisfactory progress. The Canadian Bank of Commerce showed net earnings of $1,124,973, or nearly 13 per cent. Out of the net profits $500,000 have been added to the rest account. Other allotments amounted to $596,247, and $28,726 was carried to the credit of profit and loss for the current year. The Bank of Hamilton presented a report at its annual meeting covering a period of six months. The net earnings for the half year were $182,824, or nearly 8 per cent. for the period. The amount carried to the reserve fund was $100,000, bringing the fund up to $2,100,000. The net profits of the Dominion Bank amounted to $459,670, equal to 15.22 per cent. on the total paid-up capital of $3,000,000. Half a million dollars was carried to reserve fund and $134,572 to profit and loss. The Bank of Nova Scotia showed profits for the past year of $401,560, a fraction over 20 per cent. on its capital. A new issue of stock will be made of $500,000. The Royal Bank of Canada showed net profits for the year of $435,038.36. After paying dividends and reducing liabilities on bank premises, etc., the sum of $302,743.72 was carried forward. The Bank of New Brunswick showed net profits of $92,389.96. Of this, $60,000 had been paid out in dividends, $25,000 had been transferred to rest account, and the balance carried forward. The Bank of Toronto showed net profits of $490,995.91. An addition of $145,570 was made to the rest account, which is more than $300,000 greater than the capital of the bank.

THE number of depositors in the savings banks of the United States has doubled in the last seventeen years. The total amount of their deposits has increased from $1,235,247,371, in 1887, to $2,935,204,845, during the year 1903. The official statistics, for 1903, show 7,305,228 individual depositors. About one-half of the amount deposited represents the savings of the wage-earning class. The figures here given not only show an increasing prosperity among those of small incomes, but they also indicate an increasing frugality. Of the total deposits of the entire country not less than 38.5 per cent. are in the state of New York. The part of this grand total of deposits which is credited to the wage-earning class does not represent all of the savings of that group. The building and loan associations, with total assets of more than five hundred million dollars, are a favorite form of investment for many. Then personal hoarding, life insurance, and even modest investment in stocks and bonds, are other means of accumulation. Many wage earners in country towns and small cities own their homes.

NOTES.

It is rumored that the Bank of New Brunswick may go into business in Porto Rico.

The Sovereign Bank will shortly establish a branch in London. A branch was recently opened in Tweed.

The Bank of Hamilton will erect a branch at the corner of College street and Ossington avenue, Toronto.

The Bank of Hamilton has added Battleford, N.W.T., to its list of agencies. This brings up the total to sixty-two.

Mr. E. P. Heaton has been appointed manager of the insurance department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. F. H. Mathewson, manager of the Montreal Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has been elected vice-president of the Montreal Board of Trade.

It is authoritatively announced that a branch of the Bank of Toronto will be established in Brantford in the premises lately vacated by the Bank of Hamilton.

Another branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has been opened at Melfort, Saskatchewan, with Mr. E. R. Jarvis as acting manager. This makes the 107th branch of this bank in Canada.

The announcement is made of the appointment of Mr. W. G. Parker, lately inspector and assistant manager of the Traders' Fire Insurance Company, to the position of general manager of that company.

It is understood that the negotiations for the amalgamation of the Merchants' Bank with the Royal Bank have been suspended until the retirement of Mr. Thomas Fysche, general manager of the Merchants' Bank, in June.

At the organization meeting of the Penny Bank of Toronto, Mr. Hamilton Cassells was elected president, with Messrs. Duncan Coulson, J. W. Flavelle, John B. Kay, Z. A. Lash, E. B. Osler, W. D. Ross and B. E. Walker, vice-presidents.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has recently purchased property in the city of Toronto with a view of opening three new branches. The locations are: Queen street west, Parkdale; the corner of College street and Dovercourt road, and the corner of Bloor street and Lansdowne avenue. It is expected that building operations will be commenced in the Spring.

JANUARY PRICE CHANGES.

(New York Times.)

During the closing days of January Wall Street began to feel that it was moving in an out-and-out bull market. The rapid advances in Omaha and some other stocks of its class enlivened the list to such an extent that many were found who were ready to compare the market's performances with those of 1901 when the whole list was moving up day by day on tremendous activity. But in 1901 practically every stock in the list was advancing so that no judgment was necessary in picking out stock; all one had to do then was to buy and wait, and not very long, either.

WALL PAPER.

QUAINT WALL PAPER.

THE oldest landscape wall paper I ever saw, writes Frank D. Sanborn, was in the parlor of President Wean, of Hampton Falls, a simple hunting scene with three compartments; a deer above, a dog below, and a hunter with his horn below that. It was put on in 1737, when the house was built, and I think is there still. Colonel Whiting's house, built about 1815, had a more elaborate and extensive scene, what the French called "Montagnes Russes," artificial hills in a park, for sliding down toboggan-fashion, and a score of people using them or looking on. The oldest papers were patterned first after old tapestry.

Portsmouth, New Hampshire, can boast of several antique papers. One house has its walls papered with an illustration of "The Lady of the Lake." The papers in the homes of former professors of Dartmouth College are carefully preserved and will probably always be allowed to remain. One depicts the Bay of Naples and Mount Vesuvius; the other the seasons. The Bay of Naples theme seems to have been most admired a hundred years ago. Rev. Wallace Nutting, of Providence, R.I., whose fame as an artistic photographer is widespread, sent me a picture of a parlor in St. Johnsbury, Vt., where he found this paper. Three women dressed in old-fashioned style, even to the arrangement of their hair, are seated at table, enjoying a cup of tea. An old tabby is napping cosily in a soft-cushioned chair. And above, on the right, Vesuvius is pouring forth the usual volumes of smoke. A fine old mahogany sideboard, at the foot of the volcano, decorated with decanters and glasses large and small, presents an inviting picture.

The only real value of money lies in making use of it.

The money that lies there in your safe from day to day doesn't do you any good until you commence to use it.

Then its value to you depends on how you use it.

Now, if you would only invest some of it in advertising space in THE GROCER, and then use the space right, you'd have a valuable assistant, working to increase your trade with grocers and to make yourself and your goods better known among them.

Some folks would sooner save (?) the money—but they are "penny wise and pound foolish."

But you're not.

Are you?

We admit it

The grocer knows quite well how that the Ceylon Tea growers have for many years appropriated a goodly sum for the advertising of

Ceylon Teas

This Campaign of Education has had a heavy return in the essential matter of Ceylon Tea sales. At the same time it is as clear as can be, that if the people didn't like Ceylon Teas, no amount of advertising would have increased the consumption of Ceylon Teas to hundreds of millions of pounds annually.

Provisions that are most subject to getting rancid are generally those that are most impure. Fairbank's will keep under the same conditions fully twice as long as hog lard. The oxygen of the atmosphere attacks where there is the least resistance. The more pure an article is the less subject it is to this atmospheric influence, which very plainly argues why Fairbank's Boar's Head Brand of Refined Lard Compound is purer and more wholesome than hog fat. Then, too, it costs less.

QUALITY OF OIL

Store your kerosene oil in a common tank or keep it in a porous wooden barrel and the gas which is the illuminating part of the oil, in fact, its very life, passes off and the oil becomes lifeless. It clogs and chars the wick, which smokes and emits a most disagreeable odor. Your customers complain or go to some other merchant. It isn't the fault of the oil—it's your fault. Store your oil in a

DEPARTMENT OF ADVERTISING SUGGETIONS AND CRITICISM

Edited by John C. Kirkwood, TORONTO.

NOTE—Herein are discussed the principles and practice of advertising. Subscribers are invited to send Mr. Kirkwood specimens of their newspaper and other advertising, for the purpose of review in this department. Address care of Department of Advertising, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE PACKAGE TEA QUESTION

THERE are hundreds upon hundreds of merchants throughout the Dominion who are lending themselves to business problems with tireless energy, well-guided intelligence and gratifying rewards. These men are not content with the ordinary drift of business. The unforced current of trade is too slow for their purposes. They have a goal to reach, a work to perform that requires stimulated activities, and so they build dams and dykes and force the stream of business their way.

Advertising is but a part of the ways and means they employ to accomplish their ends. They buy right, they stock judiciously, they infuse life and light into their stores and into their salesmen. The contagion of their enthusiasm is communicated to their customers. Their strength compels a general movement towards themselves, and since the service they give is complete, they hold the trade they attract, none having power to take it from them.

There are such merchants, I say, and I would that their number were greater. It would mean something better for all concerned.

I am in receipt of several examples of the advertisements of W. L. Martin,

STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT TEA.

By W. L. Martin

Take my advice and don't buy package tea — not when you can buy it in bulk from somebody who understands tea.

I'll tell you why. Package tea firms, as you know by their advertising, are hot after your tea trade. These firms spend thousands upon thousands every year in advertising, and more thousands upon those sands in travellers' expenses to push their tea. And on top of all this it costs from one and a half to two cents a pound to put the tea in the package and label it.

All this comes out of the tea, mind you. And the package tea men are making fortunes.

And all out of what? Simply out of the one line of goods—just out of tea.

Did it ever occur to you who pays for all this? Why, the users of package teas, of course.

I hate to say it — bashful perhaps — but I was especially trained to the tea business the same as the fellows who put up the package teas.

I buy my teas right and blend them myself. And I leave the public to decide by the acid test of comparison whether the teas I sell are not better value than any package tea in the country.

At 25c. a pound I make a specialty of a tea — black or green — that you cannot equal in any package at less than 25c.

Just put these statements to the test.

W. L. MARTIN

MYRTLE STATION.

How W. L. Martin says things.

Myrtle Station, Ont., and they are so good, so tingling with life, purpose, conviction that I cannot refrain from passing their message on to others. Space forbids my giving them all display as sent. One or two I endeavor to give in condensed size, to show Mr. Martin's ideas of advertisement construction. They are good examples, and worthy of attentive study by other merchants, some of whom, I know, find the problem of "copy" and "display" a difficult one.

At the same time, I am giving my readers Mr. Martin's letter to me. It rings with no muffled note, and should strike a responsive chord in many a brother merchant's heart. Regarding package teas, my correspondent has no divided views. His attitude is clear cut, and because of his knowledge of teas, Mr. Martin is able to grapple with what he esteems a foe, with overmastering strength. There are, however, always two sides to a question, and packers of package teas would doubtless have something to say concerning their business which would establish to the satisfaction of many, the substantial claims of package teas. Personally I think package tea is the proper thing,—that is, from an advertising-man's point of view The trend in all directions is towards the package article. Without the package it is practically impossible to establish a demand for one maker's or packer's goods in preference to another's. It requires a package to secure distinctiveness. Bulk goods, whatever be their merit, have nothing about them to indicate difference, nothing upon which preference can be built. A manufacturer or producer is compelled to brand and package his goods for self-protection and for the assurance of consumers of his wares. Mr. Martin, himself, I venture to say, might very properly give to his lines and grades of teas distinctive names, and thus in effect make them package teas. The point I suspect Mr. Martin is making is that through his adequate knowledge of teas he is able to provide always uniformity of quality and flavor in the teas he sells, and if this be the case, his situation and that of the package tea firm are practically identical. Mr. Martin has the advantage that comes from knowledge—he is able to make full profits on his teas, not being called upon to share them with the package tea houses; or he may be able to provide his customers

Greetings to All.

As the season for kindly feelings, greetings and thankfulness is here, and men's thoughts naturally tend toward their fellowmen, it is but human on our part to express them.

And, in so doing, we are sure that your reciprocation bubbles out also. So here's to you :—

A Happy, Prosperous New Year to you and yours!

Light and Air in this Example.

MY THANKS.

On the fifteenth of September I completed my first year in business at Myrtle Station.

To the many patrons who have accorded me such liberal support I wish to convey my thanks.

Ladies and gentlemen, I thank you!

Looking back over my first year I have every reason to feel gratified.

I came to Myrtle Station a perfect stranger. But you gave me your patronage and I have tried to merit your confidence. That I have succeeded in doing so I think I may conclude from the way in which my business is increasing.

It is my constant aim to build up a reputation for "Quality" and "Reliability." "Quality of goods—Reasonableness of Prices—and General Satisfaction," is my motto.

It is my business to sell very nearly everything likely to be wanted on a farm or in a home. I make it a point to discriminate against all kinds of goods that are not worthy or that cannot be recommended; to buy only such goods as are of practical value.

I offer no "baits" or "leaders" to attract business or deceive buyers. Every line in the many hundreds must be a leader in itself. Every tub must stand on its own bottom.

Extending my appreciation to those who have favored me with their patronage, be it large or small, and soliciting orders and enquiries from those with whom I have not as yet had the pleasure of dealing, I remain

Yours faithfully,

with teas as good as those put up by the package tea firms at a lower price.

There is no escape from this conclusion, namely, that if a merchant can sell unbranded goods as successfully as he can branded goods, he can in so doing make a much larger profit. One of the great struggles going on to-day is that between the dealer and the manufacturer or producer. The manufacturer is seeking to create a preference for his particular line, largely through advertising, the cost of which has of necessity to be added to the price of his product.

This desire and practice of the manufacturer touches the profits of the distributer promptly and heavily, and an antagonism is straightway engendered. Both the producer and the distributer are contending for exactly the same end—their individual gains. The battle is waged on the distributer's territory and it is his property that is at stake. Success in this struggle seems to rest with the producer, but this success is accomplished only at big cost—the price of advertising. At the same time, there are wheels within wheels, struggles and warfare among the producers, spectators and distributers. In this strife between producers, the victory is to him who brings to his aid the best strategy, the best stamina, and the most gold.

Woe to him who enters the lists poorly prepared.

Advertising Specialist of Canadian Grocer,—In response to your invitations in The Grocer from time to time, I am sending you a few of my ads., and would like to hear your opinion of them. The three tea ads. are most to my liking, and, in my opinion, the strongest of the bunch. These ads. appeared in successive issues of the papers. I advertise weekly in three of the best local papers, and generally change my ad. each issue.

I might tell you something about my tea business. I don't suppose I am wide of the mark when I say that it isn't likely that you'd find another grocery or general store in Ontario that doesn't handle some brand of package tea. But none of them for me. When I took over this business about 18 months ago nothing but package tea was sold here. But I cut 'em all out, lock, stock and barrel, and I put up my own special blends, "in bulk." There was some little kicking for awhile, but by considerable persuasive eloquence and by not being afraid to give away samples, I more than held my ground. A few extra refractory ones "hung off" for awhile, but by "hanging on," like the proverbial pup to the proverbial root, I managed to bring them into the fold, until I do not believe I have a customer who doesn't buy tea here. What is more, I am safe in saying that we don't get an average of one inquiry a month for any brand of package tea, not even from "casuals." Still the business is coming my way, my tea sales for December being nearly three times that of the same month of the previous year.

I should add, however, that I was trained into the tea business and know how to buy as well as blend teas. This enables me to write an ad. with force and conviction behind it. When a man knows certain things to be true—beyond dispute—he needn't be afraid to throw it out from the shoulder in his ads. The trouble with most of us merchants is that we don't put enough spice and ginger into our ads., even when we advertise. I seldom give much study to an ad.; generally wait until an "idea" strikes me and then sit down and dash it off in the plainest and simplest language in just a few minutes. My ad. space will be otherwise occupied for a few weeks, but I have a few more ginger talks about tea already on paper and you shall see them when they get into printer's ink.

I am having my ads. all set up in the same style and same type as the "Greetings" ad.

I might say that your ad. talks and advice in The Grocer are O.K., and very much to the point. Keep it up. Try and poke some enthusiasm into the merchants before the big department stores get it all their own way. The only way to hold the trade our way is to be bold about it,—as bold as the departmental fellows are, only without telling as many bold lies; $1.50 goods for 10c., etc. and advertise.

I have at present a vision of getting out a periodical circular by and by and sending it by mail for a radius of ten miles or so. Call it "Martin's Ginger Talk for January," or some such thing. Local papers don't reach half the people.

Apologies for long-winded letter, and hearty sympathy with you in "speeding up the ad. dept."

(Signed) W. L. Martin.

THE DAVIDSON & HAY, LIMITED

WHOLESALE GROCERS, TORONTO.

Business is the Salt of Life.

There is a young man in Guelph, not yet old enough to vote, yet with six feet of stature, who finds his chief delight in the world of trade—R. J. McCrea. Mr. McCrea served so good an apprenticeship in his father's grocery and crockery business that he was made manager of a new branch store, and later on admitted to partnership.

Mr. McCrea, Jr., is a diligent student of advertising in its many phases, and has used newspaper space effectively in the extension of the business done at both branches. His announcements are fresh every day, specific, and displayed with good judgment. He seems to have achieved in large measure the cherished goal of every advertiser—namely-the time when readers will seek out the advertisement of their own accord.

I am in possession of a great many examples of Mr. McCrea's work, only one or two of which can be reproduced because of the limitations of space. This is not the first time that we have noted this young man's advertising. An interesting circumstance in connection with the last time any of his work appeared in this department is worth recording. The advertisement reproduced was one in which teas and toilet sets were "featured." Judge of the surprise of this Guelph retail house to receive an order from a Western Ontario merchant, an order for both the tea and toiletware "as per your advertisement in The Canadian Grocer."

CALGARY BOARD OF TRADE.

At the recent annual meeting of the Calgary Board of Trade one of the principal topics discussed was "Insurance Rates in the West." The retiring president, W. I. Cushing, referred to the enormous increase in insurance rates in the west which made it appear as if the insurance companies were forcing the west to pay for fire losses in the east. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, R. J. Hutchings; vice-president, A. E. Cross; standing committees: civil improvement, W. G. Hunt; finance, M. Morris; immigration, A. Allan; new industries, W. Pearce; freight rates, W. H. Cushing; arbitration, Hon. J. S. Hall; manufacturers, Wm. Carson; wholesalers, F. G. Dawson; retailers, J. Emerson; professional, R. B. Bennett; agriculture and live stock, P. Burns; civic franchises, Dr. Lafferty. The following were elected general councillors: C. W. Rowley, D. J. Young, J. S. Dennis, F. MacBeth, R. R. Jamieson, Col. Porter, Mr. Watson, J. R. Janes, F. F. Higgs, Dan Cashman, C. F. Comer, C. W. Bowles, J. R. Miquelon, Dr. Stewart, Mr. Hanna, M. S. McCarthy, M.P.; J. J. Young, W. M. Davidson, H. Neilson, Mr. Morris.

THE TRAVELER'S SOLILOQUY.

The breakfast foods we have to sell
Would make a "Saxon" "quail!"
And make us like a "Beaver" work
To close a "Banner" sale;
Persuasion oft may do the trick,
Though "Force" is now the rule,
And that is what is not upheld
By those of the "Quaker" school!
'Tis well to have a stock of "Vim,"
For that is hard to beat;
But there are some who say "Ho, ho,
Give me the 'Cream of Wheat.'"
The far-famed "Orange Meat," we know,
Contains no orange pips,
Whilst shavings never can be found
When indulging in "Life Chips."
And now the Winter season's here,
With men all wearing heavy coats,
It might be well, when selling foods
To make a push on "Coupon Oats."
Some folks still swear by "Tillson's Oats,"
But others will not risk it,
So, boys, you all should do your best
To "Postum" to try "Triscuit."

The "Crank."

Fresh and Cured Fish

To Protect B. C. Herring.

LARGE quantities of herring have been destroyed by Japanese fishermen operating in the Straits of Georgia for the purpose of manufacturing guano and oil. Last year this business was stopped by the Government authorities, and word now comes from Ottawa that a regulation has been passed providing that fishing for herring can only be carried on by license, with a view of preserving the fish for commercial food purposes.

The herring fisheries are believed to be one of the valuable resources of the Province of British Columbia, but up to the present time their exploitation has been limited, the business being practically in an experimental stage.

At Nanaimo, however, there is quite an establishment which handles the herring, as part of its curing business, and on Burrard Inlet there are two curing houses, one established and one in course of preparation, which are seeking to develop a trade in these fish.

It is thought by those competent to speak concerning the fishing industry, that a large trade will eventually be built up out of the herring fisheries of British Columbia and with a view of giving establishments here the benefit of his experience in the curing process, Mr. Cowie, the Scotch expert, will visit the coast again next season.

As an indication of what this industry may attain to on the Pacific coast, there is the herring trade of the Atlantic coast, which in 1901 amounted to $1,865,391, aggregate value of fish marketed.

Leased an Island.

Black Bros. & Co., Halifax, N. S., have leased from the Quebec Government the island of Great Mekattina on the Quebec-Labrador coast, and will conduct there a fishing and general store business during the Summer season. This island was formerly leased by the late Capt. A. L. Howard, inventor of the famous Gatling gun, who had established fishing houses on the island and did a thriving business. The island in the hands of such a firm as Black Bros. & Co. will be a source of revenue to them and assist materially in securing supplies for their increasing fish trade.

Cheese and Butter Situation.

THE cheese market is absolutely lifeless, in absence of any orders from the United Kingdom. Merchants abroad have evidently made up their minds that stocks on this side are larger than reported to them, and are going slow, filling their requirements in a hand-to-mouth fashion. With a good deal of the cheese held by United Kingdom owners on this side and the other, costing much below present prices, they are in a position to take matters easy. It looks very much as if there may be a scarcity of cheese by the end of March, and should this prove to be the case, prices will open up high on new cheese in April. It would be healthier if prices should advance a little now, and have all cheese cleared off, and then when the demand came on it could be met at reasonable figures.

The butter market is wild, and prices are very high. Several cars of creamery butter were sold to New York houses during the past week at about 23c. f.o.b., Montreal. It looks also as if the usual Winter stocks have not been put away by local dealers and, therefore, even higher prices are expected to rule.

Advancement in Canadian Butter.

THE following interesting outline of the Canadian butter trade during 1904 was given by W. A. Woodward, official arbitrator at Montreal, at the recent Dairymen's Convention at St. John's, Que.:

"Canadian butter has made wonderful advancement during the last few years, but there is a good deal to be done, and until we are in a position to make more butter and in large central factories, we cannot hope to attract much more attention than we have already. We have the cheese trade practically in our hands, but our output of butter is so limited that customers on the other side are not steady buyers of Canadian butter. Still we have some and are advancing.

"Increased facilities for storing and transporting our butter at a low temperature has been the agent through which we have improved. The Government has seen fit to establish a complete chain of cold storage from manufacturer to consumer, thus making it possible to land butter in England in as fresh a condition as when first made. Large sums of money have been expended in bonus for the purpose of encouraging factorymen to establish cold storage rooms in their creameries, in which the temperature would be maintained under 40 deg. These requirements were lived up to during the first three years, covering the time which the bonus would be paid, but after that, I am sorry to say, a very large majority have not been keeping anywhere near the temperature specified.

"The quality of Quebec butter is generally very good, but lately there have crept in poor flavors that are not wholly accounted for, they are 'fishy and old cream' flavors. The latter was found more common last season, and close enquiry revealed the fact that this flavor was more commonly found in creameries where some of the patrons' milk was separated at the farm, and the cream delivered to the factory. This brings me to the gathered cream system. We are told that this system is coming, and is coming to stay, and I strongly believe it; but, it is coming to the detriment of the quality of Canadian butter, for a time at least. Wherever introduced, it means a right about face, and instead of the maker assuming all the responsibilities in the care of the cream, the patrons must accept their share, and, until such time as we have the patrons instructed how to take proper care of the cream until it is delivered to the central factory every day, properly wash their dairy utensils, we will be troubled with this poor flavor.

"The production of a desirable and uniform flavor in Canadian butter is the one thing that we must strive for. It is the one thing that gives butter its commercial value, and yet we find the public generally neglectful in this particular. From what I have seen and observed, I believe that much of our butter is injured through the ripening of the cream. It is of the utmost importance to get the milk made into butter as soon as possible after it is drawn from the cow. Just as soon as the cream is separated and the necessary preliminaries gone through, such as cooling and ripening, the cream should be churned. I believe this is necessary even under the system of pasteurizing. It is well known that the longer milk is kept the larger will be the number of bacteria present, and while bacteria are developing in this wholesome fluid, many of them are forming spore, and in this stage are able to resist the pasteurizing process.

"Boxes of 56 lbs. weight are most commonly used, although there is yet a limited demand for 70 lb. tubs. The Danish keil of keg shape holding about 112 lbs. is becoming popular as a package for shipping Canadian butter in. I believe a good demand could be worked up for this style package, but it must be sold as Canadian butter and not as Danish. All packages should be covered with a sack to keep as clean as possible. Lumber used should be not less than ¾ inch thick, with sides, bottom and cover in not more than two pieces, one is better. Every part of the box should be properly parafined."

Bacon and Fresh Meats.

DELIVERIES of hogs have been light during the week on account of the bad roads prevailing in the country, and, in consequence, packers are not so busy as ordinarily at this season of the year. Prices are a trifle easier than at last advices, quotations to-day being from $5.40 to $5.50, delivered in Toronto, whereas last week they were $5.50. The English market is not quite so strong as last week, and a decline on bacon generally of 4 to 5 shillings is recorded, prices now ranging from 43 to 47 shillings. Cables from England advise that Danish and Irish receipts are up to the average. During the last two weeks the number of hogs killed weekly in Denmark was brought down to from 20,000 to 22,000. Last week there was an increase to 30,000.

The cured meat trade at this time of the year seldom possesses as much interest as a little later on in the Spring, or during the late Autumn, at which seasons the export trade looms up big. The tendency, however, to export evenly during the year is growing, and as recently predicted in The Canadian Grocer, is already showing favorable results as far as the producer is concerned. For the past twelve months the export trade in bacon shows a little falling off. This trade is very sensitive to fluctuation; for instance, the report two weeks ago that a peculiar disease had become prevalent among Danish hogs, had the effect of bulling the market beyond what the normal conditions of the market warranted. The result was a hurried unloading on the part of packers after prices had gone up, and a subsequent drop.

In fresh meats, the market pursues the same even course that has been characteristic of it for the last two or three weeks. Spring lamb is scarce, and trade in this article has practically switched off into mutton.

At a recent meeting of the provision dealers who are members of the Toronto Board of Trade it was decided to form a produce section.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

Provisions—The provision trade is quiet as usual at this time of year. On account of recent additional firmness in the English market long clear bacon is 1-2c firmer than last week, as well as smoked breakfast bacon. Owing to temporary increase in demand and shortage of supplies heavy mess, short cut and shoulder mess pork are all up this week. Lard is, if anything, a little firmer. Fresh meats continue unchanged. Hogs show a slightly easier tendency and trade in Spring lamb has practically gone to mutton during the last week or two. Our quotations are as follows:

Butter—All grades of butter are very scarce owing to the cold weather and bad roads, making it difficult for the farmers to market available supplies, in fact the shortage of supplies is so marked as to necessitate a slight all round advance this week. Creamery prints and creamery solids each being 1c higher and dairy rolls from 1c to 2c higher. We quote the following prices:

Cheese—The cheese trade is quiet but strong, it being the common opinion that available stocks of cheese are held by a few of the big interests. Export trade is quiet, quotations ranging a little lower than last week, viz., 52 to 53 shillings. Our quotations are as follows:

	Per lb.
Cheese, large	....	0 11

Poultry—The poultry trade is dead with very little stuff arriving and prices nominal. Our quotations are as follows:

Provisions—Business is good in all lines of provisions. A steady demand both locally and from country buyers has tended to make the market active. The undertone is steady and the firmness likely to prevail. Canada short cut pork in round lots in jobbing round lots fetched $16.50, smaller quantities $17 to $17.50. Compound lard moving well. The tone of the dressed hog market has remained steady and good demand for small lots. Fresh abattoir killed sold at $8.25 and country dressed $7 to $7.50.

Butter—Market firm. Best creamery 24 1-2 to 25c. It is believed that the market will advance further—very hard to obtain good choice goods. Country points seem to be short of stocks and the blocked roads are hindering what deliveries could be made. Supplies are short locally.

Cheese—Local market unchanged. Cable advices from Liverpool to-day report lower market at 51s to 52s. The condition of the butter market is appreciated by cheese exporters as with the high prices ruling in butter very little early fodder cheese will be put out.

Eggs—Firm market and prices looking up. Fresh laid are bringing 32 to 35c and the legend is not an uncommon one in the retail stores "Fresh laid eggs 45c doz." Cold storage to-day jobbing easy 19 to 20c. Montreal limed, 19 to 19 1-2c; Fall gathered, 23 to 24c. Undertone of the market is firm and undoubtedly higher prices will prevail, stocks decreasing rapidly and supplies not coming in freely.

AN APPRECIATION.

THE Canadian grocery trade has suffered a distinct loss in the death of F. B. Greening, of the firm of Bickle & Greening, grocery brokers, Hamilton, which occurred at Mentone, France, on Jan. 29, and which was referred to in a recent issue of this paper. Mr. Greening was the second son of Mr. E. Owen Greening, of Oak Lawn, Belmount Grove, Lee, Kent, England. He was born in Manchester, whence he moved to London when a mere boy. Here he received his education, and was later placed in the seeds department of the Agrieulture and Horticulture Assoeiation, of which his father was managing director.

Fifteen years ago Mr. Greening paid his first visit to relatives in Hamilton, Ontario, and was so favorably impressed by the opportunities offering in Canada to a young business man that he decided to make it his home. Soon after coming out he became assoeiated with the late John W. Bickle, in the grocery commission business. Mr. Greening's specialty was coffee, and he was looked upon by the trade as being particularly well posted on this branch of the grocery business.

CROCKERY DEPARTMENT

Clearance China Sale.

IT is not too late for the grocer or general merchant to be thinking of ways and means of disposing of surplus china, crockery and glassware, in which connection the example of a wide-awake Western dealer is worthy of emulation.

This man decided to have a clearance sale. Among the goods to be disposed of were a number of "stayers" old enough to vote; these were brightened up by the addition of a fair share of brand new goods.

Ordinarily he kept closed evenings, but during his china sale he advertised that he would open Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays to accommodate the trade. He also made a specialty of advertising in the local papers, both in display ads. and reading notices. A man with a megaphone was employed to talk china and crockery during the noon hours and early evening.

Another excellent idea was the marking of every article with a price tag. Not only was an attractive window display arranged, but a scheme of decoration followed out in the interior, so as to invite and then hold visitors. There were no signs of "touch not," or "visitors handle these goods at their own risk," which the average woman and man resents as much as the "keep off the grass" placards that once mistakenly decked public parks. Particular care was given to a proper arrangement of the goods, the most conspicuous feature being the absence of high shelves with globes to be seen and not touched; all goods were arranged on low tables and shelves, so that they could be inspected with the utmost ease. It goes without saying that the dealer in question disposed of all his goods, and that at a fair all-round profit in a dull season.

Don't Side-track Glassware.

Although china and glassware offer great inducements in high profits and quick returns, in the majority of stores, it is often side-tracked in some obscure corner or back room. This is a serious mistake. Why a dealer should stock up on staples which, from their nature just admit of a narrow margin of profit, and should neglect and starve a department which admits of quick sales and frequent turning over of his capital, is unintelligible. Why not let the jobber carry the surplus stock of staples? You can always draw on his stock at short notice. Glassware and china provide all the requisites for a quick, active sale. They are gotten up in attractive designs, look big for the money, and can be bought by the retailer exceedingly cheap. Display your china fairly. Keep it clean and attractive. It will pay you as handsomely as any department in your store.

VETERAN GROCER DEAD.

The grocery trade of Hamilton, and Canada generally, will regret to learn of the death of Mr. John Duff, of Hamilton, which occurred on Feb. 8, after an illness of only a few weeks. Mr. Duff was 75 years of age and was born in Papplewick, Nottingham, England, coming to Canada in 1851, settling in Walpole, Haldimand County. Thirty-seven years ago he came to Hamilton and founded the grocery business of John Duff & Son, which has since grown to such large proportions. The funeral took place on Saturday, Feb. 11.

Forest City Mustard

Put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tins and 1 and 4 lb. jars; also in bulk.

Doubtless you have often wondered why your mustard turned black after it was mixed, and perhaps concluded that it was caused by the vinegar, the place it was kept in, or some such reason.

More likely the cause was in the mustard.

Some grades of mustard are not suitable for table use because they turn black after mixing, while others have a bitter, unpalatable flavor.

Table-mustard should be scientifically compounded to insure that excellent flavor which always gives the appetite a keen edge and makes meats tasty.

Our mustard is blended from the choicest California and English mustard seeds by expert blenders.

We would like you to place a small order for this brand and test it well.

WESTERN RAILWAY MATTERS.

IN the course of his able address to the Winnipeg Board of Trade last week H. W. Hutchinson, the retiring president, referred at some length to the transportation interests of the Canadian West. He pointed out that the railway companies operating in the Northwest are putting forth every effort to keep abreast with its development, consequent upon the steadv influx of population.

During the year 1904 the Canadian Northern was busv extending its branch lines; 550 miles were graded and 413 miles of track were laid giving this company 1,758 miles under operation west of Lake Superior. These figures should be of interest to Eastern readers of this paper, with many of whom the Canadian Northern is only a name. Its work has been accomplished without the beating of drums and blowing of trumpets which heralded the advent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but its importance as a transcontinental road will be as great as that of the better known but newer road. So quietly has the construction of the Canadian Northern been accomplished that it was not until the bold action of its management in securing its prior right to the site of the proposed new Union Station in Toronto that people in Eastern Canada really awoke to the fact that so much of a second transcontinental line had already been built. The Canadian Northern had been simply a name in the newspapers.

Retiring President Hutchinson also referred to the extension of the C.P.R. during 1904, pointing out that 197 additional miles have been opened for traffic and 75 miles have been graded ready for rails in the Spring, giving this company 4,100 miles of track under operation between Fort William and British Columbia. Much money was also spent during the year in reducing grades, straightening existing lines and purchasing additional motive power and rolling stock rendered necessary by increased traffic. The progressive spirit displayed by the C.P.R. was ascribed by Mr. Hutchinson to the recommendations made by the second vice-president, William Whyte, who now manages the western system, a man thoroughly conversant with Western requirements, he has given a service to which even the Northwest farmer pays a grudging tribute.

The day following President Hutchinson's address, the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association met in convention at Brandon. Reports were submitted from the various branches of the association and the speakers were requested particularly to mention whether there had been any complaints in their section as to car shortages. To those familiar for years with the constant complaints on this score by the Manitoba farmers it is a pleasant surprise to know that only two delegates had any complaints to make and theirs were of shortage of the most trifling character.

Although not of the highest grade, the 1904 crop was a large one and it is evident that Mr. Whyte has succeeded in solving the problem which has so long been beyond the capabilities of the C.P.R. Because of the efficient service which he is giving, Second Vice-President Whyte is one of the most popular men in Western Canada.

PREMIUMS.

ARE premiums a benefit to grocers? The discussion of this question opens up a wide field and the experience of many grocers might be made to show that the employment of premiums and kindred schemes has been of benefit to their business, while other grocers will be just as emphatic in stating and maintaining that harm has followed in the wake of their use. On what business plea, that is, straightforward, honest business plea, can any merchant base his excuses for the giving of premiums or trading stamps? "No one ever gets something for nothing," is a good business maxim. Nobody ever gives something for nothing in business; there is in every such case some implied quid pro quo, some veiled bribe, and every thinking merchant must know that when buying goods and receiving something in the premium line "thrown in," he has to pay for the gifts.

Manufacturers are not philanthropists, and the millenium is not yet, and all the gew-gaws, cans, watches, chairs, clocks, stoves, etc., that are offered free with goods, are figured in the cost of whatever is sold. If they are figured in the cost of goods, is it not natural to assume that the expense is taken out of the intrinsic value of the goods themselves? In other words, are the goods quite as good as they might be if they had not been loaded? It may be claimed that premiums are just a way of advertising to the consumer, and the manufacturer may use such means instead of advertising through the press. Quite true, but where is the manufacturer today that does not make a margin of profit even on the premiums he hands out, and who has to pay for it in the end? the consumer, without doubt. Who is deceiving the consumer?

Figure it out and it will be found that all who encourage premiums are more or less guilty of deception. Why cannot goods be sold on their merits? Why not sell baking powder as baking powder without the attachment of a rolling pin or a dishpan? Why not sell a package of rolled oats as rolled oats, charging the proper price for the goods, unaccompanied by a coupon entitling the purchaser to a piano or house and lot in Squedunk? Sell goods for what they are and not for what is attached to them by a string. Your customers, if their attention is drawn to the matter and placed before them in the proper light, will see that, while they are apparently getting something free, they are in reality paying a high price for the gift. No first-class grocer will for a moment entertain a premium or trading stamp scheme, and the number of merchants doing away with the custom is growing day by day.

Build up your business on the quality of your goods, on your attention to the tastes and requirements of your customers; pay close attention to cleanliness, politeness on the part of your help; prompt and accurate delivery, and buy close; take all the discounts going, and you need fear no competition from your neighbor giving premiums or trading stamps.

A DEPARTMENT LIST.

As every importer knows, more or less delay and inconvenience is caused on account of lack of information as to which particular departments at the different ports of entry certain articles should be submitted for valuation. In order to overcome this difficulty the chief inspector of ports is preparing a list of goods showing to which department they should be submitted for appraisement.

The lists are now nearly completed, and will be printed and posted up, not only in the customs house, but at railway stations and other public places.

No doubt this effort on the part of the chief inspector will be appreciated by the importers at the different ports of entry, where there are different department appraisers.

FREE RAW MATERIALS.

THE recent decision of the United States Attorney-General that U. S. millers are entitled to the usual drawback of the duty upon all wheat imported for the manufacture of flour for export, despite the fact that it may have been mixed with home grain, has apparently established the fact that all manufacturing industries are entitled to similar treatment. This means that every U. S. manufacturer is to have the right to import raw or partially manufactured articles, including hides, wool, lumber, metal, and manufactures thereof, cans made from imported tin-plate and filled with American fruit, vegetables and meats, according to requirements, and to have ninety-nine per cent. of the duty paid refunded on the proportion utilized in the manufacture of goods exported. Thus U. S. trade is to have the benefit of what is practically free raw materials so long as the product is alone or in conjunction with home produced materials exported. By thus securing their raw material cheaply, United States manufacturers may become a greater force than ever in the export markets of the world.

Mr. A. Snuggs, grocer, Gerrard and Mutual streets, Toronto, wishes to be numbered amongst the ardent supporters of THE CANADIAN GROCER. Both as a trade newspaper and as an educational medium he considers it as invaluable to the trade, and says it is only a matter of time before THE CANADIAN GROCER will be read by every grocer in Canada as eagerly as his local paper.

Canada is more than a disinterested spectator in so far as she has a vast amount of raw material for export in addition to wheat, for which the United States provides an excellent market, and at the same time Canadian manufacturers are anxious to keep such raw material as nickel, pulpwood, hides, etc., at home, to build up home industries. This latter aspect of the situation has appealed so forcibly to certain Canadian interests that the imposition of a duty on raw materials generally, exported from Canada to the United States, has been before the House of Commons, Ottawa, for discussion during the past week.

THE 26th annual meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade was held in the Exchange on the afternoon of February 7. The following members were present: H. W. Hutchinson, C. N. Bell, A. R. Hargraft, G. H. Shaw, W. S. Evans, H. M. E. Evans, E. D. Martin, H. M. Belcher, F. W. Drewry, A. Strang, H. H. O'Reilly, N. Bawlf, N. Mackenzie, Jno. Love, R. Muir, D. D. Wood, C. A. Baskerville, I. W. Martin, G. A. Mitchell, E. A. Mott, A. Carruthers, John McKechnie, A. H. Bailey, J. H. Menzies, F. J. C. Cox, F. W. Reimer, S. P. Clark, G. F. Carruthers, J. W. Dafoe, G. F. Bryan, T. A. Anderson, D. Horn, W. H. McWilliams, H. Miller, J. M. Chisholm, Geo. Soames, Jos. Huxley, W. W. McMillan, E. H. Enderton, D. K. Elliott, J. H. Ashdown, G. N. Jackson, T. R. Newman, Jno. Aird, T. R. Deacon, W. A. Machaffie, D. E. Sprague, Wm. Martin, Jas. Tees, A. M. Stewart, W. B. Lannigan, R. D. Richardson, C. C. Castle, A. H. Whitaker, H. Sandison, C. C. Sharpe, E. Boyce, J. H. Brock and G. H. Crowe.

The retiring president, H. Wilbur Hutchinson, delivered an interesting address, in the course of which he touched upon a number of important topics. He referred to the gratifying increase in Canadian foreign trade, to the large amount of money deposited in the savings banks, and to the increased number of branch banks which the management of the Canadian banks had seen reason to establish in the West.

Referring to the development of the Northwest, Mr. Hutchinson quoted figures to show the extent of the immigration.

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, 130,329 new settlers came into Western Canada, 51,000 of whom were British, and 43,000 Americans. The vigorous and intelligent immigration policy of the Government and the efforts of the Western Immigration association, organized but a year ago, and financially supported by many members of this board, are, I believe, doing more towards the development of the country and its commercial interests, than any other agencies. The distribution of literature pertaining to the wonderful capabilities and possibilities of our soil, and the great field for investment, has created almost worldwide interest, and I venture the opinion that 1905 will witness a still larger influx of settlers.

"Free homestead entries, and land sales at advanced prices by the railway and land companies to actual settlers, have exceeded very considerably those of any previous year. A very large number of our neighbors in the United States realize that we have lands of better quality than their own, which can be acquired at much less per acre than theirs are valued at,. and have bought very freely.

"The acreage under wheat in 1904 compared with 1903, shows an increase of 5 per cent. in Manitoba, and 22 per cent. in the Territories, with an estimated yield of about 60,000,000 bushels. In the early part of the season, crop conditions were most favorable, and gave promise of an abundant yield, but in some districts, on account of damage by rust, ultimately the yield and grade were considerably reduced. It is, however, the general opinion that the higher prices obtained resulted as profitably as any previous crop, and the railway companies moved the grain much more expeditiously and with less complaint regarding car shortage, than in any previous year, much to the satisfaction of the farmers and business community, so mutually interested. These improved conditions I believe to be due to the more intelligent means adopted by the railway companies in the appointment of traveling inspectors, who are constantly engaged in ascertaining the requirements of each district, resulting in a more equitable distribution of cars."

Mr. Hutchinson also referred to the diversion of Canadian wheat to American markets.

"A somewhat new feature has entered into the grain trade of Western Canada owing to the action of the United States Government in definitely allowing what is commonly called 'milling in bond.' For probably the first time on record, shipments of Manitoba wheat from Fort William have been forwarded to United States ports east of Lake Superior to be milled in bond and the product exported. Last year a considerable quantity of Manitoba wheat was manufactured in this way in Minneapolis mills, and it is understood that somewhat heavy shipments of wheat are again going to that United States milling centre. The results of this new feature of our trade in grain will naturally be closely watched, for should the trade expand to any considerable extent, it will undoubtedly affect our transportation companies directly, and cause to a more or less extent some re-arrangement of the present method of selling and handling the grain. It is safe to say that every bushel of grain in this way diverted to the South will mean a loss to Canada through such grain not being handled at Canadian ports and by Canadian steamboats and railroads. How far our farmers will be benefited seems as yet to be problematical."

Winnipeg Leads as Grain Centre.

Interesting figures were quoted by Mr. Hutchinson showing that Winnipeg leads as a grain centre.

"In a statement of crop movement compiled last year, our secretary pointed out that of the 1902 crop of wheat inspected and registered in the regular elevators, that the Winnipeg figures were 51,833,000 bushels; Duluth and West Superior, combined, 42,406,923 bushels; Chicago, 37,940,953 bushels, and New York, 35,101,950 bushels; which unmistakably demonstrates the importance of Winnipeg as a grain centre; in fact, with the exception of Minneapolis, it shows the largest total of any market on the North American continent.

"Our interior and terminal grain storage and handling elevator system, from the point of excellence, is equal to anything in the world, and it may be noted that a considerable extension of the system took place during the past year, some five and a half millions of bushels capacity having been added. The capacity in the interior is now 28,178,363 bushels, and the terminals at Fort William and Port Arthur 18,432,000 bushels, or a total of 46,640,630. Taking into consideration that about one-half of the present crop is handled through elevators before the close of navigation, it will be seen that the storage available for the Winter season is certainly very great."

Mr. Hutchinson also referred at considerable length to the transportation question, pointing out the great extensions during the year of the C.N. and C.P. Railways. Statistics were quoted showing the extent of building operations in Winnipeg during 1904 and the volume of the city's bank clearings. Mr. Hutchinson concluded his very able address by a statement that in the Transportation Commission the needs of the West would be given due consideration, as J. H. Ashdown, one of the most valued members of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, has been appointed to the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Bertram, of Toronto, and C. N. Bell, the secretary of the Board of Trade, is also secretary of the Commission.

New Officers.

New officers were elected as follows: President, A. L. Johnson; vice-president, G. F. Carruthers; treasurer, Andrew Strang; secretary, C. N. Bell. These officers were all elected by acclamation.

EXPORT DUTY ON WHEAT.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is in receipt of the following letter in reference to Mr. Robt. Meighan's remarks re placing an export duty on Canadian wheat, made at the annual meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade, Feb. 2, 1905, and reproduced in last week's issue:

Editor of Canadian Grocer,—In regard to Mr. Robt. Meighan's remarks as quoted in The Canadian Grocer of last week, advocating an export duty on wheat, in which he claims that it will compel United States millers to remove their mills to Canada or else build here. Such might be the case, provided their wheat crops are a failure year after year for the next ten years, but for an occasional crop failure I do not think his scheme would accomplish the object intended.

Neither should the Canadian Government put anything in the way of our farmers selling their wheat in the best markets in the world. In regard to Mr. Meighan's other point, I must say I am in hearty agreement with him. The placing of a preference upon Canadian flour is a matter between the British and Canadian Governments and people. Several years ago I advocated something along this line through the medium of a trade journal known as The Miller and Manufacturer, published in Toronto by a Mr. Mortimer. At that time I wrote in favor of all wheat entering the British markets from whatever source being admitted free, since it would not do to put a discriminating duty on raw material against English millers (the flour contained in this free wheat would be free also, so that the consumer would have his flour free of any duty). I also wrote advocating that all flour imported into British markets from other countries outside her colonies be subject to a duty of two shillings per sack of 280 lbs. This would give Canadian millers a preference of two shillings over flour ground in the United States. It would not increase the price of a loaf of bread to the British consumer, since all wheat would be admitted free of duty. The competition, moreover, between colonial and English millers would tend to keep down prices to their proper market value.

This scheme would, I think, enable British millers to grind more wheat and have the bran and middlings for the better supplying of dairymen, as English farmers must turn their attention more and more to dairying and other branches of like farming on account of their inability to compete against outside countries in the matter of grain growing.

This preference on flour of two shillings per sack would also enable the Canadian millers to export more flour, leaving the bran and middlings in Canada for our dairymen.

Figuring what the duty of two shillings per 280 lbs. of flour would amount to upon a 2-lb. loaf of bread, supposing the duty were to come out of the consumer, which I very much doubt under these conditions, two shillings equal 48c.; 100 lbs. of flour will make from 65 to 70 2-lb. loaves of bread. Say we get 190 2-lb. loaves of bread from 280 lbs. of flour, this would mean a duty of ¼c. on each 2-lb. loaf, or ½c. upon a 4-lb. loaf. This small item, I claim, would be divided between the miller and the baker so that consumers in England would in reality never be called upon to pay it.

(Signed) John T. Clarke.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, Feb. 16, 1905.

Groceries.

TRADE conditions during the week have not been of the best. The heavy storms and cold weather have played havoc with country roads, and complaints from travelers are numerous. Business in some sections in the country is reported as practically cut off. This has naturally affected the local trade. In some cases this weather has forced prices up notably in such lines as butter, eggs and provisions, the scarcity of stocks bringing prices up. Sugar is easier, the reduction of 10c. per 100 lbs., noted last week, was not a surprise, foreign markets being easier. It is even anticipated by some that a gradual decline might set in. Teas show a decided improvement, especially in higher grades of Ceylon blacks. Orange Pekoes are also in better demand. Some 3,000 pkgs. of Ping Sueys changed hands during the past week. Japans continue steady, with upward tendency in lower grades. Coffees continue steady, with higher prices in light grades. We refer to article on coffees for closer statistical position. Spices are unchanged, with somewhat better business. Canned goods are without special interest. Corn and tomatoes are holding the trade's attention, with better opening demand for canned fruits. Molasses strong in every way, with stocks light and holders hanging on. Barbadoes reports indicate shortage in crop of about 15,000 puncheons compared to last year. Corn syrups are going freely and seem to be growing in popular favor. The fish trade has been affected by the storms prevailing lately. Frozen herring are scarce and in good demand. Green cod are also scarce and high. Foreign dried fruits are uninteresting and news scarce. Reports from Patras show Greek market steady, with no change in position. California dried fruits are in fair demand only. Rice is firm and little doing. Vinegars are up 2c. per gallon. Green fruit trade is quiet. Florida tomatoes are coming in in poor shape. Potatoes are firm and in good demand. Onions are scarce. The flour situation is unchanged, with a fair amount of business doing. Firmness characterizes the position of the market, owing to the strong position of wheat. Rolled oats are in good demand, with an upward tendency. Evaporated apples are high and the syndicate have advanced prices to 6¼c. f.o.b. factory. Dried apples are being looked up again by the trade on account of the very high figure ruling on evaporated stock. Maple sugar is getting interesting, as the sap season approaches. Honey stocks are light and little doing. Provisions are firm, and there is every indication of higher prices, as the demand is good and supplies none too heavy. Butter is in good demand and bringing high prices for choice stock. Everything in butter seems to be soaring; stocks are light, and the condition of country roads is such that little can be brought to shipping points. Cheese market is dull and export orders are few and far between. Prices maintain fairly strong tone. Eggs are eggs, and fresh-laid are bringing 32c. to 35c. in a jobbing way.

SUGAR.

Market conditions are unchanged. The reduction of 10c. per 100 lbs., noted as The Grocer went to press last week, has not caused any surprise, as the foreign beet market had assumed an easier tone. It is even anticipated that this weakness will continue, and that an advance or recovery is unlikely. This, of course, is not the general view of the trade, but the statistical position will warrant close study. Local trade is quiet; country roads are almost impassable, and orders few.

TEA.

There is a decided improvement in the higher grades of Ceylon blacks. There has been active buying locally during the past week from London, principally of Orange Pekoes from 8½d. to 10d. Several large sales were made in Ping Suey Chinas, three blocks of tea aggregating some 3,000 packages have changed hands during the past week. No change in China blacks. Japan tea market continues steady, with an upward tendency for lower grades. Some small sales of Formosa Oolongs are also noted. Generally speaking, the trade is better. Wholesalers claim stocks are getting exhausted in the country, and a better trade is looked for shortly from outside as soon as country roads are better.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The molasses situation continues strong. The situation in Barbadoes is in a state which leaves local handlers in an uncertain frame of mind. Statistics from the island report a possible shortage of about 15,000 puncheons as compared with last year, and the latest cable advices at hand are firm at 20c., including puncheons, which would mean 32½c. laid down here. Planters are claimed as holding back molasses. Stocks locally are light, and reports from the Maritime Provinces are that all the cheap molasses available there has been bought by Montreal refiners, who are also willing to buy all they can from local holders, though there none too ready to let go. Corn syrups are receiving good attention, and it would seem, according to advices from jobbers and their salesmen, that this line is growing into favor rapidly. As molasses advances, corn syrups will be more asked for by the consumer.

D. Rattray & Sons' Montreal office report recent advices from DaCosta & Co., Barbadoes, confirming their previous estimates as to the crop this season, and they also advise that there has been very little molasses sold by planters as they expect higher prices as the season advances. Recent cables quote the value as "20c. per gallon, puncheons included first cost; planters unwilling to sell." Practically the only deliveries that have so far been made are from the estates where the cane has been burned. The crop is expected to be moving freely in about three weeks.

COFFEE.

Market continues steady, with higher prices noted in light coffees. Local trade is reported better, and as soon as country roads are in better shape a steadier business is expected. Watt, Scott & Goodacre summarize their last coffee report by Frederick J. West (Inc.), as follows: There has been considerable liquidation on the part of speculators and Europeans. The buying has been done by the best informed factors in the coffee world. Receipts at Brazil are not as small as expected; but deliveries in the United States are below the average for this season of the year. The net situation is, therefore, practically unchanged. Rios and Santos, under light demand for the first part of the week, brought some concessions in price, but closed stronger, in sympathy with the advance in options and increased demand. The better grades particularly showed greater firmness, owing to a scarcity of really desirable goods of this class. Maracaibos are practically unchanged, with desirable grades bringing full prices. Bogotas are attracting much attention, as showing good values in comparison with other coffees; particularly in the medium and lower grades a good business has been done.

CANNED GOODS.

No new features noticeable. Demand for corn and tomatoes is good, and a demand for canned fruits is showing. This is as usual at this season of the year. Canned fish, notably salmon and sardines, are also being inquired for, and, no doubt, with the approach of the Lenten season these lines will receive considerable attention.

Green Fruits.

Trade on the quiet side. Almeria grapes are scarce and selling at $7 to $8. Navels are in better demand, selling from $2.50 to $2.75. Florida tomatoes are arriving in very bad shape on account of the heavy damage by frost in the South. This also applies to pine-apples. Celery is selling well and in good demand.

Firmer feeling in potato market this week. Choice stock is in good demand, car lots bringing 65c. Common stock is selling easier, in jobbing trade 70c. to 75c. per bag is asked. Turnips are in more active demand on account of cold weather. Quebec Swedes are selling well and in ton lots are bringing $8 to $9, and car lots $7 to $7.50 per ton.

Onions hold their strong position, and demand is good, with reds particularly scarce and inquired for.

Fish.

The recent severe snow storms have tended to affect the fish trade. Country dealers are now anticipating their wants for the Lenten season, which will open shortly after March 1. Owing to previous experiences on account of delays occasioned by snow storms, many country dealers are ordering supplies earlier, so as to be sure to be prepared for the demand. Large frozen herrings are scarce, any kind now available being small and medium sizes. In salt fish, there is not much new to note, except the scarcity in green cod is being felt now; the demand is heavy, and prices are firm with tendency to advance. Oysters, on account of the recent freeze-up in the Southern States, are scarce and have firmed up prices. We quote:

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Groceries.

Toronto, Feb. 16, 1905.

THE grocery trade, though healthy in all departments for the week under review, is thought not to be quite up to the level of the corresponding week last year. This may be accounted for on the supposition that the retail trade stocked rather heavily before Christmas and will not be coming on the market to buy until a little later on. A considerable item in this connection is the pickle, sauce and bottled goods trade. Owing to the extremely cold weather, orders are being held back. An improvement, however, will be noted as soon as the zero temperature moderates.

Orders for opening of navigation are beginning to come in for shipment as late as May. These are mostly for goods in car lots and generally such goods have to be carefully classified, care being taken so as to get the very lowest freight rates possible.

Sugar is quiet and less buying is reported this week than last. At the close, the market, which is 10c. easier than a week ago—this change being noted just as we went to press last week—is thought to be a little firmer again, especially in raw sugars.

In canned goods, business is quiet, no improvement being expected until sorting up orders begin to arrive sometime within the next few weeks. Jams are moving particularly well on account of the comparative shortage in domestic canned fruit.

One of the chief items this week is the volume of business in syrup and molasses, particularly new crop New Orleans, old supplies being quite used up. The extra fine Barbadoes molasses sent up by the Barbadoes Government is meeting with a good reception by the trade. Regular supplies of Barbadoes may be expected at any time now.

Japan teas are brightening up, a freer movement being reported during the last few days. Increased demand is also noted for Indian and Ceylon blacks. Supplies of rice on spot are said to be scarce, as well as evaporated peaches, for which article there has been more enquiry. Evaporated apples are also within limited compass and prices are likely to take a further jump.

One of the most interesting items in the grocery markets so far this year is the greatly increased consumption of beans, both locally and in outlying districts. Wholesalers say that they have never sold nearly so many beans as since the beginning of the new year.

The price of starch, marked down last week 1c. per lb. on all grades except Canada Laundry starch, which went down 1¼c., has recovered, and is now readjusted according to the Jan. 18 schedule which, as far as prices are concerned, leaves the starch situation practically unchanged.

CANNED GOODS

Tomatoes and corn continue firm with the demand improving slowly. During the next seven or eight weeks the retail trade will be coming into the market again to buy canned goods on sorting up orders, when the volume of business will be much improved.

Canned fruits are moving fairly well, particularly jams, which is accounted for on the supposition that housekeepers did not can their own fruit in large quantities last year owing to the comparative scarcity of raw material.

In regard to the salmon situation, it can hardly be supposed that during 1906 and 1908—the close season period on the Fraser River, B.C.,—the price of sockeye salmon could be much higher than it is at present, since this year's high prices have had the effect of considerably curtailing sales, and if prices were to soar much higher, the ordinary consumer would simply make up his mind to do without salmon. SUGAR.

The sugar trade continues quiet at the decline of 10c. all round, effective a week ago. In certain quarters it is thought that an advance may take place any day, and at the close the raw sugar market is exhibiting additional strength.

Receipts at U. S. Atlantic ports for the week ending Feb. 9 were 49,522 tons, with meltings 31,000 tons, an increase for the week of 1,000 tons, leaving total stock in all hands 106,840 tons. Combined stocks of U. S. and Cuba were 224,340 tons against 224,204 tons for the same time last year, an increase of 136 tons. Total stocks of Europe and America at latest uneven dates were 2,825,340 tons, or 893,864 tons less than for the same date a year ago. Total stocks and afloats together show a visible supply of 2,969,340 tons, against 3,849,204 tons last year. We quote the following prices:

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A good volume of trade in syrup and molasses is reported during the week especially in New Orleans, which are now arriving freely on this market. The price of Barbadoes molasses available ranges from 42 to 48c. This, however, is extra fancy stock, imported on account from the Barbadoes Government, and is not the style of molasses that is ordinarily sold as Barbadoes molasses. The regular supply has not yet arrived. Corn syrups have been quiet during the week. We quote the following prices:

TEAS.

A better movement in Japan teas is reported. Japans have been moving rather slowly during the last few months on account of buyers having stocked heavily before the beginning of the Russia-Japan war. These supplies are now pretty well used up, and the retail grocer is now appearing on the market as a buyer.

According to advices received from Bernard & Co., Yokohama, early first crop May teas are not likely to be cheaper than last year. Supplies will doubtless be curtailed on account of a large number of experts having been called away by the war; this will result in a scarcity of skilled labor for rolling the leaf and will be especially noticeable in fine-grade teas.

High-grade Ceylons are up in price and scarce. Low-grade Ceylons are also firmer in price, and an improved market is reported in black teas.

On the whole, the Ontario tea trade for January and February to date, is a little behind the level of last year. The London markets are in a healthy condition and an improved feeling is noted generally. We quote the following prices:

Although no longer one of the interesting items in the season's grocery trade, Valencia raisins are still moving well for this season of the year. The price of Valencias will shortly decline on account of the lateness of the season. Prunes are moving well, market conditions being stronger and prices are thought to be on the upward trend.

Evaporated California fruit is scarce and high in price, the market being practically bare of evaporated peaches. Our quotations are as follows:

Trade in dried fish continues fair, Nova Scotia cod moving particularly freely. Wholesalers complain that the dried fish trade is not what it used to be, on account of the demand having changed largely to fresh and frozen fish. Our quotations are as follows:

DRIED FISH.

Boneless fish, per lb	0 04

BIRD SEED.

There is nothing new to chronicle in bird seed for the week under review. Trade is steady and prices continue unchanged. We quote the following prices:

Canary seed, per lb	0 06½
Hemp	0 05
Cottam's	0 08
Brock's	0 07½

EVAPORATED APPLES.

Evaporated apples continue firm at 6¾c. to 7c., with trade showing some signs of improvement. Stocks are light at the present time, viz., 8,000 boxes as compared with 90,000 boxes at the same time a year ago. This looks as if higher prices for evaporated apples might reasonably be expected, as well as for dried apples, which are still quoted nominally at 3c. to 4c.

Country Produce.

EGGS.

Owing to the continued extreme weather, the egg market is somewhat firmer than it was a week ago. As soon as the weather becomes warmer and supplies of new laid eggs begin to arrive more freely, a break in the market may be expected, say about April 1. The trade has in remembrance the inflated value of eggs at the beginning of the season last year which made the egg business unsatisfactory later on, and the desire to get eggs down to a reasonable basis as soon as possible is a commendable one. We quote the following prices:

Eggs, strictly new laid	0 25	0 27
Cold storage fresh	0 18	0 19
pickled	0 16	0 18

BEANS.

The bean market continues to show additional firmness; the price of handpicked is 15c., and primes Nos. 1 and 2 respectively, are quoted 10c. higher than last week. This is owing to shortage in the crop. One bean man remarked that whereas he had 25 cars of beans available at this time last year, he has nothing whatever at the present time to offer. Western Ontario farmers report an advance of from 20c. to 25c. per bushel from the low point of six or eight weeks ago. The Michigan market is up some 30c. per bushel from the low point of two or three weeks ago, and Detroit quotations on handpicked May delivery are at $1.80. New York firms are enquiring freely of dealers for handpicked beans and 3-lb. packers, and are even asking for 10-lb. packers. It is understood that a very large quantity of this low grade is being sacked for shipment to New York.

" prime, No. 2	1 35	1 45

HONEY.

Honey is quiet, the only new feature being buckwheat honey, which is quoted at from 75c. to $1 per dozen in sections, or 3c. per pound. Our quotations are as follows:

" Buckwheat, per lb	....	0 03

SEEDS.

The export demand is practically over and is being slowly replaced by domestic trade. This will be slow until weather conditions improve and supplies can be shipped readily to the country. Last week's prices continue unchanged. We quote the following prices:

Alsike clover, per bush	3 10	5 00
Red clover	5 00	6 75
Mammoth clover, per bush	6 00	7 25

Fish and Oysters.

A healthy demand for fresh fish and oysters is noted during the week, the main feature of this market being scarcity of oysters owing to heavy ice at the coast fisheries. As Lent draws near it is expected that the demand for fish will become more active. Baltimore oysters are scarce, reports having been received to the effect that some of the fisheries have been frozen up. Sea herring are also scarce. Our quotations are as follows:

Grain, Flour and Breakfast Foods.

GRAIN.

The grain markets are a little higher this week on account of a general shortahe in supplies. Trade, however, is on the quiet side. Manitoba Northern No. 1 has advanced ½c., and No. 2 and No. 3 Northern 1c. each. Red and white are each firmer by 1c.

Barley continues unchanged, as also peas and rye.

Buckwheat and oats are quotable 1c. higher than last week. Our quotations are as follows:

A GOVERNMENT STAMP ENVELOPE NEEDED.

Editor Canadian Grocer:

I wish to take up a matter that has come to my notice lately, and that is the necessity of a Government stamped envelope as used commercially in the United States. I lived "among them" for some years and returning to Toronto where I hope to make my home again, I find some things are done differently here compared to the other side and one is that I find here the "office boy" still wearing his tongue away "sealing envelopes" and "sticking on stamps." Now this work is reduced to a minimum in the States by the use of envelope sealers and the Government stamped envelope.

I suppose one can go to the post office and buy plain stamped envelopes, but the idea is to have them issued on some similar line as they do in the States. This is the way it was done by the company I was with about a year ago and I hardly suppose there has been any change since; the local post office has a schedule of prices showing price for one envelope up to thousands, also the different sizes and denominations. You state what size you want and the quantity, etc., and give the firm name and address and pay the cash or marked cheque for the amount of the order. The envelopes are ordered from Washington and you receive them in about two weeks. If any mistakes are made in addressing you keep the entire envelope and they are redeemed by the local postmaster once a month as face value of the stamp, so you are only out the envelope the same as you would be in any case where a mistake is made in addressing.

Just think of the saving of time to large houses in getting out their mail each day. Besides there is not the opportuntiy for dishonest office boys and others to take a few stamps each day or when they please, which can be done, and is done no doubt, no matter how careful one is in this department, as it would be almost impossible for one to sell stamped envelopes with a firm's address printed on them and the stamp detached from the envelope is worthless. I find in some houses or offices where they still keep a list of every letter, invoice or statement that goes out and I suppose one purpose is to balance up the stamp account, but I should think if stamped envelopes were used it would save a great deal of this extra work, reduce the chances for "leakage" in the stamp department, not to say anything of the saving in time in getting out the mail daily. I do not see how large houses, corporations, banks and other large users of stamps in the States could ever be satisfied to go back to the old process of "sticking on stamps" and I believe up-to-date business concerns on this side will appreciate it if some similar way is adopted in Canada.

I do not know if this matter has ever been taken up with the Postmaster-General's department at Ottawa or not, but Sir William Mulock seems to be up-to-date and I should think if it is brought to his attention he will be willing to investigate.

Yours very truly,

READER.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS MEET

THE regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening, Feb. 13, in St. George's Hall, President Kelly in the chair. The main item of business was in connection with the annual "At Home" held last week, which was a great success in every way.

M. Moyer, of the Retail Merchants' Association, was a guest at Monday night's meeting, and brought before the association the claims of the Pure Food Show and Grocers' Convention, to be held in Toronto shortly. In recognition of Mr. Moyer's overtures, it was moved by C. Coots and seconded by D. Bell that a letter be sent the Retail Merchants' Association expressing recognition of the coming Grocers' Convention on the part of the individual members of the Retail Grocers' Association as grocers of the city of Toronto. The motion was lost by a narrow minority.

A vital question now before the association is Dr. Sheard's proposed by-law to restrict and regulate the exposure of meat, fruit, fish, etc., upon the public streets of Toronto, and thus protect them from dust and other objectionable matter. The by-law was discussed thoroughly, the general opinion being that the object to be gained by the enforcement of even such a strenuous measure was to be commended by the trade, notwithstanding the fact that this restriction might be pretty hard on certain grocers. A number of the trade still contend that the by-law is impracticable and will fail utterly to serve the trade. On account of the Board of Control, to whom the said by-law was presented a few days ago, having referred it back to the city solicitor for readjustment, the association decided not to take any official step until they had something more definite to work upon.

WESTERN MERCHANTS ORGANIZE

At meetings held in the Trade and Labor Hall, Winnipeg, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, February 14, 15 and 16, the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada was organized. It is intended that this association shall include all general merchants in the West.

A recommendation was passed unanimously in favor of all members rendering accounts in November and giving no credit from November to May, thus making half the year credit and half cash.

Officers were elected as follows: President, T. J. Lawlor, of Killarney; first vice-president, H. C. Hamelin, of Lauder; second vice-president, J. D. Bain, of Boissevain. The executive includes the following additional members: A. G. Munro, Morden; R. G. Alloway, Gladstone; W. C. McLaren, Souris; J. Brown, Portage la Prairie; R. F. More, Cartwright; E. Clinghan, Virden; H. McLaren, Weyburn; C. C. Sayle, Elva, and E. H. Glinz, Oak River.

TORONTO BEATS HAMILTON.

The Toronto branch of the Canada Grocers, Limited, defeated the Hamilton branch of the Canada Grocers, Limited, on Tuesday night, Feb. 14, at the Victoria College Rink, Toronto, by a score of 6-0 in the Bristol Cup series. The game was fast, but the home team had the advantage right through, Stewart playing his usual star game. Only six men were played a side, as one of the Hamilton team missed the train. The line-up of the winning team was as follows: Howard, Barnhouse, Stewart, Hortop, Warren, Smith. Referee, "Doc" Sterling.

Thursday night, Feb. 9, was scheduled for the last match in the Toronto Wholesale Grocers' Hockey League series, namely, the Grocery Brokers and the Canada Grocers. At the appointed time the Grocery Brokers' team were on the spot, but only five of the Canada Grocers. Hugh Lambe and Charlie Rennie joined the latter temporarily, and an exhibition game was played, the score resulting 8-4 in favor of the Grocery Brokers. This last game, which goes to the Grocery Brokers by default, gives them the championship of the league, as well as the medal donated by Colonel Davidson.

The line-up was as follows:

Grocery Brokers—Goal, Guthrie; point, Millman; cover, Banks; forwards, Webber, May, Donaldson, Millman.

OPEN LETTER TO THE GROCERS OF CANADA.

Looking backwards, it is within your memory that Canada was dependent upon the United States for a large proportion of Food preparations that might be described as kitchen necessities, notably Baking Powder.

This condition was created partially through lack of faith in the ability of our Manufacturers to supply an article up to the required standard of quality, and also through deep-seated faith in the superiority of imported goods.

Taking advantage of this preference, several brands of foreign-made "high-priced" Baking Powders have been energetically placed on our market and stimulated by extensive and expensive advertising, that it is self-evident must have greatly enhanced the cost to the trade and consumers.

Looking forward, we contend that Canada has passed the necessity for supporting foreign capital and labor, and that goods Made in Canada by Canadians are entitled to your confidence and recognition by their intrinsic value and suitability for the wants of Canadians, and we specifically claim that Pure Gold Brand Baking Powder is equal if not superior to any foreign brands imported or sold, and we are prepared to sustain our claim by indisputable testimony available from large numbers of the leading Grocers in the City of Toronto and elsewhere, who cater to the best trade and demand the best Baking Powder procurable, irrespective of price.

Now as to cost, which is important :--

Our prices, as undernoted, are based upon intrinsic value only, and have never been inflated by reason of excessive advertising outlay, so we appeal to your business sense of fairness to give us an opportunity of demonstrating by actual comparison the claim we are making for your support, asking you to bear in mind that Pure Gold Baking Powder has steadily held its place for over twenty years and shown a healthy increasing sale year by year.

Mail us a Post Card for Sample Tin, Price List and Discounts, and we will promptly comply.

We are, yours truly,

THE PURE GOLD MANFG. CO., LIMITED.

PLACING an order with the Ozo Co. means something more to the buyer than assurance of the delivery of a certain quantity of goods at such and such a price. Our product not only gives the impression of neatness and wholesomeness which is the token of carefully prepared goods, but has a fitness which attracts the customer and inevitably ends in a sale. The firm controls the planting, the handling and the making of their product, make their own vinegar, and such a vinegar as experience has taught them will go a long way towards making the best pickles. Our goods cost no more than others, their selling ability is double that of the common article. Turning your dollar over twice makes the profit of double that capital and is business.

PACKING HOUSE CHANGES HANDS.

The Wm. Ryan Co.. Toronto, have purchased the pork packing establishment in Aylmer, Ont., formerly owned by Ogilvie & Freeman. Thev will enlarge and entirely remodel the old premises, making it one of the most up-to-date packing houses in Ontario. Storehouses for butter, cheese and provisions will also be added.

THE STARCH SITUATION.

During the week the price of starch, which was reduced a few days ago, has been again readjusted to the basis of the Jan. 18 list. All starches are now on the same basis; the only change in selling terms being that instead of three months net or three per cent., cash, it is now 30 days net or one per cent., cash. The former special discounts on 100 box lots have been taken off. It is thought that the new arrangement will put the starch business on a better basis; at the low price ruling during the last few days, the loss to the starch people is estimated at fully $300,000, as the trade seized the opportunity to stock largely. Prices current will be corrected next week.

AN ENGLISH VISITOR.

Mr. J. C. Ragg, of Whiteley, Muir & Co., commission merchants, Liverpool, Eng., who is visiting Canada in the interests of his firm, paid a call to the Toronto offices of The Canadian Grocer during the week. Mr. Ragg is interviewing some of the Canadian pork packers who have an eye on export business, and will spend the next few weeks in Western Ontario, with headquarters at Toronto.

He has just come from the Maritime Provinces and remarked casually that he found The Canadian Grocer very much in evidence among the trade there.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

Office of The Canadian Grocer,
St. John, N.B., Feb. 14, 1905.

BUSINESS continues quiet. Market while firm has shown but few changes. Sugar seems to be resting after its rapid advance. In fact at the moment it is rather lower. Rice is higher than for some time. New to arrive is higher than for some few years. This tends to rather poorer qualities being offered. This seems unnecessary as the quality as a rule is none too good. It is strange in such a cheap line, where the duty is not effected, a better grade is not imported. Hops, which for some years have continued to advance, are again higher; the demand in this market is not large. In spice prices are easy. Cloves are lower than for some time. Ginger and nutmegs are very low. It is thought there will be a rather firmer tendency in nutmegs. Seeds have more attention.

Oil.

There continues to be a large business in burning oil; the lower price of the past week is still quoted. Burning oil was perhaps never as low as the price now charged locally by the tank wagons. In lubricating oil the change in duty last year tends to rather lower prices in some lines as compared with prices quoted a year ago. Linseed oil is still very low. Turpentine has shown no change for some time and the price is quite high. Cod oil is firmly held.

Salt.

In Liverpool coarse salt quite a large cargo is due, viz., some fifteen thousand bags. There is also some factory filled. While there is a fair stock held it is much less than at this time last year. Prices are very firm. The high freights this season will keep prices high. It is yet early for much business in Canadian salt.

Canned Goods.

There is just a fair business. Prices of vegetables are firm. In corn and Tomatoes the market is quite well supplied. Fruits sell slowly. Gallon apples are low. Salmon is unchanged. Lobsters are very high. In oysters some rather lower prices are quoted but not enough to effect the local market. Meats have had a fair sale for Spring. Domestic sardines are a light stock. Kippers and haddies are scarce.

Green Fruits.

There is quite a business here this season packing apples for export. It is said so successful is the venture a large warehouse for this purpose will be built this Summer. It is found when apples are shipped from the West for export in the Winter very many are frozen coming down. This is completely overcome by shipping them down in the Fall and holding in warehouse. They can also be repacked ensuring the very highest prices when shipped. Locally apples are dull. Oranges are unchanged. Californias and Jamaicas are quite low. Valencias are firmer owing to reports of frost. Lemons are low. A few nice grapes are still offered. Cranberries quite high.

Dried Fruit.

Business has been very quiet since the holidays. There is quite a full stock of seeded raisins and prices keep low. There is little demand for other lines and dealers are fortunate in having but light supplies. Prunes have but a fair demand; prices are low. Apricots and peaches show a very light sale. Dates are low and sell quite freely with fair stock held. Peels are but a limited stock, but there is little sale at this season. Figs are dull. Currants are low; there is a steady sale. Evaporated apples are held firm at the higher price. Onions are higher but have a limited sale owing to the cold weather.

Sugar.

The trade were somewhat surprised by a decline of ten cents this week; holders, however, are confident that the market will recover and go even higher. It is said this was a move by American refiners to take advantage of an opportunity offering to squeeze holders of raw sugar arriving on consignment in New York.

Fish.

There is a fair demand for fresh fish. Some cod and haddock are being received. The receipts of frozen herring are very light, and smelt have not been as scarce for years. Dry fish are still high. Pickled herring are rather dull. Smoked keep low.

IT gives an absolute check on cash and credit sales, on money paid out and on money received on account, thereby preventing disputes about accounts, the most fruitful source of misunderstanding.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Special Report from the Winnipeg Office of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

Quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, February 16th, 1905.

BONSPIEL weeks, with their usual influx of visitors to the city, are helping most branches of the retail trade and as the visitors include a number of retail merchants the wholesale trade is experiencing a little additional activity. Business thus far in 1905 has been fairly satisfactory, but it is not believed that there is any increase over the opening weeks of 1904. The slowness of collections is still the trying feature of a situation which would otherwise be fairly satisfactory and although a continued improvement is noted the condition of affairs is still far from what might be desired.

Prices throughout almost the entire grocery list are steady this week. The one exception is the sugar market, which took a downward turn last week just a few hours after The Grocer went to press. A reduction of 10 cents per cwt. was made on all grades of refined sugars in Winnipeg by the Eastern refineries and at the same time the British Columbia Refinery announced a similar reduction of 10 cents from their January 19th list for all points east of Dunmore. New York advices indicate a weaker sugar market and the best informed buyers are of the opinion that further declines will follow. Dried fruits are firm with a tendency to further advances. Evaporated apples are in brisk demand in view of expected advances in sympathy with the rising Eastern market.

Sugar.

As noted above the market has shown a downward tendency at last. Shortly after The Grocer went to press last week a decline of 10 cents on all grades of refined sugars was announced by the Eastern refineries and this was followed by an announcement from the British Columbia Refinery of a similar reduction on all grades to apply to points east of Dunmore. New York advices seem to indicate a further decline and it is likely that sugar will be bought in small quantities on a falling market. The situation being so uncertain readers are advised to consult always our "Last Minute Manitoba Markets" which appear on another page when changes are made between time of writing and time of going to press. Syrups and Molasses.

Coffee.

It is probable that slight concessions are obtainable on prices quoted as coffees are reported easier in outside markets. We quote:

Cocoa and Chocolate.

As noted in last issue, Baker's cocoa and chocolate have been reduced 3 cents per pound. The 1-4 and 1-2 pound packages of cocoa are sold now at 42c per pound and the 1-2 pound packages of chocolate at 37c per pound.

Baking Powder.

In last issue a reduction of about 10 per cent. in Price's baking powder. Quotations are:

Jam.

It was noted last week that Upton's jam has been advanced to 50 cents per pail—an advance of 2-1-2 cents. The Brandon price is 52 cents, the price in Calgary and Lethbridge 57c, and the Edmonton price 60c.

Nuts.

Market is quiet and prices are unchanged. We quote:

Foreign Dried Fruits.

It is evident that the retail grocers are taking to heart the advice of the trade press, for there has been some heavy buying lately of dried fruits. The recent advances in one or two items are likely to be followed soon by others, as apricots, peaches, nectarines, etc., could not be bought by the wholesale houses now at the prices which are being charged the retail trade. Prunes are also a good investment at present low prices. We quote:

Evaporated Apples.

What the Trade Think of Proposed Tea Duty

THE following expressions of opinion have been received from members of the Toronto grocery and allied trades in regard to the resolution of the National Tea Association of New York, in favor of a re-enactment of the law providing for a duty on tea brought into the United States from Canada, which was repealed by Congress some time ago.

Mr. Michie, of Michie & Co., King street, Toronto: "The only man to be affected by the 10 per cent. duty on Canadian tea proposed by the New York Tea Association, are the Canadian importers who are catering to the American trade. As far as the Canadian wholesaler and retailer are concerned such a duty would not affect them. The United States has never been a formidable competition in the Canadian tea market and as far as the present is concerned they are not in a position to compete on an even basis with Canadian importers. Canadian consumers are years ahead of the States in general education along tea lines."

Mr. Ince, of Perkins, Ince & Co., Toronto: "At a meeting of the Toronto wholesale grocers held last week the general opinion expressed was that the imposition by the United States of a ten per cent. duty on tea coming from Canada would have little effect on their trade. The abolition of the present Canadian duty of ten per cent., however, would mean that the wholesale and jobbing tea business in Canada would be killed. If our market were to be opened up, New York would speedily become the market for Indian and Ceylon teas and Canada would become flooded with American tea. Wholesale grocers cannot help being opposed to any such scheme and it is a question whether the Government would dare to consider it seriously."

R. Barron, corner Czar and Yonge streets, Toronto: "I cannot see how the imposition by the United States of a duty of ten per cent. on tea from Canada would affect the Canadian retailer in any way. The only man to suffer would be the Canadian tea importers who pack in Canada for the United States trade. Of course something might be said in favor of the abolition of the Canadian duty of ten per cent. on tea entering Canada from the United States, in so far as I am a firm believer in international free trade.

"Years ago the Canadian duty was imposed to protect the Canadian wholesale trade against American tea importers who were inclined to dump surplus tea on the Canadian market from time to time. This day, however, has long since passed. Canada is relatively a far greater tea drinking country than the United States. Their importers cannot begin to cater to our wants even if the duty were to be taken off. We are 15 or 20 years ahead of the States in the tea trade and for some time to come can teach them some valuable lessons in the merits of Ceylon and Indian teas. The United States simply cannot compete for the Canadian tea trade, duty or no duty. There is, however, a small quantity of Formoso Oolongs imported yearly into Canada from the United States on which the duty of 10 per cent. is paid. The consumption, however, of this kind of tea is comparatively small, else it would pay the Canadian importer to buy direct from the country of growth and so avoid the duty. As for American package tea we use little or none and have not for years A great deal of our Indian and Ceylon tea comes in bond from the London tea merchants via New York. The imposition of a duty by the United States, however, would hardly affect this trade and even so it would not be a difficult matter to switch the port of entry to some Canadian port. From the retailer's standpoint the whole question resolves itself into 'a tempest in a teapot.'"

P. C. Larkin, of the Salada Tea Co.: "In my opinion we should have reciprocated in the way of discontinuing the tax against the United States tea long ago. What right has any merchant to claim protection? If one merchant cannot buy and sell goods as cheaply to the retail trade as any other merchant in any other part of the world, he is at a wrong occupation and should seek another sphere of employment. As a matter of fact the Canadian importer should be in a position to do better with tea than any importer in the United States, because the consumption per head here is enormously greater and enables the average man to handle more tea. It is only a matter of incompetence if he allows the American merchant under any circumstances to take away his business."

Mr. Watt, of Watt & Scott, Toronto, says: "The abolition of the duty on tea entering Canada from the United States might, probably, result in the United States refraining from giving effect to the suggestions of the National Tea Association of the United States.

"If tea from the United States could be entered free in Canada, while there is no doubt that importations from the United States would increase, such importations would not in any important degree interfere with the Canadian merchants' trade, or come in competition with him, but would, in fact, be imported by the merchants of Canada and distributed by them in exactly the same way and, presumably with as much profit as their importations from the countries of growth or elsewhere.

"May we also point out to you a disadvantage which Canadian importers suffer and which would be remedied if tea were made free from the United States, but which we suggest should be dealt with by the Government if it is decided to maintain duty on tea entering Canada from the United States, viz., the regulation which prevents the free entry of tea in Canada from country of growth, if diversion be made to any port in Canada other than the port in Canada named in the bill of lading and which the regulation requires to be named on the bill of lading for free entry in Canada. This regulation, we believe, was intended as a protection to the Canadian importer and to prevent an American importer from importing tea on an optional bill of lading and offering the tea for sale in Canada in competition with Canadian importers.

"The effect is that the Canadian importer is much handcapped and subjected to heavy local freights, whereas it is beyond the power of the Government to prevent American firms from importing teas on bills of lading having a Canadian port designated on said bills of lading and, in the event of sale while in transit, forwarding to and making free entry at the port named on the bill of lading, while if no sale effected in Canada, taking possession of the goods at the landing port in the United States and dealing with the goods there, but the Canadian importer having named say Montreal on the bill of lading and having sold in Toronto or Hamilton, must enter his importation at Montreal and pay local freight thence to the domicile of the buyer, and but for the regulation in question, he could instruct the steamer's agents at Boston or New York to send the tea through to the destination of the buyer, at the same rate of freight he would incur by taking the shipment to Montreal.

LEADING Montreal merchants, including brokers, grocers and importers, are of the opinion that to take the duty of ten per cent. off would be a gross act of business folly on the part of the Government.

W. H. Halford, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal.

"I think the Canadian Government would not listen to any such proposition and as to a duty being imposed in the United States on teas going from Canada I believe the trade generally would look upon this as immaterial from the fact that the percentage of bulk teas shipped from Canada to the States as against teas from the States here is infinitesimal. A duty in the United States would of course effect our larger tea packers whom I understand ship rather extensively to different points over the line; this could be obviated by opening up branches on the other side and packing there, but I never can believe that the States will attempt to open up branches here, and bring teas on direct for the purpose of packing and avoiding the duty, they have had this privilege ever since package teas came into this country. As a matter of fact the United States in the past has looked upon Canada as a mere bagatelle, and more as a dumping ground for their inferior teas. I would obviate this as well as the difficulty of inferior teas by adopting standards and the present juncture is a splendid one for The Canadian Grocer to agitate for them. I maintain we should have a range of standards on a par with the United States. There are enormous quantities of Foochow, Oolongs, Pingsuey Gunpowders and Young Hysons, Moyunes, and Japan Dusts shipped there every season which will not pass their standards, and which are tendered to Canada, the majority of these being comparatively sweet in cup (which is all our inspector asks for) are admitted, the present duty of ten per cent. does not effect these teas owing to their having been shipped on a through bill of lading with some point of Canada designated and consequently admitted free. I therefore reiterate that should we adopt standards immediately we would then know exactly where we were, and I further maintain that all spurious, inferior or even questionable teas whether shipped to Canada or the United States should be destroyed, or else that the authorities insist on their being shipped back to the place of production at shippers' expense as positively and absolutely unfit for human consumption.

"We do not want this abominable trash, I firmly believe it is largely responsible for the long and continuous depression which we are experiencing. There is no money in it for the grower, merchant, broker, jobber or retailer, therefore, I say adopt standards, aim at elevation not degradation."

Jas. Rutherford, of James Rutherford & Co., St. Sacrament street: "I am surprised that U. S. tea merchants have not agitated this question before and could only attribute it to the fact that a large number of United States tea dealers were not aware of the fact that Canada was discriminating against them in the matter of tea importations. No doubt if the United States Government were to place a similar or higher duty against teas shipped by Canadian firms it would affect the trade here. We have all been doing more or less business with the United States and in order to keep us out I would not be surprised to see the United States Government putting a duty of 4c to 5c per pound against us and so shut us out altogether. Of course, I do not want to see the Canadian duty of ten per cent. taken off for obvious reasons."

Mr. Denis, of Kearney Bros., tea merchants: "It seems to me that this is a question for the United States to settle, and should a higher duty be placed on teas than we exact from them we would have to open up a branch across the line. We do quite an extensive business along the border towns, the same being transacted from Malone, N.Y. If any change is made one would have to meet the altered conditions and ship to Malone on through bill of lading instead of bringing on our teas here first. I don't see how it would effect us."

B. Trudel, manager of tea department of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., wholesale grocers: "We would hardly be affected in any way by the imposition of a duty on teas going from Canada to the United States, but we would not care to see the 10 per cent. duty against teas coming from the United States into Canada removed. Without this duty the large American tea importers could leave their teas at Canadian points and when market conditions were unfavorable on their side of the line and they wanted to close out they could easily break prices to a point where the general trade would suffer. To a certain extent this is done now, and several large New York tea houses are holding stocks of Japans here, merely in order to work in with their American requirements. When the United States market is favorable these teas are promptly sent across, in the meantime these stocks are often of use to Canadian tea dealers and available in competition with Canadian houses. No, we would not wish to see the duty of ten per cent .taken off, it would certainly be an unwise move on the part of our Government."

Alexander Anderson, of Shaw T. Nishimura, Central Japan Tea Traders Association: "I am strongly opposed to any movement whatever tending to the abrogation of our ten per cent. duty against United States tea firms. It would be suicidal, we would be swamped by the larger New York tea shippers and the general tea conditions of Canada would receive a hard knock, and Canada be used as a dumping ground whenever the United States market was in a flat condition. I am strongly in favor of a movement in the direction of establishing tea standards and carrying out to the letter the exclusion of such stuff as even the United States tea drinker is not allowed to use and which finds its way at too frequent times into this market."

Cecil Gordon, of J. Alex. Gordon & Co., tea brokers: "The imposition of a duty by the United States Government against teas from Canada is a matter of no very great import, since the entire amount done by Canadian firms across the line is a mere trifle in comparison with the rest of the tea trade of the Dominion. The only parties it would affect would be the packet tea men, and they would overcome the difficulty by establishing pack-
